THE STOCK TRANSFER TAX STAMPS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

By CHARLES S. THOMPSON, Asst. Curator, Southwest Museum.

During the early '90's, the business of the New York Stock Exchange slumped badly, as a consequence of the prevailing hard times, and it was not until 1897 that business reached the enormous volume that has since, with the exception of a few short periods, been maintained. In spite of this stupendous amount of financial operating, apparently this business did not attract the attention of political economists as a source of possible public income for a considerable period. Finally, however, in 1904, the politicians having caught up with the economists, an act was passed which imposed a tax on all sales, or agreements to sell, or memoranda of sales of stock, and upon any and all transfers of shares or certificates of stock, in any domestic or foreign association, company, or corporation.

The law was framed so that assignment in blank, by delivery, or by any agreement, paper, or memorandum, to insure delivery of the stock, was held to be evidence of sale. Taxation was fixed at 2c per $100 face value, except in cases where no value was indicated, when the rate was fixed at two cents per share.

Payment of the tax was to be indicated by affixing stamps of the required denominations either to the books of the corporation making the sale, or in the case of surrendered certificates, to the document itself. Records of sales must be preserved for two years.

The preparation of the required stamps, which must be adhesives, and their denominations, is delegated to the State Comptroller, who also decides when new issues and designs are to appear. But when he considers taking this momentous step, it is necessary for him to advertise the fact once a week, for three months, in one or more papers, in every first- and second-class city in the State!

The law went into effect in 1905, and the earliest date I have been able to find on the first issue is January 4, 1905. As this date fell on Wednesday, it is certain that the date of January 3 can also be found. January 2, however, was a holiday, as New Year's Day fell on Sunday, consequently January 3 should be the date of the earliest use of these stamps.

It must not be supposed that the imposition of this tax was regarded with favor, and the stamps of the first issue are often found bearing portions of a rubber-stamp inscription to the effect that the tax was paid under protest. But as in the case of other tax remonstrances, the money was paid, and kept, for the law contained the following provision, which, with the rest of the statute, was upheld by the courts:

§278. Effect of Failure to Pay Tax.—"No transfer of stock made after June 1, 1905, on which a tax is imposed by this article, and which tax is not paid at the time of such transfer, shall be made the basis of any action or legal proceedings, nor shall proof thereof be offered or received in evidence, in any court in this state."

The sale of stamps is limited to regularly appointed agents of the Comptroller, to National Banks, and to corporations organized under the banking law of New York, and either sale or purchase for less than face is a misdemeanor.

The law requires that stamps shall be cancelled with initials and date, and punched as well, and the majority of specimens indicate an undue diligence in this respect. Most specimens are principally cancellation and punch-holes, the favorite apparently being one about 3/16" in diameter, though perforated initials, diamonds, stars, and other designs are found occasionally.

From the inauguration of the impost of transfers of stock, it must have been apparent to the authorities that attempts would be made to evade payment by re-using stamps. Severe penalties have been prescribed for such offenses, but nevertheless, the stamps have been used twice in a good many cases without detection, except, perhaps, by collectors who have noticed the fraud in preparing stamps for their collections.

The Comptroller has endeavored to prevent this absolutely by the use of a device not found elsewhere in connection with stamps. This consists in impressing upon the face of the stamps a gum-varnish, very sensitive to water, and surcharging over this the figure of value of the stamp in aniline colors, which are unmordanted, and of extreme susceptibility to humidity.

But in spite of all precautions, some impecunious stock brokers have used stamps more than once, for after all, steaming or warming will soften the gum on the back of almost any stamp, and these are not exceptions. This is also the only practicable way for the collector to remove these stamps from the "original cover"; otherwise he is likely to have a more or less indeterminate smear of colors, whose effect is hardly pleasing, as it is absolutely certain that the surcharge will "run" if moisture comes in contact with the face of the stamp.

To date there have been seven issues of these interesting fiscals, though but three types have been used. Type I was used for the issues of 1905 and 1906. Size, 23 x 31 mm. Coat-of-arms of New York above, in circle, with "State of New York" above, and "Stock Transfer Tax" below, in colorless capitals. The Charm of Stamp Collecting

We have just published a neat little booklet suitable for general circulation. It bears the above title and contains three sketches:—
"The Irresistible Appeal," by E. B. Hill.
"A Subtle Charm," by M. Williams.
"An Educational Factor," by R. T. Foust.
This leaflet is for missionary work and has a neat tablet on page 1 for presentation use. If you want to do some publicity work for our hobby we offer them for one-half of cost price, 50c PER HUNDRED POSTPAID.

and $2 values (Fig. 1 and Fig. 2), where they are double-lined. The figures of value are single-lined, except in one type of the $2 (Fig. 3 and Fig. 4), where there is an inner line, and the $1 (Fig. 5 and Fig. 6), which has an ornate numeral, quite out of keeping with numerals of the other values.

This type was used, as above stated, in both 1905 and 1906, but the first issue was rouletted; the second perforated, and in addition is surcharged with a single, large, hollow figure, in aniline ink. Beneath this unmordanted, water-sensitive aniline is a gum diamond.

The anilines of the second, and all subsequent issues, are acid-fuchsine, which is red, or violet-red in color; and malachite-green. Some of the malachite-green surcharges seem to have been made with ink which contained more or less methyl-blue, but in view of the fact that such mixtures are likely to happen unintentionally and do not seem to be of a definite character, the two colors mentioned first may be regarded as the ones definitely and intentionally used.

The first issue was printed on unwatermarked paper, the second issue on paper watermarked "New York" multiple, so that stamps may show practically all, or portions of the watermark.

First Issue, January, 1905.

Rouletted. Wove Paper, No Wmk.

No. 1 2c black.
2 4c brown.
3 10c green.
4 20c orange.
5 50c brown, plain ornaments in corners. (Type I.)
6 50c brown, double-lined ornaments. (Type II.)
7 $1 ultramarine.
8 $2 carmine, plain ornaments, double-lined figure. (Type I.)
9 $2 carmine, plain ornaments, figure unlined. (Type II.)
10 $2 carmine, double-lined ornaments, figure plain. (Type III).
11 $10 violet.
12 $20 olive.

Second Issue, October, 1906.

Perf. 14. Wove Paper, Wmk. NEW YORK, mult. Surcharged with Aniline Figure. 13.5 mm. High.

No. 13 2c gray-black (F).
14 2c greenish-grey (F).
15 4c brown (F).
16 10c green (F).
17 20c orange (F).
18 50c brown (ornaments double lined) (F).
19 $1 ultramarine, fancy figure of value (F).
20 $1 ultramarine, plain figure of value (F).
*21 $2 carmine (F).
*22 $2 carmine (M).
23 $10 violet (F).
24 $20 olive (F).

* Both $2 are of the third type with pl. fig. and d. l. orn.

F. indicates that the surcharge is Acid-Fuchsine, M. that it is Malachite-Green. It is stated that several values of this issue were issued without the aniline figure, but this Messrs. Quayle & Son, who engraved and printed the stamps, deny. In view of the fact that the surcharge is easily removed, particularly with ammonia, it is not necessary to discuss unsurcharged copies further.

Our Large 1917 Wholesale List Now Ready

If you buy stamps at wholesale you need this list. Prices are always as low, and in most cases much lower than others. We stock nothing but good, desirable stamps, and sell them at prices that will show the dealer a living profit. During the past few months we have made many advantageous purchases, and we are giving our customers the benefit. Many hundreds of fine Single Stamps and Sets are offered by the 10 and 100. We do not deal in penny stuff or continentals, so they are not listed.

The List contains nothing but good, desirable stamps. We wish to draw particular attention to our exceptionally fine line of Sets.

Prices are also quoted on Mixtures, Stock Books and Entire Dealers' Stocks, etc.

If you are in the stamp business or intend to enter it, Write to-day for this list. You need it.

Wholesale Sample Books
We are prepared to send large Wholesale Sample Books to dealers who will purchase from $10.00 upwards at a time. This is a very convenient way to purchase, as all that need be done is to return the book after checking with pencil the stamps desired. These books cost us about $25.00 each, so we must ask for a first class reference or cash deposit.

Wholesale Consignments
We send wholesale consignments of stamps on approval to responsible dealers. Prices are always low. Good reference or cash deposit required.

DON'T DARE MENTION PACKETS

The meaning of the word has been twisted and turned until it generally now means "an accumulation of waste, trash, and damaged unsaleable junk."
BUT—We intend to sell a lot of packets, so we're making 'em good.
Nothing but real postage in nice condition, postally used or mint unused, lots and lots of stuff that the 50% dealer never has. Zema packets are so good that the purchasers are passing the word along.
Here's the first one in a new series—347 Nice used and unused, contains British Colonials cat. from 10c to $1.00, shilling values, etc., Australia Kangaroo, 6d and 9d, etc., white backs, really nice stamps from all over the world including used Red Cross. Will catalog many times the price $1.
Money back if you say so.

EDITORIAL.

Delayed—We are interested in the following letter and clipping that have been sent to us by Mr. J. B. Childs, Champaign, Illinois: "Enclosed is a clipping from the St. Louis Republic of October 24, 1916, which may be of some interest to readers of the WEEKLY. I tore the item out of the daily paper while I was down in St. Louis but was unable to find it later. Recently I came across the clipping, and here it is. It would be rather interesting to have some further details of the counterfeiting scheme." The clipping is headed, "Confesses to Stamp Fraud" and reads: "Charles F. Watson, a saloonkeeper from Centralia, Ill., who was being tried in the United States District Court yesterday for conspiracy to manufacture counterfeit two cent stamps in a St. Louis printing shop, pleaded guilty in the midst of the trial and was sentenced by Judge Dyer to two years in Leavenworth Penitentiary and fined $1,000." We are making an effort to secure some further and definite information on the case and any details from readers will be helpful. We remember the celebrated case in Chicago over twenty years ago that led to the decision to issue our stamps on watermarked paper. The counterfeiter, Jones, forged the two cent stamp on a large scale and with just a suggestion of success, and though Chicago was the scene of his "plant", Jones was arrested in Buffalo and tried at Auburn, New York, where he received a penitentiary sentence. The evidence was worked up against Jones by Captain Porter of Chicago who subpœnaed a number of Chicago stamp folks for the prosecution, and said witnesses who are living have not forgotten that eventful trip. We may add that the Chicago counterfeit, as it is known, is greatly desired by the specialist for his collection.

Dear—An announcement has been made that has attracted the eye of the philatelist. It is to the effect that a postal service open to the general public will be maintained by the submarine merchantmen, Deutschland and sister ships, between Germany and the United States. A charge of forty-eight cents or two marks will be made for post cards and letters addressed to Germany up to twenty grams weight. Double rate will be asked for letters weighing from 20 to 40 grams and triple postage rate for those from 40 to 60 grams, the maximum. To be acceptable for transportation, the international rate of postage must be represented by stamps. Just what the treatment of the mail will be on the sub, we do not venture to predict, but there will be interesting markings to the philatelic mind and while our imagination does not picture stamps to rate the extra postage, yet, who may say that they are not a possibility. Meantime, the newspaper commentators all hark back to pony express or pioneer days to find a parallel of the high rates, but which certainly seem to be reasonable enough.

Duits—From Mr. P. Vogelaar, Salt Lake City, Utah, we have received an instructive account of the meaning of the notice in Dutch on one of the labels of the Dutch East Indies, whose inscription was listed in our dictionary of philatelic terms (now well started in the A's). "The translation of 'Aangebracht per Land-Mail. Te betalen port——— duiten. Batavia' is: 'Brought to Batavia by Land-Mail. To pay for postage due———duits', 'Duits' were used in Holland before 1849. In 1845, the making of the money under the present system was started and so, the duits soon were obsolete. At present there is but one mint in Holland which is in Utrecht, but before 1840, there were mints in big cities such as Amsterdam, Middelburg, Nymegen, Leeuwarden, Zolle, Utrecht, etc., and every city made its own money. When the making of the new money started the duits were out of fashion, except some duits of Utrecht which were saved by some of the old ladies, who superstitiously supposed them to be a remedy for headache! At present there are people in Holland who speak of a 'four-duit' by which they mean a large piece of copper money having a value of 2½c in Dutch money. I enclose herewith two duits, one of the province of Zealand (made in Middelburg in 1727) and one of the city of Utrecht (1756) so that you may see what a duit looks like."

Deluge—To quote with accustomed editorial freedom, we were simply inundated by a wave of letters telling us about Allen's City Despatch in consequence of an omission under that head in our phaliatelic dictionary. Of course, having written a good many columns on Allen's City Despatch in years past and having some of the used copies of this Chicago local in our collection, it is odd how the omission was not corrected, but at any rate, we are pleased that so many readers know of the Chicago origin of Allen's Despatch and have brought us to book so neatly.

Direct—From Manila, Philippine Islands, Mr. C. E. Doty informs us: "Canceling machines have been installed in the Manila postoffice and it will now be possible to get occasionally a lightly canceled stamp of the lower denominations. As long as the ink holds out, it will continue to be difficult to get any of the higher denominations with reasonable cancellations. Probably in no other place in the world is ink used so lavishly for canceling; and even the foreign mail when received, is often treated the same way. I have seen large blocks of Chinese, Japanese and British Colonials, which had been lightly canceled in the home office, smeared all over with ink after arriving in the Manila office. The few stamps enclosed will give you an idea of the ability of the Filipinos to punish a postage stamp. I have added a page to my album; it is of badly canceled stamps of the Philippine Islands." Occasionally, a clerk here will indulge in an ink orgy, but the Filipino stampers seem to go on protracted daubing sprees.

Detached—We have seen a set of the 1895, issue of Mexico, 1c to 10p, inclusive, beautifully printed in black. The stamps are on the watermarked paper and are perforated and gummed. According to a notice that accompanied the set, it was printed "in 1895, by the Diaz government for the exclusive use of the diplomatic corps and the 'deputies'." "Deputies" on occasion may cover a multitude of meanings. The stamps have the appearance of finished proofs, but any information about them will be welcome.

Data—From Mr. Henry B. Phillips, San Francisco, who for so many years has been the most representative philatelist on the coast, the following interesting observations have been received: "I most heartily approve your editorial in the issue of December 9th, 1916, advocating the recording of the history of stamp collecting before the time has passed when it will be possible to obtain much of the information. I know of no better function of your paper than the evolution of this work. I have had such work in mind for the Pacific Coast for a long time; this will be found especially bound up with the subject of Western Franks, because in the early days, almost all business correspondence and the majority of private correspondence, was carried on through the medium of the various express companies. The burning of San Francisco in 1906, however, has proved an almost insurmountable obstacle for me to overcome. With the idea of preservation in mind as related to the history of the oldest philatelic society on this coast, the Pacific Philatelic Society, I issued the enclosed call in August, 1915. The results are steadily coming and every scrap as it comes is placed in an historical album of the society from which many side lights radiate, which would be of assistance to the general purpose of your undertaking; in this way, I hope at least, to preserve the facts." On the card all printed references to the society are solicited, especially those antedating the fire of 1906, by Mr. Henry B. Phillips, 16 California Street, San Francisco, California, in behalf of the society."

DURING JANUARY

$7.95 BUYS the original $10.00 "COMMEMORATIVE" collection of 1,500 all different postage stamps from all parts of the world. Complete sets—High Values—Immense Real Value for the Price asked. Catalog value makes no difference to us, but incidentally we will mention that the total is more than you would expect as there are DOZENS of stamps that cat. from 40c to $3.00 each in the "pink of condition." Fine lot from Iceland, Italy, OLD Liberia*, Hawaii, Servia, Mexico, Turkey, Dominican, China, Soudan, etc., from our immense stock of 30 years accumulation.

ONLY good conditioned postage stamps—NONE torn or damaged—NO revenues, telegraphs, counterfeits, locals, cut cards or envelopes—in fact, no trash—only those postage stamps that the discriminating collector places in his albums.

This packet contains a world-wide representation—many HARD-TO-GET-KINDS—commemoratives, jubilees and rare legitimate postally used surcharges. Nice lot from Europe—old issues that cat. up to 60c each. British, French, Portuguese and Spanish Colonies POSTALLY USED that cat. up to 75c each.

Costly lot of So. & Cent. Am. from the noted Cormack stock, especially large and valuable showings from Argentine, Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Panama, Peru, Uruguay, etc., that cat. up $3.00 each.

No WHOLESALER can duplicate this lot—stamp for stamp—at our price without losing money in so doing. Collectors having even over 10,000 kinds can use this lot to real advantage. Re-sellers will find it a money maker as it contains large numbers that are missing in even the larger collections. It means quick sellers—fine stock—at least 300% profit even at 50% off Scott's prices.

Powell's assemblings, like good men, improve on acquaintance. They are the only packets that really satisfy. Only sold DIRECT at our prices.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXX.

The Postage Due Stamps.

Like most other countries Canada managed to collect the postage due on insufficiently prepaid mail matter for many years without the use of special stamps for the purpose. About 1906 it dawned on the Post Office Department that the use of special stamps would simplify matters and place the collection of monies due on a more systematic basis. Consequently a circular was issued to postmasters, under date of June 1st, 1906, advising them that postage due stamps would be issued and must, for the future, be used in collecting insufficient postage. The salient points from this circular are given by Mr. Howes as follows:—

Commencing on the 1st July, 1906, the present system of collecting unpaid postage will be discontinued and thereafter the following arrangements will supersede the regulations now in force:—

(1) The Department will issue a special stamp which will be known as the "POSTAGE DUE" stamp and on delivery of any article of mail matter on which unpaid or additional postage is to be collected the Postmaster will affix and cancel as ordinary stamps are cancelled, postage due stamps to the amount of the extra postage charged on such article.

(2) The short paid postage must be collected from the addressee before postage due stamps are affixed; otherwise the Postmaster is liable to lose the amount of such postage.

(3) Postmasters will obtain postage due stamps on requisition to the Department but the initial supply will be furnished without requisition, so that the new system may go into operation on the date above mentioned. When a new form is ordered "postage due" stamps will be included in the printed list, but it is proposed to use the stock on hand at present which would otherwise have to be destroyed. The denominations of the new stamps will be 1, 2 and 5 cents.

In his Report for 1906 the Postmaster-General refers to the new innovation as follows:—

A system of accounting for short paid postage collected by Postmasters, by means of special stamps known as "Postage Due" stamps, has been adopted by the Department. These stamps are to be affixed to shortpaid mail matter and cancelled by Postmasters when such matter is delivered to the addressee, and are not to be used for any other purpose. They cannot be used for the payment of ordinary postage, nor are they to be sold to the public.

These stamps are of special design and though of the same size as the regular postage stamps the design is printed the longer way so that in general appearance they are greatly different. The design has, as its centerpiece, a large uncolored numeral on an eight-sided tablet. Above is CANADA and below is the word CENT while at the sides are elaborate scroll ornaments. Across the base the words POSTAGE DUE are shown in bold uncolored capitals while the balance of the design consists of an engine-turned groundwork.

They are printed from line-engraved plates in sheets of one hundred, as usual. In the centre of the top margin is the imprint, "OTTAWA", followed by the plate number. Mr. Howes states that plate 1 is known for all three values and plate 2 for the 2 cent only.

CHAPTER XXXI.

The "Officially Sealed" Labels.

Although "officially sealed" labels cannot by any stretch of the imagination be considered as postage stamps or, indeed, of having any philatelic significance yet they are collected by many, in common with adhesive registered labels, as having an interest owing to the fact that they are visible evidence of one phase of the working of the post office. The "officially sealed" labels used by the Canadian Post Office seem to have been first recorded in the latter part of 1879. The first type consists of a rectangular label, measuring about 25½ by 38 mm. on which the words "OFFICIALLY SEALED" are shown straight across the centre. Above this, in a curve, is the inscription "POST OFFICE CANADA", while below, in a similar curve, is "DEAD LETTER OFFICE". The border consists of a handsome piece of engine-turned engraving. These labels were normally perforated 12 but they are also known entirely imperforate. Much misconception existed as to the use of these labels until Major E. B. Evans, when visiting Canada in 1889, took the opportunity of finding out exactly for what they were used. The results of his investigations were published in the Philatelic Record for November, 1889, and as the article is full of interest we need make no apology for reproducing it in extenso:—

When I was in Canada last July I made special enquiries about these labels, as there appeared to be some mystery about their use. Everyone agreed that they were not placed upon all letters opened at the Dead Letter Office and returned to their senders, and no two persons seemed to have quite the same theory as to the rules for their employment or non-employment in any particular case. Even gentlemen connected with the Post Office at Halifax, such as Mr. King and others, could give me no definite information. I therefore determined to see what I could do at headquarters in Ottawa.

Fortunately, I was able, through a collector in an official position, to obtain an introduction to the Deputy Postmaster-General, who most kindly gave me the following particulars, which show that the employment of the officially sealed labels is very restricted, thus accounting for their rarity.

Letters in Canada, as in the United States, very frequently have on the outside the well-known notice containing the address of the sender, and a request that the letter may be returned if not delivered within a certain time. These, of course, are not opened at the Dead Letter Office, and in fact, I think, are ordered not to be sent there, but are returned direct from the office to which they were originally addressed or from the head office of the district. On the other hand, those that have no indication of the address of the sender on the outside are sent to the Dead Letter Office, and there necessarily opened; but neither of these classes thus properly dealt with is considered to require the officially-sealed label. It is only if one of the former class, having the sender's name and address on the outside, is sent to the Dead Letter Office and there opened in error that the officially-sealed label is applied, to show that such letter has been opened officially, and not by any unauthorized person. Whether these pieces of gummed paper ever had a more extended use or not I cannot say, but I was assured that the above was the substance of the regulations as to their employment.

The Deputy Postmaster-General further stated that there had been so many requests for specimens of these labels that the Department had been obliged to make it a rule to turn a deaf ear to all of them. In any case they are not postage stamps, properly speaking, at all. They indicate neither postage paid nor postage due, but simply that the letters to which they are attached have been opened by proper authority, and they at the same time afford a means of reclosing them.

About 1905 a label of new design was introduced, this, of course, being the work of the American Bank Note Company. These are larger than their predecessors and are very handsome labels. In the centre is an excellent portrait of Queen Victoria, adapted from the "Law Stamps" of 1897, with "CANADA" in heavy uncolored Roman capitals curved above, and, at the top, the words "OFFICIALLY SEALED" in letters so graded that the tops form a straight line, while the bottoms follow the curve of "CANADA". Under the portrait the words "DEAD LETTER" are shown on a straight label which extends right across the stamp, while below this is the word "OFFICE" on a curved tablet. The spaces at the sides and the bottom are filled with elaborate foliate ornaments and engine-turned work. These labels are also perforated 12 and exist on two kinds of paper. Until about 1907 the paper was of a pale blue color while subsequent printings have been on ordinary white paper.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—James L. Angle submits a very interesting copy of the 1c current issue with offset on back, impression being so received that portions of two stamps show instead of the full design as is occasionally seen.

John H. Feeman shows us a copy of the 5c Certificate stamps of the Civil War issue, of the "creased paper" variety, the fold in the paper measuring three millimeters in width.

BAVARIA.—New England Stamp Monthly says, "We have just learned that a special series of official stamps, replacing the ordinary stamps perforated with an "E", was issued by Bavaria on August 1st, consisting of 3, 5, 7½, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 60 pfennig and 1 mark values. They are of oblong design showing the royal coat-of-arms with supporters."

CANADA.—It is likely that in the near future there will be another change in the "1Tc" stamps, as the present "brown" stamps are difficult to distinguish from the 10c of the regular issue in artificial light.

A 4c value of the inland revenue set has appeared according to the Canada Stamp Co., of Hamilton, Ont. It is printed in dark blue and is in the same design as the other values already chronicled. No reason has been assigned for the issue of this value.

HAYTI.—Robert A. Wilson advises us that this country has put in use a new surcharged stamp, being the 10c of the 1904 series, surcharge 1c in blue. He further states, "I think this issue is very limited. In looking over about 10,000 surcharges in the bank here, I found one double surcharge and no inverted ones.

1916, 1c on 10c, blue surcharge type A 18.

NAURU.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us copies of the new set surcharged NAURU on stamps of Great Britain.

RUSSIA.—This country is about to issue four provisional stamps, according to Stamp Collecting. The 7k of 1908 and the same value of the Romanoff series will be surcharged "10" and the 14k of the same sets is to be overprinted "20". The increase of the inland postal rate from 7k to 10k is responsible for the change as the 7k and 14k are now but little used.

SAMOA.—J. A. Galbraith submits a cover showing the 2½d of New Zealand, King George type, surcharged "SAMOA" in red, which replaces the scenic type heretofore used.

TRANSVAAL.—M. H. J. de Crane calls our attention to the fact that he has in his possession a 1 penny No. 248 in which the letters of the overprint show evidences of a very faulty impression. This, however, is not a very unusual thing in the surcharges on the stamps of this colony.

HUGO SINGER, CHARLESTON, S. C.

The Queen City Stamp & Coin Co. sends forth a warning in connection with one Hugo Singer, whose former address was care of the Douglass Hat Co., Charleston, S. C. The particulars furnished by the Company justify the conclusion that dealers will do well to beware of him. At last accounts he was supposed to be in Chicago or Milwaukee, and is described as being about 40 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall, weight 160 pounds. Austrian by birth, yet speaks good English.

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

RATE 25c PER LINE.

The rate in adlets is 25c per line and tf advertising from now on will be 20c per line. Minimum space two lines. Note what stamp dealers pay in other publications for their service. If the boys' papers are worth $1 per line, MEKEEL'S is worth 25c. The slight increase in rate will give us more room for reading matter and the advertisers using adlets will get better returns. The "American Boy" rate has now advanced to $1.25 per line and "Popular Mechanics" 18c per word.

THE FASCINATION IN U. S. STAMPS.

Let us say you have purchased a collection of United States stamps, or have bought a small packet of 100 varieties and added to them the slow accumulations of several weeks, or have a 3,000 mixed lot or a pound package. There is in all the lot probably no catalogue variety not already in your collection. But the catalogue does not contain all there is of interest in stamps. The careful collector has kept a little loose-leaf scrap book in which appears all the stray information he has gleaned from a hundred sources, stamp papers, auction catalogues, notes in albums of advanced collectors and information imparted by word of mouth by the wise to the searcher for knowledge.

With the scrap-book at hand, opened at "United States Postage," you carefully assort the stamps out into issues, already well familiarized, and spread them over the greater part of the dining room table. Then, beginning with the earliest, you refer to the remarks and notes in your scrap-book, as follows: 5c 1847 with dot in "S" of "U.S." and 10c 1847 shifted die, showing on left "P" and bottom lines. Not much chance of running across them in the lot before you, but well to keep them in mind. Then comes 1c 1851 shifted die, showing on "O" of "One," 3c 1851 ribbed paper and also watermarked, also a shift. And 12c of same issue with shift.

In the 1856-7 issue you look for the 1c, Type III on laid paper, and the 3c on laid paper, and for shifted dies of the 1c, 3c and 10c. The 2c black 1863 may reveal a double transfer, as also the 15c grilled. In the 1870-5 issues there is a 1c shifted die, a 3c cracked plate and a shifted die, and a 5c shifted die.

The Pan-American set shows the broken flag-staff varieties on the 1c.

The Louisiana Purchase issue has the 1c with split figure "1," known as the "Newbold Variety."

The 10c 1903 has a double impression.

In the 1908 issue is the 13c green with diagonal line over "G" of postage.

The Jamestown issue gives us the 5c with white dots before "P," "F" and "O."

The 2c Hudson-Fulton has several double transfers, notably double "O" of "Two" and one with "0" of "1809" double.

The 1c Panama-Pacific may have the variety with two dots in the top line over "O" of "Postage."

And the current issue has its 2c, 3c and 12c red backs; and the many double transfers of the 12c.

In the Parcel Post set are double transfers of the 1c, 4c, 5c and 10c.

And all the way through one must keep an eye out for scarce shades, for odd cancellation and for possible undiscovered varieties.

No one can expect to find more than 3 or 4 of the sought for varieties in any one collection, but this in no way lessens the interest in the search. At any rate, there may be more perfect specimens to refresh dull spaces in our collection, and now and then one of the long-sought for elusive varieties, the finding of which will brighten a whole evening.

The foregoing is by no means an exhaustive list of uncatalogued varieties to be looked for, but simply a few pages from the scrap-book of an ordinary collector.—U. S. Co. Herald.

CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING.

This little booklet just issued contains three articles by Edwin B. Hill, M. Williams and Roscoe T. Foust. It is a pretty little tribute to stamp collecting. The price is 50c per hundred, just one-half of the cost of printing. Are you willing to contribute your little to the welfare of our hobby by enclosing one of these in each letter you write? There is a neat presentation tablet on page 1. Shall we list you for an order?

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—If any of our subscribers have had unsatisfactory exchange relations with any dealer advertising in the WEEKLY, will they please report all the facts in the case? We are not always able to adjust such complaints, but there is one thing we can do, and that is prevent their recurrence.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from L. G. Snow, O. J. Olson, and W. J. Stanton.

—E. A. Southwick, Portland, Ore., has purchased the stock of the Fern Stamp Co., W. E. Wadsworth, manager, of the same city. Mr. Southwick claims to have one of the largest stamp stocks on the Pacific Coast, and our readers will no doubt hear from him.

—E. A. Southwick, 388 11th St., Portland, Ore., would like information in regard to Edw. Evans, formerly of Lykens, Pa., and Mrs. A. Calfkea, 2132 Pitkin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y. Interested parties will write Mr. Southwick.

—The season's greetings from W. F. VanDusen consist of a card of particular interest to a stamp collector. Accompanying the inscription is an imitation stamp, in the center of which is a large figure 2 surrounded by sprigs of holly. The inscription upon the stamps reads "Merry Christmas 2 You", while a lower corner of the stamp is postmarked "And a Happy New Year."

—A landscape made out of postage stamps is pictured in the Rochester Herald of Dec. 26. The stamps used were principally the 5c France. The Herald goes on to say, "This bit of landscape was made from stamps of the Allied countries by a French soldier who was recovering from wounds in one of the army hospitals."—Clipping from JAS. L. ANGLE.

—The twenty-eighth meeting of the Indianapolis Collector's Club, Branch No. 45 of the American Philatelic Society, was held on the evening of December 14th, in the Club's room in the Marion Club building. Eighteen members were present, and seven applications for membership were presented. This club, not yet a year and a half old, now has a membership of over thirty, and the prospects for its growth and activity are very promising.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The firm of Whitfield King & Co. shows its enterprise in publishing in spite of the war its Standard Catalog of Postage Stamps, a copy of which is before us for review. In this catalog many minor varieties are omitted, but in the form of its publication it will be very acceptable to the general collector. The firm calls attention to the difficulties under which the volume is issued, and one can well understand that the price 60c (by mail 70c) leaves a very small margin of profit.

We must compliment the firm upon the excellent typographical appearance of the book. It is exceedingly well printed and the cuts are well executed, notwithstanding the fact that they are only one-fourth the size of the original stamps. The revolutionary issues of Mexico are listed, but only the more important varieties. The publishers omit the hand-stamped issues, claiming that "most of them were unauthorized and all of them speculative." This statement will no doubt be questioned by many collectors here in America.

An interesting feature of this catalog is the statement as to the total number of stamps issued to date. The number is given as 29,155, divided as follows:—British Empire 8,512, Europe 6,067, Asia 5,721, Africa 7,107, America 6,015, West Indies 2,261 and Oceania 1,984. These figures of course have reference as indicated above to what might be termed standard issues of postage stamps. The book is well worth the price asked by the publishers.

CHAPTER VI.—An Analysis.

Since the Boston Book was written, unsevered pairs of the 1c Proprietary and 3c Foreign Exchange perforated at top and bottom only, and the 2c Proprietary and 5c Foreign Exchange perforated at the sides only, have been found. The 2c Playing Cards and 3c Proprietary exist in part perforate vertical pairs that have been re-constructed but are undoubtedly genuine. The writer has not seen pairs of these unsevered. All the other part perforates catalogued are known to exist in pairs but, aside from those mentioned, the only part perforates found imperforate vertically instead of horizontally are the 1c Express and the 2c Express and 2c Bank Check in blue.

The imperforates catalogued have all been seen in pairs or larger pieces excepting the $1.30 and $1.90 Foreign Exchange, which may exist in pairs since there is no doubt both of them were issued imperforate in 1863. Copies of the $1.90 in brownish violet, and the $2.50 Inland Exchange in mauve, claret and grayish shades that puzzle description when without perforations had better be avoided, for it is not likely these colors were used for these stamps when the imperforates were issued. Of course there is at any time the possibility of a sheet slipping through "unfinished" but in the case of these first issue revenues printed after 1864, it is a possibility only—not a probability. Evidence of such an occurrence is a horizontal pair of the $1 Inland Exchange perforated at top and bottom only and printed in the scarlet tint that came into use about the time this pair was cancelled—1869. A horizontal strip of the 10c Contract imperforate has been reported and may well exist, as Butler & Carpenter delivered 133,740 unfinished copies of this stamp according to their records.

The chief reason for the scarcity of many imperforates and part perforates, and the great rarity of some of them in pairs and larger pieces, is that at the time most of them were used the law requiring each title to be used only on the instrument for which it was intended was observed to a certain extent. Study of the taxes under schedule "B" shows that during 1862, 1863 and the first seven months of 1864, many documentary stamps could be used in full compliance with the law only as singles. The 2c Bank Check is the commonest example. The Bank Check tax was two cents per check, regardless of the amount of money represented, hence only one stamp would be used at a time and what pairs and strips exist were not used on checks at all but came from other documents upon which they were used outside of the intent of the law. As a great many bank checks are used every year, obviously the bank check stamp should be common as a single copy, but not at all common in pairs etc., which is the case.

The 10c Bill of Lading is not extremely rare in imperforate pairs and this goes to show that it must have been used extensively on documents other than bills of lading. The Express stamps could be used in combinations up to five cents, but if they had been used only on express receipts there would be no pairs of the 5c and no larger pieces than five unsevered 1c and a pair of the 2c. Of the Telegraph stamps a pair and a single 1c could have been used to make the three cent rate, but there was no requirement for more than one 3c stamp. Perhaps half a dozen imperforate pairs of the 3c Playing Cards—all vertical—are known to exist, but since there was no six cent rate on playing cards, these pairs must have been used for some other tax. Many other similar instances can be noted and as a general rule we find the stamps of the denominations and titles apt to be used frequently by the public at large used more indiscriminately than those intended for documents passing only through narrower business channels.

Charter Party stamps would be called for only by ship brokers and the like, as a rule, and the Manifest and Passage Ticket stamps would be required principally in sea ports, while Foreign Exchange stamps would be used most often by the bankers and brokers who dealt in foreign exchange and letters of credit. These lines of business are usually in the hands of established firms who do an extensive business and would be likely to keep a sufficient supply of the stamps on hand to meet their ordinary requirements and seldom would such concerns find it necessary to employ five one dollar stamps for lack of one five. This and certain peculiarities in the tax rate explains why singles are so much commoner than pairs.

In the case of Charter Party, the highest rate being ten dollars, there would be no use for a pair of $10 stamps or for a larger number of $5 stamps than two and no call for a pair of $3 stamps unless a pair or strip was used with $1 worth of some other stamps to make the ten dollar rate. Similarly, with Manifest as many as five $1 stamps could be used, but only one $3 or $5 stamp. Pairs of the 50c or strips of the 25c Life Insurance could be used to pay the tax on life insurance policies, but only single copies of the $1 stamp because the highest rate was one dollar. As there were probably less than 1,000 imperforate $1 Life Insurance altogether, it is no wonder pairs of this stamp are rare and strips unheard of—at least as far as the writer is concerned. Indeed, one would hardly expect to find pairs of the 25c or 50c Life Insurance stamps on life insurance policies because corporations of this character would use so many stamps that they would not often be short of the right denomination.

The case of the Foreign Exchange stamps is much like that of the Life Insurance except that there was no definite limit to the tax that might be required. There being no rate that was an exact multiple of 30c, few pairs or strips of the 30c stamp would likely be used and the same holds true of the 70c value. Four of the latter might be employed to make the $2.80 rate, or a pair might be used with other values to make the $1.60, $1.90 or $2.50 rate, but the great rarity of the 70c in unsevered imperforate or part perforate pairs is good evidence that it was not often so used. The $1.30, $1.60 and $1.90 values paid the tax on bills of exchange ranging from $7,500 to $15,000. Larger bills would have been provided for by stamps of higher denominaton if many larger bills were being bought and sold. We may conclude therefore, that there was little call for a stamp greater than $1.90 and also that there was even less use for pairs of this stamp, or of the $1.30 and $1.60. A bill of exchange on which a pair of $1.60 stamps could be used would have a face value of over $25,000. It is doubtful if either of the two known pairs of $1.60 were used to pay the foreign exchange tax.

THE CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING.

This leaflet is very attractively printed and designed for general circulation. It is just the thing to enclose in a letter to some friend to whom you wish to present the pleasures of stamp collecting. The price is 50c per hundred, just half of the cost of printing.

Frank N. Post, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., was the first to order one hundred, and we hope many of our readers will take advantage of this opportunity to do a bit of missionary work.

C. F. Richards of N. Y. City has ordered 200 of the leaflets, M. Ohlman of N. Y. City and H. N. Haas of Hutchinson, Kans., have bought 100 each, and we are glad to recognize this co-operation.

TWO CENTS TO NEW ZEALAND.

The Post Office Department announces that the 2-cent per ounce letter rate is now established between the United States and New Zealand. Thus the great idea of Sir John Henniker Heaton, "father of penny postage," goes marching on. Imperial penny postage is being expanded gradually to embrace the whole world. To the Antipodes, 2 cents pays for one of the longest mail hauls. The significance is that New Zealand, looking for a steady expansion of trade with the United States through the Panama Canal, recognizes cheap postage as a trade-promoting influence of great importance. The postage stamp is one of the ties that bind the members of the world family. Every improvement in mail facilities, and every reduction in the expense, helps to bring them closer together.

A STIFF PROPOSITION.

The newspapers of this country are up against a stiff proposition. Hundreds have been compelled to discontinue publication and many hundreds more will go the same way if the bill before Congress calling for zone rates on second class matter becomes a law.

The increased price in paper stock has resulted in consternation among newspaper publishers and if the increase in postal rates becomes effective, a large number of papers now being published must go to the wall.

The proposed postal rates call for a graduated increase in pound rates, so that when the eighth zone is reached the cost will be 6c per pound. To make the matter plain to our readers, we need simply add that where now west of the Rockies the cost of sending the WEEKLY from a postal standpoint is 4c per year; under the new schedule it would be 24c per year. An almost similar condition exists between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains.

It can plainly be seen that a 50c weekly paper under the proposed schedule is an absolute impossibility. The WEEKLY could meet the new situation if any paper could possibly do so, but an increase in our subscription price would be necessary in connection with the far zones.

A letter to Hon. R. L. Henry, chairman of the Rules Committee, Washington, D. C., or to your own Congressman or Senator would be helpful. A life and death struggle is on with many newspapers and scores that survived the increase in paper stock prices must discontinue publication if the new zone rates become effective. The WEEKLY is so well established and has so loyal a clientele that it feels sure of its future, but at the same time realizes the serious condition that confronts hundreds of its less fortunate contemporaries.

SWISS PLAN PEACE STAMPS.

The Swiss postal authorities are preparing for the beginning of peace negotiations by arranging for a special issue of peace postage stamps of 1c and 2c denominations, to be put in circulation during the conferences that are expected to end the world war.

The Berner Bund announces that eminent Swiss artists are expected to compete for the honor of designing the peace stamps.

HAWAII CHECK LIST.

Charles F. Richards, Box 77, Grand Central P. O., N. Y. City, has just issued a check list of the "Stamps of Hawaii", but the author adds "and more" to the title. It is complete with photo of author, index and thirty-eight pages of reading matter. Its size is 10 x 6½ inches and the price $2 postpaid.

Among the subjects considered are the following:—

Die and plate proofs of postage and revenue stamps; bogus postage and revenue stamps; essay for provisional government issue; Kahului Railroad Co., Ltd.; official stamps; 18 cent postage stamps without gum; quantities of revenue stamps printed; split provisionals and others; counterfeits; Wells, Fargo & Co. franks; three frames of the 1893 surcharge; literature relating to stamps of Hawaii; account of purchase of Hawaii stamps at less than face value; number of shades so far found by the author and certain minor varieties.

The author believes there is much information on these subjects contained in this book which has never before been seen in print anywhere except in articles in The American Philatelist, and a great deal has been added since he published it there.

COHEN A PRISONER OF WAR.

Our old-time advertiser, Felix Cohen of Port Said, Egypt, is a prisoner of war at Ras-El-Tin Camp, Alexandria. He writes us under date of Nov. 26 asking us to make his patrons acquainted with this fact. We quote:—

"I intend to remain a member of the American Philatelic Society provided the present be not a repetition of the Hundred Years War. I am enjoying the best of health and my sole sorrow is to be kept away from my stamp business. Some of my clients residing in America are indebted to me, and I want them to remit money due me in your care, awaiting further orders. Approval selections, also, should be returned to the WEEKLY. I shall thank you for your co-operation."

A TEN YEARS' RENEWAL.

It is with great pleasure that we record the receipt of a ten years' renewal of subscription to our paper. It comes from Edgar L. Green of Philadelphia and we can do no better than quote this sentence from Mr. Green's letter—

"This is not only an expression of confidence in your intention and ability to produce at least ten more volumes of the WEEKLY, but it is also a philatelic insurance to prevent my interest in the hobby from waning during the next decade."

COLLECTORS OF CANADA and NEWFOUNDLAND
SHOULD JOIN
MY "OLD ISSUE SERVICE" OF THESE COUNTRIES.

WHY? HOW? FOR

1.—You will get good service in filling your want lists of these obsolete issues.

2.—You will save money, as well as annoyance. I am now specializing in these two countries; and you will thus get the benefit of an intensified service in a limited area. And I will sell you stamps at an advance of only 20% gross over actual wholesale or special cost to me. Many of these issues can still be bought at wholesale at very attractive prices, and others can be secured at auction, in collections, and odd lots, and otherwise, at figures far below the usual retail prices. I am buying thus, both in this country and abroad; and I will distribute to subscribers to this service at an advance over cost that is possible only because I can know in advance who wants the stamp and what he will pay for it: a certain sale, a quick turnover, and a small profit.

3.—Advanced collectors seeking rarities will find this Service well worth while. I secure a good many nice things, and can secure many more.

1.—Remit a clerical fee of $1.00 for a year's Service (50c for each country).

2.—Remit a deposit of $5.00 on account for stamps ordered, to be replenished as exhausted by costs of stamps delivered.

3.—Agree to accept stamps on your want list as supplied, provided their condition is satisfactory and the price does not exceed 35% of Scott's catalogue. Distributions will be made as rapidly as the stamps are secured—approximately twice a month—and in the order of seniority of membership in this Service.

1.—You may refuse any stamp whose condition is unsatisfactory, or whose price exceeds 35% of catalogue. But others will be submitted to your option.

2.—You may discontinue or modify the form of the Service at any time within the year.

3.—Any balance to your credit—except the clerical fee—will be refunded upon demand at any time. You must be satisfied.

THIS IS CO-OPERATIVE BUYING, WITH PROTECTIVE LIMITS. IF THE IDEA PLEASES YOU, SEND ME YOUR WANT LISTS, SAVE MONEY, AND GET RESULTS.

NOTICES OF ARREARAGES.

In accordance with our monthly custom, notices of arrearages will be inserted in this week's paper. No doubt these notices will be sent to many subscribers who have renewed their subscriptions recently. If so, please drop the notices in the waste basket and give the matter no further consideration. It takes two weeks at least to enter renewals or change addresses on our mail list.

One other thing, if you want to know when your subscription expires, look up the Whole Number on your label and compare it with the Whole Number on the first page of this week's paper. This will give you the story in a nutshell.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Obvious—A reader has intimated that our fragmentary remarks about the interest and importance of the recent new issues have accentuated the demand particularly for the war novelties, but he shakes our complacency by forcing us to suspect that he gives a humorous twist to his observation by saying that a dealer who makes a specialty of new issues wrote to him to the effect that he could not contrive to obtain enough new issues to go the rounds of all his customers! This somewhat radical declaration caused us to seek explanations from several sources, and we learned of certain phases of the importation of new stamps that made an impression. To-day, it is practically impossible to maintain a complete service in new issues because of the uncertainty attending the supplies from Central and South America, in particular, to say nothing of the curtailment, at the options of the senders, of the quantity of war or special stamps that are ordered. The comment of our reader reveals a situation that perhaps has been without parallel in the stamp world and reflects the conditions that dominate in the new issue service. The words of our reader become plain and in repeating them, our idea is not to emphasize the difficulty in securing the new issues, but merely to reflect a surprising circumstance.

Observed—True to the promise that they would appear in December, the stamps of the new and pretentious permanent set of Colombia have been coming in freely on the mail. This is the line-engraved set made by Perkins Bacon and Company, London, and the seventeen varieties, ½c to 10p, inclusive, make an interesting parade. The stamps are on a gold basis and it is hoped that the set is elaborate enough to ensure a longer term of use of the stamps than that enjoyed by the preceding engraved set. On a letter from New Zealand, we find the impression, applied in the post office, "Buy Some War Loan Certificates." From a newspaper notice, it is learned that a new set of stamps will soon come from Bolivia as a result of a change in the currency basis. The marketing of a large number of the used two dollar, United States, 1902, issue has weakened the price on the stamp for the time being, although it is our belief that the market will absorb the lot without much disturbance. The peso values of the current Philippines, used, have been noticed in augmented number for a short time past and the remarks made on the subjects of the two dollar, U. S., apply to the stamps of our colony.

Offended—Some weeks ago, we told of the boorish behaviour and offensive attitude of a collector here who wrote to one of Argentine's great collectors with a view to exchange. As a consequence, we received several letters of protest from readers who claimed that an isolated case of the kind really was of no value as proving any rule, although it afforded food for comment. However, one indignant man "flays" us to the turning point and asks us to repudiate the position we have taken. We are calm under verbal castigation and with a smile, sad but sweet, we say that we have nothing to retract because nothing was said at which umbrage could be taken. We go to the length of printing all this merely to say that if a foreign correspondent incurred the resentment of the writer under notice, said f. c. would mobilize the home guards.

Overseas—From our capable correspondent, Mr. Theodore Siddall, Shanghai, China, we have received an explanation that will go well hand in hand with the reference to the used peso values Philippines that have been circulating about somewhat freely for a while past: "An item appeared in the WEEKLY some time ago to the effect that the writer of it did not believe that there were so many as five hundred used Philippine four peso stamps in existence; and he seemed afraid that the Philippine post office had been selling stamps from telegrams. Up to about a year ago, when Pacific Ocean freights had not risen to such a high price, the four peso Philippines was a rare stamp, but about that time a firm in Manila found out that its stuff could be shipped to New York by parcel post at less expense and much less trouble than by freight and having to unwind a lot of red tape at the custom house in Manila; and in every mail the firm sent off a lot of packages through the post office, each package bearing a four peso stamp. I have seen a shipment of at least sixty packages ready to go in one mail and have no doubt but that several hundred have been sent off, all to New York, where the stamps fell into the hands of people who could not wait to realize on them and who perhaps did not know that as soon as freight came down to the old level, the stamps would no longer be used. I think the commonness of these four peso stamps is only temporary, and I do not believe that the few hundred that have been used will keep the price down for long." As a general thing one may discount the effect that follows the marketing of a large number of stamps; as a rule, it is a short time before balances are restored.

Others—From San Diego, California, Mr. L. Kopf writes: "In regard to the note in a recent number about the two cent, 1890, stamp being a late issue to bear the pumpkin or Jack O' Lantern cancellation, I may say that I have a fine specimen of the same cancellation on the two cent, 1894, and have seen several others on the same stamp. In looking through about 60,000 of the two cent, 1890, recently, I found one with a 'Kicking Mule' cancellation used from Goleta, Cal., an office that used this cancellation as well as Port Townsend, Washington. I have the mule cancellation on nine different stamps, the earliest being on the one, two, three and fifteen cent, 1879, and the latest on the two cent, 1890."

Olden—A tale from Mr. Henry E. Abt, Chicago, conceals a bit of information that will be useful to some of the collectors of United States revenue stamps: "I resided at the home of the founder of one of Wisconsin's small towns last summer. A Frenchman, he came to the United States during the Civil War and proceeded to Milwaukee, where in the course of human events, he had his picture taken,—and stamped according to the mandate of the federal tax. He made numerous trips with oxen from Milwaukee to central Wisconsin, where he built a home for his wife and himself, having hauled the logs for the purpose. While examining the family album, I found one of the pictures that was taken in Milwaukee, and on the back of it was the three cent proprietary of the first issue. Under Schedule C of the tax of 1864, the tax on photographs was 5% ad valorem 'in certain cases'; otherwise: Retailing up to 25c, two cents; over 25c to 50c, three cents; over fifty cents to one dollar, five cents. For each additional $1.00, five cents. Many interesting circumstances have been connected with the finding of the revenue stamps on the backs of old photographs." Yes, we remember when young men collectors evinced a strange yearning to inspect the family photograph album in homes that they visited on different pretexts and we have heard of the discovery of three cent playing card stamps on pictures. This much may be understood, but when the enthusiastic talesman reached in the realm of the six cent proprietary, orange, of course, for his thrilling climax, the terms of the tax frowned forbiddingly at him.

Out—A correspondent says, writing from Shanghai, China, "I mentioned that the German post office here in Shanghai had run out of 4 cent stamps. I did not intend to say that all the German offices in China had run out of the stamps; in fact, they had not, and the Shanghai office, after being without the 4 cent for several weeks or months, has got a supply from one of the other offices, and everything is serene again—if only somebody would come along and use the stamps. It is a fact that the German post office here is not a busy place, and is doing next to no business at all."

DON'T DARE MENTION PACKETS

The meaning of the word has been twisted and turned until it generally now means "an accumulation of waste, trash, and damaged unsaleable junk."
BUT—We intend to sell a lot of packets, so we're making 'em good.
Nothing but real postage in nice condition, postally used or mint unused, lots and lots of stuff that the 50% dealer never has. Zema packets are so good that the purchasers are passing the word along.
Here's the first one in a new series—347 Nice used and unused, contains British Colonials cat. from 10c to $1.00, shilling values, etc., Australia Kangaroo, 6d and 9d, etc., white backs, really nice stamps from all over the world including used Red Cross. Will catalog many times the price $1.

DURING JANUARY

$7.95 BUYS the original $10.00 "COMMEMORATIVE" collection of 1,500 all different postage stamps from all parts of the world. Complete sets—High Values—Immense Real Value for the Price asked. Catalog value makes no difference to us, but incidentally we will mention that the total is more than you would expect as there are DOZENS of stamps that cat. from 40c to $3.00 each in the "pink of condition." Fine lot from Iceland, Italy, OLD Liberia*, Hawaii, Servia, Mexico, Turkey, Dominican, China, Soudan, etc., from our immense stock of 30 years accumulation.

ONLY good conditioned postage stamps—NONE torn or damaged—NO revenues, telegraphs, counterfeits, locals, cut cards or envelopes—in fact, no trash—only those postage stamps that the discriminating collector places in his albums.

This packet contains a world-wide representation—many HARD-TO-GET-KINDS—commemoratives, jubilees and rare legitimate postally used surcharges. Nice lot from Europe—old issues that cat. up to 60c each. British, French, Portuguese and Spanish Colonies POSTALLY USED that cat. up to 75c each.

Costly lot of So. & Cent. Am. from the noted Cormack stock, especially large and valuable showings from Argentine, Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Panama, Peru, Uruguay, etc., that cat. up $3.00 each.

No WHOLESALER can duplicate this lot—stamp for stamp—at our price without losing money in so doing. Collectors having even over 10,000 kinds can use this lot to real advantage. Re-sellers will find it a money maker as it contains large numbers that are missing in even the larger collections. It means quick sellers—fine stock—at least 300% profit even at 50% off Scott's prices.

Powell's assemblings, like good men, improve on acquaintance. They are the only packets that really satisfy. Only sold DIRECT at our prices.

GUARANTEED TO SATISFY OR MONEY BACK.

FULTON STAMP CO., 102 W. 42nd Street. NEW YORK

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE STOCK TRANSFER TAX STAMPS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.

By CHARLES S. THOMPSON, Asst. Curator, Southwest Museum.

The second design, used for the third to sixth issues inclusive, is 23 x 29.5-30 mm. in size. The design is surrounded by an ornamental lathe work border, with quatrefoil corner ornaments. The design consists of the coat-of-arms of New York in circle above, with "State of New York" in scroll above arms. "Stock Transfer Tax" in two lines of colorless Roman capitals below arms. Figures of value repeated twice, one on each side of stamp, on shields, between which word of value is engraved in solid capitals. Background is vertically lined. The aniline figures in this issue are similar to those of the second issue, being single, hollow numerals, 13.5 to 14 mm. high. These are surcharged over gum diamonds, 12.5 x 20 mm. The paper on which this issue is printed is a tough wove, watermarked a Greek border.

Third Issue, January, 1907.

Perforated 14. Wove Paper, Wmk. Greek Border.

No. 25 2c red-brown (F).
26 4c lilac (F).
27 10c ultramarine (F).
28 20c black (F).
29 50c orange (F).
30 $1 carmine (M).
31 $2 green (F).
32 $10 brown (F).
33 $20 olive (M).

The fourth issue, which appeared in January, 1908, has the same perforation, paper, and watermark, but the stamps have three undulating lines of varnish on the face, in place of diamonds, and the surcharge is multiple. Figures hollow, 5.5 mm. tall. This is repeated eight times on the 2c and 4c, $1 and $2. On the 10c, 20c, and 50c, it is repeated five times. The 50c, in addition, has the c mark on each side of the central surcharge figures.

No. 34 2c red-brown (8F).
35 4c lilac (8F).
36 10c ultramarine (5F).
37 20c black (5F).
38 50c orange (5F, 2cs).
39 $1 carmine (8F).
40 $2 dark green (8F).

The ten- and twenty-dollar values were omitted from this issue.

The fifth issue, produced in July, 1909, lacked the 4c as well as the $10 and $20, but the 2c appeared in two colors of surcharge, and the 20c in two colors, each of which was surcharged differently. Gum-lines and surcharges as before.

No. 41 2c olive-brown (8F).
42 2c olive-brown (8M).
43 20c black (5M).
44 20c green-yellow (5F).
45 50c orange (5M, 2cs).
46 $1 carmine (8M).
47 $2 pale green ("yellow-green") (8F).

On February 26, 1914, a complete new issue, of all nine values, appeared. The 4c value of the fourth issue, and the 10 dollar and 20 dollar values of the third issue having been by this time completely used up. In this issue, the multiple surcharge was changed to a single solid figure, 8.5 high, enclosed in a rectangular frame 18 x 25 mm. Perforation and watermark are the same as previously, paper greyish.

No. 48 2c carmine (M).
49 4c brown (F).
50 10c yellow (F).
51 20c violet (F).
52 50c lilac (F).
53 $1 green (F).
54 $2 ultramarine (F).
55 $10 pale green (F).
56 $20 blue-black (F).

The gum impress in the 1914 issue consists of a gum rectangle beneath the the aniline frame, and a series of short bars beneath the surcharged figure of value.

After two years' use, a new issue, of a new type, in two sizes, appeared in 1916. The stamps are oblong, instead of the upright rectangles of all former issues. The smaller size, 23x29½ mm. is used for the cent values, the larger, 25½ x 35½ mm., for the higher denominations. The surcharge is multiple, repeated five times for each value, in hollow numerals about 6 mm. high.

The design is striking, the central figure, as usual, being the coat-of-arms of New York. This is enclosed in an incomplete circle, which below is broken to join the frame which encloses the word "cents" or "dollars", as the case may be. Above the medallion, in a scroll, is "State of New York" in colorless Roman capitals. On each side of the central design, the figure of value is enclosed in a colorless frame, on a solid shield-shaped background, which in turn is enclosed in a cross-hatched (diagonally so in the $ values) shaded frame. Below the word of value, on a solid panel, is "Stock Transfer Tax", in colorless Roman capitals. The whole central design is enclosed in a shaded (or diagonally cross-hatched) frame, which in turn is surrounded by a solid line, and this, by a wide solid outer frame.

Seventh Issue, 1916.

Perf. 11. Gum Bars on face. Very thick, heavy wove paper. Surcharge multiple (5 times). 23x29.5 mm.

No. 57 2c olive-brown (F).
58 4c yellow-orange (F).
59 10c olive (F).
60 20c black (F).
61 50c orange-yellow (F).
25.5x35.5 mm.
62 $1 carmine (M).
63 $2 dark violet-red (F).
64 $10 Prussian blue (F).
65 $20 dark grey-green (F).

These stamps, from 1905 to date, have been engraved and printed in sheets of 100, by Messrs. Quayle & Son, Albany, who have rendered much assistance in the preparation of this list. They have checked and compared it with their records, and assert that the two tally, consequently the writer feels that the list is complete and as accurate as it is possible to make it. His thanks are due to Messrs. Quayle & Son, and also to the Comptroller of the State of New York, who has been kind enough to furnish him with a complete set of the current issue.

On account of the fact that the stamps must remain attached to transfers for two years, new issues are rather slow in getting into the hands of collectors. But nearly all values of all issues are easily obtained in time, with the exception of the 4c, $10 and $20 values. The 4c of the first issue is undoubtedly the rarest of all, and is seldom seen. Next in scarcity is the $20 of the third issue, the $20 of the first and second issues being nearly as difficult to obtain. However, a representative collection can be put together for a couple of dollars, and should be in every assemblage of United States revenues that lays claim to being called a "collection".

PLEASE NOTE.

Our latest book is "Oaxaca". It has just been issued and the price is 10c. There are full page plates showing varieties of these interesting stamps and a blank page for the stamps themselves. The book is handsomely gotten up.

A. E. TUTTLE, 1510 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa.

It takes a full two weeks to enter renewals. The mail list is in Portland, Me., while the clerical work is done at Beverly, Mass. Give us ample time to enter remittances. If you have recently renewed and find in this week's paper a notice of arrearages, wait a couple of weeks for change of whole number on the wrapper.

Our Mid-Winter Special appears January 27, and we expect to make it an interesting number. We have several original manuscripts on hand. Advertising copy must be in not later than January 20.

You should use our leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting", in your correspondence. It is excellent for missionary work and presents stamp collecting in its most favorable light. We pay half the cost of production and offer the leaflet at 50c per hundred postpaid. Collector or dealer can use these to advantage.

We give to the Edgewood Stamp Co. first honors in the matter of pushing our publication among their patrons. The firm believes that what benefits the WEEKLY benefits stamp collecting, and the position is well taken. We give also the Royal Stamp Co., W. P. Colman, H. S. Powell Co. and H. J. Schmidt fine words of commendation.

UNITED STATES.—"I recently secured from a postmaster friend seven sheets of official seals, these sheets being made up of ten stamps Scott's No. 765. Two of the sheets show part of the great seal of the U. S. watermarked on portions of four stamps. Five sheets come imperforate between the second and third pairs of stamps, the rest being normal. These sheets are made up five stamps horizontally by two vertically."—H. W. FLANSBURGH.

William F. Works submits an interesting variety of the current Documentary stamp in which the "U" of documentary is broken at the lower right, making it resemble roughly a "C".

ANTIGUA.—An Order in Council, by the Governor of the Leeward Islands, made August 9th, 1916, provided for a ½d War Tax on all letters posted in Antigua, St. Kitts-Nevis, and Dominica, destined to the United Kingdom or any other part of the British Empire, outside of the Colony of Leeward Islands. The order came into effect September 1st, 1916, and is to remain in force until March 31st, 1917. The ½d War Stamp for Antigua was not received at St. John's until early in October, and in the interim the ordinary ½d stamp was used for this tax. A special printing was made of the ½d Arms type, Antigua, in deep blue green, on heavy white paper, with dull white gum. The overprint "WAR STAMP", in heavy block capitals, appears in one line, and a full sheet of 60 (12 x 5) is overprinted at one operation.—HARRY E. HUBER.

BAVARIA.—In the transition state of our Chronicle this item may have been referred to previously. S. Mittler informs us that he has seen the 2pf gray surcharged 2½ in black in both of the upper corners.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—Lauren Tremper has shown us a copy of the 1c of the 1915 issue in pale green surcharged "1916". Herman Focke also shows us a copy of this stamp.

HAYTI.—A. W. Dunning sends for inspection no less than five new surcharges of this country, namely: 1c on 20c 1904 issue (type A18) and the same stamp surcharged "1" upon "Poste Paye" overprint, also 1c on 10c all surcharged in blue, 1c on 5c red surcharge and 1c on 7c of the 1906 issue in red. All of these surcharges are surrounded by a heavy frame as in the 1915 issue.

HONDURAS.—An interesting cover of this country has been shown us by Frank C. Davis having upon same a 10c of 1915-16 and a lower half of the same stamp, making the 15c rate, cancellation covers both stamps and they have apparently been accepted or not noticed by the P. O. clerks. Another cover with 10c 1913-15 and a diagonal half of the same stamp has not been recognized and 5c due has been charged upon same.

JAMAICA.—The fifth issue of the 3d War Stamp for Jamaica was made on November 7th. This is the 3d stamp on golden yellow paper, with the two line overprint. The lemon yellow paper which was used by the Crown Agents to take the place of the surface colored paper, has been exhausted, and supplies of paper under the new contract are in golden yellow, quite distinct from the lemon yellow.

The new golden yellow paper is so similar to the yellow through paper, used previous to the surface colored paper, that when the 3d with the one line overprint appeared on this paper, it was said that the remainders of the first 3d on through paper had been used for surcharging. And since this stamp with the one line overprint was on sale but 15 days, and was superseded by the two line overprint on the lemon yellow paper, this seemed very credible.

The 3d, one line overprint on lemon yellow paper was in issue two and a half months, and the one line overprint on the golden yellow paper, but fifteen days. The 3d, lemon yellow paper, two line overprint, was in issue from October 3rd to November 7th, when the fifth issue appeared.

The no period errors on the 1½d stamp have now been corrected, and the unsurcharged stamp is no longer on sale. There are rumors that a change to a bolder faced type for surcharging is contemplated, since the present type has not good wearing qualities, and many replacements have been necessary.—HARRY E. HUBER.

MEXICO.—We are indebted to S. B. Hopkins for some specimens of a new set of stamps just placed on sale all over Mexico. They are sold only for Mexican silver or gold. The stamps are crude in character and bear the imprint of the "Oficina Imp de Hacienda-Mexico". A list of the stamps is given below. The four lower values show full-faced portraits in circular frame.

Adhesives.

1c Zaragoza, mauve.
2c Ildefonso Vasquez, light green.
5c Maclovio Herrera, light blue.
10c Madero, deep blue.
40c map (old design) purple.
5p P. O. bldg., (old design) green & black.

PERU.—We have been shown two covers from Peru by Frank C. Davis, one bearing a pair of 4c 1909 and a pair of 2c 1911-12 revenues, the other a pair of 1c 1909 and a 10c revenue of the 1913-14 issue.

RUSSIA.—Offices in China.—Theodore Siddall writes us that there is to be a new issue for the Russian Offices in China. It is to appear shortly, with denominations surcharged on the stamps. We are promised early specimens.

SIAM.—Philip H. Ward, Jr., advises us that the 14s of the 1910 issue has been surcharged 2s similar to the 14s of the 1912 issue. He states, "This is likely to be a scarce stamp, as my correspondent was unable to obtain a complete sheet, a block of 90 being the largest he could get. They are apparently using up the remainders in this manner."

A NEW
UNITED STATES LOOSE LEAF ALBUM
AN ALBUM SECOND TO NONE.

This Album is the only practical and feasible Loose Leaf Book on the market today.

We have put this Album up in three sections so a collector is able to purchase such branches as he desires at a comparatively low cost. It is 9 inches long and 7½ inches wide, very handy; there is but one set of stamps to a page artistically laid out. Spaces have been provided for imperforate and part perforate pairs and the beauty of all; it is right up to the minute. What is more we will add new leaves each year with spaces for the latest stamps and if you are an owner of one of our Albums, latest sheets will be promptly sent you when issued.

After you have transferred your stamps into this Album, you cannot help realizing the great advantage in a practical up-to-date Album.

Sample pages and complete Prospectus cheerfully mailed on request. Postfree.

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

RATE 25c PER LINE.

The rate in adlets is 25c per line and tf advertising from now on will be 20c per line. Minimum space two lines. Note what stamp dealers pay in other publications for their service. If the boys' papers are worth $1 per line, MEKEEL'S is worth 25c. The slight increase in rate will give us more room for reading matter and the advertisers using adlets will get better returns. The "American Boy" rate has now advanced to $1.25 per line and "Popular Mechanics" 18c per word.

SUBSCRIPTION COUPONS.

We present this week a list of those who have secured new subscribers in connection with the use of our subscription coupons. We are greatly obliged to those who have participated and only regret that more of our readers do not manifest a spirit of hearty co-operation.

W. P. Colman of Washington, D. C., whose name appears in the list below, is one of our most enthusiastic boosters. His use of the coupons has been productive of good results. Moreover, Mr. Colman in an adv. in Philatelic Gossip offers the WEEKLY six months free to anyone who will purchase 50c from the list of stamps advertised by him. This is co-operation with a big C.

It will please us if our subscribers doing business with any of these coupon users will write their hearty appreciation of the efforts that are being put forth to boost the WEEKLY. The standing of the contestants to date is as follows:—

VOORHEES' U. S. SALE.

Last week B. L. Voorhees, LaGrange, Ill., had a fine advertisement giving the particulars of an auction sale of U. S. stamps the property of R. L. Wicks of Chicago. Some of the lots of the sale were listed and described last week and they give evidence of a notable sale. This week's paper advises our readers that the Wicks collection will be on exhibition at the office of the Nassau Stamp Co., 118 Nassau St., N. Y. City, January 18 and 19. No doubt the opportunity will be utilized by New York collectors.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Mountain States Philatelic Society has just elected the following officers to serve during 1917:—Guy Knox, president; Charles Huscher, vice president; Carl Johnson, secretary; Maitland Milliken, treasurer (4th term); and Messrs. Bradbury, Stoess and Beukma, directors. January 19 a banquet will be held in the Auditorium, Denver, and it will be a ladies' night.

—If any stamp society wants files of the WEEKLY for the past three years, they may be obtained from Donald M. Chambers, 226 N. Maple Ave., East Orange, N. J., upon payment of transportation charges.

—We cannot understand why dealers send out approval selections to collectors whose dishonesty has been given ample publicity in the columns of the WEEKLY. We have referred several times to one W. M. Artman of Los Angeles, Cal., but every now and then the name of this party is reported to us. Dealers who send out selections without securing gilt-edged references must take the consequences.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Wm. H. Faber, M. Casper (2), A. H. Gleason, Maitland Milliken (2), W. T. Lathrop.

—Victor Marsh, 386 Brixton Rd., London, England, would like information concerning C. J. Grundstrom, 1372 W. 4th St., Riverside, Cal. His occupation is given as manager of the Boston Shoe Co., but Mr. Marsh has been unable to secure replies to various letters that have been sent him during the past two years or more. Can any Riverside subscribers help Mr. Marsh with the desired information?

—The firm of Geo. C. Ginn & Co. has taken out a government permit enabling them to do business with this country. The firm has an advertisement in this number and wishes us to advise our readers of the above fact. This is an old-established English firm, one that has advertised in the WEEKLY for the past twelve years.

—S. M. Edwards, on his recent trip across the country from Argusville, N. D., to Philadelphia stopped off at Chillicothe, Ohio, and visited S. Schachne, president of the P. C. S. A. He reports great pleasure in the privilege of inspecting the fine postal card collection and stock owned by Mr. Schachne.

—H. K. Schoff informs us that he recently received from a Winnipeg dealer a rather valuable selection of stamps on approvel sent in an envelope with no return card and containing absolutely nothing to indicate the name or address of the sender. Of course the selection was unsolicited. Our vocabulary is unable to express our contempt for such loose business methods.

—J. A. Nosworthy of New Zealand, member of the Postal Card Society of America, has been conscripted for service in the great conflict across the water and may be called forth, shortly.

—In acknowledging the receipt of his P. C. S. A. membership card and other papers, William Turnstill of Nairabi, British East Africa, wrote a mere skeleton postcard from India, where he had been sent to join their colors. Nothing heard from him since. Such is the fate of many of those summoned to the front.

—A rather unique proposition is presented in our advertising columns, and it will attract the attention of every reader. The Managing Editor is well acquainted with Mr. Sledd and is willing to allow his name to be used as a guarantee of his reliability. It will be noted that the stamps of two countries are covered and it is the intent of the promoter of this "old issue service" to furnish the stamps of Canada and Newfoundland at a very reasonable price, and we shall await with interest the progress of the enterprise.

—The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of the Western Philatelic Association, held at Oakland, California, Dec. 28: president, Joseph A. Stites; vice president, Fred Rohrbach; secretary, Oliver G. Beardslee; treasurer, Kenneth Macabee; librarian, Oliver G. Beardslee; sales and exchange manager, William G. Wilson.

POOLE BOOK ON THE PRESS.

Poole's book, "The Postage Stamps of Canada," is now on the press, and the work will be completed by the latter part of January. In the meantime we offer cover space for advertising. The book will be uniform with the others we have published and space will be sold at $10 per page, $6 per half page, and $3 per quarter page. Copy must be in our office at Beverly not later than Thursday, January 25. This will be absolutely the last day of grace.

REAL NEW YEAR CHEER.

A letter such as the following from B. Douglas Goode of Boydton, Va., breathes the right spirit and is particularly appropriate for the New Year season. We welcome Mr. Goode back to the ranks of active collectors and trust some of our subscribers will send us the name of some shut-in worthy of Mr. Goode's proffered kindness:—

"After more than three years' abscence from the collecting field, I can think of no better way to begin the new year than subscribing again to your paper and remembering one less fortunate than myself.

I enclose $1. Will you please enter my subscription for one year—and send MEKEEL'S to some worthy shut-in for an equal length of time."

CHRONOLOGY OF ADHESIVE POSTAL ISSUES OF THE U. S. DURING THE TWENTIETH CENTURY.

By C. EDWARD WRIGHT.

At my request, the Third Assistant Postmaster General caused an investigation to be made into the dates of issue of United States adhesive postage stamps emitted during the current century. I am lately in receipt of the report, which I have rearranged to bring out more forcibly the chronological sequence of the issues.

In the report, I am told:—

Effort has been made to give dates of issue in each case, but it is possible that in a few instances the date of sale is given. The date of sale is usually one or two days later than the date of issue. Corrections have been made in red ink where dates listed by you were found to be incorrect.

To compile this information has involved an extensive search of records, particularly as to the earlier issues, which could only be undertaken as opportunity presented.

There can be little doubt that the statement in the last paragraph is quite modest. Several months have elapsed since the beginning and the end of the research. Indeed, so much time has been expended and so many dates, heretofore published, have been corrected (as the letter of transmission indicates), that I feel oppressed by a sense of selfishness if I do not attempt to make this information available to others, who may, like myself, concern themselves less with the curiosities of mischance in postal issues and more with the history of intentional stamp emissions. Praise and thanks are due to the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster-General, which has now not only furnished very complete, but of course wholly authoritative data.

There are some dates which I have ventured to supply because the records do not show any definite date. I refer only to the single-lined watermark issues of "1908-9". The 1c and 2c appeared in 1910; of the others there are no records. I think they must have been issued, not in 1910, but in 1911, because there is a record of the 3c coil, perf. 12 horiz., issued late in January, 1911, and the 4c coil not until 1912, and the 5c coil not until 1913. Some of the 1c and 2c coils came out in 1910. It is not a bad guess that all save the 1c and 2c were not issued earlier than 1911. And again: The Department makes no distinction between the early and later shade of the 8c, Franklin head. They have no record. But the prevailing lighter, and apparently permanent shade (as nearly as any shade nowadays is permanent) first appeared in 1914.

In the list that follows, I attempt no more than to give the date of issue and enough to identify the stamp. The numbers enclosed in parentheses are the Scott numbers.

U. S. ALBUM

WE take great pleasure in announcing the forthcoming edition of a new album for U. S. Stamps. This album has no squares and is arranged on a principle that is absolutely without precedent and is the result of Mr. Power's experience in mounting U. S. collections for the last 20 years. The leaves will be movable on the peg attachment of the "Oriel" album. There will be two grades of paper and two grades of binders and each section can be bought separately.

We hope to be able to send out a sample leaf about March — if you want this sample leaf send your name to us on a post card with your address and say "Leaf". All Gibbons "Circular" subscribers need not answer this ad as they will automatically receive one. [60&62

BREAKING UP COLLECTION.
I am breaking up a nice general collection of about 14,000 varieties, mounted in six Albums. While there are no rarities, the general collector will find many nice low and medium priced stamps that are missing from most approval selections. I will send these Albums, one at a time, to collectors who will buy $10.00 or more at a time, and return the books within three days of receipt. This is a splendid opportunity for you to fill in those blank spaces quickly at a low cost. Nothing priced over 50%. Send for a book today, and compare with your own album, page for page. References essential. State if you want 19th or 20th century first. H. R. STILES, 366 McClellan St., Schenectady, N. Y. [60

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—V. K. Yowell, St. Louis, Mo., has settled his account with J. C. Jay, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa. Other dealers whose difficulties have not been settled would do well to profit by Mr. Jay's campaign.

—Henry Schuhmacher, 78 Kittredge St., Roslindale, Mass., is out with a communication to all stamp societies and clubs to send two delegates to a meeting to be held February 27 in Boston, Mass., for the purpose of organizing a permanent philatelic congress. The exact place will be announced later.

—The annual banquet of the Twin City Philatelic Society was held at the Andrews Hotel, Minneapolis, Jan. 13.

—We have a new advertiser this week in the Excelsior Stamp Co. of Middletown, N. Y. This firm was established three years ago, the proprietors being E. P. Valkenburg and John M. Boland. The company has advertised considerably in the boys' magazines and we are glad to have this patronage of our columns. The members of the firm are connected with the S. P. A. and M. P. A.

—Louis Gerald, Cleveland, O., subscribes to the WEEKLY but sends no street address. Will one of our Cleveland subscribers please help us out?

—Grant L. Paul, formerly of Napanee, Can., and a recent advertiser in the WEEKLY enlisted last November in the Queen's Field Ambulance Corps and is now located at Old Collegiate Barracks, Kingston, Can. He is unable to attend to stamp matters but will be pleased to hear from any old stamp collecting friends.

—We have received from C. M. Smith, Fredericksburg, Va., a letter dealing with the matter of covers used prior to the time stamps were issued. The letter also deals with cancellations that Mr. Smith has found on early U. S., a matter which is engaging the attention of numerous of our readers at the present time.

—The Artemus Stamp Co., Los Angeles, Cal., is unable to secure replies to letters addressed to A. Gilot, Ponce, Porto Rico.

—An esteemed correspondent wants to know if Bill Bloss is really existent. He certainly is and very much so. Bill is in Chicago and will establish his identity to the satisfaction of anyone who may be passing through that city.

—H. P. Bridge, Clearfield, Pa., would like information in regard to R. T. Hance, Flint, Mich. He is unable to secure replies to letters sent him.

—It takes a full two weeks to enter renewals. The mail list is in Portland, Me., while the clerical work is done at Beverly, Mass. Give us ample time to enter remittances. If you have recently renewed and find in this week's paper a notice of arrearages, wait a couple of weeks for change of whole number on the wrapper.

—Henry B. Evans, formerly of Minneapolis, Minn., has removed to Detroit, Mich. Address Room 242, P. O. Bdg.—(Advt.)

—There is every indication that the Stamp Journal, latterly published at Covington, O., has ceased to exist. L. Harald Kjellstedt, who served as editor-in-chief advises us that the publication has been probably discontinued and under any circumstances he will have no further connection with the paper.

—The Collectors' Journal has secured the services of Julian T. Baber as exchange editor. Mr. Baber is well and favorably known for his work in philatelic journalism. He is on the staff of the Daily Advance, Lynchburg, Va.

—Herman W. Boers advises us of the death of Henry B. Bromley of Detroit, formerly a member of the A. P. S. and well known among Detroit stamp collectors. He had lived in Detroit all his life and had been actively interested in civic affairs.

—The manager of the Stamp Shop, Chicago, Richard R. Eisendrath, now a student at Harvard, has been elected business manager of the Harvard Illustrated. Mr. Eisendrath will be heartily congratulated by his many friends.

—The stamp stock of G. V. Lovering of Washington has been purchased by W. P. Colman, the well-known dealer of that city. We are sorry to lose Mr. Lovering as a patron but pleased that his stock has fallen into such good hands.

—We are informed that a binder suitable for the WEEKLY may be obtained from the National Blank Book Co., 52 Duane St., N. Y. City. Interested parties will do well to write for further particulars. Our thanks are due W. Ellery Denison for this information.

—You should use our leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting", in your correspondence. It is excellent for missionary work and presents stamp collecting in its most favorable light. We pay half the cost of production and offer the leaflet at 50c per hundred postpaid. Collector or dealer can use these to advantage.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from C. M. Breder, Wm. L. Hamilton, Geo. M. Brack, C. G. Adams, J. J. Prendergast, C. R. Fulmer, Hollis Thacher and Globe Stamp Co.

—"It's an old, old subject but will you please reopen the discussion re unsolicited approvals? I am today in receipt of a sheet of 25 from someone I never heard of. True he sends return postage but not a return envelope. I have also in my desk four other lots received last May when I became a member of the S. P. A. Some enclose return postage and some do not. I have been holding these intact to see what the ultimate outcome would be, yet nothing serious has happened and I wonder if the concerns that sent them will eventually warn the trade that I am a fraud. Will some of your readers state their practice, for practically every collector must be imposed on by these barnacles. Please understand that I have never ordered stamps of any kind from any of these concerns."—THORN SMITH.

—The new dealer book by Bill Bloss has been well received and favorably commented upon. The price is only 10c and the book should be in the hands of every dealer.

ADVERTISING COPY MUST BE IN SATURDAY.

We are aware that the WEEKLY has been late for several weeks. It is due to the congestion of advertising copy in the office of the printer Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Advertisers must please note that all copy must be received at our Branch Office at Beverly, Mass., not later than Saturday. In whatever zone you reside, figure out your time limit, allow a good margin, and get copy in on time. If you want the WEEKLY in good season each week it can be secured by prompt co-operation as indicated.

SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST.

We have divided our boosters in two classes and group in the contest those who are now subscribers to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. We offer two prizes to the two subscribers sending in the largest number of new subscriptions before April 25. Dealers are debarred from this contest. The prizes offered will be:

First—"Postage Stamps of the United States of America," by N. E. Waterhouse. Published by Frank Godden, London, England.

Second.—The new book on "Hawaii" by C. F. Richards.

To simplify matters nothing less than six months' new subscriptions will be considered in connection with this contest and subscription coupons or the "Charm of Stamp Collecting" leaflet may be used in connection with the contest. Coupons will be supplied free of charge, while the leaflet is furnished at one-half of cost price, 50c per hundred. Those subscribers who have already sent in coupons are credited, as per the list following. We deem it no more than right to give these subscribers credit for work done:—

H. Boscowitz, N. Y. City,	4
Edwin Ortolf, Lakeport, N. H.,	2
M. D. Place, East Norfolk, Mass.,	2

Several have sent in one subscription, of which record has been made. Send for a supply of coupons or leaflets and push the good work.

EDITORIAL.

Ready—We have been informed that the new set of wines and cordials revenue stamps has been issued but at this moment we are unable to give particulars as to designs and denominations.

Official—From Mr. C. H. Fowle ("Undooley") we have received two old documents relating to the civil war revenue stamp taxes. One is a four page folder whose character may be judged by the following headings, taken from the first page: "Official. Treasury Department. Office of Internal Revenue. Schedule of Stamp Duties. From and after August 1, 1864." On the last page, following the schedule of descriptions and taxes, are "General Remarks." From them, we quote: "Revenue stamps may be used indiscriminately upon any of the matters or things enumerated in Schedule B, except proprietary and playing card stamps, for which a special use has been provided. Postage stamps cannot be used in payment of the duty chargeable on instruments." There are other instructions that are interesting but somewhat technical in their bearing. The second piece was in the nature of a letter to the "Hon. E. A. Rollins, Commissioner of Internal Revenue," dated Boston, Nov. 3, 1865, and a reply thereto, elucidating an obscure point in the application of the law relating to the tax on the extension of notes.

Strong—An able article, "Philatelists Await Post-Bellum Stamps of European Nations," was a feautre of the Newark, New Jersey, Call of January 7, 1917. It is written in a tone of authority and well repays perusal. An estimate is given of the philatelic possibilities attending the geographical changes that likely will occur in any peace adjustment and a sort of forecast of issues celebratory of peace is given. All in all, the article is noteworthy and should make a definite impression even on the mind of the hurrying reader.

Pi—From Mr. L. J. Ragatz we have received an ad clipped from a contemporary, offering "4 Greenland, 1882-85" and sometime ago, we noticed Obock, set up as "O'Bock." Of course, vagaries such as "Punch" for Poonch, "Nine" for Niue and "Cute" for Crete are well known and we do not blame the intelligent comp. for fumbling some of these names when the "copy" with which he has to wrestle in some cases is taken into consideration.

Variety—The following notice was issued earlier in the month from the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General: "Postmasters and employees of the postal service are notified that, owing to the condition of the paper market, the Department found it necessary to issue a quantity of the 1 cent postal cards printed on paper bought in open market which is of whiter color and somewhat rougher finish than the regular issue. The card is 3¼ by 5½ inches in dimensions and the stamp design is the same as on the regular No. 8 card bearing the head of Jefferson, but the printing is not so clear. The purpose of this notice is to enable the postal service to recognize the card as genuine."

High—Accounts of the payment of high amounts of postage in stamps have always had an interest for collectors and from time to time mention has been made of the use of stamps in lavish manner to prepay mail matter. A reader sends a clipping from the St. Paul Dispatch which tells of two packages of woolen cloth that were consigned to Bobrusk, Minsk, Russia, from St. Paul, on which the postage was $43.92 and $36.25, respectively. As there is no parcel post convention between Russia and this country, the postage was charged at first class rates or five cents for the first ounce and three cents for each additional ounce. We quote: 'Post office officials say that never has so large a sum been paid for postage on any parcel as on those sent today. Dollar stamps were used as far as possible to reduce the amount of licking needed." No doubt this statement refers to the St. Paul office as we are sure that in many cases greater amounts have been paid on single pieces of mail. If we may trust to recollection, we have seen blocks of over fifty of the ninety cent purple, 1888, and ninety cent orange, 1890, that were used on consignments by mail. Many interesting stories could be told of high postage payment and we should like to hear of authenticated instances of the kind from readers.

Counterfeiting—From Mr. Herbert Klein, St. Louis, Mo., we have received a word of explanation about the case referred to in our issue of January 6th, 1917, on the subject of an abortive attempt to counterfeit the current two cent stamp. Mr. Klein says: "I cannot give the full details, although I might easily have saved the newspaper clippings had I known that they would have been of interest to you. As well as I can remember, there was a bit of excitement over the fact that a small printing firm was manufacturing two cent stamps. It developed later, though, that while they had the materials with which to print the stamps, they were not making them, as yet. At the trial one man was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary, while the owner of the shop and another man or two were fined small amounts. I have not given the details fully but hope that I have thrown a little light on the case." Speaking of St. Louis, it may be said that the local society, the St. Louis Stamp Collectors' Society, has begun an active campaign for new members and all collectors in the vicinity are invited to join; meetings are held every first and third Tuesday of the month at 801 Chemical Building, St. Louis. The following strong board of officers will serve during 1917: President, F. R. Cornwall; Vice-President, Dr. Lister Tuholske and Secretary, Herbert Klein.

Danger—From Mr. Frank M. Mason, Providence, R. I., we have received a somewhat remarkable letter that was sent him recently; and so telling are some of the points of the pronouncement that we are impressed. Graphically, the feeling of the comparatively inexperienced collector who attends seriously to his pursuit is reflected when he runs afoul of the snags that are half submerged. In his letter, the protestant says that the menace of stamps that become demonetized after many of them have been sold to collectors at full rates, to mention only one of the milder strictures, may be such as to make him forswear collecting. It is not necessary to add to the catalogue of further iniquities, minor to major, to bring out the writer's contention that philately is grieviously harmed by the existence of these abuses. We endorse the arraignment by Mr. Mason's correspondent but we have an explanation to make for this condition and can point hopefully to the future. First of all, we know of no other business that has been so slow to become standardized as the stamp business; and sometimes, the more progressive dealers themselves must pause to wonder why the stamp business generally is not on a more progressive plane. However, the long lane has begun to turn and the future is bright with promise of better things. In other words, the dealers through their trade organizations are sincerely trying to remove the handicaps under which commercial philately labors; and we are sanguine enough to believe that the little progress that has been made is an earnest of better things to follow. The elimination of all trickery in philately is a shining goal to strive for, even though only by slow degrees is it to be reached.

DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

Relatively speaking, the Conveyance stamps are not so rare in imperforate pairs as are some of the other titles, all but the $2 value having been used in multiple rather frequently. The Mortgage stamps are more difficult to find, except perhaps the 50c and $1, and the Probates are even more difficult, especially the $2, which ranks with the high values of Inland Exchange in rarity. Pairs of the $20 Probate are not much, if any, scarcer than pairs of the $5 and not nearly so scarce as pairs of the $10 value. Of the last the writer has seen only one unsevered pair. It is vertical.

In the case of Inland Exchange there were more ways of using the stamps in multiple both under the law of 1862 and of 1863. Two 15c stamps would make the 30c rate and four 15c or two 30c would make the 60c rate, or three $1.50 stamps would make the $4.50 rate. But neither the 40c nor the 60c value would make a higher rate without the use of other denominations and greater convenience led to the use of other values more frequently. The 30c and 60c are both scarce in pairs. Probably very few imperforate $2.50 and $3.50 stamps were ever issued, for even single copies of them are rare. Pairs are very rare indeed and strips and blocks are unknown.

Sometimes a large block or many singles of a low denomination would be found on a document that required a large amount for the tax but more often the fewest number of stamps possible was used because fewer stamps would cover less space. Vertical pairs and strips are usually scarcer than horizontal pieces, although quite often vertical pieces were placed on the margins of the documents where they would not cover up any of the printing or writing. Blocks seem to have been used seldom—they took up too much room. Some of the commonest imperforate and part perforate singles are almost unknown in blocks. The largest block of 2c Bank Checks known to the writer consists of only twelve stamps.

The tax on promissory notes, effective between March, 1863, and August, 1864, necessitated the use of many odd combinations. As was noted before, the rate was 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 6c or 10c for each $200 face value of the note, according to the length of time specified on it and any multiple of the six denominations stated might have been required. The multiples of one comprise every whole number of which the human mind can conceive—hence any combination of stamps might possibly have been used, but as notes for large sums are commonly for even amounts such as $30,000 rather than $29,624, the odd combinations would be more apt to occur on the smaller notes.

The 4c and 6c Inland Exchange were issued for use under this schedule and were continued in use after it was repealed in 1864. Both were still in use in 1871 and are found on the experimental silk paper. Strange to say the only schedule calling for the use of the 4c and 6c stamps on documents after 1864, except occasionally for bullion and bullion contracts, was that of Foreign Exchange! Since there were no 1c, 2c or 3c Inland Exchange stamps and only 4c, 6c and multiples of the 5c, the promissory notes requiring odd amounts during the life of the schedule of 1863 quite likely had their tax frequently paid by combinations of the various other low values and it is reasonable to suppose many of the imperforate or part perforate pairs and strips of Agreement, Bank Check, Bill of Lading, Contract, Express, Power of Attorney and Telegraph stamps, as well as Certificate and possibly others were used on these notes.

It is clear that most of the imperforates and part perforates other than single copies, and many singles, were used on documents other than those for which they were intended since had they been used only as was contemplated by the law many of them would not exist in pairs at all. As a theory, the idea of obtaining statistics regarding the amount of business transacted in various lines throughout the country by means of certain stamps for each business was a success—in practice it absolutely failed. Even the attempts to keep the stamps for Schedule "C" separate from those for Schedule "B" often failed. Witness part of a document bearing fifty of the 1c Proprietary—each stamp most painstakingly cancelled with initials and date in full compliance with a fraction of the law!

CHAPTER VII.—Six Cent Proprietary.

If it is permissible to hazard a guess the writer suggests just one stamp that could have been used out of its own sphere but never was. This stamp is the last one issued—the six cent proprietary. Not only is it the rarest of the perforated stamps of the first issue, but it has a very interesting history and may be considered to be the "missing link" between the general issue and the private die stamps. The reason that it exists at all appears to be purely monetary—a matter of only a few hundred dollars at the most, which Charles Osgood & Co. of Norwich, Connecticut, proprietors of a preparation which sold for $1.50 and therefore required a six cent stamp, were unwilling to pay for a private die. In a letter to Mr. Carpenter dated March 10, 1871, they stated there were then more than a hundred preparations calling for a six cent stamp and thought it very extraordinary in the government not providing a suitable stamp after having fixed the tax. The result of their complaint was the six cent Proprietary. It was first delivered to the department April 13, 1871, and nearly 90,000 copies were issued according to the records during the next four and a half months, or until it was replaced by the six cent black and green September 2, 1871. The first order called for 100,000 stamps to be printed in black but before any were printed the color was changed to orange. It differs from the 6c Inland Exchange only in that the lower label is inscribed "Proprietary."

The rarity of the 6c Proprietary is due not so much to the comparatively small quantity issued as to the short time it was in use and the manner in which it was used. Both the $1.60 and $1.90 Foreign Exchange and all the values from the $15 up were issued in smaller quantity but these were all documentary stamps and the documents on which they were used were often filed away for reference or as a matter of record while the proprietary stamp was stuck on medicine bottles and soon landed in an ash heap or the bottle collection of a junk man. Several of the private die stamps which are rarer than the much coveted six cent orange were issued in larger quantity and their rarity today is due to similar causes.

So many of the six cent orange now in existence bear the cancellation of Charles Osgood & Co., that it is likely a large proportion, if not most of those issued, were used by this firm on their India Cholagogue. Their preparation was sold largely in the malaria districts of the south and this helps to account for the rarity of the stamp as there were not many revenue stamp collectors in the south in 1871. The writer was in Norwich in the summer of 1915 and was told by one of the Osgood firm that a few of the six cent orange have been obtained by them from old bottles of the Cholagogue sent in for redemption or exchange and that within a few years two copies had turned up in this way. Needless to say there is a long waiting list for any that may turn up in the future!

The stamp is also known to have been used on Shallenberger's (?) Pills and possibly one other preparation which the writer has been unable to trace and if there were nearly a hundred firms that needed a six cent stamp it is indeed curious they did not use it or if they did use it, that so little evidence of the fact can be found. At the time it was being used there were only seven six cent private die medicine stamps in use and no other six cent private proprietaries except possibly the 6c Wm. Gates match stamp. The proprietary six cent could have been used on matches but there is no evidence that it ever was. Uncancelled copies are known and also a few fine cancelled copies, but the great majority of those in existence are damaged if not off center or heavily cancelled. The number in existence has been estimated to be as low as between thirty and forty all told. Pairs have not been found.

"U. S. WEST INDIES."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—The "United States West Indies" will be the new name of the Danish West Indies and nearby small islands, including Culebra, which are already owned by the United States, it was authoritatively announced today.

The name has been selected in preference to the proposed "American Antilles."

Porto Rico will not be included in the group.

WITH THE MANAGING EDITOR.

The book on "Canal Zone" by Wm. Evans, M. D., is now ready for delivery and we anticipate a large demand for it. It is sufficiently scientific to satisfy the most advanced collector and Dr. Evans has proven himself to be a painstaking student of these stamps. The book is handsomely printed and the price is 20c.

When renewing your subscription be sure and purchase some of the books advertised by us. No collector can afford to dispense with a library. It will add pleasure and profit to his collecting.

If the special number be a little late next week don't worry. It may run to 12 or more pages—if so it will be a bit late.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—I. C. Greene has shown us a copy of the current 1c stamp, perf. 10, in a blue green shade, somewhat resembling the 13c of the 1908 issue.

J. M. Bartels Co. reports the following new envelopes:

CAPE JUBI.—From the Stamp Collector's Fortnightly we note, "A philatelically new country, Cape Jubi, for the territory in Western Africa, adjacent to Rio de Oro, the Minister of State has decreed a special issue of stamps by overprint and surcharge in "centimos" on the current 50 cts., and 1, 4 and 10pts values of Rio de Oro. An illustration shows the overprint in three lines widely spaced. The values and quantities are said to be as follows:—

Sept., 1916, Issue of Rio de Oro, overprinted "CABO JUBI" and "Centimos" values.
5c in red on 4 pts. dull claret (2,154).
10c in red on 10 pts. grey brown (2,178).
15c in green on 50 cts. lake (2,048).
15c in red on 50 cts. lake (2,048).
40c in green on 1 pt. vermilion (1,021).
40c in red on 1 pt. vermilion (1,021).

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—The ½ centavo has now appeared surcharged 1916, according to copy submitted by A. W. Dunning. This is similar to the 1c chronicled in the last issue. They seem to be a year behind times in this unsettled country as these stamps have just put in an appearance.

FRANCE.—The inland postage rate having been increased to 15c, it is likely that in the near future a stamp in this denomination will be issued in the familiar "Sower" type.

HAYTI.—We have been shown by the Fordham Stamp Exchange specimens of the provisional chronicled last week.

INDO CHINA.—Stamp Collecting states, "Following the example set by Tunis, of issuing a 5c+5c Red Cross stamp, this colony has had a supply of its current 5c denomination overprinted with the Geneva Cross in carmine. The surcharge has evidently been applied in Paris, being of the uniform Boulevard Brune pattern, and, on the stamp before us, is at the top of the stamp, over the word "Indo".

Current Adhesive overprinted with Geneva Cross and "5c" in carmine.
5c+5c green and black.

JAMAICA.—A resetting of type has been made for the December printings of War Stamps, and while the type shows the same general characteristics of that used previously, the printing is much heavier, and not nearly so clear. A spaced S and TAMP variety occurs on all three values. This is the 55th stamp of the right hand pane for the 3d, and probably the same numbered stamp of pane 2 for the ½d and 1½d. The latter two are overprinted in sheets of 240, while the 3d comes in sheets of 120. A further variety consists of a clearly printed vertical line, 2 mm. in height, in front of the word WAR. This also appears on all three values; 49th on pane 4 of the ½d and 1½d and probably in the same position on the right hand pane, for the 3d.—HARRY E. HUBER.

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

ADLETS 25c PER LINE.

The rate in Adlets is 25c per line and "tf" advertising 20c, minimum space 2 lines. Note what stamp dealers pay in other publications for a similar service. The rate in the "American Boy" is now $1.25 a line and in "Popular Mechanics" 18c per word. In Adlets the rate is 4c per word. If you have anything to sell or exchange, use Adlets.

EXCHANGE RELATIONS.

It is absolutely impossible for us to adjust difficulties arising from exchange relations. The circumstances are usually complicated, making negotiations by a third party quite unsatisfactory. Adlets lend themselves particularly to this branch of philately and all we can do is to debar from the WEEKLY any dealer or collector engaging in questionable transactions. We cannot undertake to look up references in connection with these small advs. You must do that yourself.

MEXICO.—Herman Focke submits a couple of new varieties from this country, one being a 1c in a lilac shade, coarsely lithographed, with "CORREOS —MEXICO" at top in two concave lines, large numerals in lower corners in a deep background, with serpentile ornaments on either side of central circle, containing a three quarters portrait of General Pablo Gonsalez, minus his mustache. He shows these both perforated 12 and rouletted (percé en ligne) 14. The other stamp is a 5c blue, rouletted, of a very similar design to the 1915 issue (A61).

NICARAGUA.—"Quite a few articles were published lately in the WEEKLY on the Cordoba stamps, but none mentioned about these stamps being used in halves. I'm in possession of four copies of these, Scott's Nos. 321, 322, 324 and 336, the latter with the familiar New Orleans cancellation. All are diagonal halves used on pieces of cover. Does anyone know more particulars about same?"—S. MITTLER.

We have seen a cover with a pair of 2c 1914 issue and a diagonal half of another, making the 5c rate from this country, submitted by Frank C. Davis.

OCEANICA SETTLEMENTS (French Oceanica).—Stamp Collecting says, "A decree of August 5th states that 120,000 examples of the current 15c stamp have been surcharged '10'. In the course of printing thirty sheets of 25 stamps each had to be destroyed on account of defective work, which reduces the number of impressions to 119,250.

In the meantime between July 20 and August 5, it was decided to utilize the remainders of the stock of Red Cross stamps as ordinary adhesives, and a Decree was accordingly promulgated from Papeete, authorizing these to be sold at 10c each, with postal validity to that extent. In other offices, however, the price of the Red Cross specimens remained at 15c.

What an El Dorado for speculators."

RUANDA.—Scott's Circular says, "This is the name of a district of German East Africa bordering on Belgian Congo. It has been occupied by the Belgian forces and stamps of Congo have been overprinted "Ruanda" for use of the troops there.

TOGO.—We note from Stamp Collecting that, "The complete series of the current Dahomey stamps, 1c to 5fr has been overprinted at the Government Printing Establishment, Boulevard Brune, Paris, with the words 'TOGO, OCCUPATION FRANCO - ANGLAISE,' for use in this occupied territory."

WURTEMBERG.—According to New England Stamp Monthly: "Wurtemberg has issued two sets of official stamps of a commemorative character. The regular official set, headed STAATSMARKE, bears a three-quarter portrait of King William II, with the dates 1891 and 1916, the set being issued on October 6th, the twenty-fifth anniversary of his reign. The set for district officials is oblong with the royal arms in the center flanked by the two dates and BERZIRKMARKE at the bottom. Geneva Crosses in the lower corners indicate that the proceeds of the sale of these latter stamps will go to the Red Cross funds and it is understood that the same remark applies to the other set. The district stamps have values of 2½, 7½, 10, 20, 25 and 50 pfennig, while the regular officials have the same values with 15, 30 and 40 pfennig and 1 mark added. The two official sets in ordinary use have had the new values of 2½, 7½ and 15 pfennig added to each.

OUR DEALER BOOSTING.

Added momentum is given to our subscription campaign with the advent of winter weather and not a day passes but that we have tangible evidence of dealer co-operation. The standing on Saturday, January 13, was as follows:—

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

NOTE.

My thanks are due to the many correspondents who have kindly sent suggestions and corrections. Owing to pressure of business it has not been possible to reply to each letter individually but all suggestions will be acted on in due course.—B. W. H. P.

ALLESANDRI, M.—A Florentine engraver who engraved the dies for the first stamps of Tuscany and also manufactured the electrotypes composing the plates from which the Grand Ducal Printing Office, of Florence, printed the stamps.

ALMAGUER.—A town in Cauca, Colombia, with a population of about 7,000. In 1890 a set of three stamps purporting to be a provisional issue for this town were recorded in the philatelic journals of the day but even as locals the status of these labels seems more than doubtful.

ALOISIO, T. JUVARA.—See Juvara, T. Aloisio.

ALSACE AND LORRAINE.—An important territory of tne German Empire, forming its southwest border next to France. The German name for the provinces is "Elsass-Lothringen", and they have had a somewhat chequered history. Originally part of the old German empire, the territory was partly transferred to and partly seized by France between 1648 and 1697. In the Franco-German war of 1870-1 it was reclaimed by Germany. During this war special stamps were issued for the use of the German Army in those parts of France temporarily occupied and they were afterwards used provisionally in the annexed provinces of Alsace and Lorraine until superseded by the ordinary stamps of the German Empire. The stamps bear no name but consist of the word "POSTES" and value in centimes on a network background.

ALVEZ, V.—A Portuguese engraver who engraved the frames for the Portuguese stamps of 1882-87 and 1892.

ALWAR or ALWUR.—One of the native feudatory States of India situated in the Rajputana district. It has an area of over 3000 square miles and a population of about 800,000. It is under the rule of a Maharajah who is one of those native princes entitled to a salute of fifteen guns. Postage stamps were first issued in 1877 and they were withdrawn from use about the end of 1902.

AMAZONIA.—Early in 1901 a series of four labels of somewhat elaborate design were chronicled as having been issued for use in Amazonia which can only be construed as the basin of the River Amazon. The labels had a highly ornate border, were inscribed "Amazonie", value in numerals, and "Poste" and though it was at first thought they were a genuine issue of private locals further enquiry elicited the fact that they were simply a bogus speculative issue. As they are still occasionally met with, the following excerpt is interesting:—

"During the time when the dispute as to the Franco-Brazilian boundary was being submitted to arbitration, the Railway Company of Cassewéne took it into its head to issue Amazonian postage stamps, with the excuse that neither France nor Brazil had established a post-office there; these stamps never had any official existence and they were never recognised at Cayenne. .....At the present time the stamps of Brazil are those current at Cassewéne, but there is still no post-office there. Ordinary correspondence is handed to the captain of a little steamer which plies more or less irregularly between Cayenne and Cassewéne. The agents of the company usually have their letters sent through the company's representative at Cayenne."

AMAZONIE.—See Amazonia.

AMERICA CENTRAL.—An inscription shown upon some of the stamps of Salvador, referring to the geographical position of the republic.

AMERICAN BANK NOTE COMPANY.—A well-known New York firm of printers and engravers who produced all the United States stamps from 1879 until 1894. The Company has also produced numerous of the stamps of Newfoundland, Hayti, various South and Central American Republics, while the Canadian branch of the firm has produced all the stamps of Canada issued since 1868. The Continental Bank Note Co., which held the United States stamp printing contract from May, 1873, was absorbed by the American Bank Note Co. in 1879.

AMERICAN EXPRESS COMPANY.—A local post of the United States, operating in 1857 (at what town I cannot say) in connection with which two differently designed 2c stamps were issued.

AMERICAN LETTER MAIL CO.—A local post established late in 1843 or early in 1844 for the conveyance of letters between Philadelphia and New York, with its principal office in the former city. It was a branch of the firm carrying mail between Boston and New York under the title of Hale & Co. The stamps issued in connection with this post were finely engraved on steel and show the national eagle as the central device.

AMHARIC.—The official language of Abyssinia, in which the inscriptions on the stamps of this country are engraved. It has been in general use since the thirteenth century, and is Semetic in origin. It is written from right to left.

AMORETTI BROTHERS.—The firm who made the electrotypes from which the stamps of Romagna were printed.

CHAPTER IX.—The Issue of 1897.

While all these provisional stamps were being issued, the new permanent series was being manufactured in Tokio by a Japanese firm (the Tokio Tsu Kiji Company ?). A set of twelve stamps in three different designs was ordered, the artist being R. A. de Villard of the Customs Statistical Department, who had designed the commemorative stamps of 1894. The new stamps were lithographed on the same watermarked paper as was used for the preceding issues, and were printed in sheets of 240—twelve panes in three horizontal rows of four, each pane having twenty stamps in five rows of four. There is a space of 5 mm. between the horizontal panes and two lines of perforation are run down through this space, the resulting little extra "tag" often being found attached to either the right or left side of a stamp. Sometimes a pair of stamps is found, one from each pane, with the little "tag" between them proving a puzzle to the uninitiated. The sheets of the dollar values are stated to have had only one horizontal row of four panes, making 80 stamps to the sheet.

The stamps were perforated by a single-line or "guillotine" machine, which so often is the cause of "part perforates", but the only variety known of this kind is the 2 cent stamp, which not only comes imperforate horizontally, but also wholly imperforate. The perforation gauges between 11 and 12 somewhat irregularly, but may be averaged at about 11½.

There are three so-called errors of color in the set, the 50 cents in dark green, the color of the 10 cents, being the best known. It is said that only one sheet of 240 stamps was thus printed. The other two are the 2 cents in deep yellow, the color of the 1 cent, instead of its normal color of orange red; and the 4 cents in an olive bistre instead of the normal brown. These last two may possibly be chemical changelings, but Mr. Hart-Lovelace states that he has seen an undoubtedly mint copy of the 4 cents, which would seem to make it a real error in color. I have also seen the 20 cents in a dull brown, a quite noticeable change from the usual deep maroon, and this also may be an error of color.

The three different designs for the series consisted of (a) a circular band enclosing the rampant dragon with his fiery "pearl", and bearing two legends, Chinese above and English beneath. The former is the usual Ta Ch'ing Kuo Yu Chêng, or "Imperial Chinese Postal Service", and the latter reads, "Imperial Chinese Post." The Chinese value occupies the upper corners and Arabic figures the lower corners, between which the value is expressed in words in English. The frame differs slightly for each of the six values from ½ cent to 10 cents, the latter having the Chinese value reading i chiao or "1 dime". At the top of each stamp is represented the wan nien ch'ing or Chinese immortelle. (b) The second design shows a carp or "messenger fish" in the center with the inscriptions on curved bands above and beneath. The Chinese value in the upper corners is expressed in "dimes", with the mou tan or giant peony shown between. The Arabic figures of value are at each side in this design and the value in English words at the bottom. (c) The third design gives a new subject —Nung, the wild goose, on the wing. The story is that an Emperor of China once sent an ambassador to the sovereign of a country at the North. The ambassador was treacherously detained and reduced to the position of a cattle driver. One day he captured a wild goose and, remembering the migrations of these birds north and south, the thought occurred to him to attach to it a letter bearing the Emperor's name and to set it free. Of course it happened that the Emperor was out hunting one day and fortunately brought down this very goose, on which he found the letter. Needless to add, the ambassador was soon rescued and the neighboring sovereign duly punished for his treachery. From this legend comes the common expression for the mail—hung pien, "the convenience of the wild goose." The inscriptions are on ribbons above and below the circle containing the goose, and the Chinese value on shields just beneath the upper corners. The value in English words at the bottom is separated by the Arabic figure on a shield. The background of these stamps is formed of small "swastikas", the Buddhist emblem of good luck, called by the Chinese wan.

The stamps of this Japanese made issue superseded the provisional issue on August 16, 1897, according to Mr. Mencarini. Thereupon the remainders of the surcharged stamps were called in and destroyed, as previously stated. But the workmanship of the Japanese stamps not being deemed satisfactory, an order was placed for a better executed series in the same designs with the firm of Waterlow and Sons of London. The Japanese issue therefore proved short lived, though the Waterlow stamps replaced it only as the former stamps became exhausted.

The reference list is as follows:—

August 16, 1897. Perf. 11 to 12. Watermarked.

½ cent, brown violet, claret,	481,200
1 cent, yellow,	433,200
2 cents, orange red,	1,248,000
Imperforate.
Imperforate horizontally.
Error (?) yellow.
4 cents, yellow brown, dark br'n,	912,000
Error (?) olive bistre.
5 cents, rose,	360,000
10 cents, dark green,	360,000
20 cents, maroon,	168,000
Error (?) dull brown.
30 cents, carmine,	168,000
50 cents, yellow green,	360,000
Error, dark green,	240
1 dollar, carmine and rose,	51,600
2 dollars, orange and yellow,	12,930
5 dollars, yellow green and pink,	7,200

Used copies of the high values are rather scarce, particularly the 5 dollar stamp. This is partly explained by their use on "Remittance Certificates" or money orders which kept them in the post office records. The cancellations used on this series were the same as employed for the provisional issue that preceded it.

CHAPTER X.—The Issue of 1898.

As explained in the last chapter, the Japanese made stamps proved unsatisfactory and another series was ordered of Messrs. Waterlow and Sons of London. The same designs as before were followed, but were more artistically worked out. All the values from ½ cent to 10 cents now have the same detail, and the groundwork of all the stamps consists of a geometrical tracery called "engine-turned" work. The English inscription, however, now reads, "Chinese Imperial Post" instead of "Imperial Chinese Post". The dies were engraved on steel and copper plates made therefrom. The sheet arrangement for the cent values was again in three rows of four panes each, the panes having as before five rows of four stamps each; there were thus 20 stamps to a pane and 240 to the sheet. The panes were separated horizontally by a space of 7 mm. and vertically by one of 25 mm. The dollar values were in "panes" of 48, six rows of eight, but whether the "sheet" had more than one of these panes no one seems to know. It may be noticed that five of these "panes" would give a "sheet" of the same number of stamps (240) as the cent values.

The stamps were printed on a paper similar to that used for the preceding issue and having the same watermark, but as the engraved impression is heavier and the size of the watermark is nearly the same as the circle in the center of some of the stamps, the watermark is often hard to make out. The paper, however, is thin enough so that the design of the stamps can be seen quite distinctly through it, and this is, perhaps, the best test for this London series on watermarked paper.

The perforation is in the usual irregular small hole type found on Messrs. Waterlow's productions, and runs from 12 to 16. Mr. Hart-Lovelace has separated it into the work of four machines, but has combined these under three heads: (a) 14 with a variation of 12 to 13, (b) 14½ to 15, and (c) 15½ to 16. As most all the values have been found in all three divisions, and as the Waterlow perforation is generally considered a first class Chinese puzzle in itself, we will simply list the set of stamps as it stands and let those interested work on the perforations as suits their fancy.

The fact that the perforating was done by single line machines, however, has given rise to a considerable number of part perforated varieties which will be found noted in the reference list.

These London made stamps were brought into use as the Japanese made stamps became exhausted, and Mr. Mencarini gives the date when the first one appeared as January 28, 1898. This was the 1 cent stamp. The next to follow was the ½ cent stamp, which must have been issued about the first of July. The 10 cent stamp came next in about a month's time and then followed the other values, so that by the end of the year all the Waterlow series was in use, though many values of the Japanese series were used concurrently.

As before, the larger use for the high values was on the "Remittance Certificates" or money orders, on which stamps to the value of the remittance were pasted and cancelled when the order was paid. But the increasing use of the mails and the relatively long period that the London made stamps were in use, have served to make the high values fairly common in used condition.

The postmarks on this issue were the same large affairs as on the last, until the middle of 1899, when a new style appeared of ordinary size and simple inscriptions. The cut illustrates that of Canton. The Chinese inscription is simply the name of the city, which in this case reads "Kwang Chow," the native name of Canton.

CHANGES OF PRICES.

Scott's Circular announces certain changes of prices of stamps listed in the 1917 edition of the standard catalog, with reasons for the reductions in quotations.

In the case of the Philippines it is reported that "high values of the current issue are becoming plentiful on account of the recent increase of parcel post shipments to the U. S."

The Romanoff issue of Russia receives attention and the Circular says that "an enormous lot of these stamps has been sold in New York at a small fraction of their former price."

Dealers advertising these stamps will please quote the revised catalog prices.

HISTORICAL PHILATELIC DATA.

By H. B. PHILLIPS.

To a writer on most ordinary subjects quite an extensive literature is available. It is not so, however, with material necessary to a philatelic writer, in particular to one who endeavors to write of its historical aspects.

Facts have to be hunted for at random for the most part; this is particularly true of the western portion of our country, where in the early dates of its history the great majority of letters were carried by private companies and express riders.

Occasionally a "find" comes as a surprise. Such an event showing the antiquity of the post and express service, happened recently while engaged in an inspection of the Bible. See Jeremiah II, 31.

It therefore seems we can with the utmost propriety place the Holy Book at the head of a list of books of reference in our philatelic library.

I wish to mention two other works that all students and collectors of United States stamps and locals should include in their libraries; unfortunately they are out of print, and very hard to find.

One is entitled "Waifs from the Waybills of an Old Expressman", by T. W. Tucker, Boston, 1872. It is a compact little volume of 143 pages containing matter pertinent to the express and local business as far back as 1811, in the days of the old Burrell Line of Salem and Boston stages.

The other is "Stimson's Express History", by A. L. Stimson, first published in 1860, but re-written, enlarged and republished in 1881 as a subscription book only, by the author, and printed by Baker & Godwin, New York City. This is a most comprehensive work of nearly four hundred pages, covering the field of express history from the time of Harnden in 1839 down to date of publication. While not written from a philatelic standpoint, it is most valuable as a work of reference for verification and amplification of philatelic facts.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

U. S. 1916, 2c PERF. 10x11.

By J. MURRAY BARTELS.

It seems only fair to Philately and future collectors that those who are in a position to publish facts concerning stamps likely to become coveted rarities of the future should not keep such information for themselves to be forgotten as memory dims or time claims its own.

Among such stamps are the several compound perforation varieties, 1915 1c and 2c perf. 12x10 and the recently discovered 2c perf. 10x11 just listed as No. 388a in Scott's Circular. We have heard considerable about the 1c of which a badly centered block of something less than twenty copies was found and sold at a good price, also a number of well centered copies of same stamp precancelled Dayton, Ohio. Little is known about the 2c perf. 12x10 and we have yet to hear of any unused blocks of same.

The story of the latest discovery in this line, namely the 2c perf. 10x11, is as follows: When complaints were continually received concerning the newly introduced perf. 10, an experiment was made at the Bureau with a machine having the perforating wheels set to produce what philately terms perforation 11. A small printing was made in 1915 and the stamps were placed on sale at the Washington office. It is now known that this perforation has been officially adopted and is soon to appear on stamps printed on unwatermarked paper. Quite evidently at least half of a full sheet of 400 must have been perforated vertically on this experimental machine and in some unintentional manner finished on one of the regular perf. 10 machines.

A well-known druggist of Newark, until recently a collector of shades in blocks of four, was calling on a friend, in Elizabeth, N. J., not a stamp collector, who had been receiving small remittances in postage for some entomological specimens in the study of which both were interested. Seeing this little lot of 2c stamps, he asked for a block which he might find was different from any he had. Upon closer inspection he noticed the difference in the spacing of the holes and told his friend to lay all of them aside carefully, as they might become rare and valuable. This was in August, 1916. Little was done in the matter in the meantime as both were busy men, but recently, after the sale of the druggist's collection, the matter was taken up again. Fortunately this lot, unlike the unused 1c perf. 12x10, consisted of rather well centered copies throughout, a total of 67 stamps. Of these 60 were perforated on all four sides and seven have one straight edge at right. One copy was badly creased and one is used. The majority have already found their way into large specialized collections in blocks of four. It might therefore be said that as far as the visible supply is concerned they will compare favorably with the Pan-American 2c inverted center, of which 53 unused copies were saved. We have also seen two used copies of the latter, one of them the scarlet shade, proving that at least another sheet must have been issued and used at a later date, the scarlet shade being the last issued.

OUR DEALER BOOSTING.

Edgewood Stamp Co., Milford, Conn.
Royal Stamp Co., West Phila., Pa.
W. P. Colman, Washington, D. C.
H. J. Schmidt, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The above list of dealers represents the royal boosters. These dealers have all sent in more than ten subscriptions to the WEEKLY since Oct. 1, and we not only consider it a pleasure but a duty to publicly recognize the manner in which they are helping the WEEKLY. If you order any stamps from any of these firms during the coming week, just tell them that you appreciate what they are doing to extend the influence of the WEEKLY. While we have dignified those who have sent in more than ten subscriptions, we want at the same time to express our appreciation of the work done by the others who are on our honor roll. The standing on Saturday, Jan. 20th, was as follows:—

Edgewood Stamp Co., Milford, Conn.,	71
Royal Stamp Co., W. Phila., Pa.,	18
W. P. Colman, Washington, D. C.,	17

200 Different Mexican War Stamps

Every stamp in the collection is guaranteed genuine. Every stamp in the collection is listed in the catalog or in late issues of Scott's Monthly Circular.

Every stamp in the collection is in good condition. State your preference for used or unused stamps and we will give you them as wanted, so far as possible.

If you choose, we will mount the entire collection and place the catalog number below each stamp.

Collectors are warned to beware of packets offered by unscrupulous dealers. Many packets offered are made up with stamps which are not now and never will be listed in Scott's catalog, and high valuations are placed on them. We offer 100 varieties listed in Scott's at $5.00.

There is not another dealer who can supply this collection at so low a price.

Remember 200 varieties listed by Scott's catalogue. You will never be able to buy them so cheaply again. If on receipt of the collection, you are dissatisfied in any way with the condition of the stamps, we will refund your money for immediate return of the stamps. No collections are sent on approval. Remit in advance and if unsatisfactory we will refund at once.

THE EAGLE POST, AN INTERESTING LOCAL.

We illustrate herewith a most interesting local upon the original cover. It was obtained by Eugene Klein from the collection of the late S. Townsend Stackhouse of Philadelphia, who found it in the correspondence belonging to his family and owned by him for many years. It is the copy from which the original listing and illustration in Scott's catalog was made under No. 2460a. The stamp is printed in black on thin bluish paper and initialed "W. S." in red ink in manuscript. So far as known no other copy exists.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The American Philatelic Press Club in December elected the following: Pres., C. A. Howes; V. Pres., C. W. Kissinger; Sec., E. L. Clark; Treas., H. A. Waters; Int. Sec., L. H. Kjellstedt; Directors, B. W. H. Poole, W. M. Simpson.

—When renewing your subscription be sure and purchase some of the books advertised by us. No collector can afford to dispense with a library. It will add pleasure and profit to his collecting.

—The Vermont Philatelic Society has been re-organized and application made for a charter branch of the N. P. S.

—A meeting of collectors took place Jan. 10 in New Haven, Conn., and formed the New Haven Philatelic Society. The following officers were elected for 1917:—Pres., M. Ray Sanborn, Librarian of Yale University; Vice-Pres., Edwin B. Brown; Sec.-Treas., Wm. H. Hitchings, 48 Taylor Ave., E. Haven, Conn. Application was made for a branch charter to the N. P. S.

—George Holden, for a number of years secretary of the New York Philatelic Exchange Society, Branch No. 3, N. P. S., has gone to England. Mr. Holden was elected the first Honorary member of Branch No. 3 for the good work he has done. H. M. Eisfelder was elected secretary.

—The new dealer book by Bill Bloss has been well received and favorably commented upon. The price is only 10c and the book should be in the hands of every dealer.

—"In regard to Mrs. A. Calfkea and Edw. Evans, will say that I have already heard from two other dealers, one of whom has been defrauded by Mrs. Calfkea and the other by Evans. There is no doubt about their being dead beats. This is especially true of Mrs. Calfkea, who is making a business of defrauding dealers. Edw. Evans seems to have been honest until recently. He moved to New York from Lykens, Pa., and has not been heard from since."—E. A. SOUTHWICK.

—The book on "Canal Zone" by Wm. Evans, M. D., is now ready for delivery and we anticipate a large demand for it. It is sufficiently scientific to satisfy the most advanced collector and Dr. Evans has proven himself to be a painstaking student of these stamps. The book is handsomely printed and the price is 20c.

—The annual meeting and banquet of the Twin City Philatelic Society was held at the Andrews Hotel on the evening of January 13. Fifteen members were present. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, J. E. Guest; V. Pres., Dr. J. M. Armstrong; Sec.-Treas., L. R. Sours, 86 So. 8th St., Minneapolis. Preliminary plans for the entertainment of the S. P. A. convention to be held there in August were discussed and it was decided to start at once to make the convention an event long to be remembered in philatelic history. Don't forget the dates, August 7, 8, 9, 1917.

—You should use our leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting", in your correspondence. It is excellent for missionary work and presents stamp collecting in its most favorable light. We pay half the cost of production and offer the leaflet at 50c per hundred postpaid. Collector or dealer can use these to advantage.

U. S. REVENUE STAMPS.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

CHAPTER VII.—Color.

Most of the stamps of the first issue come in various shades, and nearly all of these shades are named in the reference list in the Boston Book. Some of the shades were the result of scarcity of color materials due to the Civil War; others occurred because mixing inks to match shades exactly is so difficult and still others were intentional. By comparing many specimens and noting the dates of the cancellations, a fairly good idea of the time when certain shades were in use can be obtained. The private die stamps are of considerable help in this respect because the dates of issue of nearly all are available—see the Boston Book—and the time during which each of the varieties of paper was in use is known.

For example, if a certain shade of green is found on a $3 Charter Party stamp printed on the experimental silk paper, we may reasonably expect to find private die stamps printed in green on "ex" silk paper in the same shade and if a private die stamp known to have been printed at a certain time is found in a certain shade of green, a $3 Charter Party in the same shade was printed likely enough at the same period. Obviously we cannot be sure in every case, but it is not extremely difficult to obtain results that closely approximate the truth in most cases. This applies particularly to reds, greens and blues, and less so to orange and violet shades, since so few of these were used on the private die stamps. Fortunately, the regular revenues catalogued in violet that vary the most in shade are both common, and plenty of material for study is easily obtained. These are the 4c Proprietary and the $2.50 Inland Exchange. Shades and tints of both of them are so numerous one may have quite a hunt to find two copies that look just alike. Part of the variation in shade is due of course to fading and chemical changes to which violet and mauve colors are subject, but there is no doubt the stamps varied in color when printed and it does not seem possible many of the 4c Proprietary were printed in the mixture of blue and red, with blue predominating, that is usually called violet. Neither were they printed in the mixture of blue and red in which red predominates that is called purple. Most of them are slate—bluish, greenish, brownish, pale, medium, dark or very dark—much like the 24c postage of 1862-67. Probably many of them were lilac when printed. Possibly those occasionally found in green were so printed but none of the green 4c seen by the writer match any of the green shades found on the denominations known to have been printed in green and all of the green or greenish 4c seen look as though something had happened to them. The same applies with equal force to specimens of the 30c, $1.90 and $2.50 sometimes found in greenish shades.

The scarcer shades of the 4c proprietary on the thin old paper are those nearest approaching violet, the dark bluish slate, the slate black and the brown. The brown may be an error, but does not exactly match any of the shades used on the 4c Inland Exchange. Copies seen were of a clear, full color and did not look as though tampered with. The reddish shades are usually found on the medium thick paper of 1869 to 1871 and are not so plentiful as the slate shades of the earlier printings. They are called mauve and range from pale to deep. The color is apt to be rather dull, but once in a while a brilliant copy may be found.

The earlier printings of the $2.50 Inland Exchange were in a tint that may be termed violet, and it is the only tint found on this stamp that is bluish. Perforated copies in this tint are not as common as those in grayish shades, and as late as 1865 it appears to have still been in use. From around 1865 until about 1869 there are shades galore—most of them grayish and many of them changelings from atmospheric or other causes. The most striking is a very dark brownish tint called deep brown violet in the Boston Book. That is as good a description as can be had, but does not impress one as does the stamp itself when encountered for the first time. The stamp is well-nigh irresistible—every time you look at it you think you hear a brass band.

As with the 4c Proprietary, the later printings of the $2.50 Inland Exchange are in the reddish shade called mauve. They vary considerably, and those in a sort of dark claret are indeed handsome. It is unlikely any of the reddish stamps were printed before 1869 and possibly not before the early part of 1870. Copies on the experimental silk paper, therefore, would be found only in the reddish group of shades. There seems to have been a determined effort to keep the colors of the $2.50 and the $1.90 distinct, and at no time does it appear that the same ink was used for both of these stamps. The early $2.50 stamps are bluish and the $1.90 stamps of the same period are all reddish—later when the reddish $2.50 stamps were issued the $1.90 was printed in a dark violet with a brownish tint. This color is not found on any other denomination of the violet-lilac-mauve group.

The commonest shades of the 30c Foreign Exchange and 30c Inland Exchange are the slates, and they run all the way from light to dark. There are more shades on the Inland Exchange 30c than on the Foreign Exchange, which indicates fewer printings of the latter. The violet and lilac tints are less common, especially those on which the tint is strong enough to be termed a definite shade or color. The blackish slate shade is worth hunting for, and may not exist on the Foreign Exchange. Printings of both of the 30c were made in 1870 or 1871 in brownish claret corresponding to the later printings of the 4c Proprietary and $2.50 Inland Exchange. All of the 30c in brown claret seen by the writer were cancelled August or September, 1871, if the date was present or legible. As a rule, though, these stamps and the later printings of all the stamps of the first issue have "herringbone" or other cut cancellations so commonly found on the succeeding issues.

CHAPTER VIII.—Reds, Greens, Blues.

The red stamps do not vary greatly in shade until about 1869, the difficulty in obtaining a set of all the titles of any denomination in the same shade being largely due to fading and oxidation rather than to differences in the ink itself. There are occasional exceptions, such as the imperforate 25c Life Insurance in dull rose, the clear deep red $5 Conveyance and Charter Party, and the perforated 25c Life Insurance in brown. The latter was the result of grinding red in a color mill in which black had previously been ground, for at the time it occurred—1864—Butler & Carpenter did not have enough grinding mills to use a separate mill for each color and in this case the red was put in the mill without cleaning the mill. The $5 Probate exists only in dull red and it is doubtful if any were printed as late as 1869. The $25 Mortgage can be found both perforate and imperforate in orange vermilion and scarlet vermilion, so there must have been more than one printing of the imperforate stamps.

From about 1869 rosy shades of red are met with on the 1c, 5c, 20c and 25c values, while on the $1, $2 and $5 stamps the shades run more toward orange and vermilion and the thicker and experimental silk papers are always, or nearly always, found with these shades. The $1 Inland Exchange is common in orange red, and the Entry of Goods and Conveyance are

MEXICAN POSTAL HISTORY

In the past six months Mexico has had six different rates of postage on account of constant depreciation in value of paper money. Now that they are solidly established on a silver basis, it will be interesting to study these changes as not rare, but Foreign Exchange, Mortgage, Manifest, Passage Ticket, Power of Attorney and Probate of Will are not found in vermilion or orange shades, and therefore are believed to have been out of print if not out of use by or before 1869. At least one printing of the $1 Life Insurance was made about 1870. The color is an exceedingly rich deep red, approaching lake, and the paper is soft, porous and of medium thickness. Stamps of this printing are far from common.

The $20 Conveyance comes in the widest range of shades of the orange stamps, particularly imperforate. It includes almost every shade from yellow orange to a red orange that is nearly scarlet but is often oxidized to brown or black. The scarlet vermilion is the scarcer shade of the perforated stamps, and is very much like one of the shades of the $25 Mortgage.

The greens vary widely, especially on the 3c Proprietary, with the $50 stamp a close second. On the $10 values only two shades are found—bluish green and dark green, and as none of this denomination come on medium thick, very thick, or experimental silk paper, we may consider none to have been printed after 1870. Probably at first the shades of the two $3 stamps were kept distinct intentionally, since all the imperforate $3 Manifests are in a dull bluish green, while the imperforate $3 Charter Party stamps are always in a beautiful clear dark shade. The first printings of each of these stamps were made within a few days of each other in December, 1862.

There are at least two distinct shades of green on the $200 stamps, and the red may be either scarlet or carmine. The scarlet goes with the yellow green, while the carmine is listed with the darker green. Both of the two combinations are known perforated and imperforate. Most of the $200 stamps were probably printed before 1869, as they are almost always on the thin, old paper. Copies on the experimental silk paper or very thick paper are not known.

The blue stamps as a group deserve far more attention than they usually receive, for few collectors realize how closely the greatly admired stamps of the second issue are connected with them. The experiments with the blue stamps of the first issue to obtain a satisfactory shade that would not permit the cancellations to be washed off and the stamps re-used, appear to have finally resulted in the extraordinary combination of inks and paper found in the second issue. From early in their use there was criticism of the blue stamps because cancellations did not show up well on them and because the blue was so permanent that cancellations could be removed without defacing the stamps. Until 1869, however, the shades vary only slightly. During that year Mr. Carpenter began to use ultramarine, which is far less permanent than the blue previously used, and being much lighter in shade, cancellations would show on it distinctly. In the latter part of 1869 the records seem to indicate that the ultramarine was made somewhat darker, and this accounts to some extent for the great difference in shade of many of the ultramarine stamps. Of course, much of the difference in these shades is due to the color itself being so fugitive.

Only six of the documentary and general proprietary stamps are known in ultramarine. They are the 2c Proprietary, 10c Contract and Foreign Exchange, 50c Conveyance and Surety Bond, and the $15 Mortgage. The last comes in a very handsome violet shade not at all resembling the pale, washed-out-looking tint with which the 10c Foreign Exchange is identified. But although they vary so greatly from each other, there is an unmistakable purplish tint about all the ultramarines by which they can be distinguished from any of the blue shades.

None of the private proprietary stamps appear to have been printed in ultramarine after October, 1869, as on October 30 Mr. Carpenter advised the commissioner of internal revenue that for some time past these had been printed as they were originally, that is, in blue. Probably the use of ultramarine on any of the match and medicine stamps did not extend over more than a few months—if so long—for the commonest of them are far too rare for a considerable quantity to have been printed. Of some of them only two or three copies are known to exist, and the writer is informed only one copy of the 4c Ayer medicine stamp has been found. The Henning & Bonhack Match stamp is catalogued in ultramarine, but the most careful search has failed to reveal a satisfactory copy.

"CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING."

We are pleased to record considerable interest in our new leaflet, and we thank those of our subscribers who are co-operating with us in circulating it. Orders during the past week have been received from J. G. Bassler, H. C. Burns, Herbert Klein, Burt McCann, Rev. Max J. Philippe and C. E. Nickles. Messrs. McCann and Philippe used 200 or more, while Mr. Nickles took 500. The firm of Geo. W. Linn Co., Columbus, O., considers the leaflet a very attractive one and requests permission to reprint the same. We shall be glad to hear from others who desire to take advantage of the proposition.

The leaflets are sold at 50c per 100, one-half of cost price. The leaflet is just the thing to enclose in every letter you write. Send for a supply when you renew your subscription.

A WORD OF GREETING.

¶Here is a notable issue!

¶It is gotten together without any fuss or feathers; indeed, our subscribers have not realized that a 16 paged paper was in the making. There is a wide variety of reading matter and enuf advertising to satisfy anyone.

¶Our paper is the foremost stamp paper in the world and it is our constant desire to improve the standard of philatelic activities. Ours is a trade paper, but it is more than that to those who have known it for years and have come to regard it as more essential to happiness than the daily paper. The future seems bright but there will be no lowering of ideals. Wherein we are weak we shall hope and pray for strength and a clearer vision.

¶The interests of the WEEKLY, the dealer and the collector are one. If the dealer is unable to advertise certain of his wares in the WEEKLY, bear in mind there is nothing personal intended. We want to do all in our power possible to keep philately clean, and to that end we ask your coöperation.

THE PUBLISHERS.

EDITORIAL.

Special—We are celebrating the present prosperity of philately by issuing a number that is replete with reading matter that will appeal to our readers. On occasions our advertising columns trespass on our reading preserves and we strive to maintain a fair adjustment by issuing a number larger than usual, at times. The great activity in philately is reflected in the columns of the present number, and it is certain that we have never seen before so irresistible an onward sweep of stamp collecting. We need not concern ourselves with the causes for this happy state of affairs now that the pleasant results are so apparent, but it is incumbent upon all of us who have served in philately for years to resolve that we shall do our share to make the newer collectors feel welcome, by cordial treatment. There are many little ways by which we may show our good-will to the newcomers who must have the road made easy for them to become permanent philatelists.

Translation—A translation from a Mexican paper reads: "In order to have a personal interview with the first Chief in relation to the postal service, Mr. Cosme Hinojosa (Director General de Correos) left Mexico City yesterday en route to Queretaro by railroad. Senor Hinojosa is carrying with him a complete and artistic album containing all the different types of stamps issued by Constitutionalist Government which is to be delivered personally as a demonstration of kindness and respect of the corps of employees of the postal division of the country."

Label—On a registered letter from Peru, we find on the reverse a seal that while having no franking significance is not without interest. A sticker in red shows the post office at Lima, with "Cierre de Seguridad" above and "Para la Correspondencia Certificada" below. The seal secured the flaps on the reverse of the envelope and at either end of the label was the registration cancellation. From the wording, the label is a "seal of security for registered correspondence."

Brazil—We have received a singularly interesting budget of correspondence on the subject of Brazil from Mr. Hugh C. Barr, Buffalo, New York, editor of La Hacienda, who is traveling in South America, studying economic and other conditions in different of the republics. Recently Mr. Barr sent us a few words from Sao Paulo, Brazil, but at the time he had not yet seen the wonderful collection of Dr. Pedroso, which proved to be a rich revelation of specialization in the issues of Brazil. To quote Mr. Barr: "It was complete in every detail, with many magnificent things in the way of pairs, blocks, etc., of the early issues and entire sheets of later issues, including many oddities and varieties of which we have little knowledge in the U. S. In addition to Brazil, Dr. Pedroso has a general collection of over 20,000 varieties, including a display of United States that would put many of us to shame back home, as in it, items such as shades of the 5 cent, 1851, used 90 cent, 1857, departments, etc., abound. In addition to this collection, I was told of many others even of more importance, but regret that I was unable to view these through lack of time." We may add that Sao Paulo, the second city of Brazil, is flourishing and progressive and in the estimation of some observers is destined to become the largest city of Brazil.

Rio—The observations of Mr. Barr on philatelic conditions in the Brazilian capital, Rio Janeiro, are prefatory to an interesting and intelligent dissertation on those reigning favorites in philately, the first and second issues of Brazil, not to mention later ones. Mr. Barr says: "In Rio Janeiro, I was surprised at the interest manifested in philately. A great many of the stationery and cigar stores display approval sheets, packets, etc., in their windows, and the ubiquitous small boy collector is to be seen gazing at these with rapture, and hesitating whether he will spend his 500 reis for the Nyassa set or for a packet of 100 varieties from all parts of the world. For the unsuspecting tourist there are also displayed copies of the first issue of Brazil, the 30, 60 and 90 reis, apparently in fine condition and at astoundingly low prices. A close examination by the keen philatelic eye, however, reveals the fact that these are all skillfully mended copies, undoubtedly sent over here from Europe, just to betray the unwary. Passing from these to the real philatelic establishments, of which there are several with ground floor locations, one finds not only good stocks but also an advanced philatelic knowledge along all lines but more especially with respect to the stamps of Brazil. The first issue and the high values of the second issue are in demand by local collectors at high prices, and anything in the way of pairs, strips and blocks is sold within twenty-four hours after it comes into the dealer's hands. Not one of the dealers had in stock a fine copy of the 90 reis of the first issue, although plenty of damaged copies were to be had cheap. I was told that fine copies sell at catalogue price quite readily."

Seals—In Dr. Gray's "hand catalogue of postage stamps" printed in London, England, in 1862, we find the note: "The stamps are used as seals over the flap of the envelopes; they are, therefore, often overlooked by our Post Offices." This information followed the list of the Brazilian stamps that were known to Dr. Gray up to that time, although in the first set of the "Brazils" only the 30 and 60 reis are mentioned. Writing to-day, Mr. Barr gives the following illuminating remarks to account for the scarcity of the first issue of Brazil in good condition: "I was shown large boxes full of original covers bearing copies of the first issue, but in every instance the stamp itself was torn in two. You are well aware that this issue was in use long before the days of envelopes and it was the custom to use the stamp to seal the folded letter, instead of using the wafers that were current in the United States at that period. Invariably, the stamp is to be found on the back of the letter, and as the gum was very tenacious, the stamp became lost forever to the collector when the recipient of the letter broke the seal. For the stamp was the seal, nothing more nor less. This custom prevailed clear through the dates of the second and third issues, and it is only very rarely that these issues are to be found on the face of the letter along with the address. However, as the stamps began to diminish in size from the generous proportions of the first issue, it was not so easy to make them overlap from one fold of the sheet to the other, and consequently more copies are to be found that escaped mutilation. I secured a few of these at what might be called fancy prices. They are very rare indeed, and I may add that all sources of possible supply have been ransacked long ago and that there is small likelihood of any new copies coming on the market from time to time from the correspondence of old business houses, etc."

Perforated—A good many collectors have had unsatisfactory experiences with the perforated stamps of the third issue of Brazil, and a few of us have found that experts did not always agree in their diagnosis of suspected perforations. It is some slight satisfaction to know that even in the land of their birth the perforated stamps in question find it almost impossible to find anyone to give a single specimen a clean bill of health. Mr. Barr proceeds: "As for the perforates of the third issue, all of the dealers hesitate to guarantee them. As you know, the perforating was done by the clerks in the Rio de Janeiro post office to save themselves the trouble of cutting apart the exact quantities that the public called for at the stamp window, and as the work was very carelessly done it readily lends itself to faking. There are lots of them offered for sale here with fake perforations, and in many cases these seem to be identical with the perforations on unquestionably genuine copies. We are glad to pass these problems up to the experts." We have in hand a most important budget of philatelic particulars from Mr. Barr from Montevideo, Uruguay, and in the next issue the notes will appear.

Kellogg—Several weeks ago we printed an account of the claim made evidently by a relative of the artist that Miner Kilbourne Kellogg of Cincinnati was entitled to the honor of having had his picture of Old Hickory selected for reproduction on the two cent black Jackson, thus displacing Dodge, who was supposed by stamp collectors to have furnished the portrait. We have been unable to find particulars of the life and achievements of Mr. Kellogg; and the Art Institute of Chicago, to whom we turned finally for assistance, writes through its librarian: "We have looked through all our reference books and can find no mention of Miner Kilbourne Kellogg of Cincinnati, Ohio. We suggest that you consult some very full biography of Andrew Jackson, where the artist might be mentioned." Some day, we hope to clear up this mild mystery.

DON'T DARE MENTION PACKETS

The meaning of the word has been twisted and turned until it generally now means "an accumulation of waste, trash, and damaged unsaleable junk."
BUT—We intend to sell a lot of packets, so we're making 'em good.
Nothing but real postage in nice condition, postally used or mint unused, lots and lots of stuff that the 50% dealer never has. Zema packets are so good that the purchasers are passing the word along.
Here's the first one in a new series—347 Nice used and unused, contains British Colonials cat. from 10c to $1.00, shilling values, etc., Australia Kangaroo, 6d and 9d, etc., white backs, really nice stamps from all over the world including used Red Cross. Will catalog many times the price $1.
Money back if you say so.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS IS TO "TURN" YOUR MONEY OFTEN.

Don't tie it up in a 100 of one kind because some wholesaler advises you to. Get a wide variety—few of a kind—go slow—see far—declare big 300% dividends on the outlay.

Remember that the POWELL stock is immense—an accumulation of FORTY years—hundreds, even thousands of stamps we have in great numbers that wholesalers never secure. The ONLY way we sell them is in the famous POWELL assemblings DIRECT-TO-YOU.

At some period of the "game" every collector carries on exchanges and sells stamps "on the side." The two following offerings contain cleaned postage stamp stock only—no trash or junk—only POSTAGE. Positively Powell's greatest Bargains! Even collectors having 10,000 diff. sorts can add many hundreds to their collection—the remainder being desirable for both exchange and for sale.

GOLDEN GENIE MIXTURES MONEY SAVERS & MAKERS.

In reality not "mixtures" at all, but stocks of all different postage assemblings.

No. 1 contains 3,750 postage stamps from all parts of the world. From 1600 to 1700 diff. kinds catalog up to $3.00 each. Not over 4 of a kind. Catalogs $100. Postpaid $12.50.

No. 2 contains 7,500 postage stamps. OVER 2,500 kinds (worth the price asked alone). Not over 6 of a kind. Three lots go at $28.00 NET EACH post-free and registered. IMMENSE REAL VALUE and the most we ever gave for the money.

Don't delay—order now. Sharp advances are bound to come soon for all good stamp stock.

A TRIP TO THE CITY OF MEXICO.

By J. B. CHILDS.

Overshadowing the capital of Mexico is Popocatepel (1899, 1p), the famous smoking mountain with its snow clad slope jutting up into the clouds nearly eighteen thousand feet. No longer does it deserve the name of smoking mountain; only occasional jets of steam bursting forth from the crater give a hint of what might have at one time been as great a volcano as Mt. Vesuvius. Even as far back as the sixteenth century when Cortez conquered Mexico it was known that there was sulphur to be found in the crater of the mountain. On one occasion, being almost out of gunpowder and having no accessible supply of sulphur, some of his men offered to make the trip up the slope of Popocatepel to dig out a sufficient amount. This single ascent had more than enough dangers to satisfy the ardor of the Spanish soldiers. Along late in the eighties the owner of this piece of natural scenery began to exploit the sulphur deposits to the benefit of his pocketbook. Indians were hired to go up into the crater for a month at a time and to dig the sulphur out of the bed. This was hauled up to the edge of the crater, and then taken down the side of the mountain, while the native laborers staid there in the mouth of the volcano finding shelter in the caves. The supply of sulphur in the mountain seemed to be inexhaustible; as soon as one lot was taken out another would ooze up into its place.

But to travel on to the City of Mexico itself where the Cathedral (1899, 5p) is one of the prominent points in the landscape, the Cathedral which stands on the site of the Teocalli or Sacrificial Altar of the Aztec priests. Before the coming of Cortez and his Spanish warriors this spot had run with the blood of sacrifices. When the pagan altar was destroyed, the Aztecs no longer had a rallying place. Then the Cathedral was erected on the same place, to become the center of the life and activity of Mexico for at least two centuries. This Cathedral with its twin towers raising themselves for more than several hundred feet into the air and carrying bells, the like of which is seldom to be found, became to Mexico what Westminster Abbey is to England. Indeed it was of far more importance to the life of the nation, as the Roman Catholic Church exerted a great influence in political events, and at times was almost supreme in the control of the government. And as in Westminster Abbey many of the great men of Mexico sleep within its walls; even Hidalgo, the Liberator, altho condemned by the Inquisition, rests there. Yet it is unlike the English Abbey much as the disposition of the Mexican people is unlike that of the English. No marble statues or busts are to be found in the interior of the Cathedral of the City of Mexico, while warm-colored paintings and rich decorations abound.

We must travel on now to the statue of Cuauhtemoc (1895, 5c; 1915, 2c), the last of the Montezumas. There he stands, a magnificent figure in bronze with a spear aloft in his right hand and with his robe wrapped around him in his left. It was he who led the attack against the Spaniards under Cortez on "the sad night", when at daybreak the Spanish Captain sorrowed over the great gaps in the ranks of his men. After Cuauhtemoc had been taken prisoner by Cortez, it was rumored that thru the connivance of the Spanish leader with this last of the Montezumas that a great treasure was being concealed for private division. Resenting the fact that he was thus falsely suspected, Cortez turned the native chief over to those directing an investigation of the case. Cuauhtemoc with one companion was tortured by having his feet roasted over a slow fire, accompanied with occasional bastings of oil. Altho he exhibited the utmost stoicism, he said to his fellow-sufferer, "My friend, do not think that I am as comfortable as I would be in my bath-tub." One of the bronze tablets at the base of the statue portrays another incident connected with his being delivered over to torture: Cortez is ready to give over the keys when Cuauhtemoc snatches the dagger from his belt and demands to be stabbed. Another bronze tablet at the base gives the hieroglyphic form of the name Cuauhtemoc—an eagle alighting on a human footprint, meaning "The Eagle has alighted."

And now to turn to one of the large modern buildings of the City of Mexico, the General Post Office (1916, 5p), which was built in 1907 at the cost of a million and a half dollars, to care for the greatly increased postal business of the country. I do not know to what extent the increase had been marked. Still the postal receipts of the country as a whole had increased from a few hundred thousands of dollars in the sixties to more than a million dollars in the nineties; so that it is quite probable that a new Post Office was needed.

And now before ending this little trip to the City of Mexico a side jaunt of several hundred miles should be made to the northwest into the State of Jalisco to view the Falls of Juanacatlan (1899, 50c), the Niagara of Mexico. The mere sight of this great expanse of water dropping a depth of more than fifty feet would be sufficient to make any efficiency expert weep; unlimited water power disappearing there every minute. But already a Light and Power Corporation has begun the exploitation of this great natural attraction, and a nearby city was being supplied with electricity from the Falls of Juanacatlan.

All stamps offered are in fine condition. Stock quite limited in many cases, though we have the finest in existence. Unused stamps (except Nos. 6 (VI) and 10a) have o. g. and all are as well centered as it is possible to supply them. There were numerous printings of issue 1873-96, these are indicated by Roman figures and are deserving of careful attention. With slight practice a collector can distinguish them at sight. We will mark the printings of those you have free if desired and submit others on approval. Prices are net.

VALUE OF A NEW ISSUE SERVICE.

By MANLOVE ERSKINE.

I have occasionally seen statements as to the amount a collector might have gained by the purchase of 20th century stamps at the time of their issue. I have never seen any statement of the actual gain or loss of a collector who had purchased such stamps when issued.

As it may interest some of your readers, I will give you my experience as a collector who has, since the year 1900 and up to the present time, purchased as issued all postage stamps of the United States and of Great Britain and her Colonies.

Prior to the 1906, there were, to my knowledge, no New Issue Services in existence so that I had to procure the stamps from various dealers in America and England. This required much more correspondence and more expense than is necessary now. The American dealers then charged thirty-six cents on each shilling and the English dealers thirty-two cents.

Since the dealers began to make a special business of furnishing new issues to collectors, the difficulty of making a complete collection has been greatly lessened and the cost decreased. But the difficulty is not obviated, because no one dealer can obtain specimens of all the stamps as issued. From time to time there are provisional issues, so few in number that there are not enough to go around among all the dealers, or they are bought up by speculators at the place of issue. And the collector need not expect to get such provisionals at what is known as new issue rates, for the dealers rarely can get them in any great quantity, if at all, and frequently have to pay more than face value for them when they do get them. When a provisional issue is of a very limited number, the first dealer offering them for sale usually asks from two to three times the price at which they can be purchased later. Looking back I can see that the axiom of a bird in the hand being worth two in the bush rarely is applicable to provisional new issues.

The collection of British and British Colonials I have made numbers 4107, all unused except one, and includes all stamps listed by Scott under simple numbers up to £1.10.0 face value, (except a few issued this year and some expensive War stamps) both on ordinary and chalky paper, and most of the errors and minor varieties, the cost of which has been $2,515.00.

Based upon Gibbons' catalogue as to 12 of the 101 Colonies included (which have been specialized to some extent) and upon Scott's 1917 catalogue for the others I find the value to be $5,325.00, being $295.00 in addition to twice their cost.

Of these 101 Colonies I find eight the catalogue value of which is now from three to four times their cost, namely Barbados, Bermuda, Dominica, Grenada, Papua, St. Helena, Seychelles and Turks and Caicos Islands, one between four and five times, namely Natal, two between six and seven times, namely Lagos and Jamaica (the latter including all the "Ser iet" errors), and one sixteen times, namely Maldives Ids.

The latter is really remarkable. A set of six stamps (Maldives Ids. 1 to 6) having a face value of 54 cents, was sent to me by a New Issue Service, with an extra No. 4 included, for the sum of $1.34, and those stamps are now listed by Scott at $23.75. The next largest gain in a single set is, I think, the 1903 issue of Lagos, the ten shillings value of which is now listed at $50.00. I had a merry chase after that stamp, but procured one in 1904 from a New York dealer for the modest sum of $3.15. The entire set cost $6.24 and is now listed at $93.10.

The most remarkable rise of any single 20th Century stamp is that of the Natal £1.10.0 No. 109. That came in 1908 through a New Issue Service for $8.75, and it is now listed at $140.00.

Taking all of the stamps of the Colonies I have specifically named, the aggregate cost of them was $223.31 and their catalogue value is $997.78, more than four times their cost, but it must be noted that there are only a dozen colonies out of 101, and that the catalogue value of 54 colonies, being a little more than one-half of all, is less than double their cost. It is only by including all the colonies together that the aggregate total of $5,325.00 catalogue value against $2,515.00 cost is obtained.

As to the United States stamps, including imperforate, which cost $2.00, blocks of 4 of all the regular issues, perforated and imperforate, since 1907, and pairs of all coil stamps listed except two, they number 981 all unused, and cost $168.51. They now have a catalogue value of $335.06, being $1.96 less than twice their cost. I have not estimated the face value, but the cost much exceeds that value, whatever it is. I could never buy the coil stamps, nor the stamps on bluish paper and other minor varieties at their face value, nor get blocks of the higher values, properly centered, without paying extra.

You will note how close the difference is between the catalogue value of the United States and the British Colonies as compared with the cost of them respectively. And I think a sale of neither of them would net much more than the original cost.

Therefore, I conclude that a complete collection of new issues of a group of countries is not going to net one any large gain in money. For no one can tell what stamps are going to be scarce and confine their collecting to those particular stamps. But taking a group of countries which do not issue stamps solely to sell to collectors, a collector can be reasonably sure that the stamps of some of those countries will so increase in value that in later years he will be able to dispose of his entire collection at little or no loss. And he will probably feel that the pleasure he has derived from making the collection amply repays him for any loss of interest upon the money he may have invested in it.

The cost of the entire collection has been on an average of about $29.00 a month for sixteen years. I do not know any other way by which for an equal expenditure I could have obtained so much pleasure, with a strong probability, if not certainty, of receiving back all or nearly all of the money I have expended on these 20th Century stamps.

IMPORTANT

Anything offered in this adv. amounting to $3 or more will be sent on approval to anyone we know or who furnishes proof of their reliability for cash in 3 days of receipt or prompt return of anything not satisfactory.

All "hot air" aside, we believe there has not been a page adv. by us or anyone else in the "Weekly" in years that for reasonable prices and desirability of the stamps offered classed with this one. Practically all of the foreign offered, whether low priced or not, are stamps seldom seen in dealers' stocks, the "hard-to-get" kind missing in the average collection. The general collector who cannot find several stamps in this ad. he needs has, indeed, "some" collection. You'll find many a space filler here, it may be a long time before you'll see offered again at any price, and we solicit your order. Anything not O. K. fire it back, and we'll exchange or refund. You run no risk.

We carry one of the largest general stocks of stamps in America, and it's impossible with the limited space at our disposal here to do better than offer a little of everything, trusting that no matter how far advanced you are we can interest you in something. You should see our January Bargain List No. 80, 16 pages of special offers, new items, approval offers, premium offers, etc.

PREMIUMS!

As a special inducement to "get acquainted" we make the following special premium offers. This is a very liberal offer and we believe it will put us in touch with a large number of new customers.

WANT LISTS are a fine way to fill your spaces. Why not send us yours? We don't hold you up. Prices half cat. or less on most 19th and as near that as we can get on 20th. On very large lists of medium priced stamps we'll make special low prices, making it cheaper for you to buy this way and get only just what you want than by any other approval method.

BARGAIN LISTS We have issued 80 numbers of these lists about once a month. They are free and every issue contains many "snaps". This Bulletin is probably the best known stamp house organ in America and if you are a buyer and not getting it something may get away from you. It's free as long as we think you are interested. Drop us a postal or better still send an order from this adv. and ask for No. 80 List.

APPROVALS Whether your collection numbers one thousand or thirty thousand we have approval books that will interest you. We'll gladly send these books to anyone ready to buy on receipt of proof of their reliability. Books of almost any country, at 50% and net. "Jumbo" books (about 400 stamps to the book). Sectional albums, filled with stamps and priced to select from, etc., etc. Send for list of books.

UNDOOLEY ON THE DANISH WEST INDIES.

By CHAS. H. FOWLE.

Our old friend Undooley was having a quiet after tea smoke in the back yard when his neighbor Finnerty, whose son is a collector, came in by the alley gate.

Undooley is now quite an advanced collector. He has gone from the Kindergarten up to the crazy-house stage of philately, frequents stamp auctions, where he invariably gets stuck, and takes several stamp papers.

Finnerty, after the usual greetings, took a chair and sat down to smoke. The conversation drifted from "why did Pat Crow?" around to stamps.

"Phat do ye think of the Danish West Indies?" says Undooley.

"I niver met 'em," says Finnerty.

"Right ye are," says Undooley. "Ye niver did or anyone else ayther if they saw ye first, but ye may yit for they're coming this way. The U. S. is going to buy thim."

"Will they bring thim to Chicagy?" says Finnerty.

"Yis, I hear they intind anchoring thim out in the lake," says Undooley, "but niver ye moind where they puts thim, it's the new stamps they will be issuing what bothers 'm. Do ye moind, Finnerty, it would niver do to have a free born American letther going round wid a Danish stamp on it—not while the Bureau of Engraving and Printing exists—so the minnit they buys the outfit from the Danites they begins to use U. S. money and stamps there. Now, there's plenty of U. S. money"—

"Hold on," says Finnerty, "where is it? I niver sees it!"

"Vote right and ye'll get it," says Undooley, "but the new stamps must have something instinctive, something to connect thim with the country."

"Why don't they have a cable?" says Finnerty.

"They have," says Undooley, "and trolleys and push the button and all that goes with modern civilization, but I mean something to show the customs of the country like the ones we got out for Cuby, for instance. Ye remimber the wan cint has Father O'Donnell addressing the pig stickers' union, and the two cint has trees on—"

"Treason," says Finnerty, "that's bad, is it up to the antis?"

"No, I mean red trees, they grow that color in Cuby, an the three cint has a good picture of Maggie Cline, who threw down McCloskey, taking a rist after the throw, but to continue the subject, I suppose frist they will surcharge the regulars."

"And then me bye Tim will come home," says Finnerty.

"No," says Undooley, "I mean the regular issue of U. S. stamps and after that the big uns at Washington will git their heads together an swap ideas as to the designs. Now, Finnerty, as a humble citizen of the stock-yard district, I would like to give thim my ideas, but as I can't I'll give thim to ye, Finnerty. For the wan cint I would suggest as typical of the way we conquered the country, Uncle Sam with a bag of gold in his hand, and the motto, 'By this sign we conquer.'

"For the two cinters, a bar with kegs of Santa Cruz rum and a man behind thim, motto, 'The man behind the bar—he takes no chances.' This indicates two things, Finnerty, the greatest product of the islands, and also that ye can't get it without ye have the price.

"For the threes, Uncle Sam with a shotgun, motto, 'Gunning for bargains—we keeps what we gets.' This will please the antis.

"For the fours I would have something historical, 'Morgan the buccaneer' burning a vessel, something to indicate the early industries of the inhabitants, motto, 'Ye good old times'. That's as far as I've got yit, but I think me picture would look well on a sthamp, with the motto, 'The real thing'; perhaps that would give me such a pull I could run for Governor of the islands.

"Did you ever think, Finnerty, I were a born ruler?"

"No, I niver thought that, but I always says, 'When Undooley runs for mayor he'll git my vote—for the usual price'", says Finnerty.

"Good for you, Finnerty, for an honest American citizen, an honest man is the noblest work of God—an the scarcest in Chicagy."

"An else where," says Finnerty.

"Now, once more, spaking of the Danish West Indies, I've given this subject a deal of thought and the more I think the less I find I know about the place. The only thing we are sure of is the Santa Cruz rum, and as me friend Riley says: 'Down with rum'—and down it goes at ten cints per go; but, Finnerty, stamps follow the flag, and I would advise your boy to blow his pile in on Danish issues because when the U. S. goes in, overboard goes the Danish stamps, and that's the end of thim for ever and beyant.

"I'm no prophet, Finnerty, I don't know where Charley Ross is, or who struck that chump we read about, but I do know that my spare change is going for Danish West Indies stamps, for it won't need Royal Baking Powder to raise the price of thim," and with this sage advice Undooley dropped the subject and fell asleep.

S. P. A. YEAR BOOK.

The Year Book just issued by the S. P. A. is a very handsome production and reflects credit upon the committee on publication, consisting of C. V. Webb, J. E. Guest, Harry B. Mason and C. W. Kissinger. It rivals the Year Book of the A. P. S. in size, typographical appearance and arrangement of contents. Two fine halftones accompany the book, showing the 1916 convention group and the officers for the present year. While complimentary to all members of the Association the price of the book to others is 50c.

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

ADLETS 25c PER LINE.

The rate in Adlets is 25c per line and "tf" advertising 20c, minimum space 2 lines. Note what stamp dealers pay in other publications for a similar service. The rate in the "American Boy" is now $1.25 a line and in "Popular Mechanics" 18c per word. If you have anything to sell or exchange, use Adlets.

EXCHANGE RELATIONS.

It is absolutely impossible for us to adjust difficulties arising from exchange relations. The circumstances are usually complicated, making negotiations by a third party quite unsatisfactory. Adlets lend themselves particularly to this branch of philately and all we can do is to debar from the WEEKLY any dealer or collector engaging in questionable transactions. We cannot undertake to look up references in connection with these small advs. You must do that yourself.

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—I. C. Greene has shown us the current 12c stamp, Perf. 10, in a deep claret red shade with indistinct offset.

Geo. Bye reports the current wrapper with corner turned over, which received impression of stamp and in the normal place is simply a colorless or albino impression.

BAHAMAS.—Marsh's Weekly Philatelist reports the 2sh stamp of the Queen's staircase design is now in use with multiple watermark.

Adhesive.

Staircase Design. Wmk. Multiple Crown C.A. 2sh ultramarine and black.

CAMEROON.—Of the stamps of French Congo, overprinted at Brazzaville, "Occupation Francaise du Camerun", Champion's Bulletion states the following quantities were issued:

1c,	2,025	35c,	5,000
2c,	2,025	40c,	2,000
4c,	2,025	45c,	2,500
5c,	10,000	50c,	2,000
15c,	2,000	75c,	2,000
20c,	2,000	1fr.	2,000
30c,	2,000	2fr,	2,000

CANADA.—We are indebted to Mrs. E. W. Oughtred for a specimen of the 4c war tax stamp previously chronicled in our columns. It is in the familiar type and printed in a handsome shade of blue.

DANISH WEST INDIES.—Stamp Collecting reports the receipt of the 50 bits Postage Due stamp, red on grey, perforated 14x14½ instead of 12½ and 13 as formerly issued.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—A. W. Dunning reports having the 2c 1911, surcharged "HABILITAOO" both inverted and double. He also reports the ½c on 20c of 1915 with double surcharge; the 2c, 5c and 20c of 1915 (type A25) in imperforate pairs, also the 2c in a horizontal pair imperforate between.

GREECE.—We have been informed from several sources that the Provisional Government under the Venizelos regime will issue a series of stamps comprising values from 1 lepton to 25 drachmas of a design similar to the 25 lepton of the current Greek set the colors corresponding to the old values and the set will include a new value, 4dr in brown. (This corrects report in our issue of Dec. 30th.)

Stamp Collecting is the authority for the statement that the current stamps of Greece have been overprinted with the Royal Crown and Cypher, "E. T." in small characters. J. M. Bartels submits copies of the 5l, 25l and 50l overprinted in red and the 10l with black overprint.

This surcharge has been made use of in order to render useless the large number of stamps seized by the followers of Ex-Premier Venizelis, or at least to make them useless in the sections of the country still controlled by the Royalist party.

NETHERLANDS.—We are indebted to Otto Weismann for specimens of two new postage due stamps. The values are 4½c and 5½c in the type and color of the current set. The new denominations have been made necessary by a recent increase in post card rates.

Postage Due.

4½c ultramarine.
5½c ultramarine.

PANAMA.—J. M. Bartels shows us copies of the ½c orange overprinted "RETARDO—Un Centesimo" in two lines (Too Late. 1c). 2½c of 1909 surcharged "A. R." (Return Receipt) in violet. 8c of 1906-07 surcharged "R—5cts" for registration.

TURKS & CAICOS.—Through courtesy of J. A. Galbraith we have seen copies of 1d and 3d, yellow back, overprinted "WAR TAX" in one line.

A. P. BROWN, Pres.; J. O. WRIGHT, Vice Pres.; F. W. STILES, 310 Warren St., Roxbury, Mass., Sec.; OSCAR HILL, 60 State St., Boston, Mass., Foreign Sec.; G. CARLTON RUSSELL, 38 Wellesley Park, Dorchester, Mass., Treas.; A. M. WRIGHT, Supt. of Auctions; S. G. BIXBY, 570 Rutherford Ave., Charlestown, Mass., Supt. of Sales and Bourse.

Jan. 16th, 1917.

The 374th (regular) meeting of the Society was called to order by Pres. Carpenter at 7.45 this evening. The regular reports were read and approved. The resignation of Mr. H. B. Seagrave was accepted. Mr. Wm. Shafer was elected to membership, his membership number being 625.

The annual reports of the officers were read and accepted, the reports which involved the spending of the Society's money having been declared correct by the Auditing Committee.

The vote for officers for the coming year resulted in the election of Mr. A. P. Brown as President; Mr. J. O. Wright as Vice President; Mr. Frederic W. Stiles, Secretary; Mr. G. Carlton Russell, Treasurer; Mr. Oscar Hill, Foreign Sec'y; Mr. A. M. Wright, Supt. of Auctions, the last four being re-elected. Mr. S. G. Bixby, Supt. of Sales and Bourse, and Messrs. A. W. Dunning, Oscar Hill, Wm. C. Polk, A. W. Batchelder and Frank A. Dodge as members of the Council, Messrs. Hill, Polk and Dodge being re-elected.

In the absence of both the Pres. and Vice-Pres. elect, Mr. Carpenter took charge of the entertainment, which was devoted to a criticism of the Scott Standard Catalogue. Many of the members took part in this, calling attention to what they considered to be inconsistencies or making suggestions which they thought would improve the catalogue. During the discussion Mr. Batchelder, in explaining certain items to which attention had been called, gave those present many interesting items of information in regard to the stamps of the United States. The method of constructing the catalogue was gone into in considerable detail by Mr. Carpenter, whose connection with the Company in the past had placed him in a position to give such an explanation. The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock, there having been an attendance of 25.

The next meeting will include the annual jollification, due notice of which will be sent out in time for everyone to be able to signify his intention of being present. The usual Auction Sale will be held at the Informal Meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 6th.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS

INDEX TO VOLUME XXIX—1915.

NOTE:—Regular features, to be found in almost every issue, are not indexed. These include Editorial, Chronicle, With the New Philatelist, Answers to Correspondents, News Gleanings, and Society Reports. Items of special importance, however, which occur under these headings, have been indexed by their subject matter. References in general are to subjects rather than in the exact form of the titles.

WITH THE TRADE.

When one examines the advertisements of the Economist Stamp Co., published during the past few months, one is impressed by the varied and timely character of their offerings. New issues and especially the products of the war have been given prominence, and United States, both old and new, have been offered at attractive prices. The firm, however, does not limit its activities to 20th century stamps, but handles the stamps of the 19th century, carrying a general stock of all countries. The Bulletin issued by the Economist Co. appears monthly and contains special features of interest. Want lists are sought for by the firm with the assurance of proper attention.

The House of Linn is indeed a headquarters for Mexican war stamps. The firm advertises 200 different varieties of these issues and the list is a very attractive one.

Mr. Sledd follows up his advertisement of January 13 with another one giving a tangible illustration of what he is able to do in the issues of Canada and Newfoundland. The two advertisements dovetail very nicely.

The last few numbers of the WEEKLY have seen advertising from an old patron, C. E. Hussman. The advertisement in this number illustrates the wide range of his offerings. He has something for everybody. The managing editor first solicited advertising from Mr. Hussman when manager of the Boston Stamp Book and from that day to this his dealings have never been other than "on the square".

Elsewhere in this paper will be found an interesting advertisement calling attention to a stamp business now offered for sale. We are situated where we can assure any interested parties that the proposition is worth investigating. It is so seldom that a stamp business is offered for sale that we make this additional mention of the same.

The Co-operative Exchange of Brooklyn, N. Y., has issued a very attractive wholesale price list dated 1917. The list is well written and well printed, pricing a wide variety of stamps, both single and sets by 10 and 100, and every dealer should possess a copy.

The advertisement of the J. M. Bartels Co. is a very timely one and will doubtless attract considerable attention. The stamps of the Danish West Indies, or as we shall henceforth call them, the United States West Indies, will now take on added interest to every U. S. collector. The stamps offered are only a sample of what the Bartels stock can offer.

This is an issue of large advertisements and the several quarter pages stand out in bold relief. We would that we might mention in detail the offerings of these dealers, but they speak for themselves and will be better read than the reading matter. In the list not covered by these notes may be found:—
Sterling Stamp Co. J. W. Scott Co.
W. S. Aldrich C. G. Dietrich

There are numerous advertisers using goodly space whose announcements are deserving of attention. St. Nicholas in its publicity campaign is using space every week and building up a splendid stamp dealer patronage for this excellent juvenile publication. W. F. Fratcher in his several advertisements uses considerably more than a quarter page. The Independent Stamp Co., Zema Co., United Stamp Co. and Oriental Stamp Co. use goodly space, while S. B. Hopkins and Mrs. L. W. Kellogg are well represented. We cannot do full justice to the demand for publicity that this special number makes upon us.

We leave for final mention what is really the most prominent feature of the entire number—the page advertisement of the W. C. Phillips Co., Glastonbury, Conn. Mr. Phillips is working under a 4,000 line contract and his announcements are always timely and attractive. The advertisement in this number is no exception. He has that confidence in the WEEKLY that he intends to use a couple more pages before the stamp season is over.

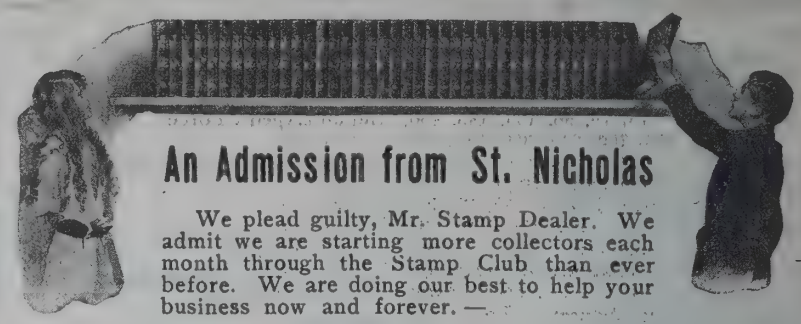
U. S. New Issue Service
Several weeks since we advertised in MEKEEL'S—"P. O. Run of the New Issues of U. S. at 10% over face." We have had two orders for these stamps. Apparently collectors do not care to buy this stuff at any price, but prefer to pay a fair price for perfect specimens and if this is your case why not join our

U. S. New Issue Service
Only perfect stamps sent.
No deposit required.
Everything on approval and may be returned if not satisfactory.
No flat price but a fair % over face.
We have all the unwatermarked from 1c to 20c and $1.00, except the 9c. The 1c and 2c Coils and 1c and 2c Imperforate in plain, line, arrow and center blocks.
The Watermarked stamps with 10 or 12 perforations are fast becoming obsolete. We have a great variety of shades in singles and blocks which we will send on approval.



CURRENT REVENUES
The Proprietary are obsolete and a new issue of Wines and Cordials is in preparation. Send a want list.

CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND
We have always carried these interesting stamps in stock and have many want lists on file. Why not send yours? We can furnish many blocks of Newfoundland, including Nos. 98 to 101. This set of stamps has increased in price every year since they were issued, and are very scarce in blocks.

An Admission from St. Nicholas
We plead guilty, Mr. Stamp Dealer. We admit we are starting more collectors each month through the Stamp Club than ever before. We are doing our best to help your business now and forever. —
But —
That doesn't mean you dealers in rarer stamps should overlook the thousands of advanced collectors we have started since 1873 when Mr. J. W. Scott placed his advertisement in the first issue of St. Nicholas, and who still take the magazine in order to read Sam R. Simmons Stamp notes.
When you advertise, don't overlook the collectors who want the rarer stamps, the finer specimens, and have the money to pay for them.

"LIBERTY AND ORDER."

By J. B. CHILDS.

"Liberty and Order" is the inscription on the coat of arms of Colombia.

Acevedo-Gomez (Acknowledgement of Receipt, 1910) was among the most prominent of those to play a part in the revolution of 1810, when the colony attempted to break away from the mother country, Spain. The common people of Bogota hesitated to take part, fearing lest the authorities should severely punish them; but the eloquence of Acevedo-Gomez, an orator of no mean repute, overcame their objections. This Tribune of the People was also one of the fathers of the Declaration of Independence. A few years later when the Spanish troops swept over the country with a tremendous burst of energy, he fled to the mountains, where he died.

Narino (1910, 2c), another of those who took part in this revolution of 1810, had long been interested in such a movement, and had served several sentences in Spanish prisons for secretly printing and circulating revolutionary pamphlets. As the leader of the party in favor of a strong central government and as the commander of a body of troops, he was for a time able to wield a considerable influence, the more so having become the chief of the provisional government. But when the Spaniards returned, his troops were scattered and he was captured. After serving another term of prison sentence in Spain he returned to Colombia, and declared himself a candidate for the office of vice-president. His defeat in the contest was due to his having been out of touch with political affairs for some years. Narino, worn out with the struggle for liberty, retired from public life to spend his few remaining days in peace.

Camilo Torres (1910, ½c), who had succeeded Narino as the chief of the provisional government, was respected as a man of high principles. The Memorial of Grievances, one of the first open manifestations of the revolutionary spirit, was drawn up by him; and as this document later served as the basis for the Declaration of Independence, he may rightly be termed the Father of the Declaration. Torres was one of the first to recognize Bolivar's great ability as a liberator. But what was more substantial than mere recognition, he allowed troops to be enlisted to help Bolivar with the revolution in Venezuela. Several years later Torres had to flee before the advance of the Spanish. Unfortunately he was captured, and, having been the chief of the provisional government, was shot.

While this movement had been progressing in Colombia, Simon Bolivar (issues of Bolivar State 1879 to 1891), the head of a prominent family in Caracas, had been busily engaged in trying to drive the Spaniards from Venezuela. He made a trip over into Colombia, where the revolution apparently was more strongly entrenched, to obtain aid.

Colonel Girardot (Antioquia, 1902, 10c-50c) was one of the Colombian officers who came to his aid with troops. Before Bolivar's much larger force the Spaniards now fled. In the most important of the battles, Girardot was leading the charge which brought the victory when he was killed. Bolivar honored this brave Colombian officer by having his heart taken to the City of Caracas to be buried with all the ceremony of a military funeral. The memory of Girardot is still preserved in the name of the town on the Magdalena River, the terminus of a railway from Bogota.

Another center of the revolution in Colombia had been at Carthagena, where Rodriguez Torices (Bolivar, 1903, 5p) had been proclaimed the dictator. This energetic man did a great deal to forward the cause of the revolution. It was due to his efforts that privateers set out to sea to prey on the Spanish commerce wherever they could and to spread the fame of the flag of the new nation. Like Torres at Bogota he saw in Simon Bolivar the future liberator. But when the Spaniards returned to the attack with renewed energy, Bolivar was forced to seek refuge in the West Indies; and not even the most strenuous efforts of the young dictator could save the City of Carthagena from capture.

On the twenty-fourth of February, 1816, the Spanish general had the principal men of the city executed by the firing squad (as shown on the Registration Stamp of 1910). In addition to Rodri-

U. S. ALBUM

WE take great pleasure in announcing the forthcoming edition of a new album for U. S. Stamps. This album has no squares and is arranged on a principle that is absolutely without precedent and is the result of Mr. Power's experience in mounting U. S. collections for the last 20 years. The leaves will be movable on the peg attachment of the "Oriel" album. There will be two grades of paper and two grades of binders and each section can be bought separately.

We hope to be able to send out a sample leaf about March — if you want this sample leaf send your name to us on a post card with your address and say "Leaf". All Gibbons "Circular" subscribers need not answer this ad as they will automatically receive one. [60&62 guez Torices there was Garcia de Toledo (Bolivar, 1903, 10p), a wealthy lawyer who had been closely connected with the government of the city since the beginning of the revolution.

Another movement towards the freedom of the country from Spain had begun in the state of Antioquia, to the south of Carthagena. Juan del Corral (Antioquia, 1903-04, 10p), an energetic young patriot, became the dictator of the State, and declared its independence from Spanish control. With the help of a local man of science he was able to proceed rapidly in the matter of defenses. But he died prematurely, escaping the fate of both Torres and Torices and leaving the movement without a capable leader, so that the Spanish on their southward march from Carthagena had little resistance.

At Bogota the affairs of government were going badly. Fernandez-Madrid (Antioquia, 1903-04, 5p), who was the president, found upon the approach of the Spanish that he could not raise a sufficient number of troops to defend the city. He had never been a soldier, but a statesman and a careful student of law, so that he could hardly be blamed for his lack of knowledge concerning military affairs. From a refuge at Havana, Cuba, he wrote of the Spirit of Liberty without being molested.

General Garcia-Rovira (Antioquia, 1903-04, 2p), his successor, likewise found that he could not withstand the advance of the Spanish. He fled, but was captured and taken to Bogota to be shot.

Another death which marked the Spanish reconquest of Bogota was that of Policarpa Salavarrieta (1910, 1c), a high-spirited young lady in sympathy with the Republican cause. Her lover had been forced into the ranks of the Spanish army; and she planned for his escape, so that he might join the patriot forces. This design was discovered by the authorities. When her lover was arrested, letters were found upon him implicating Policarpa in the plot. She and her lover were shot. Her dying words that her blood would be avenged by the Liberators of her country have often formed the theme of Colombian poetry.

Few people who had in any way been connected with the revolution escaped the wrath of the Spanish; and even such unpromising material for a revolutionist as Caldas (1910, 10c), the mathematician, fell under the ban. He had never contributed to the movement of independence to any marked extent, except when he helped Juan del Corral to defend the State of Antioquia by drawing up plans for arms and fortifications. Just before the Spanish reconquered Bogota, he had returned from a botanical expedition, in which he was very much interested. Caldas did not regret having to die for his country, but the thought of leaving his notes scattered and unarranged worried him, so that he applied to the Spanish commander for a delay of several days, in which to straighten out his papers. The only answer to the petition was the sentence written on the margin of it, "Spain has no need for wise men."

While Liberty was at this low ebb in Colombia, Bolivar was on the Island of Haiti arranging for another expedition. Among the refugees who joined him was Zea (Antioquia, 1903-04, 1p), occasionally called the Franklin of South America. To pay for his freely-expressed Republican sympathies he had spent several years in the dungeons of the Spanish prison at Cadiz. After his release he had escaped to England, where he engaged himself in writing of books on agriculture and pamphlets on revolution. When he returned to South America with Bolivar, he showed little executive ability, always being more interested in agricultural matters. After Colombia had gained its independence, he was sent to Europe as an envoy; and Zea spent his last days in England.

When Bolivar began his campaign in Venezuela, he sent General Santander (1910, 20c) to form the vanguard for his expedition into Colombia. Had it not been for the optimism of Santander, it is doubtful whether many of the troops from the lowlands of Venezuela would have made the trip across the cold plateaus of Colombia. After Bolivar had made his triumphal march into Bogota and had gone southward into Ecuador and into Peru, Santander assumed charge of the government. Being ambitious, he did everything in his power to lessen the influence of Bolivar. After the latter's return he was implicated in a revolution at Bogota; and for his complicity was sentenced to death. Due to the intercession of J. M. del Castillo (Bolivar, 1904, 5c) the sentence was commuted to exile. This latter had been an advocate of peace measures all thru his life, and even during the height of the revolution. Somehow or other he succeeded in escaping the wrath of the Spanish upon the re-conquest of the country. Castillo, never having been an agressive man, died in poverty.

After the disposal of this conspiracy, another uprising broke out in Antioquia under the leadership of General Cordova (Antioquia, issue of 1899), one of the bravest of the republican commanders, who had begun his military career at the age of fifteen. The fame that he had gained on the Peruvian expedition undertaken by Bolivar seemed to have turned his head. Finally, he declared himself Commander-in-Chief of the Army of Liberty. Bolivar sent out a force to suppress the uprising. Cordova barricaded himself in a house, and was killed in the taking of the building.

General Sucre (1886-89, 2c) was probably the most loyal of the commanders under Bolivar. The important part of his career, however, is bound up with the liberation of Peru and Bolivia; of this latter country he was the first president. Eventually, he returned to Colombia to aid Bolivar. While on a government mission into the southern part of Colombia, he was ambushed in a lonely mountain pass by a party of his enemies.

Bolivar, the Liberator of Colombia, resigned the presidency and went to live in a little home at the foot of the Hill of La Popa (1902-03, 20c) at Carthagena. Having lost practically all of his property in his struggles, he was reduced to the point of having to sell a set of silverware he owned to pay his debts. The news of the death of his loyal general at the hands of enemies, hastened his own end (1830).

Colombia had gained its Liberty, and had yet to attain Order.

TWO CORRECTIONS.

By S. B. Hopkins.

In Linn's book on the Sonora issues there are two statements in Chapter One which should be corrected: He says that the inscription, "Ejercito Constitucionalista Transitorio Mexico", means "Constitutional Army of Mexico in Transit." This is not correct. The words "Ejercito Constitucionalista" mean that the stamps were issued by the Constitutionalist Army; the word "Transitorio" means that they are but a temporary and not a permanent issue; and the word "Mexico" indicates their country. The word "Transitorio" does not indicate that the army is moving, or any other function of the Army. This erroneous statement has appeared in the philatelic press several times.

The other incorrect statement is that the "Denver" revenues were not sold for postage. They were sold for postage, without talon and without district overprint, throughout the states of Coahuila and San Luis Potosi, and in some other parts, from sometime in May to the arrival of the regular Denver postage issue in July, 1914, and in some places were sold later than that.

This is not a case of accidental or occasional unauthorized use of a revenue stamp for postal purposes, but a regularly authorized issue; sold at the postoffices as postage stamps, no other postage stamps being available at the time. The states of Coahuila and San Luis Potosi were newly conquered territory for the Constitutionalists, there were no more of the Transitorio stamps at headquarters to send out, the Denver postage stamps had not arrived but the revenues were available and were distributed for the double duty—with talon and name of fiscal district, they were sold at the revenue offices and were revenue stamps, without talon and without surcharge, they were sold at the postoffices and were postage stamps. I have sold hundreds of covers with postage prepaid in these stamps (1, 2, 3, 5 and 10c denominations), mailed at various postoffices all the way from Piedras Negras (on the Rio Grande) to way down south in S. L. P. No list of Mexican postage stamps can be considered complete that does not include this issue.

OF MORE THAN PASSING INTEREST.

Carroll J. Agnew.—Are there any outstanding claims against this party? If so, send particulars to this office. All claims are being settled.

W. E. Coburn.—Quite recently Mr. Coburn had a page advertisement and evidently got swamped with orders. If any subscriber made remitttance and order has not yet been filled, we should like to know it.

Bennett of Buffalo.—This party is evidently trying to make good. We know of one claim that has been settled. Interested parties will please address H. H. A. Fox, Oswego, N. Y., with particulars.

Wormser.—Here is rather a familiar name and it was exploited in the Weekly months ago. The Hussman Co. has a claim against him and dealers should watch out. We will say this for Wormser, he surprised one of our dealer patrons with a check for $100 Christmas morning. This thing might happen again on July 4.

Pierce, Camden, N. J.—Here is a familiar name, as several dealers will recall. We will not go into particulars, but simply report volcanic eruptions.

P. V. Hiordan.—Will all persons who have been defrauded by this party send the particulars to the Sociedad Filatelica Argentina, Calle Perou 19, Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic? Address the secretary and be sure to prepay postage on letters.

The Zema Company POST OFFICE BOX 1014, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.
"The Company with a Conscience."

Originally, the issues of 1899 and 1903 were offered with the Villa overprint, and have been on the market for many months. I have no reason to believe otherwise than that originals of these are good items. Lately, however, many used and unused copies of these stamps have been offered at prices as low as one dollar each and less, while the first original stamps brought from $10 to $20 each." Mr. Linn thinks that he can locate the persons who are offering these stamps.

Uruguay—We now continue Mr. Hugh C. Barr's philatelic story of his South American trip, the current instalment of which comes from Montevideo, Uruguay: "Here in Montevideo, I have seen the wonderful collection of Uruguay of Mr. Jose Valido, which also is complete in every respect and includes many pairs and blocks of the Diligencia and early Montevideo issues, all in wonderful condition. In addition to the singles, this collection includes Uruguay nearly complete in blocks of four. Only a few of the great rarities of the early issues are missing in this condition. The very rare inverted centers, 1908, of which only 25 copies of each value are known are present in blocks of four. I may add that here as well as in Brazil, the early issues are in great demand and fine copies bring top-notch prices. I have tried hard to buy some of the early issues on cover but money will not tempt the owners to part with them." Mr. Barr adds that the catalogue of Yvert & Tellier is the one in general use throughout South America.

Remainders—Our correspondent "on the spot" gives the following interesting details of the disposition of the last of the remainders of the early issues of Uruguay: "Incidentally I have bumped into a bit of interesting information in the fact that the last of the stock of remainders of the early issues of Uruguay was disposed of here only last week. It seems that the reason for the early issues being more common in unused than in used condition is due to the fact that they were ordered from the printers in small quantities as needed, and on all such ocassions a few more sheets were struck off than were called for. At the termination of this contract a number of sheets remained on the printer's hands and when he died many years later, these were found among his effects and divided into two equal parcels among his heirs. One of the parcels was immediately marketed in Europe and it is to this that we are indebted for the unused copies in circulation. The other parcel, however, was held intact, with the exception of the sale or gift of a copy now and then, up to last week, when it was disposed of for something in the neighborhood of $20,000. As the sale was made at nearly catalogue price, those collectors who are fortunate enough to have these stamps in their collections need have no fear of their price dropping to a few cents in the next edition of the catalogue. I am told that the bulk of this lot will remain in Montevideo and in Buenos Aires, while the remainder will be marketed in the U. S., probably coming to final resting-place in the collection of Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack, whose name is a household word both in Brazil and Uruguay, among all advanced collectors in Brazil and Uruguay."

Explanation—The following observations have been received from Mr. John E. Lord, Chicago: "Regarding notes on bi-sected stamps of Nicaragua by Mr. S. Mittler in your issue of January 20th, 1917, I may say that these divided stamps are common on part of cover as they are found used often as seals or stickers on the backs of envelopes, duly postmarked, but with full postage on the face of the cover. So, unless one has a bi-sected stamp of the kind on the cover, it is of doubtful interest. I have two copies of Nicaragua, No. 336, to Canal Zone, via New Orleans, both bi-sected diagonally,—one on each cover; and also two covers, each with two copies of No. 318, and one half of another, making the five cent rate to Chicago. The current set also is being used in the same way; I have a cover with No. 351 bi-sected with a pair of same, making the five cent rate to Chicago."

Confusion—The fact that one finds the stamp of one country bearing the cancellation of another country has no philatelic significance if the issue is a modern one. We believe that the New Orleans postmark, for instance, may be found on the stamps of dozens of different countries as it is there that the mail of southern countries collected by ship, is postmarked under certain conditions. In other words, there are many port of entry postmarks of this country to be found on the stamps of foreign countries and to some degree this remark applies to other countries. For instance, a correspondent writes: "Will any of the stamps of Gt. Britain frank letters in any of the colonies the same as ours in Shanghai, Porto Rico, etc.?" There practically are no British colonies that do not have their own stamps to-day and so the stamps of Great Britain would not be valid to frank letters in the manner indicated. Another question is based on the following: "I have a cover bearing a pair of Scott, No. 156, Great Britain, cancelled Pago Pago, Samoa, etc.," and in this connection, it is to be said that the stamps of Great Britain would be recognized on mail deposited in the post office of a British ship; and the Great Britain stamps would be cancelled when the ship letters were taken ashore at the port of call of the particular country to which the letter was addressed.

Warning—Mr. Thos. C. E. Hunter says: "I wish to send out a warning to collectors and dealers to be careful in buying so-called Kansas City Roulettes as there are offers out of stamps 'rouletted by me and not by Post Office Officials'."

Again we dignify the four leading contestants on our honor roll. Mr. Colman passes into second place with a total of 23. If there are any stamp collectors in the city of Washington who are not acquainted with our publication, they will become so before Mr. Colman gets through with his canvass.

Some dealers are very charry about pushing the WEEKLY. They are very short-sighted. The WEEKLY is in business to make stamp collectors and what counts for the prosperity of the WEEKLY also counts for the general good of the hobby. We thank Mr. Ohlman of N. Y. EDITORIAL.

Bad—From Mr. George W. Linn, Columbus, Ohio, we have received news that will give a jolt to those who thought all was well with the war issues of Mexico. Mr. Linn wants his words to have the widest circulation and we are glad to start the ball in motion. He says: "I have been suspicious for some time in regard to the Villa overprint and other things coming from Mexico. Large numbers of the Mexican stamps are being overprinted with counterfeit Villa G. C. M.; the stamps are both used and unused. I have discovered striking points of difference between the originals and counterfeit impressions.

"CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING."

This week four of our Canadian subscribers have indicated their interest in this leaflet by ordering supplies. The following orders are acknowledged with thanks:—Hector Handon (100); T. G. Sanders (100); J. C. Stockwell (50); C. A. Lett (100); C. W. Kissinger (200) and Owen Bent (100).

President Kissinger of the S. P. A. writes that he has been looking for just such a leaflet and we have no doubt but that the use of the same will work out to the mutual advantage of the society which he represents as well as the WEEKLY. Societies wishing to use the leaflet for publicity purposes should write us.

The leaflets are sold at 50c per 100, one-half of cost price. The leaflet is just the thing to enclose in every letter you write. Send for a supply when you renew your subscription.

Powell's Offer "Makes Good"

$7.95 BUYS the original $10.00 "COMMEMORATIVE" collection of 1,500 all different postage stamps from all parts of the world. Complete sets—High Values—Immense Real Value for the Price asked. Catalog value makes no difference to us, but incidentally we will mention that the total is more than you would expect as there are DOZENS of stamps that cat. from 40c to $3.00 each in the "pink of condition." Fine lot from Iceland, Italy, OLD Liberia*, Hawaii, Servia, Mexico, Turkey, Dominican, China, Soudan, etc., from our immense stock of 30 years accumulation.

ONLY good conditioned postage stamps—NONE torn or damaged—NO revenues, telegraphs, counterfeits, locals, cut cards or envelopes—in fact, no trash—only those postage stamps that the discriminating collector places in his albums.

This packet contains a world-wide representation—many HARD-TO-GET-KINDS—commemoratives, jubilees and rare legitimate postally used surcharges. Nice lot from Europe—old issues that cat. up to 60c each. British, French, Portuguese and Spanish Colonies POSTALLY USED that cat. up to 75c each.

Costly lot of So. & Cent. Am. from the noted Cormack stock, especially large and valuable showings from Argentine, Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Panama, Peru, Uruguay, etc., that cat. up $3.00 each.

No WHOLESALER can duplicate this lot—stamp for stamp—at our price without losing money in so doing. Collectors having even over 10,000 kinds can use this lot to real advantage. Re-sellers will find it a money maker as it contains large numbers that are missing in even the larger collections. It means quick sellers—fine stock—at least 300% profit even at 50% off Scott's prices.

Powell's assemblings, like good men, improve on acquaintance. They are the only packets that really satisfy. Only sold DIRECT at our prices.

EARLY PACIFIC COAST POSTAL RATES.

By Henry B. Phillips.

It may be of interest to your readers to have the official rates of postage for the Pacific Coast in force for the four year period beginning July 1st, 1851.

The different rate for prepaid and unpaid is perhaps not generally known to collectors of United States adhesives and covers. This official notice published in the daily San Francisco papers for July, 1851, by authority of the Postmaster General and over the signature of the San Francisco Postmaster, J. B. Moore, may serve to clear up some questions raised by the various rates found stamped on covers used to or from California and other places.

Previous to July 1st, 1851, the single or half ounce rate to California and Oregon was forty cents. Let the following speak for itself. By virtue of Act of Congress 3rd. March 1851, the following are rates of Postage on and after July 1st, 1851:—

Letter Postage—On any letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight: From any point in California or Oregon to any other point in said State or Territory, three cents prepaid, five cents unpaid; to any point in the Atlantic States, six cents prepaid, ten cents unpaid; Mexican ports on the Pacific, ten cents prepaid; Panama, twenty cents prepaid; Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia and Chili, fifty cents prepaid (this includes the entire postal charge of both countries); Canada, fifteen cents, paid or unpaid at option of writer.

Drop letters, one cent.

Ship letters, ie., letters brought on other vessels than mail steamers, six cents.

For each additional half ounce or fraction, add 100% of above rates.

Then follows a long list of rates on Newspapers, transient Newspapers, Periodicals, Pamphlets, Books, etc., with many varying rates of postage, depending on distance, country and weights.

Books were limited to thirty-two ounces in weight, and subscribers to periodicals by paying postage quarterly in advance were entitled to half the prescribed rates.

It is interesting that though the government created a single six cent rate, it never provided a six cent adhesive stamp, but only a six cent stamped envelope, for use between the Pacific Coast and the Atlantic States; this was the cause of so many covers appearing with two three cent stamps of the 1851 issue, and what is of more interest to collectors, to an occasional bisected 12c stamp, one-half used for a single rate.

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

ASCENSION.—W. J. Gross advises us that the rumored issue for this island is not to be, he states, "I sent a money order to London, explained the purpose, and asked to have it reissued on Ascension, but the money order was returned to me, with the advice that no new issue was contemplated by the Postal Authorities."

BOLIVIA.—A new 10c bi-colored stamp has been shown us by J. M. Bartels, the central design (Legislative Palace) is in blue with the frame in orange.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—The 1s on the green through paper, issued at George Town on May 15, 1916, was the first value supplied the Islands, printed from the new plate 5. This plate consists of two panes of 60 each, side by side, and shows four controls to the printed sheet, two in the upper margin and two in the lower. The sheet of 120 is cut into Post Office sheets of 60 before sending out, the wide margins at the right and left being trimmed down to within one-eighth inch of the marginal line.

A supply of the 2½d sent out at the same time was also printed from plate 5, but the sheets are of two panes of 60, undivided. This new printing of the 2½d is in much darker blue than previous printings and the gum is dull white instead of yellowish as in the past. The watermark also in this new printing does not show up so transparently as formerly.

Law 4 of 1916 being "A Law to impose a Special War Tax on certain Post Letters," was approved by His Excellency the Governor of Jamaica, W. H. Manning, on November 15th, and reads as follows:—

"Be it enacted by the Justices and Vestry of the Cayman Islands in Vestry Assembled as follows:—

"1.—This Law may be cited as the Cayman Islands Post Office (War Tax) Law, 1916.

"2.—This Law shall come into operation on a day to be appointed by the Commissioner by Public Notice.

"3.—From and after the commencement of this Law there shall be paid to the Treasurer for the use of the Government of this Dependency as a Special War Tax, the sum of One Half Penny on every post letter addressed to the United Kingdom or any of His Majesty's Colonies or Dominions beyond the Cayman Islands, in addition to the amount for the time being payable under any Law, Rule, Convention or Order.

"4.—The War Tax imposed by this Law shall be paid by adhesive postage stamps of a value equal to the amount of postage chargeable thereon under this Law, and the provisions of the Post Office Law, 1900 (Law 9 of 1900) shall be available for the collection and recovery of the said Tax.

"5.—This Law shall continue in force for the period of one year from its commencement.

"Passed in Vestry this 20th day of September, 1916.

Signed, C. E. MELLISH,
Acting Commissioner."

All the unbroken sheets of the 2½d George on hand, both in the Commissioner's Office and the Post Office at George Town, were sent to the Government Printing Office at Kingston, Jamaica, to be surcharged "WAR STAMP 1½d". This surcharging was done and the stamps returned to George Town.

Then a new difficulty developed. In the meantime, orders for these stamps had been accumulating, and the surcharged stock was not sufficient to last over the first day of sale.

Few denominations are stocked at George Town in excess of 24,000, and above 2½d this stock is much smaller. Large stocks are not desirable on account of climatic conditions affecting the gum.

The surcharged stock of War Stamps was under 1200, and the Acting Commissioner, therefore, decided to withhold the issue, awaiting receipt of another lot of 2½d which had been ordered from London. This consignment arrived in Jamaica in December, but due to irregular communications, the stamps did not reach George Town until January 2nd.

These stamps were sent back to Jamaica by the next schooner sailing, to be surcharged and upon return to George Town, will be placed in issue. This will probably be sometime in February.—HARRY E. HUBER.

GREECE.—The writer has seen a copy of the 5 drachma 1912 for use in Turkey, with double surcharge.

We are advised by Otto Frank through a clipping which appeared in the New York Staat-Zeitung that the Venezuelos provisional government has issued a set of revolutionary postage stamps upon which is the portrait of Alexander the Great.

From Alfred Smith's Monthly Circular comes further information indicating the issue of a post card value 5 lepta. We quote as follows:—

We have to thank a Salonica correspondent for a specimen of the first "Venizelist" postal issue. It is a postcard of 5 lepta and the stamp in the right upper angle shows a short-skirted Greek soldier running forward with a rifle slung over his shoulder, and blowing a bugle as he advances; in the left upper angle are the arms of Greece. The inscriptions are in Greek throughout, the heading signifying, "Military Postal Service. Post Card." The address-side is divided, and on the left half in addition to a space for the sender's name, etc., is a notice to the effect that "on this card, relatives of soldiers may communicate with them with enquiries about their health or domestic affairs, in plain Greek language free from conventionalisms and ambiguity." The impression is lithographed and bears the imprint of Aspiotis Bros., Corfu. The card is franked for transmission abroad by the addition of an ordinary Greek adhesive stamp of 5 lepta.

HAYTI.—Robert A. Wilson reports obtaining a copy of the 1c surcharged 7c in frame as chronicled in whole number 1359.

Of the Gl O. Z. type of 1914, A. W. Dunning reports having the following in pairs, one stamp with surcharge and one without. On issue of 1904, 1c, 2c, 5c, 50c. On issue of 1906, 15c and 3c slate.

15 paras greenish blue.
25 paras blue.
50 paras violet.

MOZAMBIQUE.—We note from Stamp Collector's Fortnightly that "The Portuguese Colony of Mozambique has issued two War stamps of distinctive designs. Each stamp is of large size and oblong in shape; and the designs shew allegorical figures on the lower value, War and Peace, with a man in bonds, and in the other War and a woman (typifying the Red Cross?) tending a child.

The 1c is inscribed "REPUBLICA PORTUGUESE—TAXA de GUERRA—correio mocambique" with value in centre; and one of the figures holds a scroll inscribed "9 marco de 1916". The 5c has "1910" after the title of the mother country, it is "TELEGRAPHO" as well as "CORREIO", has "PE LA PATRIA" with the 9th March date at the foot; and the value is in each upper corner."

MEXICAN HORRORS.

The news comes to us that there will be another book on the subject of the Constitutionalist issues of Mexico that will emanate from no other source than that of the postal department of Mexico, personified by the urbane and unctuous Hinojosa, postmaster-general, himself. That reminds us that from all reports the correspondence addressed to Cosme Hinojosa by stamp dealers in this country is fearfully and wonderfully made. In fact, the Revista Filatelica de Mexico of Mexico City reproduces some letters that will make their writers sit up and take notice. However, this monthly is a sort of mouth-piece of the postmaster-general, we take it, and would certainly not be reluctant to make out the best possible case for the gentleman in question.

CARLTON RUSSELL, 38 Wellesley Park, Dorchester, Mass., Treas.; A. M. WRIGHT, Supt. of Auctions; S. G. BIXBY, 570 Rutherford Ave., Charlestown, Mass., Supt. of Sales and Bourse.

BOSTON, MASS., Jan. 16, 1917.

To the Officers and Membres of the Boston Philatelic Society,

Gentlemen:—

With this meeting I complete my second year as President and turn over the duties of my office to another, whom I hope and believe will be able to leave the Society at the close of his term in better condition than it is today.

In looking back over my terms, I can see several things which I would do differently, were they to come up now, but which I thought at the time I was doing for the best.

The principal event of interest to our Society was the celebration of our 25th Anniversary by a dinner, and a very interesting meeting in February and its continuation by the Entertainment of the American Philatelic Society in August.

The dinner, which was held at The Hayward, was attended by 26 members and 1 visitor, including 4 of our Charter Members and 4 Presidents or Past Presidents of the American Philatelic Society.

The Convention in August was one of the largest and most successful in the history of the Society and had it not been for the threatened railroad strike, would doubtless have placed a mark hard to beat in the future.

The record of the week's business and pleasures has been published in our official organ, so I will not repeat it here, and will only congratulate you that, owing to your liberal contributions of time and money, we were able to arrange a continuous entertainment and that all of our visitors who expressed themselves stated that it was one of the best Conventions that they had ever attended. In addition to paying all of the bills, your committee was enabled to return a substantial dividend to the contributors.

It has been the custom of some of our Past Presidents to give a history of the philatelic happenings of the year, but with the European War and the Mexican Peace, it would be difficult to give even an outline of the various changes that have occurred, in a report of reasonable length, even were I capable of it. In these days of specializing, doubtless you all know more about the particular stamps you are interested in, than I do, and I should only display my ignorance.

The work of the Stereopticon Committee has been somewhat handicapped by the extra work incident to the Convention, and by the illness and death of our former Secretary, Mr. George L. Toppan, who had in charge the writing of part of a lecture, to be accompanied by lantern slides to illustrate it. This work has since been taken up by another committtee, and I am assured that they have the matter well under way, and that they will be able to complete it at an early date.

I am disappointed in our membership. With all our advantages and the reputation our Society has of being one of the leading societies in this country, together with the liberal inducements for new members, it did seem that we should surely reach the 250 mark during the first year of our second quarter century. Instead of this record, only 12 new members have been added, and the valuable membership prizes have gone by default.

I hope that the coming year every one will try to see if they can not add to our numbers and thus encourage our officers. With a little interest by the individual members, and the number of collectors in the Boston district, we should be able to pass this mark before the close of another year.

In closing, I would again express my appreciation of the hearty co-operation of the Council and the Convention Committee. Numerous meetings have been held during the year, and in every case, when a meeting has been called, more than a quorum has responded, and at most meetings nearly every member has been present.

The Council has worked in harmony and has tried to furnish entertainments that would please and interest the Society, but it seems to me that the members have not done their part as well. The officers must have suggestions from the members in order to know what is wanted and thus keep up the interest.

Wishing my successor and the other officers and members a prosperous year, I respectfully submit this report.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Our review of "A Check List of the Stamps of Hawaii and More," by Charles Foster Richards, and several other publications of less importance has been held for the succeeding issue.

TE HE.

In his bright and breezy way, B. L. T., the most famous of newspaper paragraphers, stuffs an interstice between the blocks of waggery and wisdom in his column in the Chicago Tribune with the information, important, if true:

"There are few topics which we find less fascinating than that of names; yet we vouchsafed a giggle to the information that Frank Clutter of Cedar Rapids is a collector of postage stamps."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Dr. Carroll Chase has just returned to Brooklyn, N. Y., from service in the French hospitals.

—We desire seven copies of No. 6, 1914, to complete volumes and subscribers favoring us with the missing number will in return receive two foreign exchanges. Papers should be mailed in the original folds, as free from wrinkles as possible.

—There are certain parties who take delight in persistently misrepresenting us in our attitude towards big discount display lines. Any advertiser can use 60%, 70% or even larger discounts, providing it be definitely stated just what stamps can be furnished. We object to the use of these display lines indiscriminately.

—Will the subscriber in Washington, D. C., who renewed his subscription enclosing a stamp for receipt send this office his name and street address? The only way we got the city was from the postmark.

—You should use our leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting", in your correspondence. It is excellent for missionary work and presents stamp collecting in its most favorable light. We pay half the cost of production and offer the leaflet at 50c per hundred postpaid. Collector or dealer can use these to advantage.

—Two weeks ago we referred to a Winnipeg dealer in an uncomplimentary manner. The reference was veiled and O. Kendall of the Hobby Club would like us to state that the item in question did not refer to him. We are pleased to do so.

—Greetings are at hand from our old dealer friend, C. F. Rothfuchs, who is wintering at Palm Beach, Fla. He wishes to be remembered to all friends.

—Certain claims against Carroll J. Agnew have been adjusted. Are there any scattering ones that have not as yet been attended to? Address particulars to this office.

—"In re Edw. Evans, whose name you published recently at my request for not returning approvals. In addition to letter previously reported, I now have one from Irvin B. Robinson, 52 Quincy Place N. W., Washington, D. C., stating that Evans has a selection of his valued at $3.84, and that he has written to the man three times about it without results."—E. A. SOUTHWICK.

—The subscription for a shut-in offered two weeks ago has been taken up, and we have now a second subscription offered for a similar use. J. G. Scott of Fresno, Cal., renewing his subscription adds, "Send a copy for the coming year to some deserving shut-in." This kindness upon the part of Mr. Scott will be appreciated.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from R. J. Mears, Lowell J. Ragatz, H. Elmer Crede, Wm. A. Biechele, J. A. Bobbitt and Arthur J. Martin.

—Harold K. Bowen of Fort Dodge, Ia., announces that he will be a candidate for International Secretary of the S. P. A. The political pot is beginning to boil early.

—The WEEKLY is in receipt of a six years' renewal of subscription from D. A. Callahan, Salt Lake City, Utah. We always feel like recognizing such evidence of faith in the future existence of our publication.

—Kent B. Stiles, a New York newspaper man and a subscriber to the WEEKLY, has been referred to as a frequent contributor to the press in a stamp collecting publicity propaganda. His latest avenue of activity is the editorship of the stamp department in the Boys' Life, Mr. Stiles commencing his work with the January number of that publication. Frank L. Coes of Worcester, Mass., formerly edited this department and his work was of a high order, but there is every reason to believe that Mr. Stiles will improve upon the pace that Mr. Coes set. Under the guiding hand of Mr. Stiles it is quite certain that the Boys' Life will be a greater factor than ever before in promoting the interests of stamp collecting.

—The Exchange Stamp Co. of San Francisco, formerly of New York, has inaugurated an exchange service, particulars of which may be obtained upon application. Note advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

—St. Paul, Minn., has a new advertising postal cancellation. It consists of the regular cancellation, including the following inscription in three lines:—"Outdoor Sports Carnival Jan. 27-Feb. 3". We are indebted to Geo. M. Brack for specimens.

—Advertisers will please refrain from quoting catalog prices in connection with Argentine Republic initialed peso values. We regret that recently these stamps were advertised incorrectly. The matter is brought to our attention this week in adlet copy submitted by M. Hillman.

—E. A. Southwick of Portland, Ore., reports R. D. Martin, El Centro, Cal., as paying no attention to letters sent him. Interested parties will please write Mr. Southwick.

—J. Saulnier informs us that the 10 sén of the new Japanese set is becoming scarce, and as high as a dollar is being asked for it in some stamp centers. Stamp Collecting for Jan. 13 just at hand confirms this rumor, stating that only a very limited number of this value was printed.

Prizes are offered to the two subscribers getting the largest number of new subscriptions before April 25, but dealers are debarred from this contest. The prizes offered are:—

First—"Postage Stamps of the United States of America," by N. E. Waterhouse. Published by Frank Godden, London, England.

Second—The new book on "Hawaii", by C. F. Richards.

Nothing less than six months' new subscriptions will be received in connection with the contest, and subscription coupons or the leaflet "The Charm of Stamp Collecting" may well be used. Coupons will be furnished free of charge, while the leaflets will be supplied at one-half of cost price, 50c per hundred.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

By W. WARD, Author of "Postage Stamps of the Levant," Etc.

NTRODUCTION.

The first country in the world to issue adhesive postage stamps, a short history of the cause and origin of prepaid postage would be most opportune.

The then as now great commercial interchange between Britain and America at about the same period of Rowland Hill's great initiation of Postal Reform, was one of the causes of Elihu Burritts' scheme for universal penny postage—only as yet advanced between the English speaking peoples.

Some of the best known references to the early correspondence between England and the then American Colonies are found in the works of Defoe and Tobias Smollet. The fight for postal reform in Britain ranges from William Dockwra (1680) to the advent of Hill (1840). Many attempts were made partly under the Postmaster Generals as well as privately to found a regular system of cheap conveyance of correspondence—but the system wanting to make any one a success was that of Hill's prepayment by means of adhesive labels. Rowland Hill first attempted his scheme by means of stamped wrappers and covers—now known to the collectors as "Mulready" envelopes—from their designer. Few reforms—not excepting railroads, gas-lighting or automobiles ever suffered such a campaign of ridicule as the "Mulready" envelope and the "Penny Black." It is strange in these days to read of prominent persons writing to the press protesting against the insults to the Monarch by "common people spitting on the Queen's Effigy!" But that proved to be the most dangerous criticism that Rowland Hill suffered. To gauge the minds of those days, it is interesting to note that the real "Wait and See" Select Committee of the British House of Commons took, as the Quarterly Review of October, 1839 says, "one of the most inconsiderate jumps in the dark", after two years consideration, and three heavy reports, to try Hill's Postal Reform.

The first postage stamps very nearly became "classed" first, second and third—for rich man, middle man and poor man—for a Mr. Brewin of the Society of Fields argued that a gentleman of $5000 per annum might pay 12c for a letter—but that would represent a third of a poor laborer's daily wage—and the former should surely pay a postal tax in proportion to his income! The argument that seemed to carry most power was that cheap postage would "advance the spread of religion and promote charitable objects"—though one back-biting comment stated that it would in all likelihood spread a counter of "disaffection, irreligion and faction!" And of course the danger of forgery was hinted at.

However, Rowland Hill had consent of Parliament—and before six months passed the adhesive stamp was on as secure a foundation as it is today—despite mailing machines.

Unlike the postal emissions of the United States—until 1880 no regular system of issuing postage stamps in sets of values took place, the values being issued as required without any uniformity. Thus the present day collector finds the early British issues "all over the track"—and if he follows the routine of mounting his British stamps according to the order of the catalogue, I am afraid he will not find the arrangement present "a thing of beauty and joy forever."

The collector of British must first decide whether he will collect the plate numbers to be found on all issues from 1862 to 1881—for if so, then he is strongly advised to mount in a separate volume apart from the standard varieties. If he attempts to mix standard varieties with the series of plate numbers, he will create a labyrinth that will need a philatelic Theseus to unravel. He would better arrange into six sections of (1) Line Engraved; (2) Embossed; (3) Surface printed issues up to 1880; (4) the semi-unified Victorian issues from 1880 to 1901; (5) The Edwardian Issues and (6) the Georgian series—and it is in this order that I shall deal with the Postage Stamps of Great Britain. A subsequent treatise of British Official, Telegraphic and Postage Due Stamps will shortly appear.

Power's U. S. Stamps

This book which so many readers of MEKEEL'S ordered sometime ago has been revised and all matter from 1901 to 1917 rewritten. The prices have also been revised. The new edition is expected about April 1 to assist collectors with our new U. S. album as the two works fit in together.

1. Line Engraved.

In the Fall of 1839, the Lords of the Treasury advertised in the Times, The Scotsman and other important journals that they would be prepared to receive suggestions for dealing with the new postal reform. It is said that of over 2,600 "ideas" received that only fifty dealt with an adhesive prepaid label.

The matter was referred for conference with the Officials of the Royal Academy, and it was decided to follow the example of the coinage by a label difficult to imitate but easy of obliteration.

About this period a Jacob Perkins had invented a process of transferring an engraved die of hardened steel to one of soft steel—which permitted itself to be afterwards hardened without damage to the image. Rowland Hill strongly advocated the new stamps—and the contract was given to the firm of Perkins, Bacon & Co.

Now we arrive at one of the greatest controversies of the philatelic world. Several eminent authorities quote Frederick Heath as the actual engraver of the first die of the first postage stamp. Even the firm of Perkins, Bacon & Co. from their records credit Frederick Heath—due entirely to a signature for payment. From evidence of a parliament committee in 1852 and the authority of Joshua B. Bacon, a prominent member of the firm—the contract was given to and the die engraved by Charles Heath. On 7th April, 1840, Frederick Heath received payment on behalf of his father from Perkins, Bacon & Co., duly signing for same—so it will easily be seen how in later years reference to the origin of the "Penny Black" was credited to the son instead of the father.

Charles Heath used as his model the City of London Coronation Medal designed by the sculptor, W. Wyon, for the head of the Queen, the background being what is now known as engine-turned. The lower corners of the die were left blank—and then 240 impressions were taken on a sheet of the patented softened steel in twenty horizontal rows of twelve designs. Workmen then with steel lettered punches inserted the well known corner letters and so on down to the last line

A–A; A–B; A–C; up to A–T
L–A; L–B; L–C; to L–T.

This was done to minimise forgery—especially in the case of unobliterated portions of stamps being skilfully stuck together to form a whole—where in the later issues of the 1d reds the lettering was also inserted in reverse ratio in the upper corners.

After the insertion of the corner letters a proof was taken in black ink on plain white paper from the yet "softened" plate—and carefully scrutinised for flaws and errors of lettering. When passed the final inscriptions round the plate were engraved—and the steel hardened.

The inscription itself is worthy of note—for on each side of the sheet—one was informed that the stamps were "Price 1d per label. 1sh per row of 12. £1 per sheet. Place the labels above the address and towards the Right Hand Side of the Letter. In wetting the back be careful not to remove the Cement."

This "Cement" was in the main a composition of gum arabic and potato starch, but there is no doubt more than one formula was tried. The catalogues for some reason do not classify the Penny Black on blued paper as a standard variety—but more probably because it was caused by the action of one of the trial "cements"—and quite unlike the cause of the blued paper of the red stamps.

The paper was specially made by the firm of Wise & Company, Rush Mills, Northampton. It was hand made, originally grayish in tone—though time has in most cases seared it yellowish. The weight of the paper had to average 11 lbs. per ream—but owing to the irregularity of weight of hand made paper sheets varied in thickness—some lighter, some heavier, in order to correctly make up the count and weight, but no very thin sheets were ever used. Stamps that appear to be on almost pelure paper are most likely evenly thinned specimens of the thickest paper.

The Post Office for time immemorial had used a special red ink—or as it was then called, paint—for the marking and stamping of mail matter. With that conservativeness of British officialism, they matched their shirt to the button—and the first stamp was black in order to contrast the red obliteration. It was soon found that firstly in the case of badly cancelled stamps, or in cases where the ink on the pad had become dry that such specimens were easily cleaned by a little manipulation. Secondly, many small country offices were not supplied with the official cancelling ink—but made or provided their own under the terms of their agency. Thus in the latter case we find every shade from yellow to pink has been used to obliterate the first stamp—due no doubt to opinions as to the meaning of the color red in different parts of the country—and color-blindness. Experiments proved that good old black printing ink was the best and safest method of cancelling—besides being permanent—so the order was reversed in 1841—the stamp to be red and the cancellation black.

There were in all eleven plates of the penny black registered—but a little doubt exists whether plate 9 was used for the black—though it was used for the red stamps.

A half sheet of plate 9 came on the market some ten years ago—the writer possessing a framed photo processed reproduction of it in black—but of course, the originals were in red.

The two penny blue was made from the original die of the penny black with the substitution of the value label. It is supposed that plate one of the 2p stamp was accidently used without going through the hardening process—for plate 1 specimens are fairly easy to identify by reason of their "flatness" and rather "blotchy" appearance—against plate 2 anyway. There is no doubt that both plates of the 2p were in use together from July 1840, from date to be found on original letters. The watermark of the original black stamps is always the small crown, and fairly common inverted—but the unused large crown variety is really a government imitation made for Prince Consort Albert for his children and relatives in 1864 from a "die II" plate.

It would be difficult to assess the value of both these early stamps, since many thousands exist in the hands of British Collectors in the form of remade plates and sheets. Just previous to the fashion to re-plate, the penny black was almost a drug on the market and the finest specimens could be procured at two cents each. Probably, however, they will never depreciate below from 35c to 50c each. It is worthy of note that the Maltese Cross obliteration was first used in June 1840. A few indistinct double corner letters will be found in the penny black issue, but the only variety is the letter D over the letter I. The so-called "guide" or "hair" lines are really due to scratches on the plate in the former instance and a foreign substance between the ink and the paper in the latter.

The check list of standard varieties therefore stands :—

May 1840.

Handmade grayish paper; watermarked small crown.

1d full black, sharp impression.
1d sombre black.
1d sombre black, smudgy impression.
1d gray black, smudgy impression.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—F. R. Albrecht, Winter Hill, Mass., has copies of the WEEKLY from March, 1909, to December, 1916, in good condition, which he will be willing to donate to anyone who will pay expressage upon the same. Preference will be given to a stamp club or society.

—Some of our subscribers are in so much of a hurry to renew their subscriptions that they forget to convey the necessary information in connection with the renewal. Will the New York subscriber who sent us a check last week signed J. R. Kremer or J. R. Kummer, please communicate with this office. We have a renewal from a subscriber in Washington, D. C., with absolutely no indication as to name and address.

—We have received from Bright & Son under date of January, 1917, a priced catalog of war stamps. It is the second edition of this catalog and its contents are fully indicated by its title. Price, 9c postfree. A third edition is promised in the course of a few months.

—There is a letter at this office for H. W. Flansburgh. Will subscribers please note the fact that our mailing list is so cut up into routes that finding a subscriber's name alphabetically is out of the question.

—You should use our leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting", in your correspondence. It is excellent for missionary work and presents stamp collecting in its most favorable light. We pay half the cost of production and offer the leaflet at 50c per hundred postpaid. Collector or dealer can use these to advantage.

—The many friends of John A. Solomon, the precancel enthusiast, will be interested in knowing that he has recently taken possession of a store at 148 Charles St., Providence, R. I., where he will conduct a men's furnishing business. Correspondents will note change in address.

—"I am in receipt of a letter from Chas. J. Nissen, 2510 Aubert Ave., Chicago, Ill., stating that this party has an approval selection of his valued at $9, and he can get no response from her. In writing to him she used the name 'Mrs. Allan Kryofca'. The evidence is certainly piling up in this case."—E. A. SOUTHWICK.

—We have received from Mrs. Oughtred a clipping from the Montreal Star of Jan. 17, giving the particulars of more stringent regulations in connection with the taxing of attendants upon places of amusement. Mrs. Oughtred submits specimens of 1c and 2c tickets and advises us that there are six in the set. The tax is graduated as follows :— on a 5c admission, 1c; 10c to 34c the tax is 2c; 35c to 75c the tax is 3c; 76c to $1 the tax is 4c; $1.01 to $1.50 the tax is 5c and over $1.50, 10c. The tickets are printed in various colors.

—J. C. Jay, Mount Pleasant, Iowa, would like to hear from parties who have been defrauded by Mrs. M. N. Calfka, Brooklyn, N. Y., and R. W. Wirt, Enid, Okla. Mr. Jay had such good success in rounding up Virgil K. Yowell that we wish to give him all the publicity and support possible in his present undertaking. Calfka has victimized E. A. Southwick, the Apex Stamp Co. and C. A. Ploch. Wirt is indebted to H. Wendt and the Wichita Stamp Co. Write Mr. Jay.

—L. A. Micheloni, M. D., en route to Montevideo by the steamer "Crofton Hall" sends us greetings from St. Lucia. He writes that he will remain in Montevideo a few months and expects to advertise in the WEEKLY while resident there.

—Mrs. A. Calfkea and Mrs. Kafka are undoubtedly one and the same person. Any dealers having complaints will please send same to the Am. Stamp Dealers' Assn., Perry, Ohio.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from B. E. James, Carl W. Heinrici, W. H. Prior, Merton E. Whitten and M. Casper.

A U. S. SERVICE FOR PHILATELISTS.

Frank M. Mason, the Providence dealer, sends us information to the effect that the P. O. Department will soon have accommodations at the Washington post office looking to the supplying of well-centered stamps to collectors and dealers. We are permitted to quote the following extract from a letter to Mr. Mason from the Third Assistant Postmaster General :—

"The Department realizes that considerable revenue is derived from sales of postage stamps for collection purposes, and that these sales are substantially clear gain, as no postal service is performed under the stamps The Department is taking steps to have a supply of well-centered stamps selected and issued to the Washington post office for sale to collectors and dealers."

This action of the Department will be greatly appreciated by all.

"CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING."

There continues to be a good demand for this leaflet, and we are pleased to note the same. During the past week E. E. Hand of the Wendell-Phillips School, Chicago, has ordered a supply to use in connection with his school stamp club. Other orders have been received from the Detroit Stamp Co., and N. Joseph of the Walden Press.

These leaflets are very useful for missionary work. They are sold at 50c per hundred, and enclosed with correspondence will put our hobby in a very favorable light, especially with those who are supercritical regarding hobbies.

EDITORIAL.

Dates—Through the courtesy of Mr. Sumner Gary, Grand Rapids, Michigan, we are enabled to reproduce the following letter from Director Ralph of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, under date of the 22nd instant: "In reply to your letter of the 20th instant requesting list of plates and dates on which certain denominations of postage stamps were first printed on unwatermarked paper, I beg to set forth the information desired, with four exceptions: 9-cent ordinary, Plate Nos. 6915, 6907, 6901, 6905, Dec. 12, 1916. 11-cent ordinary, Plate Nos. 7498, 7499, 7504, 7505, Oct. 30, 1916. 15-cent ordinary, Plate Nos. 6833, 6809, 6819, 6825, Nov. 2, 1916. 20-cent ordinary, Plate Nos. 6920, 6908, 6909, 6926, Nov. 23, 1916. 1-dollar ordinary, Plate No. 5782, December 12, 1916. 1-cent postage due, Plate Nos. 5510, 5534, 5522, Nov. 16, 1916. The 30-cent ordinary, and 3, 5 and 10-cent postage due stamps have not yet been printed on unwatermarked paper. Relative to a change in perforations, I beg to state that such change has not yet been made but it is expected within the next three months to commence perforations that will average 10¾ on the shorter dimension by 13½ on the longer dimension of the stamp." Mr. Gary makes the following comment: "I am afraid that all this complication about perforations, watermarked and unwatermarked papers, revenue issues, coil stamps, etc., is going to react upon our hobby as it will discourage some who endeavor to arrive at completeness. I believe that if the perforation 10¾ by 13½ is adopted it will be dropped like hot cakes for the reason that the finer perforation will be along the sides of the stamps and will tend to make the whole sheets at the Post Office separate much more readily and produce a curling effect, due to the perforations along the top making the paper stiffer than along the sides."

Publicity—We are always grateful for an opportunity to call attention to any unusual volume of publicity for philately in the newspaper press and so it follows that with a spirit of elation we say that a remarkable collection of articles on philatelic subjects has appeared in the newspapers recently. Further, we find that some of the newspapers of prominence are treating the phases of philately editorially, and through all these printed accounts an intelligent appreciation of stamps is shown. For instance, the editorial that referred recently in the WEEKLY to an able article in the Newark Call has brought forth the information from the Scott Stamp & Coin Company that on January 7th the article in question appeared in the following list of newspapers as well as the Newark Call: Hartford Globe, Pittsburg Dispatch, Buffalo Express, St. Paul News, Cincinnati Commercial Tribune and San Francisco Examiner. We commend the agency through which the Sunday editors of these newspapers were able to secure the philatelic publicity in question. In sending an editorial, "Postage Stamps and the War", from the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph of January 23rd, 1917, Mr. H. Elmer Crede says: "It certainly shows the hobby of stamp collecting in a favorable light to those who may have read it." This editorial is noteworthy as being an interesting utterance on the instructive possibilities of the stamp album during the stressful period of the war. We cannot forbear to quote the closing paragraph: "And so it goes. In every corner of the globe the stamp album records the changes in proprietorship due to the war, and the end is not yet. A complete set of all the stamps issued during the war would constitute a pictorial, historical record of no little interest and value for posterity." Mr. C. R. Fulmer of Boonville, N. Y., sends an editorial from the Utica Herald-Despatch which is headed, "Of Philatelic Interest", and it is only fair to say that so well is the editorial prepared that it would loan strength to the pages of many a stamp paper.

Postmarks—From Mr. L. J. Flerlage, Norwood, Ohio, we have received a two cent stamped envelope used for railroad business and canceled with rubber stamp inscription. Mr. Flerlage says: "I am sending a railroad claim paper envelope. In this instance the railroads pay Uncle Sam for the privilege of having train baggagemen handle the railroads' own mail. Note the 'Caution'." "Canceled" and the date are the chief points of the cancellation. Mr. H. M. Norton, St. Paul, Minn., has sent us several impressions of the special postmark: "Out Door Sports Carnival Jan. 27-Feb. 3."

Shift—A correspondent writes: "I have read with interest the account of the early U. S. stamps as edited by Bill Bloss, and I note that he says that there is a slight transfer of the five cent, 1847. Just recently I purchased a cover with the five cent, 1847 issue on it and the stamp shows a distinct double transfer. The cancellation which covers the stamp and part of the envelope reads, blue in circle, 'Philadela, Pa.—Feb. 3—5 cts'. The double transfer may be described: The top and bottom lines of frame show double lines distinctly, without the aid of glass. The left line of frame is partly double. The 'P' of Postage has a white dot in it, while the 't' shows lines in the end of the horizontal part. The shirt of Franklin shows double lines in it. The 'i' of five and the 'e' of cents each shows a line and the 'U' of U. S. has a line in one of the horizontal bars of the U. The 'f's' of office have a line. Both figures 5 have distinct lines in them and the 'H' of the engravers' initials is almost in duplicate, side by side. The double line of frame at top and bottom shows the two lines as distinctly as any two fine adjacent lines of the stamp normally." A distinct shifted transfer in the ten cent of the 1847 issue has been recognized by specialists for many years, and our correspondent presents convincingly a companion piece in the five cent. Heretofore, the double transfer varieties of the five cent have not been advanced by any flare of trumpets, so unimpressive have they been. We have seen a wonderful copy of a distinct and satisfactory shift in the proof of the five cents, and now a similar distinction is claimed for the stamp itself.

Recent—A reader, Mr. Winslow H. Foster, Chicago, says: "I submit enclosed strip of five of the six cent current U. S., which I bought at the Chicago office on January 8th, 1917. The following day I inquired at the same window and found some plate No. 7137, but an examination of them showed no duplicate of this stamp. Is the variation a slip in printing or a shifted transfer?" Mr. Foster's strip of five of the six cent shows what may be called the typical markings, localized rather than embracive of the design in whole of the shifted transfer. Words fail in any description of the minor duplications of print here and there; and it is a kindness not to inflict any attempt at verbal picturing on readers, but merely to tell them to look for a seeming shift on plate No. 7137 of the six cent.

Growl—Now that shifted transfers have had their inning, we shall give the floor to good old Gruff, one of the most confirmed philatelic growlers of the age. Every now and then we receive a blast from him, and then we add fuel to his fury by giving his strongest periods a mollifying tone. He assails us and heaps imprecations on our heads for introducing a softening note when he wants sternest strife. As a peace offering, we give his latest pronunciamento, literally (almost): "Any old-timer with an ounce of sense or sentiment in his veins must find his gorge rising to the choking point when he sees how a gang of clacquers is trying to force shifts, double transfers and such like to the seats of the philatelic mighty. These things are the merest incidents when weighed in the scale of philatelic importance, and it is the acme of absurdity to try to boost them to a prominence undeserved and unjust. Do you not know, even in your simplicity, that schemes are worked for the advantage of a group of mercenaries who play their game as skilfully and remorselessly as big interests are supposed to do in the stock market? Do not loan your columns to the furtherance of any plots to milk the innocent and unsuspecting collector who may be seduced into the purchase of shifts at fancy prices by the wise ones who started the advertising of the varieties. . . ." and so on, but why read farther? In the next paragraph we shall reply briefly to the fulminations of our ungentle reader.

Open—The secret or conspiratory idea does not flourish in philately. In no other pursuit that comes to mind do the followers show such an independence of thought and action. They are not to be driven and they are not easy to lead. If any class of stamps is "touted" successfully, it is because the minds of philatelists were receptive to them. It is true that exploitation in print may stimulate a latent or dormant interest in certain issues, but the seeds are there to sprout. It is known that concerted efforts to boom stamps for selfish purposes have fallen flat in the past, and when stamps are accepted it is for the reason that they strike a responsive chord in the collecting breast. The clique or cabal finds poor pickings in philately, and while there are some who do not hesitate to exploit philately for their own ends, yet the success that attends their procedure is so dubious on the whole that operations of the kind are not to be construed as a menace to philately by any exaggeration of thought.

DURING FEBRUARY

$18.95 BUYS the original $30.00 "UNEXCELLED" collection of 2500 all different postage stamps from all parts of the world. Complete sets—High Values—Immense Real Value for the Price asked. Catalog value makes no difference to us, but incidentally we will mention that the total is more than you would expect as there are DOZENS of stamps that cat. from 40c to $3.00 each in the "pink of condition." Fine lot from Iceland, Italy, OLD Liberia*, Hawaii, Servia, Mexico, Turkey, Dominican, China, Soudan, etc., from our immense stock of 30 years accumulation.

ONLY good conditioned postage stamps —NONE torn or damaged—NO revenues, telegraphs, counterfeits, locals, cut cards or envelopes—in fact, no trash—only those postage stamps that the discriminating collector places in his albums.

This packet contains a world-wide representation—many HARD-TO-GET-KINDS—commemoratives, jubilees and rare legitimate postally used surcharges. Nice lot from Europe—old issues that cat. up to 60c each. British, French, Portuguese and Spanish Colonies POSTALLY USED that cat. up to 75c each.

Costly lot of So. & Cent. Am. from the noted Cermack stock, especially large and valuable showings from Argentine, Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Panama, Peru, Uruguay, etc., that cat. up $3.00 each.

No WHOLESALER can duplicate this lot—stamp for stamp—at our price without losing money in so doing. Collectors having even over 15,000 kinds can use this lot to real advantage. Re-sellers will find it a money maker as it contains large numbers that are missing in even the larger collections. It means quick sellers —fine stock—at least 300% profit even at 50% off Scott's prices.

Powell's assemblings, like good men, improve on acquaintance. They are the only packets that really satisfy. Only sold DIRECT at our prices.

GUARANTEED TO SATISFY OR MONEY BACK.

We offer YOU the UTMOST in QUALITY, REAL VALUE, SERVICE and PROTECTION.

Don't wait—don't put this off—sit right down NOW and send us your order making remittance in any convenient form. Registering 10c extra. Orders filled the day that they are received.

DUTCH NEWS AND NOTES.

By Otto Weismann.

I read the article in the Weekly of 2nd Dec. re Netherlands under the rcign of Queen Wilhelmina and in general agree with its contents, but on one point I feel obliged to make a remark, as the fear some remainders of the Orange-Nassau issue might come on the market is quite unfounded. Our postal authorities keep it a strict rule not to sell any old issues of stamps of the Netherlands and I see no reason why they should depart now from this rule. Moreover, it certainly need not be feared that any 2½ up to 1gld of foresaid issue might be sold for the simple reason that there are no remainders of these, all having been sold out in regular way at the post offices, since some years.

The values 2½, 5 and 10 gulden are still to be had at the P. O. and used for postal purposes. In the case the Postmaster General might consider it necessary to get rid of them, I suppose he rather would have them surcharged.

I do not know for which reason our Royal House is called by American philatelists: NASSAU-ORANGE, whilst its official title being: ORANGE-NASSAU. The founder of the House, the Great Ancestor of our kings: Prince William the Silent, was born a Duke of Nassau and inherited the Princedom of Orange, from his cousin Rene de Chalon. Prince being a higher title than Duke, he was called in Holland "Prins van Orange" or "Orange-Nassau."

In consequence of change in postal rates following Netherlands stamps will be withdrawn as soon as the supply being exhausted: 1½, 17½, 22½, 50 cent and 5 gulden and a new value 30c will be issued.

NEW ZEALAND DOLLAR EXCHANGE.

Dollar exchange has come with New Zealand.

On account of the increasing business between New Zealand and the United States, and the uncertainty of the exchange value of the pound sterling, the New Zealand banks are carrying credits in dollars in American banking institutions. Transactions, instead of being in pounds sterling and drafts being drawn in the old way on London, are now carried on in dollars.

"I expected that this would come in due course," explained Reginald Back, special representative of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand. "I do not think that the war in Europe had much to do with it. Business between New Zealand and the United States has increased so rapidly—was increasing so fast before the war—that the use of the dollar was inevitable."

REFORM OF COINAGE.

Bill for Establishment of Decimal Coinage in Britain.

(This is a very important bit of news. The clipping is from a Montreal paper and is sent in by Mrs. Oughtred. What possibilities are in store for the collector of Gt. Britain and her colonies?—Ed.)

London, Jan. 27.—The executive council of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of Great Britain is about to consider the draft of proposals for the reform of weights, measures and coinage, and if they are approved of they will be submitted to the Chambers throughout the country. If a general approval of the Chambers is given, bills for the carrying out of the proposals will be submitted to Parliament.

A bill providing for the establishment of a decimal coinage probably will receive first attention and the bills for metric weights and measures will not be acted on until the decimal coinage has become familiar. The suggestion is to make the existing florin, which is one-tenth of a pound, the unit and replace the existing farthing, which is 1-96th of a florin, by a cent equal to a hundredth of a florin.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—J. M. Bartels advises us of the following new envelopes:—

Issue 1915.

Denom.	Die.	Size.	Paper.	Wmk.	Knife
2c	C	13	Amber	20	101
2c	A	8	Amber	20	91

Issue 1916.

2c	A	7	White	19	51
2c	A	3	White	20	80
2c	A	3	Buff	20	92

BOLIVIA.—We note from several sources that the currency of this country has been changed from centavos to centimos, making necessary a new issue of stamps. The value of a centimo is estimated to be from one-half to three-fifths of a centavo.

BOSNIA.—Scott's Circular reads, "Changes in the postal tariffs of the Central Powers of Europe have affected the stamps of Bosnia and new issues of postage and postage due stamps are about to appear. Several new values will be added to each series and a number of the old ones discontinued."

CANAL ZONE.—Gerald D. Bliss and Emil J. Rall send us the following information, contained in a newspaper clipping:—

The new Canal Zone postage stamps of the 12, 15 and 24 cent denomination which have just been received by the bureau of posts for the Canal Zone will probably be ready for distribution to the different post offices throughout the Zone the early part of next week (Jan. 22nd). It was the original intention of the postal authorities to begin the issue of these new stamps on February 1st, but owing to the fact that the checking and preparations for issue were completed sooner than was expected, the issue will begin almost immediately.

The stamps are of a very beautiful design and done in three colors. The 12 cent stamp has a picture of the S. S. Panama passing through the Culebra Cut, view taken going north. The medallion is in black, the surcharge, "Canal Zone," in blue and the frame in lavender color. The 15 cent stamp has a picture of the same ship, view taken going south. It is done in black, blue and baby blue. The 24 cent stamp has the picture of the SS Christobal tied up in the Gatun Locks and is done in black, blue and light brown. The stamps are printed by the American Bank Note Company.

Later.—As we go to press specimens of these three beautiful stamps are at hand by courtesy of Mr. Rall.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—From Alfred Smith & Son's Monthly Circular we note the 2½d stamp has been locally surcharged "WAR STAMP 1½d." This represents a war tax of ½d on all letters addressed to the British Dominions.

War Adhesive.

1½d (on 2½d) ultramarine.

GRENADA.—"A new Red Cross label has been issued by the local Society in this Colony. It is similar to that issued two years ago, but has, around the cross, the four years '1914-1915-1916-1917', and is inscribed at foot, 'ONE FARTHING'. The impression is typographed in red, and roughly perforated as before, but not gummed. In a vertical pair which Mr. T. Palmer has shown us, the lower label has the year '1917' omitted; we wonder whether this omission is intentional."—Stamp Collecting.

JAMAICA.—An interesting error crept into the January printing of War Stamps. One stamp to a sheet shows the overprint as WAR TAMP—the "S" omitted. While it is probable that all three values show this error, only the 1½d and 3d have been reported so far. The printing was very small and was on sale but a few days when the error was discovered by the General Post Office, and all sheets recalled for correction. Instead of abstracting this one stamp, and reissuing the sheets minus this one stamp, the missing "S" was supplied by handstamping with a loose letter "S", and the sheets then re-issued. Naturally all sheets do not have the added "S" in correct alignment, and in some cases it is several type spaces away from the TAMP. Local overprintings will soon be a thing of the past, as supplies of all three values have been ordered overprinted in London.—HARRY E. HUBER.

PORTUGUESE INDIA.—Stamp Collecting reports the current 8 tanga, mauve, surcharged "6 reis." A "very limited edition."

OUR DEALER BOOSTING.

Edgewood Stamp Co., Milford, Conn.
W. P. Colman, Washington, D. C.
Royal Stamp Co., West Phila., Pa.
H. J. Schmidt, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The four leading boosters remain in the same relative position as last week. The work done by the Edgewood Stamp Co., W. P. Colman, the Royal Stamp Co. and H. J. Schmidt entitles them to our continued thanks, and we take pleasure in prefacing this article with their names in bold type. Mr. Holloway of the Edgewood Stamp Co. visiting Boston last week, called at the WEEKLY office and the Managing Editor was very pleased to renew his acquaintance with him. A cordial invitation was extended to visit the Milford plant, and this will possibly be accepted when in April a business trip to New York City will be in order.

We are not at all slow in recognizing the work that has been done for us by other dealers, and the long list published below indicates that we have many enthusiastic friends who are on the lookout for new subscribers. The standing on Saturday, Feb. 3, was as follows:—

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

LYNN PHILATELIC SOCIETY'S SECOND EXHIBITION AND BAZAAR.

Inspired by the success of their first exhibition, the Lynn Philatelic Society is planning to hold its second exhibition on March 23rd and 24th, 1917. In November of 1915 several of the members of the Lynn Philatelic Society and the General Electric Stamp and Coin Club conceived the idea that Lynn, Massachusetts, should have a stamp exhibition, and accordingly plans were formulated for one. At first the Committee planned to have all of the exhibits confined to collectors in the city, but so many out-of-town collectors were interested that the restrictions were soon removed and promises of exhibits began to pour in from all over the country. A prospectus was prepared after a room in the Public Library had been secured, and the dates set for February 18th and 19th, 1916. Over 100 exhibits were received, and the room was crowded to the utmost with over $100,000 worth of stamps, the grand prize cup being awarded to Mr. John A. Klemann for his exhibit of seven volumes of Confederate States stamps. The committee felt rewarded when it was known that not one stamp was lost during the two days while over 3,000 people viewed the exhibits.

Early in the fall of 1916 the Lynn Philatelic Society began to plan for another Exhibition and Bazaar. After looking around, the gymnasium of the Lynn Classical High School was secured and the dates set for March 23rd and 24th, afternoon and evening. The scheme of competition for this year is as follows:

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

(1) All exhibits entered for competition must be Bona Fide property of the Exhibitor. Joint collections must be shown in joint names, but no combination of collections or parts of collections, the property of two or more owners, will be admitted for competition.

(2) Each exhibit intended for competition must be entered in the class appropriate to it. Exhibits which the owners may desire to enter "not for competition" will be so marked and shown in their proper class.

(3) Out-of-town exhibits must be forwarded and returned at the expense of the owner. All exhibits will be returned as soon after the close of the Exhibition as possible, in the manner directed by their owners.

(4) Notice of the nature and extent of intended exhibits should be sent to the Chairman at the earliest possible date, but must be in his hands by March 15th. Exhibitors are requested to send brief descriptions of the important items in their exhibits. Descriptions arriving after March 15 cannot be entered in the catalog.

(5) All decisions made by the judges will be final. No exhibit by any judge may be entered for competition.

(6) The Committee will take utmost care of each exhibit, but in no case will they be responsible if an exhibit or part of it is lost. In no case will the hall be left alone. Exhibitors desiring to insure exhibits should communicate at once with the Chairman.

(7) Only one exhibit may be entered in each class, but all classes may be entered if so desired.

(8) All exhibits must be addressed to Mr. E. W. Bridge, c/o National City Bank, Lynn, Mass., and marked "Deliver between the hours of 8 and 3 only."

For further information regarding the Exhibition, interested parties should communicate with E. W. Bridge, 34 Ashland St., W. Lynn, Mass., or W. C. Emory, 266 South Common St., Lynn, Mass.

1000 copies of any philatelic publication or price list will be distributed for $1.00. Only 1000 will be accepted per publisher. Reserve a space for your publication with C. R. Meech, 115 Laighton St., Lynn, Mass.

A few booths will be available for dealers. No charge will be made for them, but they must be reserved in advance from E. L. Clark, 25 N. Franklin St., Lynn, Mass.

On Saturday evening, March 24th, an Auction Sale of stamps will be held, with Wm. L. Aldrich as Auctioneer. The sale will be under the direction of M. L. Johnson, 51 Arlington St., and S. L. Jewett, 26 Harwood St., Lynn, Mass.

The Committee is made up as follows: E. L. Clark, General Chairman; E. W. Bridge, General Secretary; G. H. Brown, C. R. Meech, W. C. Emory, M. L. Johnson and S. L. Jewett.

DR. EVANS' "CANAL ZONE."

Second—The new book on "Hawaii", by C. F. Richards.

Nothing less than six months' new subscriptions will be received in connection with the contest, and subscription coupons or the leaflet "The Charm of Stamp Collecting" may well be used. Coupons will be furnished free of charge, while the leaflets will be supplied at one-half of cost price, 50c per hundred.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

AMOY.—An important port in the province of Fu-kien, China, situated on two islands at the mouth of the Lung-kiang (Dragon river). It is in almost daily communication with Hong Kong by steamer and a bi-weekly service exists between it and Foochow. It has a present population of about 100,000. It has an extensive foreign trade, a large proportion of which is with the United States. European trade with Amoy dates from early in the 16th century, the East India Company having a station there at various times between 1661 and 1730. By the treaty of Nanking (1842) the port was opened to foreign trade. A branch of the Shanghai Municipal Post was established here in 1890 and in 1894 the Local Post was taken over by the Amoy Chamber of Commerce and arrangements were made to issue special stamps. These were first placed on sale on June 8th, 1895, and continued in use for some years. According to Mr. Mencarina the stamps were manufactured by Messrs. Charles Schleicher & Schull, of Duren, Rhenish-Prussia, Germany.

AMTLICHER VERKEHR.—An inscription shown upon the official stamps of Wurtemberg signifying "official communication."

ANATOΛIKH POMYΛIA. — (Anotolike Roumelia) An inscription shown on the 1881-4 stamps of Eastern Roumelia—the Greek rendering of the name of the province.

ANCACHS.—One of the departments of the republic of Peru situated on the Pacific slope and having an area of 16,562 square miles and a population of about half a million. In 1884 provisional 1c, 5c and 10c stamps were issued for use here, these being formed by overprinting some of the ordinary stamps with the word "Franca" or distinctive control stamps.

ANCHOR.—A watermarked device in the paper used for some of the stamps of Great Britain and the Cape of Good Hope. There are three main varieties known as "unfouled", "fouled", and "cabled". In the first of these the anchor is quite plain, while in the others it is shown entwined with a length of cable.

ANDORRA.—A small republic situated in the mountain fastnesses of the Pyrenees between France and Spain. It is one of the oldest commonwealths in Europe, having preserved its independence for more than eleven centuries. At the present time it is nominally under the suzerainty of France and Spain. Although it has a well organized postal and telegraph service it has not issued stamps for the simple reason that it has no use for them. Within the borders of the little state letters are carried absolutely free while those sent to the outside world are franked with French or Spanish stamps.

ANGELI, HEINRICH VON.—A Hungarian painter who was born at Osdenburg in 1840. In 1862 he settled in Vienna and devoted himself almost exclusively to portrait painting. He visited Great Britain and Germany and had the honour of painting the portraits of the royalties of both countries. His portrait of Queen Victoria was reproduced on the 2r, 3r, and 5r stamps of India, the 3pies stamp of the same country, and also the first stamps for Southern Nigeria.

ANGOLA.—The general name applied to the whole of the vast Portuguese territory between the Congo State on the northeast, the Barotse kingdom of British Central Africa on the east, and German Southwest Africa on the south. It has an area of 484,000 square miles and a coast line which stretches for more than a thousand miles. Angola is considered an integral part of the motherland and sends two deputies to the Portuguese Parliament. It issued its first postage stamps in 1870.

ANGRA.—A fortified port and capital of the Azores Islands. Its full name is Angra do Heroismo and it has a population of about 12,000. In 1892 in common with Horta and Ponta Delgada it was granted the privilege of issuing its own postage stamps which were in use concurrently with the general issue for the whole of the Azores. Since 1906 these special stamps have ceased to be used.

ANILINE.—A term occasionally met with in descriptions of stamp colors, more especially in connection with mauve and carmine shades. These colors are as a rule very brilliant and as they are particularly soluble in water they are an excellent safeguard against fraudulent cleaning of stamps. It is probable that the majority of these so-called aniline shades are not derived direct from true aniline which is itself not very soluble in water. More probably they belong to the same class as aniline dyes—compounds obtained by the oxidation of certain other compounds. True aniline is an aromatic base occurring in coal-tar and similar products of the distillation of nitrogenous bodies. It was first obtained in this manner from indigo, but is now produced almost exclusively from the benzine of coal-tar. Aniline is an oily liquid, colorless when pure, but which turns brown if kept for any length of time. It is poisonous; is slightly soluble in water, but more so in benzine or alcohol.

ANIVERSARIO DE LA INDEPENDENCIA.—A surcharge applied to the 2c Honduras stamps of 1911 on the 19th of September of that year to mark the ninetieth anniversary of the Independence of the republic.

ANJOUAN, SULTANAT D'.—One of the islands of the Comoro group belonging to France, and situated halfway between Madagascar and the east coast of Africa. It has had its own stamps since November, 1892.

A NEW
UNITED STATES LOOSE LEAF ALBUM
AN ALBUM SECOND TO NONE.
This Album is the only practical and feasible Loose Leaf Book on the market today.
We have put this Album up in three sections so a collector is able to purchase such branches as he desires at a comparatively low cost. It is 9 inches long and 7½ inches wide, very handy; there is but one set of stamps to a page artistically laid out. Spaces have been provided for imperforate and part perforate pairs and the beauty of all; it is right up to the minute. What is more we will add new leaves each year with spaces for the latest stamps and if you are an owner of one of our Albums, latest sheets will be promptly sent you when issued.
After you have transferred your stamps into this Album, you cannot help realizing the great advantage in a practical up-to-date Album.

U. S. POSTAGE STAMPS ISSUE OF 1851-60.

By BILL BLOSS.

This issue of stamps has probably been better studied by the specialist than any other. It offers a wonderfully attractive field for research, as some of the stamps have been obtainable until recently in quantities large enough to permit of study. Not a great many years ago almost every dealer had a good stock of the 3c value and a fairly large quantity of the 1c and 10c. Of course, the specialists have gradually absorbed these stocks until the desirable items remaining are now not numerous.

There are many different reasons for the attention that has been given these stamps. They are old, being the first long set to be issued by our government and there is a zest in collecting these "classic" stamps. The collector who makes a find in these stamps studies them closely, as a rule. Naturally, this attention brings out other details that would pass unobserved under ordinary circumstances. The engraving on this issue is superior and the average collector likes a handsome stamp.

Of the minor varieties plate varieties are the most popular. Varieties of paper are hard to distinguish sometimes, but plate varieties can usually be determined with the naked eye. This issue is particularly fruitful in this respect, as many changes were made in the plates in the term of years they were in use. Some of these changes are caused by the wearing of time, others by alterations made necessary because of perforating. The fact that certain of these values can be plated adds to their popularity.

Each value has been studied carefully, and monographs have appeared, so the collector who wishes to go deeply into this issue can do so without much effort in securing literature. Dr. Carroll Chase some years ago issued a very exhaustive booklet on his work of plating the 3c value, and much otherwise has been discovered and written.

However, there are a number of very distinct varieties that are of interest to both general collector and specialist, and which prove very difficult to distinguish to collectors who must depend on the limited descriptions in the catalogues. Too often we are misled into thinking that we have the rarities when we have only the common types.

An act of Congress, dated March 3rd, 1851, changed the postal rates materially and made necessary the issuance of a number of new values. Accordingly, it was decided to issue an entirely new series, and a contract was immediately placed with the engraving firm of Toppan, Carpenter, Casilear & Co. of Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Cincinnati. This firm was one of the foremost bank note engravers of its time.

The 1847 issue was continued in use until June 30, 1851. On July 1st, three values of the new series were placed on sale, the 1c, 3c, and 12c.

The One Cent Value, 1851.

This value bears the portrait of Benjamin Franklin, in profile, facing to the right. The inscription "U. S. Postage" appears in a label curving upwards at the top of the stamp, in white capital letters. The value "one cent" appears in a similar label at the bottom, curving downwards.

The color—blue—varies considerably. Certain of the type varieties contain more shades than others. Wove paper was used throughout this issue. This paper differs considerably both in weave and thickness. Some of the early impressions are found on a paper bearing the faint bluish tinge of the previous issue. The general texture of the paper is hard, white. The gum used is thick brown or yellowish, and often stains the paper.

There are four principal types of the 1c stamp, both perforated and imperforate. These cause a great deal of confusion to the collector who is unable to distinguish them readily. Two of these types in each of the issues are quite common, while two are rare. The average collector likes to believe that he has the rare varieties, hence the difficulties. Careful study of the illustrations will show the differences of these types very readily.

Let us consider these four types as they are listed in the catalog.

These types differ in the ornaments and lines of the labels at the top and bottom of the stamps. Type I shows the ornaments and lines complete, as they appear on the die and on the first impressions made from the plates. In Type I, the scrolls below the outer line of the lower label are shown complete, with the ends turned up, forming little balls. The outer line of the label is continuous.

TYPE I.

In Type II, the ends of these scrolls are missing, or appear to be broken and worn, giving the scrolls an incomplete appearance, since they do not turn under. This variety is caused by the cutting away of the ornaments on the transfer roll.

TYPE II.

In Type III, the ornaments are broken as in Type II, while the outer lines of the label are cut away in the center, giving the effect of a "broken circle".

TYPE III.

Type IV also shows the broken ornaments of Type II, but the outer line of the circle has been re-cut. In the original type (II) the line is quite light, in uniformity to the other lines of the ornaments, while in Type IV the re-cut line is much heavier, and in most cases the re-cutting ends abruptly where the lines join, giving an uneven appearance. Types II and IV are very often confused, but the heavy line of the re-cut type can be readily distinguished after a little practice.

TYPE IV.

Types I and II are caused on the transfer rolls, while Types III and IV are strictly plate varieties. In the imperforate issue, Types I and III are very scarce, particularly in unused mint condition, while Types II and IV are the common varieties and are about equal in number. In the perforated issues, Type I is, of course, the scarcest, while Type II is not uncommon, though slightly scarcer than in the imperforate issues. Type III is the variety generally seen, Type IV is nearly as rare as Type I in the perforated stamps. The small margin for perforating between these stamps very often results in the cutting away of the botttom portion of the stamp, making the types indistinguishable.

Pen cancellations are frequently seen on the 1c value, and are responsible for many of the cleaned copies offered as unused. Gum should be a necessity on these unused stamps to prove their condition beyond doubt. Of course, the vast majority of the bona fide unused copies exist without gum owing to the many hands they have passed through (and the many album pages they have been glued on in the olden days).

Another popular means of defrauding the unsuspecting collector is by trimming perforated copies to make imperforates. A genuine imperforate can only be proven as such beyond all doubt when in a pair or strip or block. Copies with poor margins may have been trimmed, though none of these stamps have very large margins, as they were very closely placed on the plate.

The stamps of this issue are particularly fruitful in cancellations, and offer a great field for research, both from a historical and philatelic viewpoint. The town, month, day and year dates are very useful in determining the date of issue of the different varieties, and many of these are quite rare. The "Transportation" cancellations are also of interest, as they tell of the way in which mail was handled. Among these cancellations are the railroad, giving the name or initials of the line, and other data; the river packet or steam-boat; the express; and the many obliterations used, such as "Way", "Steam", Steam Ship". Carrier and "Supplementary Mail" cancellations also tell their story of the postal service. Paid cancellations in variations are not infrequently found. Colored cancellations can be secured in many tints. Some of these are much rarer than others, green being among the rarest.

The Government reprints will be considered in a later article, covering these issues.

By ADOLPH JENISTA.

I have read with interest J. M. Bartels' article on the 1916 2c perf. 10x11 in your Jan. 27 issue and think it no more than right to give you what little information I have regarding the 1915 2c carmine perf. 12x10.

I have had a superb copy of this stamp in my collection since about Jan. 1915, and wrote to several specialists in regard to it and received no other information than that this stamp may be an error or an experiment.

On March 26, I wrote to Mr. Ralph of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the following is from his letter, dated March 29, 1915:—

"No doubt you refer, in speaking of compound perforations on the stamp which you possess, to two kinds of perforations on one stamp.

For your information, I would state that the top and bottom perforations are made on one machine, while the sidewise perforations are made on another.

It was possible therefore, for the stamp to be perforated in the manner to which you call attention, as it was not feasible when the change was made to the coarse perforations, to change all the perforating wheels on all the machines simultaneously."

I have been unable to find out when this stamp was placed on sale, but my copy shows part of a "Washington" postmark.

STAMP AUCTIONS
PHILA. STAMP CO.
21 SOUTH 17TH ST. PHILA.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Saturday, February 10, the Hobby Club of Winnipeg, Can., had a special event to which boys were invited. There was a talk on stamps by A. E. Hearn of the Aberdeen School. Stamps were distributed to the lucky holders of coupons and refreshments were served.

—"I wish to report C. H. Walden of Leominster, Fitchburg and Worcester, Mass., who under date of June 8, 1916, acknowledged that he owed me $20.45. Being unable to secure satisfaction, I placed the account in the hands of a local firm of attorneys, who report that the claim cannot be collected." Other dealers who are similarly situated should place the facts at our disposal.

—In the advertisement of the Colonial Stamp Co. "Scarce B. N. A." published Feb. 3, New Brunswick, No. 2 was priced at $3.50, when it should have been $13.50. We regret the mistake.

—"Enclosed please find twenty-five cents for No. 30. Mr. Mitchell has the following to say—'I have not taken the WEEKLY for about fifteen years, while I am not a new subscriber, I am somewhat a stranger to it now.'

It is indeed a pleasure to send in a subscription of one of the oldtimers."—W. P. COLMAN.

—B. L. Drew & Co. are very pleased with the results of their 290th sale. The total results were $5,267.70 and excluding one lot the average was slightly over 50%.

—There was a self-evident error in a recent advertisement of B. F. Clausen when 50c parcel posts were advertised at 25c per 10 and $1.75 per 100. The value should have been 20c instead of 50c, which makes a substantial difference. The copy was written in pencil, which added to the difficulty of correctly translating it. We regret the error and wish to ask our advertisers in the future to send typewritten copy or at least write the same in ink. One cannot be too careful in writing figures plainly when preparing copy for the printer.

—The following officers have been elected to serve till Jan. 1, 1918, by Buffalo Branch, No. 9 of the S. P. A.: H. E. Klotzbach, president; Leroy C. Brown, vice-president; H. C. Flierl, Sec.-Treas.; G. T. Simpson, sales manager; A. D. Krause, J. J. Staub, W. Watson, Trustees. Stamp collectors in Buffalo or vicinity are cordially invited to attend the meetings, the first and third Fridays in each month, at the Knickerbocker Academy, Main & Ferry Sts., Buffalo, N. Y.

—"The Indiana Stamp Company would like to know the whereabouts of Virgil C. Hanna of Philatelic Brotherhood fame? We have just been advised by the Post Office that he has left Logansport without leaving any forwarding address. We shall be glad to hear of anyone else who has claims against Mr. Hanna."—INDIANA STAMP CO., Saks Bdg., Indplis., Ind.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from C. M. Breder, Jos. L. Weber, T. J. Eppes and Herman W. Boers.

—"As the Naval Militia of which I am a member, has been mobilized, I will have little liberty, if any, to attend to my stamp business, and ask the kind indulgence of my customers."—W. F. FERGUSON.

—There was an error in the Andrew Sledd, Jr., advertisement of Jan. 27. Newfoundland, No. 18, was offered at 25c and No. 20 at 40c. The prices should have been reversed. Mr. Sledd assumes full responsibility for the mistake and filled all the orders that he received for No. 18 at 25c. This certainly was a praise-worthy act upon Mr. Sledd's part.

—The 32nd annual dinner of that sterling organization, the Rhode Island Philatelic Society, will be held at the Narragansett Hotel on Tuesday evening, February 20. In addition to the dinner, officers will be elected and a general good time is expected.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Mr. Charles F. Richards, New York City, who long has been esteemed as a student of the issues of the Hawaiian Islands, has enriched the literature of philately by a book or pamphlet of thirty-eight pages and cover, entitled "A Check List of the Stamps of Hawaii —and More."

While Mr. Richards heretofore has contributed articles and lists of Hawaiian stamps to the philatelic press, the work under notice easily is Mr. Richards' most ambitious effort. The index ranging from Bogus Stamps to Shades bears testimony to the scope of and thoroughness of this book, the edition of which is limited to 400 copies. A fine portrait of the author, who also is the publisher of the work is an appropriate frontispiece. The postage stamps, revenue stamps, stamped envelopes, Wells, Fargo & Company franks, die and plate proofs, counterfeits and stamp literature all are described; and so, the monograph becomes an indispensible one to the one whose inclination is to delve under the surface of these fascinating issues. In passing, it is to be said with some show of reason that the time is about here for a "recrudescence of interest" in the issues of our colony.

The sensible treatment of the stamps removes the perplexities that obscure the earlier issues in the minds of many average collectors and permits of an understanding that will have its tendency to popularize the stamps of Hawaii. In this connection, it is but fair to commend the standard catalogue for its liberal explanations in regard to the reprints, reissues, etc., but Mr. Richards' check list greatly amplifies the subject and gives fullest information on all points. The author's formula is to list the stamps with date of use; their shades; the types and varieties; places of printing and when the statistics are available, the number of stamps printed. The notes are copious and of instructive interest. Beginning with the famous Missionaries, the story is told through the issue of the republic and data such as dissertations on paper, "shades or fades," historic incidents in connection with the issue and disposal of certain stamps, interspersed throughout give a sense of continuity to the treatise. The descriptions of the revenue stamps, proofs, counterfeits, literature, etc., make the work valuable for reference purposes.

In considering a book of the kind, it is futile and unfair to quote from its pages as fragmentary allusions do not do justice to the unbroken excellence of all the text. Suffice it to say that the reasons for the Maltese cross cancellation on some of the high values; the existence of the stock of 18 dull rose without gum; the remainders of the official set, etc., etc., are set forth at some length.

We know that Mr. Richards has gained the gratitude of those who appreciate the fact that lean returns attend the publication of a philatelic work and we feel that Mr. Richards' contribution is a labor of love, but nevertheless we hope that there will be some material response on the part of the philatelic public in acknowledgment of Mr. Richards' desire to act a helpful part.

A Check List of the Stamps of Hawaii —and More by Charles Foster Richards. Published by C. F. Richards, Box 77, Grand Central P. O., New York City. Price, Two Dollars.

Prizes are offered to the two subscribers getting the largest number of new subscriptions before April 25, but dealers are debarred from this contest. The prizes offered are:—

First—"Postage Stamps of the United States of America," by N. E. Waterhouse. Published by Frank Godden, London, England.

Second—The new book on "Hawaii", by C. F. Richards.

Nothing less than six months' new subscriptions will be received in connection with the contest, and subscription coupons or the leaflet "The Charm of Stamp Collecting" may well be used. Coupons will be furnished free of charge, while the leaflets will be supplied at one-half of cost price, 50c per hundred.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

New—In mail just received from Panama, we find the eight cent, lilac and black, surcharged with a large "R" and "5 cts." in red. The eight cent is found only rarely on mail latterly and it is probable that the stock on hand has been surcharged for registration purposes. In the same mail, the small five centavos red, San Martin set, Argentine, is seen.

Uncommon—Mr. W. T. Fenton, Conewango Valley, N. Y., writes as follows: "I notice that Mr. Thorn Smith wishes to discuss unsolicited approvals. My experience of over forty years collecting has been that the most valuable stamps (for the least money) that I ever bought came to me unsolicited. A man in my town sent me five two cent, black, Jackson and a three cent, green, 1870, all unused, for the exorbitant sum of twenty-five cents. An unused ninety cent, Navy, cost me ten cents and a three cent playing card, twenty-five cents. Once, two envelopes, each having a two cent, black, Jackson, with half of another to make up the three cent rate, were sent me for a dollar and a half. I welcome all approvals and it is no great tax on a man's pocketbook to pay return postage. I should advise Mr. Smith to send the approvals back; he probably would not get any more from the same source." Mr. Fenton's experiences certainly are unusual and are interesting as an exception to the rule. We have heard collectors of good judgment say they did not object to unsolicited sheets, but they did not pretend to defend the practice on a business basis. The collector objects to unsolicited approval sheets on the following counts: First,—the stamps which are sent with no understanding of the collector's needs are not likely to be of the kind wanted. Secondly,—the stamps may come at inopportune times, when there is danger of their being mislaid or stolen. Thirdly,—if postage for return is not enclosed, a stickler for principle objects to paying for postage on stamps that were not wanted in the first place; and consequently, serious misunderstandings may result. Fourthly,—the looseness of the methods of the sender is such that the business man becomes antagonistic to the idea. The unsolicited approval sheet must be a menace, else it would not have brought down the condemnation of stamp organizations and philatelic writers for the past twenty years or more. It carries possibilities of danger which the careful man recognizes and he is not willing to take on himself an added burden, when he would have everything pleasant in his stamp life.

Deccased—We are indebted to Mr. H. E. Deats, Flemington, New Jersey, for the following biographical details of Levi A. Judkins, whose death has just been reported. Mr. Judkins died at Atlantic City last month, where he had been in charge of the weather station for a number of years past. We recollect that Mr. Judkins was in the signal service branch of the army, but later was transferred to the United States weather bureau, under the jurisdiction of the war department. Mr. Judkins, who had been a sufferer from rheumatism for many years, leaves a wife and a daughter. Originally, the home of Mr. Judkins was at Claremont, New Hampshire, as those who remember him as a member of the American Philatelic Society, recall. Mr. Judkins was one of the older collectors and while he has not been active in a collecting sense for some time past, yet he did his part well in helping to build a generation or more ago, a firm and ample base for philately.

Olden—A copy of the North-American's Almanack for 1776 having come into our possession, we glean from it that "The Flying Machine, kept by John Merereau, at the New-Blazing Star Ferry, near New-York, sets off (during the Summer season) from Powles-Hook for Philadelphia, every Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. From the first of November to the first of May, it performs the journey only twice a week and sets out on Mondays and Thursdays. The waggons in Philadelphia set out from the house of Mr. Joseph Vandegrift the same morning. As the stages set off early in the morning from Powles-Hook, passengers would do well to cross the Ferry the evening before. The price for each passenger is 20 s. Proc. and goods as usual."

Special—We have seen a censored envelope from Great Britain, which bore in addition to the usual penny red stamp, the current two shillings, six pence, or half a crown over which is inscribed, "Special Censor". It has been explained to us that if it is desired to expedite the handling of a letter in order that it make a certain boat, the payment of a half-crown extra, recorded by a stamp of that denomination, ensures special attention from the censor. Otherwise, if the letter was to await its turn in the ordinary course of treatment of mail, there would be a delay of days we assume. The envelope bears the marking, Late Fee, in large capitals. It happens that the half-crown stamp on the letter under notice, is not cancelled.

Shrewd—Counterfeits of the Confederate ten cent blue, 1861, and rose, 1862, neatly "planted" on the envelopes are found occasionally and in this connection, the holder of one of these vain delusions, tells a story that should be passed along. He says: "I bought that cover twenty years ago (May, 1898) from a street faker who was at a G. A. R. reunion at my old home, Columbus, Indiana. He had something of a stock of the blue and the rose ten cent; and as I remember, all of the envelopes were addressed to members of the same family. Inside each envelope was a piece of Confederate currency." It is something to know that the sprightly street faker, whose wits are sharpened to a superlative degree, does not hesitate to invoke artfully the aid of philately in his peregrinations. We cannot conceive of a better setting than that furnished by a G. A. R. reunion on Decoration Day in a small town, for displaying the seductions of a rare Confederate stamp on the envelope ("a priceless and historic memorial of that great fratricidal struggle") enclosing a genuine Confederate bill, all for the price of thirty-five cents. There is a tradition that an actor, who starred as Legree in a humble Tom company, made a killing once in Chicago by filling up collectors there with Confederate locals on covers that he "had chanced to pick up in his southern tour,"—as if a mime would have a chance with Uncle Tom's Cabin in the south.

Economy—A go-about reader writes: "I have just found the old-fashioned collector, who thus far, has successfully coped with the high cost of collecting. When I remonstrated with him for using gummed labels, etc., for hinges, saying that hinges cost fifteen cents a thousand, he said that he was saving this amount by not buying them. I am afraid that you are disappointed in the point of the story,—but wait, it has been concealed up to now. It is in Detroit, the city that welters in wealth, that this collector has his habitat!"

SALE OF HOLDEN STOCK.

The Colonial Stamp Co. of Chicago has purchased the C. H. Holden stock recently advertised for sale in the WEEKLY. We do not know the range of contents, but are informed that its catalog value was well over the ten thousand dollar mark. We congratulate the Colonial Stamp Co. upon its enterprise in securing this stock.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:—

We just took over a "Wagon-load-full", strong in South and Central Americans—every single one postally used and we offer a Great Big Dollars worth all different for 100 cents.

This is a Crazy way to sell packets—but then our packets are so different we dislike to follow precedents.

We almost forgot to say that we will Refund for Any Reason.

Do you imagine many of the "flock" will "fall" for this packet?

Sure—Because Every Zema Packet Sells Another and We've sold a lot of them.

Sincerely,

The Zema Company

U. S. REVENUE STAMPS.

DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

CHAPTER X.—Design.

The revenues of the first issue are so well known that detailed descriptions of them are hardly necessary. Instead it may be briefly stated that the stamps of each denomination are of the same design and usually of the same color but differ from each other chiefly in the labels that express their titles. The stamps for Schedule "B" bear the names of the documents or classes of documents upon which they were intended to be used; those for Schedule "C" were labeled "Playing Cards" for the use indicated, or "Proprietary" for use on patent medicines, perfumery, photographs, and all other articles taxed under Schedule C. All have the value expressed in words and in numerals and on each stamp an abbreviation for "United States Internal Revenue" appears, sometimes as "U. S. Inter. Revenue" and again as "United States Inter. Revenue," but in no case is the word "Internal" given in full.

There are eleven groups of designs, the general design of each group being the same. The groups and the sizes of the stamps in millimeters are as follows:—

No. 1—One cent stamps,	19x23mm.
No. 2—Two cent stamps,	19x23mm.
No. 3—3c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 10c, 15c, 20c,	19½x26mm.
No. 4—25c, 30c, 40c stamps,	20x48mm.
No. 5—50c, 60c, 70c stamps,	20x54½mm.
No. 6—$1.00 stamps,	23x48½mm.
No. 7—$1.30, $1.50, $1.60, $1.90,	23x48½mm.
No. 8—$2, $2.50, $3, $3.50,	29½x49½mm.
No. 9—$5 and $10 stamps,	23x61mm.
No. 10—$15, $20, $25, $50 stamps,	30x61mm.
No. 11—The $200 stamp,	64x35mm.

Groups number one to five have the small portrait of Washington, groups six, seven and nine have the medium portrait, and groups eight, ten and eleven have the large portrait. All the stamps are upright rectangles except the $200, which is a horizontal rectangle, slightly larger than the stamps of group number ten. The standard size for one cent and two cent private proprietaries was the same as for groups number one and two and the standard size for three cent and higher denominations of private proprietaries was the same as for group number three.

In many instances individual stamps differ in minor particulars from others of the same group or denomination, as in group number eight we find the $2 and $3 stamps have a numeral of value in each corner while the $2.50 and $3.50 stamps have a star in each upper corner with "U" and "S" in the lower corners. Sometimes stars or numerals of value are placed in the labels that contain the titles in order to fill out or "justify" as printers call it. "Lease" being a short word required justification in this manner on each of its values while longer titles such as Inland Exchange and Foreign Exchange were often abbreviated.

None of the dies for these stamps appear to have been engraved entire in the usual manner. Instead, the transfer rolls from which the plates were made seem to have been taken off from what may be termed secondary or complete dies, because the original or primary dies were incomplete. There is excellent ground for believing the secondary dies were made partly by tranfers from the primary dies and partly by direct engraving. In other words the secondary dies were built up to some extent as plates are usually made. In general the procedure was about like this:—Primary dies, each consisting of a portrait or a frame, were engraved. Then a number of transfers to secondary dies were made. For the one dollar stamps there would be eleven secondary dies made by taking eleven impressions from the $1 primary frame die and eleven impressions from the medium size primary portrait die—each secondary die having one impression of the frame and one impression of the portrait. The one dollar secondary dies were then complete except for the titles which were engraved separately and directly on each secondary die. On the $1 stamps the numerals were probably engraved on the primary frame dies while on the 3c to 20c values and on several of the higher values which are alike in design but of different denominations the numerals and words of value were engraved directly on the secondary dies.

CHAPTER XI.—Primary and Secondary Dies.

At least two good reasons for the use of primary and secondary dies rather than having the die for each title and denomination engraved entire are evident. Much greater security against counterfeiting was afforded by the exact duplication of such a large part of many of the stamps. Another reason is the rapidity and ease with which the engraving of about a hundred different stamps was accomplished. There appear to be only three portraits of Washington on the whole series and a dozen or less different frames. Surely it was easier and quicker to build up complete dies by transfers from head and frame primary dies and add the titles and some of the numerals than to engrave nearly a hundred complete dies. Additional evidence showing the existence of primary dies is found in proofs of heads without frames and frames without heads and there is no doubt much valuable time was saved by this seemingly roundabout procedure.

Where the numerals of value were engraved directly on the secondary dies they are apt to differ on different titles of the same denomination and even on the same stamp. On the 3c Playing Cards and 3c Proprietary the numerals terminate in solid colorless balls while on the 3c Foreign Exchange and 3c Telegraph the tops of the numerals are open. As the two latter stamps came under Schedule B and the other two came under Schedule C this difference may have been made intentionally for the purpose of distinguishing between the stamps of the two schedules. No such marked difference, however, is found on any of the other values.

On the 5c Foreign Exchange the numerals are noticeably different from those on the other 5c stamps, particularly with regard to their flags, which are more concave on top and more nearly triangular in shape. The 6c Proprietary die resembles the 5c and 10c Proprietary more closely than it does the 6c Inland Exchange and evidently was not made by changing the title on a transfer from the latter stamp. More likely it was built up as were the other stamps, or else was made by changing the numerals and label of value on a transfer from the 5c or 10c Proprietary. The numerals on the 6c Proprietary are taller and more open than those on the 6c Inland Exchange and on the Proprietary the numeral in the upper right corner slants considerably, whereas the axes of the three other numerals and of all those on the 6c Inland Exchange are approximately vertical.

On the 30c Foreign Exchange the upper figure "3" is larger at the bottom than at the top. The lower "3" and both corresponding numerals on the 30c Inland Exchange are evenly shaped. The colorless labels containing the titles and denominations on all the 25c stamps and on the 30c Foreign Exchange are bordered by a fine continuous line of color which is missing on the 30c and 40c Inland Exchange. The design of the 25c, 30c and 40c stamps closely resembles that of the 12c postage stamp of 1851-57. The revenues are about twice as tall, but the portrait, corner rosettes and lathe-work frames are excellent copies, if not actually identical, with similar parts of the postage stamp. Butler & Carpenter succeeded the engravers who produced the postage series of 1851-57 and it would not be at all surprising if they used some of the postage transfers in making the revenues. Several of the match and medicine stamps also are closely connected with this set of postage stamps.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—J. M. Bartels advises us of the following new envelopes:

Issue 1911.

Denom.	Die.	Size.	Paper.	Wmk.	Knife
2c	A2	7	Amber	17	51
2c	A2	8	White	17	59

Issue 1915.

2c	A	3	White	19	92
2c	A	8	Amber	20	91

"A short time ago I saw a strip of four 12c Wine & Cordial stamps. They were the same color as the other values, rouletted, revenue paper, inscribed series of 1916, and were the size of the $2.00 value. This may be the first denomination of a new series that has been predicted."—FRED. L. KOEPF.

AUSTRIA.—Through courtesy of J. M. Bartels we have seen the new 25c value with three-quarter portrait of Franz Josef, printed in pale blue.

Adhesive.

1916, 25h pale blue.

BENADIR.—The Stamp Collector's Fortnightly states that the following stamps have been surcharged with a new value:

Provisional Adhesives.

"Cent 5" on 50c on 5a orange.
"Cent 20" on 11 on 10a violet.

CANADA.—We have seen a new patriotic postmark used in Hamilton, reading "HELP THE HAMILTON PATRIOTIC FUND" in three lines, submitted by Henry E. Abt.

CANAL ZONE.—Messrs. Gerald D. Bliss, Emil J. Rall and J. M. Bartels have shown us copies of the new 12c, 15c and 24c values, chronicled in our last number.

Adhesives.
(Surcharged in blue.)

12c purple and black.
15c pale blue and black.
24c yellow brown and black.

CAYMAN IDS.—Through a printer's error in the Chronicle of February 3rd, the surcharged stock of War Stamps was given as "under 1200", whereas it should have been "under 200 pounds sterling".—HARRY E. HUBER.

DANISH WEST INDIES.—Rev. L. Meister advises us that he has received the 10b, 15b, 20b, 30b, 40b and 50b all in brighter shades than the 1908 issue. He further states, "I received them through a friend in St. Thomas, who is in the post office, he writes, 'On the 7th inst. the expected Christian X stamps were put in circulation. There was, however, only a very small quantity sent out from Denmark, and these were divided up amongst St. Thomas and St. Croix; St. Thomas having only three sheets of each value to dispose of. The restrictions were that no one could purchase more than two sets. It got known in town that these stamps would be placed on sale on the 7th and the consequence was that on arrival at the office at 8 A. M., I found the place packed with purchasers. In two hours the whole business was sold out and there are many persons who could not get a single stamp'."

ERITREA.—G. D. Repetto has shown us the 15c (type A26) overprinted "Cent. 5", with crosses over the numerals. Overprint is in red-orange.

Adhesive.

5c on 15c slate, surch. in red-orange.

GREECE.—Robert V. Walton reports receipt of the Royalist stamps surcharged crown and cipher as chronicled in the WEEKLY of 27th ultimo.

HONG KONG. (Offices in China.)—We are in receipt of a letter from Theodore Siddall, of Shanghai and the postage is paid with 4c and 6c Hong Kong stamps surcharged with the word CHINA in bold san serif capital letters. The overprint is in black. Mr. Siddall writes:—"I think the surcharge is applied to stamps sold at the various British offices in the treaty ports of China. The stamps used in Hong Kong will no doubt be without surcharge, though I have no definite information at present. The entire set of Hong Kong including the 12c is on sale here surcharged, also 1, 2 and 4c post cards and 2c wrappers. The Hong Kong stamps without surcharge will be valid in China treaty ports for twelve months yet. There is no further news at present, but I expect soon to be able to send you the new Russian stamps surcharged with new value."

NICARAGUA.—"Replying to the question asked by S. Mittler in your issue of Jan. 20th under Nicaragua, I beg to state that I also have the following diagonal halves: Scott's Nos. 321, 323, 324, 336 and in addition to these a diagonal parallelogram consisting of parts of two stamps No. 322. These provisionals from Nicaragua are not as plentiful as those from Honduras. I have over twenty different diagonals from the latter country on original covers."—LOUIS VOSS.

PANAMA.—We have been favored by Emil J. Rall with specimens of the three new stamps already chronicled by us. We refer to the 5 on 8c registration, the 2½c A. R. and the "Un Centesimo" RETARDO on the ½c orange.

ARTMAN OF LOS ANGELES.

W. M. Artman, formerly of Los Angeles, but now of San Francisco, Cal., takes exceptions to our statement in the issue of Jan. 13 in which we declared that there are many outstanding stamp accounts registered against him. He wires:—"I admit I still owe $250 on old stamp accounts but am paying them as rapidly as possible." This will be pleasing news to interested parties.

Will all who have claims against Mr. Artman please give this office full details, and if anyone has been paid money by Mr. Artman during the past twelve months in connection with outstanding accounts, advise us the particulars.

H. J. Schmidt, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Our contest moves on apace, with good work being done by many of our friends. The leaders continue their efforts, but a sure comer is found in Robert E. Jonckheere of Billerica, Mass., who now has nine to his credit and with another week will be promoted to a ranking with the four dealers who are classed above as royal boosters.

Our coupons are a very neat way of placing the merits of the WEEKLY before the average collector. They give a premium to the new subscriber and a cash rebate to the subscription getter. Mr. Dealer, is your name on the list below If not, why not?

DEATH OF WM. N. WASHBURN.

We are in receipt of a clipping from a Greenfield, Mass., newspaper sent in by Mrs. G. V. Bowen and announcing the sad news of the death of William Nelson Washburn, son of the late governor and U. S. Senator William B. Washburn, a lifelong philatelist.

Mr. Washburn was one of the most prominent citizens of Greenfield and had served on bank and corporate boards and in all movements which tended for improved civic conditions. He had the acquaintanceship of many collectors, who knew him as one with a genial and kindly spirit, and his friendship was greatly prized by those who knew him. He was sixty-five years old, and leaves a widow and one daughter.

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

BOSTON, February 12, 1917.

The next regular meeting of the Society will be called to order at 7.45 p. m. on Tuesday, Feb. 20th. The entertainment for the evening will be a talk by Mr. John W. Prevost upon the "Postage Stamps of France." We have all heard Mr. Prevost before and while he distinctly states that this is not a lecture in any sense of the word, we know that any talk by him is bound to be instructive and entertaining. A large attendance at the meeting will be complimentary to the newly elected President, Mr. A. P. Brown.

FREDERIC W. STILES, Sec.

January, 1917.

To the President and Members of the Boston Philatelic Society, Inc.,
Gentlemen:

Another year has passed since your officers have made a formal report as required by the by-laws of the Society.

We have not quite held our own in the matter of membership, having lost 15 members and taken in 12, with one application to be voted on this evening. Two of those who are lost to us have passed away during the year, Mr. Walter I. Frost and Mr. George L. Toppan. Five of them were dropped from membership at the February meeting for non-payment of dues. The others resigned for various reasons.

There have been 11 regular meetings at which the average attendance of members has been 32 and a fraction. The smallest attendance has been 25 and the greatest 40.

The practice of dining informally has been kept up and has proved a decided addition to the pleasure of the meeting nights.

The council has held nine meetings at which the attendance has averaged 7. The President and the Secretary, together with Mr. Polk, have attended every meeting of that body. It has not only transacted all the routine business of the Society, but has also spent many hours during the year discussing ways and means for interesting the members, and has constituted itself a committee on entertainment for the past twelve months. As we look over the various exhibitions given, it would seem that every member must have found something to interest him.

I find in looking over my records that President Carpenter has called to order every regular meeting but one during the past two years and every meeting of the Council, and I know that no matter who may be elected in the future, you will never have as a presiding officer one who has a deeper interest in the Society's welfare than he has shown during his term of office.

The Secretary desires to express his thanks to Mr. J. O. Wright for his kind assistance during the year. On several occasions, at great inconvenience to himself, Mr. Wright has helped me out of difficulties in the printing of postals, notices, etc. No matter how short the time was, he has never failed to accommodate me and has thus shown in a very practical way his interest in the affairs of the Society.

In closing, I hope that you will all do your utmost to get new members into the Club during the coming year, and if you meet any of the members who have stopped coming to the meetings, stir them up. If they tell you they are not interested in the form of entertainment which we are having, find out what they would like to see and I can guarantee that your Council will arrange to get it for them.

FREDERIC W. STILES, Sec.

ILLNESS OF MR. GIBBS.

For a week or two the advertising of F. P. Gibbs, Olean, N. Y., must be discontinued. Mr. Gibbs is at the Parkside Sanitarium, Buffalo, N. Y., where he has gone for treatment. He writes that he is doing well and asks patrons to be patient with him in the matter of attending to correspondence. Due notice of his return to Olean will be made in the WEEKLY.

INDIANAPOLIS COLLECTOR'S CLUB ELECTION.

The election of candidates for the various offices of the Indianapolis Collector's Club for the year 1917 took place at the December 28th, 1916, meeting. Officers elected were—President, C. A. Ploch; Vice-President, C. L. Pond; Secretary-Treasurer, C. R. Sutton; Sales Manager, E. W. Schneider. Changes were made in the personnel of all offices except that of the Sales Manager; Mr. Schneider was re-elected. The Club has more than tripled its membership since its inauguration in September, 1915. The year 1916 ended with the Club having 38 members and 2 applications pending. President Ploch has appointed various committees to serve during 1917, the chairmen of these committees are as follows:—Printing, Julius Braun; Program, C. L. Pond; Entertainment, E. L. Edwards; Auditing, LeGrande Payne, and Publicity, C. V. Hollis.

The members hope to double the present membership by the end of the year. Only Indiana Philatelists are eligible to membership. Collectors or dealers are urged to advise Secretary Sutton, No. 4131 Cornelius Avenue, when they contemplate a visit to Indianapolis.

"CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING."

One of the most encouraging features in connection with our missionary work the past week, was the receipt of an order for 200 more leaflets, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting," from Burt McCann, the Minneapolis dealer. This makes a total of 400 that Mr. McCann has ordered. These leaflets are very useful in correspondence. They dignify stamp collecting and present our hobby in such a light as to command attention. The price is 50c per hundred and you should have a supply on hand so that one can be inserted in every letter you write.

Do something for your hobby!

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

ANNA.—The value in which many of the stamps of India, the native States of India, Zanzibar, British East Africa, Uganda, Somaliland, etc., are expressed. An anna is, usually, the sixteenth part of a rupee and is equal to 2c in United States currency.

ANNAM AND TONQUIN.—Two divisions of French Indo-China lying between China and Siam for which a provisional issue of overprinted stamps was made prior to the appearance of the general issue for Indo-China.

ANNAPOLIS.—The capital of the State of Maryland, situated on Chesapeake Bay, and having a present population of about 9,000. It is philatelically famous from the fact that about 1846 the then Postmaster issued a special 5c envelope to facilitate the prepayment of postage. How many were issued or how long they were in use is not known but the rarity of the envelope may be gauged from the fact that only one specimen exists.

ANOTACION. — (Registered). An inscription shown on certain 5c stamps used in the Republic of Colombia from 1870 until 1881 for the prepayment of the special fee for registration. A large capital "A" is shown on the same stamp.

ANOTADO.—An overprint found on some of the stamps of the 1868 issue of Mexico. The word means "noted" or "registered" and the stamps so overprinted were issued provisionally in 1872. The word does not mean that the stamps were intended for use on registered letters but that they were an obsolete issue temporarily brought into use again.

ANNOBON.—See Elobey, Annobon and Corisco.

ANTANANARIVO.—The capital of the island of Madagascar having a population of over 60,000. A local post, established by the British Vice-Consul and known as the "British Consular Mail", existed here from March, 1884, until 1887.

ANTIGUA.—A British Colony in the West Indies forming one of the Leeward Islands. It is the seat of government for this group and the residence of the Governor-in-Chief is situated at its capital—St. Johns. It has an area of 108 square miles and a population of about 35,000. It was first settled by the English in 1632 and was granted to Lord Willoughby by Charles II. It was at one time a naval and military station of some importance. Its first postage stamps were issued in August, 1862, and in October, 1890, they were superseded by the general issue for the Leeward Islands group. In 1903 special stamps were again issued and these are used concurrently with the ordinary Leeward Islands set.

ANTILLAS PACIFICO.—Two words found upon the map stamps of Panama indicating the Antilles archipelago and the Pacific ocean. The former is above the northern and the latter washes the southern shores of the Isthmus.

ANTIOQUIA.—One of the departments of the republic of Colombia having an area of 22,316 square miles and a population of 470,000. It is a mountainous region and mining is thus the staple industry. Since 1868 this department has had the privilege of issuing its own postage stamps.

ANTIQUE TYPE.—A variety of printer's type sometimes used in surcharging postage stamps in making provisionals. Examples of "lower case" letters may be found upon some of the stamps of Siam from the 1895 issue onwards while antique capitals are shown on some of the Canal Zone stamps. The letters in this type are, generally speaking, broad, with short serifs of the same thickness as the body of the letter.

A. O.—An overprint found upon certain South Australian stamps signifying "Audit Office." It was in use during the period 1868-74, after which date the general "O S" stamps were used in all the departments of this Colony.

AOHNAI.—(Athenai) This word is shown on all the stamps issued in Greece in 1896 and 1906 to commemorate the holding of the Olympic Games. The word is the Greek equivalent for Athens—the capital of the country and the scene of the contests.

A PAYER—TE BETALEN. — The only inscriptions shown upon the Postage Due stamps of Belgium in use since November 1st, 1895. They both mean "to pay", referring to the amount of deficient postage to be paid on the delivery of the letter, the former being the French and the latter the Flemish form.

A PERCEVOIR. — An inscription found upon the Postage due stamps of France and its colonies and the first set issued in Belgium. Translated literally it means "to be paid" or "to be collected" and refers, of course, to the sum to be collected on the delivery of insufficiently stamped letters.

APOTEOSIS DE MIRANDA.—(Apotheosis of Miranda). An inscription found upon a set of Venezuelan stamps issued in 1896 to commemorate the eightieth anniversary of the death of General Miranda—a Spanish-American revolutionist who succeeded in getting Venezuela proclaimed a republic.

APURIMAC.—A department of the republic of Peru having an area of 8,817 square miles. A provisional stamp formed by surcharging one of the 10c stamps of Arequipa with the words "Admon Pral.—Correos del Depto. de—Apurimac—Abancay" is alleged to have been issued here in 1885, and though this is still listed in some catalogues, the leading specialists in the stamps of Peru are inclined to consider it a bogus variety.

A. R.—I. These letters, standing for "Aviso de Recibo", are found upon some of the stamps of Colombia and other South American countries and mean, literally, "Advice of Receipt". These stamps are used in prepayment of a special fee of 5 centavos in return for which the sender of the postal packet receives an official notification that the said packet has been duly delivered and an acknowledgment of its delivery received from the addressee.

II. The letters "A. R." for "Accuser Recéption", meaning "Advice of Receipt", are shown upon the acknowledgment of receipt stamps of Montenegro.

ARABIC CHARACTERS.—I. The characters in which many of the inscriptions on the stamps of Egypt, Sudan, etc., are engraved.

II. A watermark of Arabic characters appears in the stamps issued in the Indian state of Hyderabad in 1905. This watermark is said to signify "Sarkar Asfia Sana 1322", the first three words meaning "Government of Asaf Jah"—the founder of the present ruling dynasty.

ARANGO, J. L.—A printer of Medellin, Colombia, who manufactured some of the later issues for the republic of Colombia and the department of Antioquia.

ARCHER, HENRY.—An Irishman who invented the perforation machine. In 1847, he brought to the notice of the Postmaster-General of Great Britian a machine "whereby the stamps might be separated without the necessity of using knives or scissors". This was a rouletting machine designed to pierce a series of cuts through the paper between the labels. The machine proved impracticable and Archer modified it somewhat. Trials were made with various sheets of stamps from this machine (as well as the former one), but the mechanism was still unsatisfactory. Some of the sheets used for these experiments were sent for sale to country post-offices and the stamps from these are known to specialists as having "Archer roulettes." The stamps rouletted by the first machine show jagged irregular cuts of various length, while those used in the trials with the second machine show straight, clean cuts placed at regular intervals.

Nothing daunted by these failures Archer persevered with his idea and in 1849 produced another machine, which was constructed on the principle of perforating the portions of paper between the stamps with a series of holes, which were punched clean out by hollow steel needles. After repeated experiments and alterations Archer triumphed over his many difficulties and perfected his invention and the machine was purchased by the Government. Stamps perforated by this machine in its experimental stage are known as having "Archer perforations", and to be absolutely identified as such they must be dated before Jan. 28th, 1854, for on this day the machine was first used by the Inland Revenue authorities for the perforation of the regular supplies of stamps.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

By W. WARD, Author of "Postage Stamps of the Levant," Etc.

As mentioned earlier, the advisability of ringing the changes on the inks of the stamps and obliterations, and also to further safe-guard against cleaning—shortly after the penny stamp had been printed in a reddish-brown—a chemically prepared ink was used—the secret of Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., the printers. Apart from its partly fugitive qualities, it had a strange action on the paper—probably more pronounced by the dampness necessary during the printing—that coloured the paper blue. A variety is found called the "ivory head", showing the profile of the Queen's head at the back in white against a blue background—this would probably be due to the dryness of the paper during printing, and the wear of the plate. Both penny and two penny are greatly subject to de-oxidisation—but immersion in a little peroxide of hydrogen and water—half and half—will restore to their original colours. During their long existence—practically forty years—in perforate and imperforate states, it is remarkable how few varieties of shades and colours made their appearance—a contrast to these days of innumerable shades for short-lived issues. Now and again one comes across a really fine rich orange brown in the early imperforate stamps—probably the furthest shade away from the standard colours. The gum of the unused and often still remaining on the used, is the thick heavy yellow "cement" which remained in use until 1855, when it was displaced by a lighter colored adhesive containing a proportion of gelatine. Similar slips of the corner lettering exist, as in the penny blacks—and also a fairly common error of an inverted S. A variety with a sort of heavy frame exists—due probably to the "leaning" during the transfer from the die to the plate.

Check list:

January 1841.

1d orange brown non-fugitive ink, paper quite white or yellowish.
1d orange brn., fugitive color, blue paper.
1d deep orange brown, fugitive color, blue paper.
1d pale red brown, fugitive color, blue paper.
1d red brown, fugitive color, blue paper.

In March, 1841, the two penny value made its appearance with white lines below the word postage and over the words of value—very probably to prevent confusion in artificial light with the penny black—if the reader has ever compared stamps by the light of candles he will appreciate the difficulty that would be experienced in the days of tallow candles. In comparison with the catalogue values of other stamps of the period, this value seems very much under-rated in comparison to its scarcity—especially as is much less in evidence than the penny black.

Check List:

March, 1841.

2d deep full blue, with white lines.
2d violet blue, under "postage."
2d blue, and over value.
2d pale blue, and over value.

Long before any official step was taken to provide easier means of separation of the stamps, individuals had their varied methods of division. One of the most popular was to lay a flat ruler on the sheet and tear the stamps away upwards. Others used "rouletted" or marking wheels. The writer has handled several penny blacks undoubtedly separated by this process,—and which coming from the grave of an attorney's office were no doubt in the same state as the day they did postal duty. There is no doubt, however, that Henry Archer was the first to suggest before a committee of the House of Commons in 1852 the movement to provide a method of separation. Archer had five years previously, however, invented a machine for rouletting, and had permission from the Post Office to use it.

It was found that the knife edges wore quickly and was not altogether the success it first appeared. Archer then turned his attention to severance by a series of holes—evidently suggested by the tracing wheel. In this he met with success and patented his invention in 1850. Many stamps perforated 16 may be found postmarked from London so early as November, 1850, over three years before the stamps were issued perforate. The Committee of 1852 granted Archer $20,000 for his perforating machine.

DANISH WEST INDIES.
We are just advised in re to the last issue that "the lot sent to the Islands was very small and was disposed of in a few days." As we had an order in for them there was no good reason why it should not have been filled but it was not. We thank our friends for the many orders received and regret not being able to fill same. We have in stock Nos. 31 to 39, 43 to 50 and 105, 108, also the 50c due perf. 14x14½. If you need any of these write at once as they will not last long.

H. F. COLMAN, SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Check List:

Private Roulettes, Perforations.

1847-49. Rouletted 10, 12.
1d red brown.
1850-52. Perforated 16.
1d red brown.
2d blue.

Reference might be made to an essay of the penny red brown imperforate printed on the silk-thread, or Dickinson safety paper of the 10 pence and 1 shilling embossed stamps—but which was never an official issue.

The first stamps to be perforated were the Revenue Receipt stamps of 1853, but as these were not authorised for postage until 1881, they cannot be considered postage stamps before the latter date. The plates made from the original die by Charles Heath were only in use a year after the official introduction of perforation, and at the same time the scale of perforation was altered from 16 to 14. It was found that the unused stamps fell apart in stock by the smaller perforation in conjunction with the thick heavy gum of the period.

Check List:

1854. Perforated 16. Watermarked small crown.
1d red brown.
1d pale brown.
2d blue.
2d pale blue.
1855. Perforated 14. Watermarked small crown.
1d red brown.
2d blue.
1855. Watermarked large crown. Perforated 16.
2d blue.
Ditto Perforated 14.
2d blue.

In 1855, a new die was made for the penny value, and the 2 penny die was slightly altered. The engraver was William Humphrys of Perkins, Bacon & Co. The new die shows the nostril curved and the shading round the eye heavier—whereas in the Heath die the nostril was straight and the eye shading very light and delicate. A little study between a large crown perf. 14 and an imperforate penny red will speedily illustrate the difference. The two penny die was also slightly altered to make plate No. 6—inasmuch as the white lines are very much thinner than the preceding plates.

Check List:

1855-58. New dies. Watermarked small crown, Perforated 16.
1d red brown.
Ditto. Perforated 14.
1d red brown.
1d pale brown.
Watermarked large crown. Perforated 16.
1d red brown, white paper.
1d red brown, blued paper.
2d blue, white paper,
Ditto. Perforated 14.
1d orange.
1d red brown.
1d pale brown.
1d rose red.
1d deep rose red.
1d pale rosé red.
2d blue.

THIS WOULD BE SOME AUCTION!

Mrs. Alice F. Halladay Awarded a Judgment Against Worthington.

Decision was handed down by Justice Herbert P. Bissell in the postage stamp case brought by Mrs. Alice F. Halladay of Delaware avenue, against Commodore George H. Worthington of Cleveland in which a $1,000,000 collection of stamps were involved. The decision gives judgment in favor of Mrs. Halladay for $337,500 less $25,000, which had been paid on the principal debt. The judgment also gives Mrs. Halladay first lien on the $1,000,000 stamp collection and directs her to sell the collection at auction to satisfy her debt. Mrs. Halladay has the stamp collection in her possession.

The case involved the transfer of 1500 shares of American Chicle company from Mrs. Halladay to the defendant in order that he might use her stock to negotiate a loan from the Citizens' Savings & Trust company of Cleveland. He gave Mrs. Halladay a promissory note for $337,500 as security for the stock, the papers state. Later Mrs. Halladay got possession of the stamp collection which Commodore Worthington had pledged her to secure the note he had previously given her.

When Commodore Worthington made an assignment of his property to satisfy creditors, action was started by Mrs. Halladay to collect her note. The decision handed down by Justice Bissell now gives Mrs. Halladay the right to sell the big stamp collection at auction, upon notice to the defendant, to satisfy the judgment.—Clipping.

I HAVE PURCHASED

The interest of Mr. Charles Beamish in the Philadelphia Stamp Co. and I am now the sole owner.

Mr. Beamish has made an advantageous business change and has gone to Los Angeles, Calif., much to my regret, but I sincerely hope for his benefit.

I am open to a proposition from a reliable dealer or collector to purchase the half interest just relinquished by Mr. Beamish provided he can give this business his undivided time and attention. As it will take considerable capital to swing the deal only those that mean business will be considered. I do not require the services of a clerk but want an experienced, active, working partner.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

ARCHER, MR.—A member of the firm of Archer and Daly who engraved the dies for the 2c, 10c and 20c stamps of the 1863 issue for the Confederate States, which stamps were printed by his firm at Richmond, Virginia.

ARCHER AND DALY.—A firm of printers and engravers of Richmond, Va., who manufactured the plates and printed the first supplies of stamps of the 1863 issue for the Confederate States.

ARCHER ROULETTES AND PERFORATIONS.—See Henry Archer.

AREQUIPA.—The second largest town in the republic of Peru having a population of over 35,000. The town is of some antiquity for it was founded in 1540 by Francisco Pizarro, the Spanish conqueror of Peru. It stands in the former bed of a lake and has on several occasions suffered severely from earthquakes. From the time of entrance of the Chilians into Lima in January, 1881, until the Unification of the republic on December 2nd, 1885, numerous provisional stamps were issued under the direction of the Government of Arequipa, some being of special designs with or without overprints and others being formed by overprinting the regular Peruvian stamps.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—A large republic on the east coast of South America having a total area of 1,212,000 square miles and a seaboard of considerably more than 2,000 miles. Its population exceeds five millions. The country was discovered in 1517 and settled by the Spaniards in 1535. It remained a dependency of the Spanish Crown until the declaration of independence in 1816. The government is a federal republic, with Buenos Aires as its capital, ruled by a president who is elected for a term of six years. Its first postage stamps were issued on May 1st, 1858.

ARGYROCASTROS.—A town in Albania sometimes known as Ergeri. It has a population of about 9,000 and is philatelically famous from the fact that a special set of stamps was issued here in 1914. These stamps are variously included in the issues of Albania or Epirus in the catalogues.

ARMENWET.—A surcharge found on certain of the stamps of the Netherlands of the 1899-1910 series. These stamps are used for the franking of matter relating to the administration of the Poor Laws.

ARMY FRANK.—These words appear on a label issued in 1898 which purported to be an official stamp for franking the correspondence of the Officers of the United States War Department. It is a fairly close copy of the 10c adhesive of 1869 and the legend "Official Business Only" together with the letters "U. S." gave it quite a bona-fide appearance. It soon transpired, however, that the label was not official, had not received the sanction of the Post Office Department, and had simply been issued as a private speculation.

ARMY OFFICIAL.—I. An overprint found on certain British stamps which were used on all official correspondence emanating from the various departments employed in the administration and control of the British army. They were first issued on September 1st, 1896, and, in common with all other British departmental stamps, they were withdrawn from use on May 12th. 1904.

II. An overprint applied to the 1 mill. stamps of the Sudan in January, 1905, for use on official correspondence relating to army matters.

ARMY SERVICE.—An overprint applied to all values of the set of Sudan stamps current in 1906-08 for use on official corespondence connected with the Army.

ARMY TELEGRAPHS.—A series of stamps used by the Telegraph department of the British army when on active service or during manoeuvres. They are formed by overprinting the words "Army Telegraphs" on the different values of the stamps known as the "unappropriated dies". The ½d postage stamp of 1887 and 1900 is found similarly overprinted.

ARTIGAS.—A surcharge, with new value and date, applied to some of the then current 7c stamps of Uruguay in 1911. They were issued in memory of General Artigas, who declared the Independence of the republic in 1813.

ARVIZKAROSULTAKNAK KULON.—An inscription found on the lower label of a special series of stamps issued in Hungary in November, 1913, the extra 2 filler charged for each being devoted to a fund for the relief of victims of the flood of 1913.

ASEGURA ENTREGA IMMEDIATA AL-LLEGER A LA ADMINISTRACION DE DESTINO.—The inscription shown upon the 1889 special delivery stamps of Cuba. Translated literally, it means: —"Ensures immediate delivery on arrival at the office of destination." A revised edition of the stamp with the third word more correctly spelt as "INMEDIATA" appeared in 1902.

ASPIOTIS.—A firm of printers at Corfu, Greece, who printed the stamps of 1911 for that country from plates made in London.

ASSAB.—A small town in the Italian colony of Eritrea having a population of about 5,000. It is strongly fortified, and is one of the best ports of the colony. In 1880 several values of the then current Italian stamps were recorded overprinted "ASSAB" and new values for use in this town, but in the following year they were conclusively proved it to be entirely bogus.

ASSISTENCIA.—An overprint applied to some of the low value stamps of Portugal and Azores in 1912 and 1913. These stamps are used on certain designated days of the year as an additional postal tax on letters posted on these dates, the surplus receipts, above the actual postage, being devoted to the National Aid Society for Consumptives.

ASUNCION.—Several of the values of the 1886 set of official stamps for the republic of Paraguay have the word "Ascuncion" printed on the back, presumably in honour of the town of that name. Ascuncion is the capital of Paraguay and was founded on August 15th, 1536, on the day of the Assumption of the Virgin. It has a population of about 52,000.

A. T.—An abbreviation for "Army Telegraphs" found overprinted on many of the stamps of the now defunct Orange Free State together with the letters "V.R.I." These stamps were Stamps at A Cent Each!!

50 Varieties Mexico Revolutionary Issues 50c

(Postage 2c extra)

What I do not know about the values of the Mex. Revolutionary issues would fill a great big book.

Why Fellows! I know so little about values that in my offer of 50 Varieties for 50 cents

I am including such stamps as the G. P. de M. on 10-15-50c Denver issue, 60c G. P. de M. on 1c and 2c Denver, five stamps that dealers are very modestly asking 30c to 40c for.

It is only fair to say, though, that all of the 60c, most of the 50c and a very few of the 10c and 15c have one straight edge.

Yet, with the wholesale price of 50 varieties at $7.50 for 10 lots, my offer should be a very attractive one.

SOME BOOKS YOU NEED.

No. 1 Poole's Collectors Guide is a most convenient book of reference. It is valuable for the advanced collector as well as beginner. Note some of the chapter titles: Design, Color, Paper, Gum, Reprints, Remainders, Fakes, Proofs, etc. 54 pages. 134 illustrations. 2d Edition. Price only 25c

No. 2 Poole's Canada just off the press. One of the best of the Poole Handbooks. We predict a great demand for this book, covering as it does in a complete manner a most popular country. It is well printed and handsomely illustrated and well worth the small price we ask for it, 25c

No. 3 The Waterhouse Stamps of the United States, a book that has been accorded enthusiastic words of approval, covering as it does, Postmaster Issues, General Issues, Officials, Unpaids, Periodicals and Carriers. Printed on art paper. It is an artistic book triumph surely. $2.50

No. 4 This is Wiley's study of the 3c Green and shows what can be done with a common stamp. Wiley's work is well done and the printer has covered himself with glory. The book contains the poem by Eugene Field, "Lines to the 3c Green," also one by Karl A. Pember. 12c

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Corrected—A reader makes the following corrections in several of the definitions in the Philatelic Dictionary in the issue of February 10th: The Greek equivalent of Eastern Roumelia is Anatolike Romylia and the birth-place of Heinrich Von Angeli is Oedenburg instead of Osdenburg.

Exclusive—We notice that there has been a rising market on quotations for names of stamp and coin dealers in the United States. The latest offer that we find in a price schedule of trade lists is: "123 stamp and coin dealers, $3.00." The compliment that is extended philately may be said to be found in the contrast afforded, for instance, by the offer of "129 pretzel bakers, $2.00". Thus, philately's refined and recherche influence is vindicated by the higher price; and it is shown that in select circles, pretzels are not to be compared with philately.

Almanacs—Those who concern themselves with the early postal history of this country place no little dependence upon the postal statistics and miscellaneous information that is to be found in the early American almanacs. While isolated references to the post may be found in almanacs published previously to 1800, yet it was only in the earliest part of the preceding century that the advisability was recognized of maintaining a section each year for postal notices. For instance, in the Farmer's Almanac, Boston, for 1815, the postage rates are given: 40 miles, 8c; 90 miles, 10c; 150 miles, 12½c; 300 miles, 17c; 500 miles, 20c and for more than 500 miles, 25c. "No allowance is made for intermediate miles. Every double letter is to pay double the said rates; every triple letter, triple; every packet weighing one ounce, at the rate of four single letters for each ounce. Every ship letter received originally at an office for delivery, 6 cents. Magazines and pamphlets, not over 50 miles, 1 cent per sheet. Over 50 miles and not exceeding 100 do., 1½c. Over 100 do., 2c." At this time, the computation of foreign postage was a complicated question and there were many chances for misunderstanding in construing the rates on letters sent abroad.

Ascension—A subscriber calls attention to an observation that was made in this column several weeks ago, as follows: "There practically are no British colonies that do not have their own stamps to-day and so the stamps of Great Britain would not be valid to frank letters in the manner indicated." Our mentor avers that he could not with the assistance of those more competent than himself find any "real colony" of Great Britain that did not have its special stamps. When our remark was made we had only one colony in mind, the somewhat famous "solitary isle" of Ascension. Several years ago, we saw a list of three or four possibilities in the category of British colonies without their distinctive stamps but the names of others than Ascension Isle have escaped us. Coincidentally, we notice in the advertising columns of a London contemporary, of the stamps of Great Britain on envelopes used at Ascension with censor mark. From an old Whitaker we quote: "Ascension is an isolated island in the south Atlantic, 3,417 miles from Plymouth, 690 from St. Helena and 900 from Cape Palmas on the African coast." The island remained uninhabited until the English took possession of it in 1815. There is a garrison settlement at Georgetown. The island is fortified and is important as a coaling station; it has an area of about 38 square miles and a population of fewer than a thousand souls.

Questionable—Through an inadvertence, a reader who wrote us last May is just now given attention. He says: "Among several hundred revenue stamps two cents U. S. internal revenue, I found one grilled 8 by 15 mms., pen-canceled March 6th, 1869. I can find no reference to such a variety nor can I remember ever having heard of such a thing." We doubt whether the grill was ever used on revenue stamps that got into circulation during the days when all effort was being centered on the prevention of the use of "washed" stamps, postage and revenue. However, we have seen revenue stamps in odd lots that had the similitude of a "grill" and we accounted for their existence on the natural assumption that they had been overlapped in part by a check protector that was used by the firm that uttered the check. Some of the old check protectors were elaborate devices and bit with a fine mesh that approximated the grill "bosses," and we can see how these impressions could be mistaken for some sort of grill that was applied officially. Too, the old metal rules with their fine notched edges, used as paper-cutters in counting house fifty years ago and more have been responsible for "perforated" and "rouletted" stamps in the case of Confederate stamps, it is certain.

Ethics—An esteemed reader calls attention to a phase of philately involving the moral equation that we do not remember having heard discussed before. He speaks of recent coils that in a sense have been repudiated as such by the authorities at Washington. Our correspondent in citing his case says that the "opinion of experts should be balanced with accurate records of the government." It is not to be gainsaid that the imperforate sheets as sold today may be manipulated to conform to the ideas of labor saving that large firms and corporations may institute. The question is of the standing of the stamps in coil, being perforated every second stamp, not by the government but by the purchaser on the score of facilitating business and with no thought of philatelic effect let us say. The problem is whether varieties such as these should be regarded as necessary for the collection, when the government asked for authentification of them says that they were not issued in that shape from Washington. It is our belief that the collector who wishes to be on the side of consistency should adhere to the stamps that are used in the particular form in which they come from Washington. A subdivision could be made for stamps whose Protean proclivities are exercised after they leave the vaults of the Bureau, even though their altered form had no philatelic inspiration. In this way, the buyer could know what to expect for his money.

Aeroplane—A friend in Canada sends the following clipping that was taken from a paper there and we are pleased to notice this enterprising stroke on the part of our postal authorities: "Earl Byers has just made the most remarkable mail contract on record, perhaps. He is to carry mail by airplane twice a week between Nome and a camp 381 miles inland. For this the United States Government will pay him $49,500 a year. He will carry passengers as well as mail. The flight is over a mountainous country with snow in winter twenty or thirty feet deep. On his first trip he carried four passengers and a total weight of 1,000 pounds."

A NEW BRITISH LABEL.

Letters reaching New York from England now bear pasters on their backs which read:

"Don't forget! The safe arrival of this letter is due to the British navy."

A hand points to a closing line:

"Join the Navy League."

The pasters are white, with a heavy navy blue border, and are 3¾ by 1¼ inches in size. In the upper left hand corner is a reproduction in colors of the British man-of-war flag.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—On Tuesday evening, Feb. 27, the Passaic, N. J., Stamp Club will celebrate its third anniversary at 87 Prospect St., Passaic. At this meeting Mr. Van Dyk MacBride will exhibit his specialized collection of U. S. 1869. Louis Mier will exhibit his reconstructed plates of British stamps which he made up some ten years ago and was fortunate enough to re-purchase at a recent auction sale. The occasion will be a rare stamp treat and collectors will be cordially welcome.

—We have been shown by Geo. N. Hargraft a new cancellation now being used with the Toronto post-mark. It reads in four lines: "$25.00 for $21.50—Buy War—Savings—Certificates." The Union Jack is a part of the cancellation. Mr. Hargraft states that the certificates referred to are issued in denominations of $25.00, $50.00 and $100.00 for the price of $21.50, $43.00 and $86.00 respectively, and are re-payable at par in three years thus yielding an interest return of a trifle under 5½%.

—A. C. LeDuc of Danvers, Mass., favors us with some postcards showing colored cancellations. One from South Hampton, N. H., is in blue and the day of the month is written in. A McGrawville, N. Y., is accompanied with the name of the postmaster, quite a common thing in the olden day when postmasters revelled in this bit of publicity.

—Edwin P. Seebohm, the San Francisco dealer has, as announced last week, removed to a large and convenient ground floor office at 656 Market St. It is opposite the Palace Hotel and part of a big steamship office handsomely appointed in every respect.

—In our Jan. 20 list of dates of issue of U. S. stamps the 6c single lined watermark was given as appearing in 1911, "exact date unknown." J. A. Bangs submits a copy of this stamp bearing in the cancellation the date Jan. 10, 1910, but the postoffice where used cannot be deciphered.

—Will H. W. Flansburgh please send his address to this office? We have a letter awaiting him.

—A new stamp paper to be called The Philatelic Record is scheduled to appear from Philadelphia, April 1. It will be a monthly and the publishers promise a fine magazine. The subscription price will be 50c per year.

—The latest stamp society is the Junior American Philatelic Society with H. R. Hendricks, president; J. G. Bassler, secretary and V. W. Rotnem, sales superintendent. It is the aim of the society to reach collectors between 12 and 24 years of age. For full particulars, apply to John G. Bassler, Madison, Wisconsin.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from W. T. Lathrop, H. P. Dunn, H. H. White, J. A. Goldsmith, J. A. Bangs, Lowell J. Ragatz, Elmer E. Smith, Harry E. Klotzbach, J. C. Alderson, J. Doemich, Roscoe B. Martin, C. M. Breder, G. E. Cole, Herman W. Boers and Henry B. Evans.

—At the annual meeting of the Galveston Philatelic Society on January 26, the following were elected to serve as officers for the ensuing year.—T. E. Flick, president, A. Baroncini, vice president; O. H. Haardt, Jr., Sec.-Treas.; G. Marchi and L. Koester, Trustees. The date of meeting has been changed to the 3rd Thursday of each month. All out of town collectors are invited to attend.

—Alfred Nielsen, 272 Union St., Bklyn., N. Y., can get no reply to letters sent J. M. Shaw of Paterson, N. J. and there are others who are similarly situated. Interested parties will please communicate with Mr. Nielsen.

—An example of specialization of the dealer in cut square United States envelopes reaches us in the form of Nesbitt Issues-First Priced Check List of Cut Square United States Envelopes and Wrappers, 1855-1865, including All Types and Paper Varieties, a little work of fourteen pages and cover, issued by J. M. Bartels Co., New York City. We are pleased to find that the cut square envelopes are receiving deserved attention and that the lure of the entire envelope does not wholly detract attention from the cut square, beloved of not a few collectors. Further, the Nesbitt issues of the United States are of paramount interest in many respects.

—We should like to get a copy of the "World's Directory of Dealers and Papers," of which we have sold a large number. If some subscriber would like to exchange his copy for our booklets to the value of 20c we shall be glad to fill the order.

—Ross O'Shaughnessy is authority for the statement that the Irish label illustrated Dec. 16, 1916, as being of recent origin was made in Ireland several years ago "for a joke." Mr. O'Shaughnessy purchased copies of it when in Dublin in 1905. He adds further that the Sinn Fein stamps made during the trouble in Dublin last year appears never to have gotten out into the hands of collectors and the bulk of them was probably destroyed in the fire at the G. P. O.

—Charles W. Gustafson, 9 Linden St., Dorchester, Mass., renewing his subscription for two years, states that he has a file of the WEEKLY from 1897 to date that he will be very willing to give to someone who will pay express charges upon the same. Preference would be given to some philatelic society. Mr. Gustafson says that he parts with them "to make room."

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—"In your editorial on page 52 of Feb. 10 issue, Mr. Sumner Gary quotes from Mr. Ralph's letter that 'it is expected within the next three months to commence perforations that will average 10¾ on the shorter dimensions by 13½ on the longer dimensions of the stamps'. This is nothing new as we have been informed several times that gradually the wheels will be changed to perforate 11, or in other words, the average horizontal rows on the stamp will show 10¾ perforations, while the longer vertical sides will have 13½ holes, but not that number on 20 millimeters. According to philatelic ideas, the gauge will be exactly 11 on all sides."—J. M. BARTELS.

We have been shown by A. A. Leve, a specimen of the 10c Special Delivery "Series 1902" in which the figure 2 appears to be inverted. The figure is not perfect in shape, but gives every indication of being an invert.

"I note that the $2.00 Wine & Cordials stamp on revenue paper did not get listed in the 1917 catalogue nor have I yet seen mention of it in the philatelic press. I bought a copy at the San Francisco Custom House on December 18th last."—FRANK L. APPLEGATE.

J. M. Bartels is the authority for the following envelope information:—"In their letter of Sept. 23rd, 1916, the Post Office Department notified us that there were four working dies of the 2c circular die. These dies were made to fit embossing machines with cylinders of different curvatures. Naturally, the rejected die, known as die C, is not included. This promises to be rare as only a small lot inadvertently escaped destruction. The fourth die now in use which will hereafter be designated as die E, has recently been discovered. It can easily be told from the other dies by the smaller head. A more accurate description is as follows:—

Head much smaller; U N not parallel; D S close; U almost as near small circle below it as die A and C not as wide open as the other dies."

New envelopes:—

Denom.	Die.	Size.	Paper.	Wmk.	Knife
2c	E	5	White	19	87
2c	A	14	White	20	93

H. C. Biggers has shown us a faulty impression of the current 2c envelope on white paper in which the I of UNITED is almost missing and appears as a comma. The A and G of POSTAGE are also partly obliterated.

ARABIA.—Through courtesy of Eugene Klein, we have seen the initial issue of this newly created country. The stamps are ¼pi, ½pi, 1pi (as chronicled on Dec. 2nd) in green, red and blue, respectively. They are finely typographed on white wove paper, rouletted 20, with inscription entirely in Arabic.

1917 Adhesives.

1 pi blue.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—"WAR TAX postage—1st local provisional. We have received official advice that the quantity of the 1 cent violet network issue with overprint "WAR" was 117,000 copies only."—Ewen's Weekly Stamp News.

CAMEROONS.—The Echo of Amiens chronicles the 10c value of the "Corps Expeditionnaire" series, with the "s" of the first word inverted. The variety probably exists on all the other denominations.—Stamp Collecting.

EAST AFRICA.—(Belgian Occupation.)—Le Bulletin Mensuel de Theodore Champion states the quantities of the first printing of the Belgian Congo stamps overprinted for late German East Africa are as follows:—

5c	25,000	40c	20,000
10c	25,000	50c	10,000
15c	25,000	1fr	10,000
25c	25,000	5fcs	5,000

It is believed a second printing has since taken place. From other sources we learn that 15,000 series have been hand stamped with the overprint "RUANDA".—Ewen's Weekly Stamp News.

FRANCE.—From Theodore Champion's Bulletin, we learn that a special series of stamps is to be issued, selling at a premium, the profit obtained to be devoted to the benefit of the orphans of this war. We note from L'Echo de la Timbrologie that the designs and values of the above mentioned stamps will be as follows:—

2c+ 3c Widow.
5c+ 5c Widow.
15c+10c A Plough (work).
25c+15c A Plough
35c+25c Flag.
50c+50c The Belfort Lion.
1 fr+1 fr Group of the Marseillaise.
5 fr+5 fr Group of the Marseillaise.

NO. BORNEO.—The recent issue of three provisional stamps in British North Borneo is attributed to the loss of a consignment of stamps in the torpedoed ss. "Persia". Late in 1915, the Protectorate was running short of the three stamp denominations chiefly used for the Universal Postal Union rates, which in Borneo are the 2c, 4c and 10c. A supply ordered from London should have reached Sandakan before the stocks in hand there were exhausted, but this supply went down with the "Persia" in the Mediterranean. So when all the 2c, 4c and 10c stamps had been used up, the local postal authorities had to convert surplus stocks of the 3c, 6c and 12c of the 1909 issue into 2c, 4c and 10c stamps respectively, by surcharging them. This is not the only issue of provisional stamps necessitated by the submarine warfare: some months ago a consignment of stamps for Italian Somaliland was sunk in the Mediterranean on the ss. "Giava", and the Colony had to convert a quantity of 50 centesimi into 5 centesimi stamps, and 1 lira values into 20 centesimi stamps.—London Telegraph.

PAPUA.—Papua is to have an entirely new series printed in two colours. We have already received the 1d. It is said that the new series will have two additional new values, a 3d and 5d.—Griebert's Notes and Offers.

RUSSIA.—Ewald Eichenthal, of Petrograd, informs us that four new provisional Russian stamps have been issued, consisting of the current 10Kop, surcharged 7Kop, 20Kop, surcharged 14Kop, also the two stamps of the Romanoff series 10 and 20Kop, with similar surcharges. The stamps of Russian China will soon be issued with a surcharge in dollar and cents.—Griebert's Notes and Offers.

VICTORIA.—James Whiteside has shown us a cover with a 6p revenue stamp thereon, same being unlisted in Scott's. It is cancelled "Yangery, SE 8, '84. Victoria" sent to Phila. via San Francisco. There is no due charge on same.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

used by the British army in the Orange River Colony during the Boer War.

AT BETALE.—(To pay). The inscription appearing below the numerals of value on the postage due stamps of Norway.

ATHENS.—I. A city of the State of Georgia having a population of more than 10,000. In 1861 Mr. T. Crawford, the then Postmaster, issued special 5c stamps to facilitate the prepayment of postage prior to the introduction of the general issue of the Confederate States.

II. The most distingushed city of ancient Greece and the capital of the modern Greek kingdom. The name of the city is shown upon the Grecian stamps issued in 1896 and 1906 to celebrate the holding of the Olympian games there.

ATHENS PRINTS.—The name applied by philatelists to the 1861-99 stamps of Greece printed in Athens to distinguish them from the printings made in Paris and Belgium by the manufacturers of the plates.

ATHOS.—See Mount Athos.

ATJEH.—A residency of the Dutch East Indies embracing the northern portion of Sumatra. It is sometimes known as Aitchin and has an area of 20,550 square miles with a population well in excess of 500,000. In 1882 a curious looking label purporting to have been issued for use here was chronicled in the philatelic press. It consisted of a ground of small lozenges on which "Atjeh", "1 Real 1", and a formidable looking scimitar were shown but an investigation of its status proved it to be entirely bogus.

ATLANTA.—An important city in Fulton county, Georgia, having a population of more than 90,000. Special 5c envelopes were issued by the then Postmaster of the city in 1861 to facilitate postal matters. They were in use but a short while when the issue of the Confederate States stamps made them no longer necessary.

ATT.—The value in which most of the stamps of Siam are expressed from their introduction in 1883 until 1909 when the currency of the country was changed. An att was the sixty-fourth part of a tical and had a value of about a third of a cent in United States money.

ANGE-DELILE, M.—A printer of Bordeaux, France, who lithographed the stamps issued in that town between November 1870 and March 1871.

Dealer's Surplus Stock:—I have made up a package of my surplus stock of high grade U. S. and Foreign stamps. No cheap trash, or damaged, but stamps easily re-sold or exchanged at a profit; cat. up to $1.00 each and over. Lot will cat. nearly $50.00, my price only $9.75. If bought from approvals, would cost much more. A bargain for someone. H. R. STILES, 366 McClellan St., Schenectady, N. Y. Member A.P.S., S.P.A., A.S.D.A.

PORTUGUESE COMMEMORATIVES.

We have been hearing a great deal lately of various commemorative stamps of the past, especially the series issued to celebrate the 700th anniversary of the birth of St. Antony of Padua. It may, or may not, be remembered that seven-eighths of the entire supply of these stamps remained unsold after the one day on which they had been appointed for use, and these, representing a facial value of something like 400,000,000 reis, had to be destroyed. While on this subject, it might be of some service to translate, for the benefit of the younger collector, the invocation from St. Bonaventure which is printed in Latin on the back of each stamp:—

O lingua benedicta quae Dominum semper benedixisti et alios benedicere docuisti: nunc perspicue cernitur quanti meriti fueris apud Deum. S. Bonventura. ("Oh blessed tongue which has always blessed the Lord and taught others to bless Him; now more than ever an evidence how great is your merit with God.")

St. Antony and Philomena—Apropos of the foregoing, we find an apt reference to St. Antony and a good old Italian peasant nurse, one Filomena, in the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, April 10, 1895. The writer of the time, waxing reminiscent, speaks of a little shoreside palazzino, somewhere between a farm, a barn, and a doll's castle, close to Castellamare and Sorrento, on the Bay of Naples. There, whenever the children lost anything, Filomena was wont to counsel the offer of a little prayer to good San Antonio, who would assuredly find the cherished belonging.

"Then, in later days," proceeds the writer, "on the Galway coast, we heard a good fish-wife tell her boy, who was howling with the pain of loss, to cease from sorrow and say a few words to 'good Saint Antony.' Biddy was in earnest, too. But what has this to do with Philately? Far be it from the present writer's mind to make fun of any of the dear, simple beliefs which those of old cherished so lovingly. But we venture quietly to suggest that poor, much-abused Portugal, if she must celebrate a Saint at all, could hardly have picked one more appropriate for philatelic needs and worries. For do we not sometimes mislay that Russian local, or find that new bright yellow 1 franc Monaco has unaccountably slipped under the dining-room table? Well, if Filomena and Biddy are right . . . . . we will say no more."—Stamp Collecting.

Independent State of OAXACA

Some of the most interesting stamps ever issued are entirely free from speculation. As the total issue of all values combined was but 225,000 stamps, it will be readily seen that these stamps—particularly the scarcer minor varieties—will soon command a much higher price than at present. There are no remainders left and the forms are stated to have been destroyed. But even if such were not the case, there can never be the slightest danger of a reprint, as the latter could be detected at once. For a comparatively moderate sum, a mighty interesting specialized collection of blocks of four—including the numerous pronounced shades—can be made.

1c 1851 TYPES.

Last week we illustrated the four types of the 1c 1851, but type IV did not show up in a satisfactory manner. For purposes of comparison we deem it best to run these illustrations again so that the beginner may get a good idea of how type IV differs from the other three.

These types differ in the ornaments and lines of the labels at the top and bottom of the stamps. Type I shows the ornaments and lines complete, as they appear on the die and on the first impressions made from the plates. In Type I, the scrolls below the outer line of the lower label are shown complete, with the ends turned up, forming little balls. The outer line of the label is continuous.

TYPE I.

In Type II, the ends of these scrolls are missing, or appear to be broken and worn, giving the scrolls an incomplete appearance, since they do not turn under. This variety is caused by the cutting away of the ornaments on the transfer roll.

TYPE II.

In Type III, the ornaments are broken as in Type II, while the outer lines of the label are cut away in the center, giving the effect of a "broken circle".

TYPE III.

Type IV also shows the broken ornaments of Type II, but the outer line of the circle has been re-cut. In the original type (II) the line is quite light, in uniformity to the other lines of the ornaments, while in Type IV the re-cut line is much heavier, and in most cases the re-cutting ends abruptly where the lines join, giving an uneven appearance. Types II and IV are very often confused, but the heavy line of the re-cut type can be readily distinguished after a little practice.

TYPE IV.

UNITED STATES TO BACK AIR RACE.

Big news has come to the Aero Club of America in the form of a letter from Second Assistant Postmaster General Otto Praeger, carrying assurances that the Aero Club's plan for the establishment of aerial mail delivery routes throughout the country will have the full co-operation of the Federal authorities. It also said that the Government is highly interested and will also co-operate in the $100,000 transcontinental airplane race for the Ralph Pulitzer trophy, suggested by The World and sponsored and developed by the Aero Club of America, as the greatest long distance airplane feat yet planned.

The race will be from New York to San Francisco, with landing stages at principal cities. The most popular idea yet presented is to have most of the route along the Lincoln Highway that runs from coast to coast.

The Post Office Department is mapping out a coast-to-coast aerial route to be submitted in connection with the race and June may bring the establishment of a mail delivery from the Atlantic to the Pacific bettering the railroad time by days.

A NEW UNITED STATES LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

AN ALBUM SECOND TO NONE.

This Album is the only practical and feasible Loose Leaf Book on the market today.

We have put this Album up in three sections so a collector is able to purchase such branches as he desires at a comparatively low cost. It is 9 inches long and 7½ inches wide, very handy; there is but one set of stamps to a page artistically laid out. Spaces have been provided for imperforate and part perforate pairs and the beauty of all; it is right up to the minute. What is more we will add new leaves each year with spaces for the latest stamps and if you are an owner of one of our Albums, latest sheets will be promptly sent you when issued.

After you have transferred your stamps into this Album, you cannot help realizing the great advantage in a practical up-to-date Album.

Sample pages and complete Prospectus cheerfully mailed on request. Postfree.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE LIBRARY COMMITTEE, JANUARY, 1917.

There has been added to the library during the past year:

Books and pamphlets received and bound,	35
Priced auction catalogs donated,	1
Odd numbers of magazines to fill out volumes, donated,	145
Number of current magazines received from publishers by donation,	97
Same but by subscription,	36
Subscriptions to magazines donated,	64
Total number of pieces received by the Committee during the year,	378

The members of the Library Committee have this year spent considerable time cataloging and arranging the books and desire to thank a number of the members who have given several evenings to helping them with this task. The work of cataloging the books has been completed and they have all been rearranged and labelled, so that any volume may be found on a moment's notice.

The Library has been used to a very satisfactory extent by many of the members for serious study and in the future will probably prove even more useful.

Again we find we shall not have to call upon the Society for an appropriation for the coming year. It used to be the regular custom of the Society to make such an appropriation, but on account of donations by members and sale of duplicate books the Committee has been able to carry on the work for several years without drawing upon the treasury, and has placed itself on a very satisfactory financial basis.

U. S. 1879 ISSUE ON HARD PAPER.

By H. L. WILEY.

(The borderland between the latest Continental and earliest American printings is full of somewhat vague visions, but some of them stand forth in all distinctness. The revolutionary theory that soft paper was used by the Continental Company has been proved by the imprints, and now Mr. Wiley cites his point that hard paper was used by the American Bank Note Company by showing an imprint to that effect. There is no mistaking this visual evidence. While not the first to bring forth the American print on hard paper, yet Mr. Wiley qualifies as an original discoverer to all intents and purposes.—EDITOR.)

A few of the stamps printed by the American Bank Note Company after it assumed the contracts of the Continental Bank Note Company in 1879, were printed on hard paper. Philatelists have been supplied with a fairly complete history of the comparatively recent productions of the National-Continental-American companies. It is known that some of the latest printings made by the Continental company were on soft paper and that the American company used the plates of both of its immediate predecessors, but to the writer's knowledge no mention has been made of the fact that some of the first stamps printed by the American Bank Note Company were printed on hard paper.

To quote the available references before going further, will give the reader a broader view of the subject.

Tiffany, on pages 179 and 180 of his "History of United States Postage Stamps" says:

"Before the second contract with the Continental Bank Note Company expired, it was consolidated with the American Bank Note Company under the name of the American Bank Note Company and new plates began to appear with the imprint of this company in large colored block capitals shaded by a colored line parallel to the letters and an outside row of lighter horizontal lines.

"The 1, 2, 3, 5 and 10 cent are found with this imprint without material change. The 7, 12 and 24 cent, having long been retired, are not to be looked for with this imprint and the 15, 30 and 90 cent at this time were still printed from the plates with the imprint of the Continental Bank Note Company. . . .

"The gum has a white shade and the colors are the same as used by that company.

"The 1c of the dull indigo blue

"The 2c has a misty look.

"The 3c inclines to a blue-green.

"The 5c has heavier lines and is a darker blue.

"The 10c returns to the light appearance of the original of 1870, but is of the yellow brown shade."

The foregoing has something of the "misty look" attributed to Mr. Tiffany's 2c stamp, and it is refreshing to turn to the lucid quotations from Mr. Luff's "The Postage Stamps of the United States". In part, speaking of the issues under consideration, Mr. Luff says:

"After February 4, 1879, when the Continental Bank Note Company was consolidated with The American Bank Note Company, the latter assumed and completed the contracts held by the former company. Doubtless many of the stamps distributed in the last two quarters of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1879, were the product of the American Bank Note Company. . . . . .

In another section of his work, he says:

"On February 4, 1879, the Continental Bank Note Company was consolidated with the American Bank Note Company under the name of the latter. The contracts of the former company were assumed by the new organization. Subsequent contracts were also secured by the American Bank Note Company, who continued to supply the stamps required by the Post Office Department until January 1, 1894.

"As has been previously stated, the Continental Bank Note Company began, about the end of 1878 or the beginning of 1879, to use a soft, porous paper for their stamps. (The italics are mine.—H. L. W.) The American Bank Note Company continued the use of paper of this quality as it was found to give the best results, especially when steam presses were employed. . . . . The new company used many of the plates of its predecessors, also the plates of the National Bank Note Company for the 30 and 90 cent, and probably for some of the 10 cent stamps."

Then follows a reference list of the 1879 issue:

"Soft, porous, white wove paper, perforated 12", the 3 cent stamp being listed in the following colors: "Pale bright green, dull green, gray green, dark green, myrtle green."

Relative to the plates of this period, Mr. Luff says, in part:

"Except when otherwise stated, these stamps were printed from the plates of the Continental Bank Note Company, or from plates made from the dies of that company. The following plates of the Continental Bank Note Company are known to have been used by the American Bank Note Company."

I omit the list because we are concerned, at the moment, with but one value of the series, namely the 3 cent stamp for which Mr. Luff designates Continental plates No. 292, No. 309 and No. 310 as having been used by the American Bank Note Company.

One further quotation and I will attempt to inject a thread of original matter before the uproar of protest drowns the clicking of these keys. For variety, we will this time quote from Mr. Luff's book:

"In the course of time, as they were required, new plates were made. They bore the imprint 'American Bank Note Company' in heavy faced, shaded capitals without frame or other surroundings."

The philatelist is familiar with this imprint which is on the plates of the Columbian issue, that of 1890, etc.

A reference to Scott's catalog will show that none of the regular issue of 1879 are listed on hard paper. A delving into the archives of memory will enable the philatelist to recall the fact that he has never heard of the first issue of the American Bank Note Company's having been on hard paper. Shooting from the hip, the "experts" would tell you that there never was a "hard-paper American" belonging to any of the regular issues. We shall see.

In "The U. S. 3c Green" page 13, I asked the world to witness that W. L. Stevenson had sent me a puzzle of a stamp printed on a "hard" paper which, for lack of a better title, I called the "Two-One" paper. This stamp was such a distinct type that I was clumsy enough to stumble over two or three specimens in the course of my studies of the 3c green. It is decidedly scarce, but when one is discovered, it needs no advertising. And because it stands out so distinctly, rather than because of any aptness on my part, I have accumulated about fifty specimens out of about fifty thousand of these 3c stamps which have been inspected. The stamp is so consistently uniform in its adherence to type, particularly in the detail of its color, that I was surprised to find that the cancellations on my copies indicated that it had been used at a time when almost all of the United States post offices, should have been using soft paper stamps printed by the American Bank Note Company. The common cancellation consisting of an oval of nine horizontal bars with a circular center in which the station number or letter is printed, was not common in 1879. The earliest dated cancellation of this type in my collection is dated at New York, November 11, 1878.

Five copies of my "2-1" stamps carried this "circle-nine-bar" cancellation, so I said "These here varmints happened after the first of these cancellations were used, perhaps, and that puts them pretty close to the time the Continental merged into the American." But "history" teaches us that the papers used during the last few months of life by the Continental company were, in part, "soft" papers, and that all of the American papers were "soft". I became interested. Then I found three dated copies. One is dated "Penn Yan, New York, May 11, 1880" with the regular stamp used by that office, another is dated "? ? ? ? ? 1880" in a common stamped type, and another, in script, pen cancellation, "-'80". I became more interested. Here was a scarce stamp and all definable copies were hitting around the winter of 1880, which was a hard winter as you will remember. Recall that the American Bank Note Company took hold of this momentous business a year before these cancellations were thumped on our classic "2-1", hard paper, discouraged green stamps.

Then the lot was cast into the laboratory and I measured paper thickness and dimensions of design on all copies. The thickness of the paper varies between .0025" and .0029", consistently, with three "outlaws" running up another ten-thousandth and hitting .0030" and one puny specimen wasting away to .0024". The average thickness of the lot of fifty specimens was .0027", which is about the result obtained with the two copies mentioned in my paragraph on this stamp in "The U. S. 3c Green".

The dimensions of the design of the stamps varied from .77" x .94" to .78" x .98". In other words the width was uniform to within one one-hundredth of an inch, while the length varied as much as four one hundredths of an inch. But the striking fact which these measurements revealed was that these stamps were appreciably shorter, two or three hundredths of an inch shorter, than the average 3c green. And when I compared one of the specimens that measured .94" in length with one of the long, vertically ribbed 3c Continental of 1873 that measured a full 1.00" in length, it looked like Uncle Sam had been cheated out of about 6% of the area he should have had in his common 3c stamp. This difference of .06" is greater than it "sounds". At any rate, our stamps of the "2-1" title were distinguished by shade, paper surface, and length of design, and were distinct from their fellows by reason of their consistent variation from accepted standards. The average length of the "2-1" stamps is .96"; the average length of the "common" 3c Green, except the vertically ribbed stamps, is about .98" to .99".

And so I decided that these must be something that the Continental company released just before their transition into the American company, and yet the evidence of the "soft paper" that marked the final printings of the Continental outfit stood between reason and instinct,— and so I dismissed the question, after cursing it to the best of my limited ability, and let it lay in the bottom of a trunk, wrapped up with paper, tied with string and resting between "the Message to Garcia" and a pair of moosehide moccasins.

And then I found another copy of the "2-1" stamplet, and it cleared up the question because with its little old design, true to form and .95" in its shortness, ribbed with its startling, characteristic ribbing, shivering with the ague of its sickly bluish-green complexion, snapping with its .0027" thinness of its hard, white paper, with this array of evidence, fair on the margin it bore part of the imprint of the "AMERICAN BANK NOTE COMPANY".

And so instead of saying that "all of the 1879 issue of United States postage stamps printed by the American Bank Note Company were on soft paper", we can say that "beside the common printing by the American Bank Note Company of the soft paper stamps, that company also printed a few of the 3c green, (Scott's No. 184) of the Issue of 1879 on a hard, white paper."

Get that, American printing on hard paper?

Issue of 1879. Hard paper.

Study your stamps.

I HAVE PURCHASED
The interest of Mr. Charles Beamish in the Philadelphia Stamp Co. and I am now the sole owner.
Mr. Beamish has made an advantageous business change and has gone to Los Angeles, Calif., much to my regret, but I sincerely hope for his benefit.
I am open to a proposition from a reliable dealer or collector to purchase the half interest just relinquished by Mr. Beamish provided he can give this business his undivided time and attention. As it will take considerable capital to swing the deal only those that mean busness will be considered. I do not require the services of a clerk but want an experienced, active, working partner.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

AUGUSTA.—A city in Richmond county, Georgia, having a present population of over 40,000. A provisional 5c envelope is believed to have been issued here in 1861 by the Postmaster prior to the arrival of the regular stamps for the use of the Confederate States.

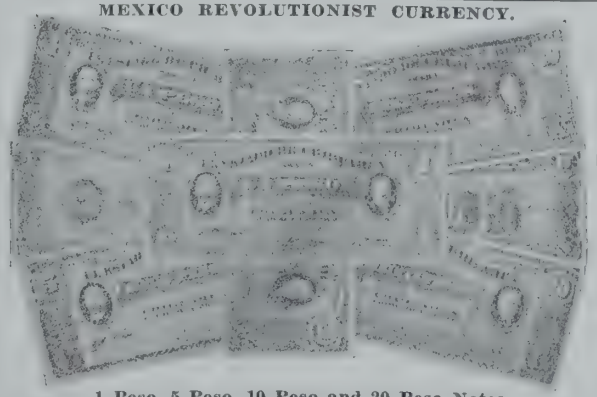
AUR.—The value in which most of the stamps of Iceland are expressed. A hundred aur are equal to a krona, which has a value of about 28c in United States money.

AUCKLAND EXHIBITION.—A surcharge applied to four of the then current stamps of New Zealand in 1913 to mark the Exposition held at Auckland. These stamps were only available for postage in New Zealand itself and to the neighbouring Commonwealth of Australia.

AUSTRALIA.—The only inscription, apart from "postage" and the value, shown upon the stamps of the Australian Commonwealth.

AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH.—The title given to the federation of the Australian colonies—New South Wales, Queensland, South Australia, Tasmania, Victoria and Western Australia—an event which dates from January 1st, 1901. The legislature consists of the Crown (represented by the Governor-General); a Senate of thirty-six members, six being elected by each of the States; and a House of Representatives consisting of seventy-five members, the number of these sent by each State being proportional to the population with a minimum of five. The first special stamps for the Commonwealth were issued in 1913.

AUSTRIA.—One of the two empires forming the Austro-Hungarian monarchy ruled over by the aged Emperor Francis Joseph I. It has a total area of 115,903 square miles and extends from Prussia and Saxony on the north to Italy on the south, and from Switzerland on the west to Hungary in the east. It has a population of over 26,000,000 and probably few other countries can present such a complexity of races, tongues and creeds. The population comprises Germans, Czechs, Slovaks, Poles, Ruthenians, Slovenes, Serbs, Croats, Roumanians, Jews, Magyars, Italians, Albanians, Armenians and Gypsies. Its first postage stamps were issued on June 1st, 1850.



AUSTRIAN CRETE.—The Government of the Austrian empire maintains postoffices in the island of Crete and in 1903 the stamps supplied to these offices were surcharged "centimes" or "franc". In 1908 stamps similar to those of Austria were issued but with the values expressed in centimes and francs instead of heller and kronen.

AUSTRIAN ITALY.—When postage stamps were first introduced into Austria in 1850 a separate series was issued for the Lombardo-Venetian States—known as Austria Italy—which have since been detached from the Austrian Empire and now form part of the Kingdom of Italy. The designs were the same for both Austria and Austrian Italy but while the values on the stamps of the former were denoted in kreuzer, those of the latter were expressed in centesimi, contracted to "Centes." In 1861 the currency was changed to soldi, and in 1867 the ordinary stamps of Italy were used in these States.

AUSTRIAN LEVANT.—For many years Austria, like France, Great Britain, Germany, etc., has maintained post offices at the chief towns in the Levant. Special stamps for use in these offices were issued on June 1st, 1867, these being like the contemporary stamps for Austria itself but with values in "soldi." In 1886 Austrian stamps with values in Turkish currency surcharged across the base were used while since July 1908 stamps similar to those now in use in Austria have been issued but with values in "para" and "piaster".

W. P. COLMAN RIGHT ON DECK.

Our mail of Saturday, Feb. 24, brought a letter from W. P. Colman that was mighty interesting. It contained no fewer than EIGHT subscriptions to the WEEKLY and demonstrated Mr. Colman's great interest in our paper. Words fail us in properly expressing our appreciation and in saying this we do not minimize the co-operation other subscription getters have extended.

We are after that 10,000.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Ready.—We are now ready to furnish definite information concerning the new set of revenue stamps for the payment of the tax on wine. While these stamps are to be used for rating the tax on cordials as well as on wines, the word, Cordials, does not appear on them as it did on the stamps of the issue just retired. On March 1st, 1917, the new set of wine stamps comprising twenty-eight different denominations will be on sale. The values range from one cent to one hundred dollars and all of the stamps are of the size of the two dollar wines and cordials of the set now disused, except that instead of oblong, the stamps have the shape of an upright rectangle. The stamps come in sheets of fifty, arranged in five rows of ten stamps horizontally and are rouletted. At the top is "United States Internal Revenue" in two entabletured lines, under which is "Wines" on a slightly curved base; and in the center surrounded by geometrical lathe work is "1c" (for instance) with "Series of 1916" below; and underneath this, in large lettering, One Cent. The color is green as in the set recently in use. The denominations, $20 to $100 come in books. We have not seen these particular stamps but we have been told that there are twenty stamps of the $20 value in each book, ten of the $40; eight of the $50 and four of the $100 in each book. The other denominations are as follows: 1, 3, 4, 6, 7½, 10, 12, 15, 18, 20, 24, 30, 36, 50, 60, 72, 80c, $1.20, $1.44, $1.60, $2.00, $4.00, $4.80 and $9.60.

DID YOU GET ONE ? ? ? ? ? ? ?

If you aren't SURE and you are one of those Mortals who like to collect a little extra coin, by swapping or trading, or playing "small dealer" on the side, while adding to your own collection - - - Well, if this hits You and you're SURE you didn't get one - - - better drop a line to "ZEMA", Post Office Box 1014 at Springfield, Massachusetts, and then - - - Well, we'll do the rest.

The set is one of somewhat striking appearance because of its number and size of the stamps and we doubt not but that it will attract no little attention from collectors. In this connection we may say that the two dollars wines and cordials stamp is shown by Mr. Roscoe L. Wickes on the U. S. I. R. watermarked paper. Heretofore, all the printings of this stamp seem to have been on the postage paper and it would appear that the stamps on revenue paper would be restricted in number because of the change in the designs.

Embassy—A reader shows us an envelope that bears two of the ten pfennig red, current issue of Germany, that came from an attache of the Embassy of the U. S. of A., Berlin. On the face of the envelope is the impression by rubber stamp: "Washington, D. C., P. O. This article was originally mailed in country indicated by postage." The postmark is that of Washington, early in February, 1917.

Heaton—Several weeks ago, the New York Sun devoted nearly two columns in its book review to a notice of "The Life and Letters of Sir John Henniker Heaton, Bt.," in the course of which a tribute of glowing kind is paid Sir John, who as the Father of Imperial Penny Postage, is called a benefactor, in fact whose achievements were more epochal than many others of more spectacular kind. The reviewer says that the title of Father of Imperial Penny Postage may cause some confusion through the adjective "Imperial" implies that Sir John carried along the work of Sir Rowland Hill, the Father of Penny Postage, as a modern champion of cheap postage. We shall not try to give in any detail the particulars of the interesting and energetic life of Sir John Henniker Heaton, who many of the older collectors remembered as having evinced a great regard for philately on occasion. We find this reference to a gift that Henniker Heaton received at Sydney in 1912, when the governor-general of Australia "on behalf of the citizens of the Commonwealth, presented him with a gold and silver inkstand, mounted on Australian black wood, the lid inlaid with penny stamps of Canada, New Zealand, India, New South Wales and Africa." We coincide with the opinion of the reviewer, we feel almost able to say, that the biography is a most interesting work that enriches latter-day literature.

Postmarks—The Canadian postal authorities are using the postmark as a medium for reaching the eyes of the people. However, it is the cancellation rather than the postmark that is the vehicle for announcements such as: "Help to Win the War. Buy War Savings Certificates" and "$25 for $21. War Certificate."

Floored—Sid Mercer, who presides over the destinies of the sporting page in the New York Globe, has been properly rebuked by one of the valiant philatelic knights in the columns of the Hartford Globe. Sid admits that he, the defendant, is guilty as charged and even though our space is at premium at this joyous season, we cannot forbear to chronicle at some length, the tale of the vanquishment of Sid Mercer. Sid attempts no palliation of his offensive simile, but wanly, he reflects that there is some reflected glory in being "the only sporting writer that ever lost a decision to a philatelist". We copy this moving tale from Sid Mercer's department, "All in a Day's Work":

"A retort from an unexpected quarter flies right out of the files of the Hartford Globe of Jan. 7, and hits us a belt in the solar plexus. There is nothing to do but plead guilty and beg the mercy of the court. Under the heading: 'With the Stamp Fiends', we find the following deserved rebuke:

Postage stamp collectors in the United States number several hundred thousand, and among those who do not collect is Sid Mercer, who writes sports interestingly for one of the New York evening newspapers. This journalist was assigned to gather the news emanating from the National Baseball League's meeting in his home city last month, and in chronicling the magnates' activities, he made the allusion that one of the club owners was going to leave town "before somebody trades him a cancelled postage stamp" for one of his star players.

Mr. Mercer intended to convey the idea that a cancelled postal stamp is valueless and thereby did he reveal an ignorance inexcusable to the philatelist. Does not Mr. Mercer know that the one-penny orange and two-penny blue, which Mauritius issued in 1847, could not be purchased for $10,000, which was the price their owner, a New York art dealer, some time ago refused for his copies, the only ones in existence so far as is known? And in 1846, the postmaster of the village of Boscawen, N. H., issued a five cent, dull blue stamp, only one copy of which is known today to exist and for which many philatelists would be glad to pay as high as $15,000. Similarly, there is only one known copy of British Guiana's one-cent red of 1856, now owned by a noted Paris collector and estimated to be worth $25,000.

Lest Mr. Mercer seek refuge in an alibi that he referred to present-day stamps only, attention is called to the fact that a number of cancelled stamps which the nations now at war issued, are already valued at more than $100 each. One collection of war stamps sold in Great Britain a month ago for about $40,000, and this collection will, ten years from now, be worth many times that amount if kept intact.

DON'T DELAY—NOT MANY OF THESE

One is never too old to learn. We have always cherished an ambition to collect three things—namely, postage stamps, old coins, and new coins. Our failure has been complete, especially the effort to collect and keep coins of recent date. But now that we know the value of cancelled postage stamps, we shall certainly refrain from pulling that old and misleading simile.

The manager who declared all the other managers were willing to trade him cancelled postage stamps for his players, was Miller Huggins of the St. Louis Cardinals. We merely quoted him. It may be true that there is a cancelled stamp that cannot be purchased for $10,000. We don't dispute it. Neither can the release of any of the players Huggins wants to sell, be purchased for $10,000, for nobody will offer it. A valuable cancelled postage stamp is a relic; so are most of the St. Louis athletes on the market.

Taking a leaf from the book of our local fighting managers, we now claim a championship. We claim to be the only sporting writer that ever lost a decision to a philatelist."

Possible—From Mr. Wm. Beukma, Denver, Colorado, we have received an explanation that might account for a peculiarity that did not escape the attention of all our readers. Mr. Beukma says: "Noting a statement made by Mr. Sumner Gary quoted by you in your editorial column of February 10th, I determined to write to you. This statement is to the effect that the government is to issue stamps perforated 10¾ by 13½. Mr. Gary supposes that these figures refer to the gauge, but I have understood that when Mr. Ralph gave out figures regarding the perforation they referred to the number of holes perforated on the respective sides of the stamps in question. Therefore, Mr. Ralph in all probability, refers to the 11 perforation for which we have been waiting." Mr. Beukma's deduction is one that we attach credence to and explains, if accepted, the very curious measurements of the gauge that Mr. Ralph seems to have decided upon. We are awaiting word that will clear the atmosphere of doubt in this particular.

Sonora—Some time ago, we received a contribution from W. Parker Lyon, former mayor of Pasadena, Cal., with his scheme for the plating of the white and green seals of Sonora. Mr. Lyon is a student of the Mexican war issues and his work along these lines shows his belief in and enthusiasm for the stamps. He draws a parallel between the numeral issues of Hawaii and the green seals of Sonora, which is a comparison that is not unflattering to the Sonora issue, it is certain.

DEATH OF REV. E. MILLAR.

Stamp Collecting informs us of the death of Rev. E. Millar, M. A., secretary of the Church Missionary Society's mission in Uganda. Mr. Millar went to Uganda as a layman in 1892 and his name is familiar to philatelists for the reason that he improvised postage stamps of various denominations in cowries, using a typewriter, the only one in Uganda at that time. These famous typewritten stamps were issued at Mengo in 1895.

"CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING."

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES:—J. M. Bartels advises us of the following new envelopes:

Issue 1911.

Denom.	Die.	Type.	Size.	Paper.	Wmk.	Knife
2c	A		2	blue	18	79
2c	D	6	5	blue	17	87
Issue 1915.
1c	A		13	white	20	89
Issue 1916 (Circular Die).
2c	D		8	amber	19	97
2c	A		3	amber	20	92

AUSTRALIAN COM.—The Kangaroo stamps have appeared with inverted water marks according to Marsh's Philatelist as follows:—
½d green, wmk. type i.
1d carmine, wmk. type i.
2d gray, wmk. type i.
2d gray, wmk. type iii.
3d olive, wmk. type i.
6d ultramarine, wmk. type i.
2s brown, wmk. type iii.
5s yellow and black, wmk. type ii.

GERMAN CHINA.—Through courtesy of A. L. Lewis we have seen two oddities of this colony. He shows us German Empire issue of 1900, 5pf and 10pf surcharged "1900—China—POSTAGE—Due" in four lines of Gothic type.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The Post Office Circular of December 16, 1916, contained the following information. "Introduction of Halfpenny Post Cards and Wrappers bearing a new design of stamp. Postcards and newspaper wrappers bearing a halfpenny impressed stamp in which his Majesty's head is represented in profile are about to be issued. Reply postcards of the new pattern will be supplied first, about the date of this circular." We obtained a supply of the new post-card on December 20th, which appears to have been the first date of the sale. The frame design of the stamp remains unchanged, but the head in centre oval is in profile, similar to the current adhesive. This issue is printed in dull green on thin buff card.—Ewen's Weekly Stamp News.

HONG KONG.—"The Hong Kong $5.00 stamp is mentioned by the Colonial Journal as having been printed on the new make of green paper."—Marsh's Weekly Philatelist.

NAURU.—J. A. Galbraith has shown us the balance of the British Stamps surcharged "NAURU," comprising the following values; 2d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 9d and 1sh. These with the stamps chronicled on December 30 complete the issue.

ST. HELENA.—Frank P. Brown and J. A. Galbraith have shown us copies of the new "WAR TAX" stamp 1d on 1d, this being a 2d stamp and not a 1d stamp as is general.

SIAM.—We have seen a copy of the 12s on 8s 1909-10 issue apparently without the "12" but a close inspection reveals a colorless impression of the numerals, submitted by A. L. Lewis.

SWITZERLAND.—Wm. Jowett submits copies of the 5c and 10c Juvenile stamps chronicled in our issue of Dec. 23rd.

Indianapolis, Ind.

The Stamp Herald is official organ of the International Precancel Club, The Lincoln-Harrison Stamp Club, The Indianapolis Collectors Club and the Philatelic Press Club and Literature Society.

We are going to increase our subscription rates beginning with the second volume, April 1st, 1917.

We are making this announcement in order that anyone interested may have the opportunity to send us their subscription before the first of April, thereby saving the difference of the proposed increase and the present rate of 20 cents per year.

Send Us 20 Cents Today

If you are now a subscriber and your subscription has some time to run we will send you the paper from the expiration of your present subscription for the number of years for which you remit.

After April 1, 1917, the subscription rates will be 50 cents per year for the United States and possessions (which includes our new possession—United States West Indies) and $1.00 per year for foreign countries (which includes Canada).

Notice is hereby given that on and after April 1, 1917, all premium subscription blanks offering subscriptions to The Stamp Herald for 20c are null and void, and of no effect.

If you are interested in an album for precancel stamps write me for a sample page and Circular "F".

A. P. BROWN, Pres.; J. O. WRIGHT, Vice Pres.; F. W. STILES, 310 Warren St., Roxbury, Mass., Sec.; OSCAR HILL, 60 State St., Boston, Mass., Foreign Sec.; G. CARLTON RUSSELL, 38 Wellesley Park, Dorchester, Mass., Treas.; A. M. WRIGHT, Supt. of Auctions; S. G. BIXBY, 570 Rutherford Ave., Charlestown, Mass., Supt. of Sales and Bourse.

February 20, 1917.

The annual jollification of the Society was celebrated this evening, starting with a dinner at the Georgian at which 22 gentlemen and 16 ladies were present. The dinner was greatly enjoyed by those present and the ladies were each given a souvenir in the form of a smelling salts bottle, appropriately engraved with the Club's initials and a box of chocolates. The menu, which in its general make-up and neatness reflected the usual good taste of the printer, Mr. J. O. Wright, bore one of the new posters issued by the French Philatelic Society, this being appropriate as the lecturer of the evening had as his topic "The Postage Stamps of France."

After the dinner most of the ladies went to the theatre and the members adjourned to the club room. After the regular business the meeting was turned over to Mr. J. W. Prevost who gave those present an interesting talk on the subject of the postal facilities, or perhaps, to state it more correctly, the endeavors of those shut up in Paris at the time of the Franco-Prussian war, to get mail in and out of that city. Mr. Prevost had several letters sent out by means of balloons and read translations of one or two of these. He also read a very interesting letter from a soldier now at the front with the French army. After this talk Mr. Prevost showed his collection of the stamps of France, a collection which he entitled a "growing collection" but which is rich enough in the stamps of that country to satisfy any ordinary collector.

Mr. Brown, the newly elected President announced some of the things which the council had adopted for the coming year, among which were a bulletin board upon which members will be able to post notices of stamps which they may have for sale; an auction at each regular meeting which will not last for more than thirty minutes and at which members may sell lots donated for the benefit of the Society in addition to those which they sell for their own profit, such lots to be sold first but which will not in any case take up more than fifteen minutes of the time allotted for the auction; that non-resident dealers who hold auctions may use the clubroom for the purpose of displaying such auction lots free of charge, or of displaying collections which they desire to sell, the only proviso being that no actual sales shall take place in the club room. There were thirty members present and five guests, four of which were ladies, the wives of Messrs. Barker, Swan, Russell and Kelleher. The meeting adjourned at 10.15 p. m.

FREDERIC W. STILES, Sec.

The usual auction will be held at the informal meeting on March 6th.

AUCTION

A very fine collection of

consisting of over 200 lots, including many very fine copies of the early imperforate issues, single copies, pairs, strips, etc. A block of six and a strip of eleven are among the choicest items, besides other large pieces. Of the following issues, most everything is in the collection, including several very scarce stamps also a number of fine card and india proofs in pairs and a fine lot of finished samples. This is the finest collection of Peru that has been sold for some time and collectors should bear in mind that early Peru are like the early issues of any other country, as good as GOLD.

OTHER COUNTRIES

The balance of this sale which consists of 872 lots is made up of a very nice lot of U. S. including Card Proofs complete in single sets and several other choice things in U. S.

The foreign stamps are the pick of two large collections and many very desirable stamps are offered, most of which carry the description "fine." About 100 lots of early Mexico issues only, are included and all have been pronounced genuine by the leading authority in America. Many very scarce stamps are among these lots and all are in small lots so that you may pick what you want without buying the whole collection.

This was the standing on February 24. Prizes are offered to the two subscribers getting the largest number of new subscriptions before April 25, but dealers are debarred from this competition. The prizes are as follows:—

First—"Postage Stamps of the United States of America," by N. E. Waterhouse. Published by Frank Godden, London, England.

Second—The new book on "Hawaii", by C. F. Richards.

Nothing less than six months' new subscriptions will be received in connection with the contest, and subscription coupons or the leaflet "The Charm of Stamp Collecting" may well be used. Coupons will be furnished free of charge, while the leaflets will be supplied at one-half of cost price, 50c per hundred.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

Independent State of OAXACA

Some of the most interesting stamps ever issued are entirely free from speculation. As the total issue of all values combined was but 225,000 stamps, it will be readily seen that these stamps—particularly the scarcer minor varieties—will soon command a much higher price than at present. There are no remainders left and the forms are stated to have been destroyed. But even if such were not the case, there can never be the slightest danger of a reprint, as the latter could be detected at once. For a comparatively moderate sum, a mighty interesting specialized collection of blocks of four—including the numerous pronounced shades—can be made.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We need several copies of the issue of No. 6 1914 and will gladly send a couple of foreign exchanges for each one sent us. We are making up some complete files of 1914 and are lacking the required number of this particular issue.

—On Wednesday evening, February 14, the Washington (D. C.) Philatelic Society and the Washington Branch No. 5, S. P. A., held a dinner at the Ebbitt House. The menu of the occasion gives every indication that the affair was an enjoyable one.

—Herbert Bowen, a well known philatelist of Detroit, and a member of the Library Commission from 1905 to 1910, has just presented the Burton Historical Collection his valuable collection of bank bills, coins, script, documents, etc.

—Applications of the Queen City Stamp & Coin Co., Oriental Stamp Co., Charles S. Thompson and Wm. J. Rueger have been received for membership in the American Stamp Dealers' Association within the last few days."—C. V. WEBB, Sec.

—President Kissinger of the S. P. A. is appointing resident vice presidents for all states and large cities. Their goal is 2000 members when they meet in Minneapolis next August.

—At the request of C. A. Ploch we urge all dealers having claims against Mrs. Kalfka or Caefka, etc., to send the same to the Inspector in Charge at New York City. This is the proper course of procedure inasmuch as Brooklyn is under this jurisdiction.

—Jess M. McNeil favors us with some postal rates clipped from some old newspapers. We are not reprinting the same as the demands upon our space just now make it impossible.

—"I want to correct a misunderstanding in your issue of Feb. 10. In your first editorial Mr. Gary apparently understands that the new perforations on U. S. stamps are to be, 10¾ x 13½ which is not the case. Mr. Ralph has counted the number of holes, not measured them with a gauge. The above perforation is the new 11 gauge and is the same on both sides of stamp."—CLAUDE C. BEALS.

—A Saint Valentine's Day banquet was held at the Ebbitt House, Washington, D. C., Feb. 14, to celebrate the consolidation of the Washington Philatelic Society and Washington Branch No. 5 of the Southern Philatelic Association. President Clifford W. Kissinger of the S. P. A. was the guest of honor and the wives and sisters of the members added grace and beauty to the well laid table. Mr. Albert E. Gorham acted as toastmaster. The affair was in charge of the following committee: Rutherford Wysong, chairman; Albert E. Gorham, secretary; Harry B. Mason, treasurer; Prof. David E. Lantz and John W. Thompson.

—A philatelic exhibition of educational value will be placed in the Waltham Public Library by the Boston Collectors' Club, during the week, March 26 to 31. L. H. Brigham is the chairman of the exhibition committee and is in charge of the exhibit. This is not intended to attract great attention in philatelic circles but will call attention of the general public to stamps because of their educational value or beauty. Entries have been made by several collectors and others may be entered with the chairman at Waltham, Mass., before March 15.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Harold Kingsford, W. G. Birdseye, J. L. Shipley, Stanley Maurseth, Owen Bent, Geo. W. Langwell, J. L. Shipley and Herman W. Boers.

—A Washington, D. C., subscriber calls our attention to certain stamp papers giving P. V. Hiordan advertising publicity. Surely the WEEKLY has said enough concerning this party to close tight the columns of every stamp paper in the country so far as Hiordan's use of stamp papers is concerned.

—Supplementing the News Gleaning in connection with new Canadian cancellations we have received other specimens from Alvin S. Riches of Winnipeg and E. R. Slater of New Haven, Conn. We chronicled only one variety, but there are several others of a similar character: —"Save, save, save and buy war savings certificates;" "Help to win the war. Buy war savings certificates" and "Save your money. Lend it to your country."

OUR DEALER CO-OPERATION.

We are pleased to add this week to the list of royal boosters the name of M. Ohlman of N. Y. City, and he has given us the best co-operation of any dealer in the great metropolis. We also thank W. P. Colman for eight coupons received in a single day. The standing on Saturday, February 24 was as follows:—

Edgewood Stamp Co., Milford, Conn.
W. P. Colman, Washington, D. C.
H. J. Schmidt, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Royal Stamp Co., West Phila., Pa.
H. S. Powell Co., Storm Lake, Iowa.
R. E. Jonckheere, Billerica, Mass.
M. Ohlman, N. Y. City.

All the above dealers have sent in not fewer than ten subscriptions each and we take this opportunity of showing our appreciation of what they are doing. Send for a supply of our coupons, Mr. Dealer, and use them in your correspondence. They are free. They give you a cash rebate and a premium to the new subscriber.

To save space we paragraph those who have sent in two subscriptions each and shall be only too pleased to promote them higher on the list which stood February 24 as follows:—

U. S. POSTAGE STAMPS ISSUE OF 1851-60.

By BILL BLOSS.

Three Cents, 1851.

The three cent stamp of 1851 has probably been better studied and discussed than any other United States stamp. Up to a few years ago, pairs and strips and even blocks of this stamp were not uncommon, and being the first low value to come into common use (for it was used more than the 1c) it has naturally attracted the attention of collectors. Specialists interested in this stamp may consult the hand-book by Dr. Carroll Chase published some years ago.

This stamp was first placed on sale on July 1st, 1851. It bears a profile portrait of Washington, after Houdon, facing to the left, on an oval disk with solid background. A white band surrounds this disk. A lathe-work border, with a rosette in each corner, completes the design. At the top, a label bears the words "U. S. Postage" in solid white capitals. A similar label at the bottom bears the inscription of value "Three Cents" in capitals of the same style. The entire design is surrounded by a single line.

There is a very great range of color in the three cent stamp. The three principal shades are dull red, rose and orange brown. Intermediate shades may be found. The orange brown shade is scarcer than the others.

Twenty-eight plates were used in printing these stamps. Nos. 1 to 6 are known to have been used on the imperforates, while Nos. 10 to 28 are Type II and were used on the perforated issue of 1857-60. The use of Nos. 7, 8, and 9 has not been determined though the plates were known to exist.

There are two distinct plate types of the three cent in the perforated stamps only. Only one type was used on the imperforates. The difference lies in the line surrounding the design. In Type I (the first type, as used on the imperforates) this line is found on all four sides of the stamp. In Type II, the lines at top and bottom have been cut away to permit the perforation to register without cutting away the design.

There are a great many minor varieties of this value, such as cracked plate, double transfer, hair lines, double frame lines. The perforated stamps are known imperforate vertically and imperforate horizontally.

Five Cents, 1851.

The Act of Congress passed on March 30th, 1855, provided for the registration of letters by the post office upon payment of a fee of five cents. This created a need for a five cent stamp, and accordingly this value was added to the series then current on the 5th of January, 1856.

The five cent stamp bears a three-quarters face portrait of Jefferson, after Stuart, on an oval disk with solid background and white border. On the upper and lower portions of this border are four irregular spaces, shaded. The whole is surrounded by a frame of lathe-work with double line of loops with rounded corners and a projection at top and bottom and each side. The difference in types in the perforated stamp lies in these projections.

There are two distinct shades of the five cents imperforate, red brown and brown, with intermediate shades. Pairs of this stamp were sometimes used for the ten cent rate to Canada but are rare. Many of the five cent stamps were used singly for registration purposes. Blocks are practically never seen.

There are three distinct types of the perforated stamps, but only type I is found on the imperforate. Type I has full projections at sides and top and bottom. On Type II, these projections are partially cut away. On Type III, the projections are entirely cut away.

HEADQUARTERS FOR STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES AND ITS COLONIES

I just recently purchased a magnificent collection of United States stamps in superb condition, which I am now breaking up. The Department stamps are complete with the exception of the 2c Agriculture and 30c Interior on soft paper.

Mr. Collector send me your want list and let me fill up some of those vacant spaces in your album.

My 1917 price list of stamps of the United States and Its Colonies is Free.

H. F. COLMAN, SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

More shades are to be found in the perforated than in the unperforated stamps. In the perforated, Type I is found in brick red, red brown and brown, with many shades ranging between. The other types occur generally in orange brown and brown, but other shades of less prominence can be found.

This value is not especially interesting in cancellations as paid, way, free, steam, ship, etc., are not often seen.

Ten Cents, 1851.

The Act mentioned above, passed March 30th, 1855, also included an increase in postal rates for letters carried over 3,000 miles, as well as other important changes. It became necessary to issue a stamp of ten cent denomination, and this was placed on sale on May 4th, 1855.

The ten cent stamp bears a portrait of George Washington, after Stuart. There are two distinct shades, yellow green and dark green. These are found in both the perforated and imperforate issues.

There are several types of the ten cent value. Scott lists two, combining the others. The differences lie in the curved outer lines of the labels at the top and bottom of the stamp, and in the ornaments at the sides. There are six types in the imperforates and five in the perforated.

Type I is the original design, with complete outer line at top of label inscribed "U. S. Postage" and at bottom of label bearing value "ten cents", and with complete ornaments at sides, showing the three pearls in their entirety.

Type II has the outer lines above mentioned broken in the center, but with complete side ornaments.

Type III shows the re-cutting of the outer lines, similar to the re-cutting on the 1c stamp. The ornaments at sides are complete, with pearls.

Type IV bears the complete outer lines as in Type I, but the side ornaments are partly cut away, so that part or all of the pearls are missing.

Type V has the outer lines broken in the center as in Type II, but with side ornaments partly cut away, so that part or all of the pearls are missing.

Type VI has the outer lines re-cut as in Type III, but the side ornaments are broken and pearls missing as in Types IV and V. The existence of this type in the perforated stamp may not be definitely proven.

These types are more or less confusing to the amateur collector, and can be learned best by carefully studying the illustrations. There are several intermediate types, showing the lines more or less cut away and only one or two pearls missing.

In the writer's opinion, this ten cent value is one of the handsomest stamps ever issued, and one of the most interesting to the collector of these types. It is possible to obtain some interesting cancellations.

12 Cents, 1851.

This value was placed on sale July 1st, 1851, for the first time. It bears a portrait of Washington, facing three-quarters to the left, after Stuart. Few shades exist. There are no plate varieties of importance, either in the imperforate or the perforated.

Bisected copies are known, where the stamp has been cut diagonaly, and used as 6c, also in quarters for use as 3c. Splits of this nature are only proven genuine when on the original cover, with cancellation covering the cut. Dangerous bogus splits are known, with cleverly reproduced cancellations. Most of these bisects were used in California, indicating a shortage of the three cent stamps.

The imperforate stamp is also known printed on both sides.

24 Cents, 1851.

This value, together with the 30c and 90c, in imperforate condition, are three of the greatest rarities of U. S. stamps, and are known as such to all collectors.

Little record of the issue of the imperforate 24c stamp is known. Pairs, blocks and strips of unused are known and several copies used on cover have been discovered, proving that this value was issued imperforate. While the plates were made sometime between 1856 and 1860, the exact date of issue has not been determined, but it is thought to have been in June, 1860.

Like the ten and twelve cent values, this value also pictures Washington from a painting by Stuart, but in a three-quarter face to right position. The three principal shades are lilac, red lilac and grav lilac.

The fact that the perforated series was in general use at the time the 24c, 30c and 90c stamps were issued, and that these three values were issued perforated at the same time or shortly afterward, would indicate that the imperforates were from sheets which escaped perforating rather than that they were intended to be issued without perforations.

30 Cents, 1851.

This value pictures Benjamin Franklin, in profile. There are no plate types and but few shades of this stamp. Both imperforate and perforated were issued about the same time. The use of the imperforate has been proven by cover found (Luff). Unused copies are known in pairs, with gum and paper of the perforated stamps.

It is claimed that a few sheets of 30c stamps were issued in black, but that the color was changed at once as the cancellations did not show up properly. The actual sale and use of this variety has never been shown conclusively, and it is quite possible that these stamps are merely proofs or trial colors.

90 Cents, 1851.

The ninety cent stamp bears a portrait of Washington in full uniform, from a painting by Trumbull. There are no type varieties and but two shades, indigo and dark indigo. The imperforate stamp is extremely rare, but it is said to have been used.

Used copies of the ninety cent value are scarcer than unused. The writer has had a view of a 90c, 30c, 10c and two 1c used on one cover to South Africa. The owner holds this cover at many times catalogue value, so an idea of the rarity of the 90c on cover may be realized.

This concludes the "Before the War" stamps—perhaps the most popular of all United States issues.

NEW U. S. ENVELOPES.

By J. Murray Bartels.

The February issue of the U. S. Official Postal Guide has some important announcements for envelope collectors. We are to have "window" and "Extra Quality" envelopes as an innovation. The latter will appear only on white paper but will be required by "cut square" collectors as they will be on heavy thick paper and cost about double price. The window style, already extensively manufactured privately, have a transparent space showing the address through from the letter or statement inside and will not require special addressing. This will mean a substantial saving to large concerns (telephone, gas, electric light companies, etc.,) sending out monthly statements.

The official notice reads:—

"1. Notice is hereby given that the Department is preparing to issue certain additional and improved stamped envelopes, and that prices on all stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers have been advanced.

2. The various styles of stamped envelopes will be known as "Low-back", "High-back", "Extra-quality" and "Window".

3. "Low-back" envelopes are those in which the folded side flaps form a flattened V-shape at the back. They will be supplied by the Department unless postmasters indicate otherwise on their requisitions.

4. "High-back" envelopes are cut high in the back, and are preferred by some users as being better suited to bulky inclosures than the "low-back" style. They contain more paper, and are therefore somewhat more costly to manufacture than "low-back" envelopes. They are now available in sizes 5, 8 and 13. Requisitions should be plainly marked "High-back".

5. The "extra-quality" envelopes are intended for sale to purchasers desiring a specially fine grade of stationery. Notice will appear in the Postal Guide when the Department is ready to supply them.

6. The window stamped envelopes are issued in response to a considerable demand on the part of large patrons of the postal service. They constitute a decided convenience, being ready for use without either stamping or addressing. The rules respecting the use of unstamped window envelopes in the mails (1916 Postal Guide, page 41) will govern also the use of window stamped envelopes. They will only be issued with the printed return-cards of purchasers, in lots of 500 or multiples of 500. Notice will be given in the Postal Guide when orders may be accepted by postmasters for window stamped envelopes."

The "Low and High-Back" envelopes have been in use right along and known to collectors as new and old knives.

The following will be included in the schedule:

High-Back: No. 5—1c, 2c, white and amber.
No. 8—1c, 2c, 4c, white and amber.
No. 13—1c, 2c, white and amber.

Extra Quality: No. 5—1c, 2c, white.
No. 8—1c, 2c, 4c, white.
No. 10—2c, white.
No. 11—1c, 2c, white.
No. 13—1c, 2c, white.

Window: No. 5—1c, white, amber.
No. 8—1c, white, amber.
No. 13—1c, white, amber.
No. 5—2c, white, amber, blue and buff.
No. 8—2c, white, amber, blue and buff.
No. 13—2c, white, amber, blue and buff.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Henry Voltz of New York City, who has been a regular advertiser in the Weekly for some time, has sold his stock to the Marks Stamp Co. We are sorry to lose Mr. Voltz as an advertiser. We have never had a single complaint filed against him during his business connection with the Weekly and his bills for advertising have always been paid promptly on presentation.

—"Will some one of the many readers of the Weekly tell me the best way to mount my envelopes—old covers, with rare postmarks and stamps on them—to the best advantage? Are there albums for such purposes? I do not remember of ever seeing one advertised.—Olin H. Clark.

—March 16 the Milwaukee Philatelic Society will hold its regular meeting at the Public Library, and a special movement is on foot to arouse interest locally not only in the Society but in stamp collecting itself. There will be an exhibit of a fine collection of U. S. stamps. A call for the meeting signed by the secretary, H. W. Protzmann, is at hand. Local collectors are invited to attend.

—Mrs. E. W. Oughtred submits for our examination a variety of the King George 1c post card which she has just seen for the first time. We do not know whether or not it has been chronicled in our New Issues department. The card in question has a horizontal line in the color of the stamp extending across the right hand half of the card and designed to keep the address lines in the lower half of the card.

—We have been favored with a specimen of a type two Canada 5c war tax stamp of the strip form. It differs from type one in that the picture of King George at the left and the numeral at the right are engraved at right angles to the remainder of the stamp. We presume that the set is now appearing in this form. Mrs. Oughtred calls our attention to the fact that this specimen is gummed, where in type one all values were issued without gum.

—Lowell J. Ragatz, Madison, Wis., cannot secure replies from letters sent M. Gener, Havana, Cuba. He would like to hear from other persons similarly situated.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Detroit Stamp Co., Wm. L. Hamilton (2), H. H. Reeves, G. S. Wallick, Elmer E. Smith, and Globe Stamp Co. (3)

—The Artemuis Stamp Co. informs us that A. Gilot of Ponce, Porto Rico, has settled its claim and the complaint is withdrawn.

—C. M. Breder sends us three interesting clippings. Two are from the Newark Sunday Call and the other from the Philadelphia Inquirer. Courtesies such as this are greatly appreciated by the editor, even though it is not always possible to use the clippings submitted.

EDITORIAL.

Disturbed—We learn that in consequence of the unsettled conditions attending the exchange of mail between this country and Europe, measures are being devised in an attempt to overcome the uncertainty as to the fate of foreign mail. The suggestion has been made to the Postmaster-General by the Merchants' Association of New York "that foreign mail be forwarded in units, duly registered in order that the sender may know in what unit his letter has been placed and if the unit is lost, he will be certain as to the fate of his mail." It may be realized how much puzzled speculation was indulged in by business men as to the safety of their letters when the Laconia, for instance, was lost. If they knew that their letters were or were not aboard this boat, the certainty of knowledge, even of calamity, would relieve the suspense. The association thinks that the increased expense by the operation of the plan would gladly be met by the imposition of higher postal rates.

Pitcairn—The post office department is making an announcement in which we imagine that we can detect under the formal exterior of the notice, a gleam of satisfaction. We quote from a circular sent out from Washington: "The steamer Australplain will sail from New York on or about March 15th, 1917, via the Panama Canal for Pitcairn Island, said steamer being due to arrive at the island named within 25 days of the date of sailing. In order that advantage may be taken of this unusual opportunity for the expeditious dispatch of mail for Pitcairn Island, postmasters and other postal officials will please take notice of the foregoing and cause the widest publicity to be given thereto." None of the South Sea Islands have a more romantic setting in the minds of the boy readers who in fancy shared the adventures of the heroes of Stevenson and others. The descendants of the mutineers of the famous ship Bounty were on Pitcairn Island until they were removed to Norfolk Island which for administrative purposes is under New South Wales.

DID YOU GET ONE ? ? ? ? ? ? ?

If you aren't SURE and you are one of those Mortals who like to collect a little extra coin, by swapping or trading, or playing "small dealer" on the side, while adding to your own collection - - - Well, if this hits You and you're SURE you didn't get one - - - better drop a line to "ZEMA", Post Office Box 1014 at Springfield, Massachusetts, and then - - - Well, we'll do the rest.

Special—We find on a registered letter received from Italy, on the reverse, an elliptical label, about three inches in diameter, red glazed paper, on which is printed "Special Service" in black letters. On the label was an uncanceled copy of the 2c., current issue of Italy, which no doubt, rated the cost of the "special" tax.

Pronounced—Our idea of the apex of devotion to philately is summed up in the remark of an enthusiast that he was gathering together a few millions, more or less, of the two cent red, 1890, in order that he might take the lot with him on a summer vacation and study them amid the solitude of nature. "The stamp has unlimited power to please," quoth he.

Eclipsed—We hear that a collector who was one of the greatest authorities on the stop and non-stop, thick v's, etc., etc., of the Orange River Colony surcharged V. R. I., is now hard pressed to live on his past reputation. In fact, he, who as the greatest detector of them all of dotty varieties had his triumph is now so reduced in pomp that he cannot borrow a dime from the philatelic boulevardiers who pass him with unseeing eyes. Item. Every dog has his day in philately.

Junior—The Junior American Stamp Society has been organized through the efforts of a band of enthusiasts who feel that there is need for a society that will devote itself to protecting the interests of the younger collectors and encourage their philatelic ambitions by a regard for and understanding of them. The dues are twenty-five cents a year and the officers are capable young men,—President, H. R. Hendricks, Waxachie, Texas; J. G. Bassler, Secretary, and V. W. Rotnem, manager of sales and exchange department. We wish this new organization all success and we feel that the boys may well place themselves under its wing.

Bad—In the current number of the Stamp Trade, our friend who furnishes the Mexican news tells that the warning that was given in our February 3rd issue regarding the Villa overprints in forged condition is belated. The correspondent shows that he reported the existence of both Villa and Carranza monograms, forged, last July. Since that time, the two surcharges have been coming out of Mexico in full force. The Carranza black sheep were tagged a long time ago but the delay in recording the Villa G. C. M. forgeries has been long enough to be dangerous. Mr. Geo. W. Linn says that there are a number of different forgeries running the gamut from bungling to dangerous. Mr. Linn says that many of the Villa monograms, forged, are with cancellations back in 1907; these are the rare varieties with the overprint on the 1899 and 1903 varieties! Too, there are counterfeits of the small Carranza script surcharge on the 5 and 15c. as well as on other values which are not known with the surcharge. The reputable dealer is the collector's bulwark between the buyer of the insurrection stamps and loss.

Hope—A writer in describing his experiences as a collector says that the philatelist is one who is inspired by a "high hopefulness" as long as he remains a collector. Yes, the tumble takes place when he decides to sell his collection to the dealer; then, hope is knocked off her pedestal and the "Abandon hope," etc., sign is hung out. For that matter, why is it that the collector is so apt to rasp the dealer when said dealer offers his price for the collection that is brought in to be sold? We shall not resort to the threadbare comparison that has been invoked so often to show that in no other collecting field do the dealers pay more or perhaps as much for stock than or as stamp dealers. It is the average collection that suffers when it is sold, for reasons that are apparent. The one that is out of the ordinary is the one that dealers want and will pay the better price for.

POWELL'S MARCH SPECIAL

Saves You $7.50 During March Only

It's the "Golden Treasure Collection" containing 2,000 different good conditioned postage stamps from All parts of the world. Free of paper—none torn or damaged—either unused or postally cancelled. Every buyer will find this lot of excellent quality and really an Open Sesame to Philatelic Wealth.

Assembled to please YOU entirely and to add many hundreds of stamps to your collection even if it numbers over 10,000 kinds. The UTMOST is given in both Quality and Value for the Money. If Powell's stock was not immense and of forty years accumulation this offer would be an impossibility. Stamps catalog from 1c to $3.00 each and many of the scarcer kinds.

This lot never has failed to please buyers at the REGULAR LIST PRICE of $20.00 and so we highly recommend same to you at the MARCH NET PRICE OF $12.50. Registering 10c extra.

Re-sellers realize that our offerings contain a large per cent. of stamps that cannot be had from wholesalers. That the price is so low in comparison to the Value given that the investment will yield 300% net profit on the outlay.

It's imperative that you order NOW!
Satisfaction Guaranteed.

U. S. REVENUE STAMPS.

DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

CHAPTER XII.—Shifts.

Shifted transfers are not common in the series. The only well known varieties come on the 2c Bank Check and the 2c Certificate. They occur on both perforate and imperforate blue stamps and on both the orange and the blue perforated stamps. The shift is quite distinct and consists of the lines in the lower part of the stamps being doubled. Where there is a single line on the ordinary variety there will be a double line on the shift, one line usually fainter than the other. Often the fainter lines are broken. This gives the words "Bank Check" and "Certificate" the appearance of being shaded. It is understood the shifts are caused by starting to rock the transfer roll on the plate and then re-starting it from a slightly altered position, thus making two impressions of the part of the design first transferred. Shifts are most noticeable when the first or partial impression from the transfer roll is heavy and is an appreciable distance from the second impression. Faint first impressions very close to the second impressions will become incorporated in the latter and the stamps will show only a single impression.

Revenue collectors who have studied the shifts are inclined to believe that other shifts equally as worthy of notice as those mentioned are to be found. The writer has seen the 2c U. S. I. R. orange, and one of the 50c stamps with shifts and has no doubt others exist. A copy of the 2c proprietary has been seen that has every appearance of being a complete shift. Almost every line on the stamp is double, yet it is not a double print. The impression is clear and does not have the heavy, blurred appearance of the few 15c Inland Exchange known to exist doubly printed. No information regarding the position of the shifts on the plates is available. The only "attached" copy that has come to the writer's attention is a 2c certificate. This stamp is the left half of an imperforate horizontal pair—the right half is a normal stamp. All we can gather from this pair is that this shift did not occur in the extreme right hand vertical row.

CHAPTER XIII.—Issues of 1871-1875.—Remarks.

The various experiments made by Joseph R. Carpenter as the successor of Butler & Carpenter, for the purpose of protecting the government against loss from the re-use of washed stamps of the first issue finally resulted in two new issues, one for paying the tax on documents and the other for the proprietary tax. The immediate cause of the change was the discovery in 1869 of counterfeits of some of the stamps of the first issue, and in the preparation of the new stamps, the most careful precautions were taken to make it impossible either to wash or to counterfeit them successfully. In addition, the documentary stamps were required to be cut or punched. The writer has been unable to find the law or ruling of the department which made the "herringbone" or other cut or punch cancellation obligatory but such a large proportion of the second and third issue documentaries and of the late printings of the first issue are found with these cancellations that it is safe to say there was some such order or ruling dated not later than 1870.

Between 1869 and the appearance of the new stamps in September 1871 many combinations of inks and papers were tried. Undoubtedly, many of the revenue proofs and essays, both in one and in two colors, with and without silk threads in the paper, plain and over-printed with soluble network, etc., etc., belong to this period. Some of those in two colors have the portraits printed in and others have the portraits printed separately, punched out with a die and pasted onto the proofs. These all represent attempts to solve what was indeed a very serious problem—one that could not be solved merely by the use of thick paper or experimental silk paper or ultramarine ink. Two color impressions were first submitted to Mr. Boutwell, then secretary of the treasury, October 27, 1869. These were "small revenue stamps (of the first issue) on ordinary paper from plates prepared by rolls not originally made for the purpose" states Mr. Carpenter in his letter of that date. Under date of April 28, 1871 Mr. Carpenter writes to Mr. George T. Jones of Cincinnati, whose patent covering the use of special inks he had acquired, "I propose and am called on to print the frames in a permanent ink and the heads in a fugitive, soluble black." (See page 71 of the Boston Book).

The paper used for the second and third issue documentaries, and until about October 1, 1874, for the proprietaries, was patented by James M. Willcox of Glen Mills, Pennsylvania, who sold it to the government, who in turn supplied the contractor. It has blue and red silk fibres plentifully scattered through it, is of medium thickness, and was sensitized by chemical treatment so that any attempt to remove a cancellation, whether by acid or by alkali, would discharge the red or blue coloring matter, or both of them, with which it was impregnated, thus changing its appearance. It is well named, chameleon paper. When issued it probably did not vary greatly in shade, but used copies of the stamps range all the way from bluish gray through violet to pink. Copies of the documentary stamps on greenish paper and other shade varieties are due to atmospheric or other causes and cannot be errors. The true green paper did not come into use until two years after the documentary stamps—except the two cent—had been obsolete. None of the chameleon paper was used for the private die stamps and it should not be confused with the pink paper used on some of the private proprietaries in 1877 and 1878.

As with the first issue, at first it was intended to use a profile of Washington on the low values. Unforeseen difficulties rendering this inadvisable, only three-quarter portaits were used. The fugitive black in which the medallions were printed often is not a good, full color on the used stamps and one can well imagine how unsatisfactory profiles would have been. The writer has never learned of the existence of genuine stamps printed without medallions but has seen copies with very faint portraits and is of the opinion the black could be bleached out completely.

One of the most interesting features of these extremely interesting series is the ingenious method by which the stamps were intended to be printed. When stamps are printed in two or more colors the usual practice is to take a separate impression for each color. Except the $200 and $500 values the documentary stamps of the second issue have the frames all in blue and the portraits in black and ordinarily there would be for each denomination a frame plate and another plate containing the portraits. In printing two separate impressions would be required, one from each plate, and of course this means twice as much printing to complete a given number of stamps as when only one color is used. On July 13, 1869, John Earle and Alfred B. Steele of Philadelphia patented an improved process for printing stamps whereby only one impression was necessary to complete each sheet of stamps regardless of the number of colors used. Both of these gentlemen were engravers in Mr. Carpenter's employ and apparently assigned their patent to him. Some of the second issue documentary and proprietary stamps were printed by their process. So far as the writer can learn the stamps so printed are unique for it appears to be the first and only time any stamps anywhere have been printed in two colors at one operation.

The method was as simple as it was ingenious. The plates were engraved by transfer rolls in the usual manner. There were two frame plates for the 5c, 25c, $200 and $500 values, one frame plate for each of the other issued values, and one portrait plate for each denomination except the 2c which had two. On each frame plate wherever a portrait would have been a hole was cut through the plate the same size as the space the portrait would occupy. These holes were octagonal or circular according to the shape of the portrait space. The portrait plates were thicker and the metal surrounding the portraits was removed to a depth exactly equal to the thickness of the frame plates, leaving the portraits on raised octagonal or circular bosses which exactly fitted the holes in the frame plates.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—The attention of envelope collectors is called to article by Mr. Bartels elsewhere in this issue.

ARABIA.—In our issue of Feb. 24, we chronicle a new set of stamps. We have now to report a second set according to Stamp Collecting:—

"Mr. Sèfi has just received a consignment of the second, and evidently permanent issue for the Kingdom of the Hedjaz. The first set, he points out (consisting of the ¼p green, ½p red and 1p blue) was only an emergency one, and will doubtless become very scarce. The ½p and ¼p stamps are perf. 12, and the 1p perf. 10."

BAVARIA.—The stamp recently chronicled by us, the 2pf surcharged 2½ in black in both of the upper corners, was incorrectly described as gray. Victor Seitz calls our attention to the fact that this stamp has a distinctly bluish tinge to it. It might be termed a bluish gray.

MAURITIUS.—The 25c white back so long overdue is now reported to have been put into circulation. It is the "Last of the Mohicans" and was listed as issued a year ago. Colors black and red on yellow.

SEYCHELLES.—Stamp Collecting upon the authority of the Colonial Journal, says that a combined postage and revenue 6c stamp will shortly be printed.

SWITZERLAND.—We are indebted to Mr. F. Reinhard, Editor of the Schweizer Briefmarken Zeitung, for a copy of what both he and we consider the most interesting provisional (from a strictly philatelic point of view) yet issued in Switzerland. In consequence of the altered postal tariff, the 3c Postage Due stamp has fallen into disuse, and the postal administration accordingly decided to overprint the stock of remainders comprising 1½ millions, with the new value, 5c. The surcharge is novel in form, and was executed at the Swiss Federal Mint. Two asterisks were first printed in red, over the numeral "3", and the new cipher, "5", surcharged in black, leaving no vestige of the original figure of value.—Stamp Collecting.

Lauren Tremper has shown us a specimen of this stamp.

SCHRADER AND SCHLATTER.

According to the Los Angeles Times, evidence has been discovered against August Schrader and Francis Schlatter, the alleged local "divine" healers, held on the charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud, that seems to indicate that the accused had a side line of income in addition to "blessing" handkerchiefs for a "contribution".

Among other things found when their effects were confiscated was a valise full of stamps of various nations of the earth which if genuine, would be of considerable value to philatelists.

An expert philatelist has investigated the stamps and is said to have found that a very large percentage are forgeries, but whether the counterfeits were bought by Schrader and Schlatter as genuine, is not known.

The accused men advertised under the name of the Pacific Stamp and Coin Company, and published what was known as the Philatelic News, a paper devoted to the interest of stamp collectors, both having headquarters at No. 1428 Myra Ave., the location of the Primitive Baptist Church, conducted by Schrader and Schlatter.

Uncle Sam.—"Let's see, how do you spell Nicaragua?"
—Roessler's Stamp News.

A TERRIBLE FATE.

I noted the following in an editorial in the February Bulletin of Pharmacy. The editor had asked a successful druggist, why, since he had made his fortune, he did not retire and take things easy.

"Why don't you quit?" this druggist was asked.

"What would I do?"

"Travel."

"Travel? I tried that once. I went to Europe. I was never so homesick in my life."

"Go fishing; play golf; raise blooded pigs—"

A look of disgust overspread his features—to be followed by one which seemed to indicate that after all, he felt sorry for himself. "I haven't a hobby on earth," he said. "I went to work when I was 12 years old. For a long time I worked for money, struggled to get my feet under me. After a time money ceased to be an incentive and I worked for recognition; I wanted to be classed as a successful man. I've outgrown that now, too, for I have attained the end sought. But I haven't done anything but work for fifty years and I don't want to do anything but work for fifty years more. I don't know how to play. Why, suppose I quit—what would I do?"

We couldn't answer, of course; but we got a clearer idea of why it is some men prefer to die with their boots on!"

So you see that we should early in life begin to cultivate a hobby to solace our declining years.

Very truly yours,
WM. BEUKMA.

PRECANCEL NOTES.

By Dr. W. I. Mitchell.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—The 2c 1898, exists with tail to "R", like the 1c. The 1c, 1902, exists inverted, both with and without the tailed "R". The current electro type I have from 1c to 10c inclusive normal, and the 1c and 10c inverted.

Centerville, Md.—Used precancels last Christmas (1915). Roller type between lines, vertically. Some show the lines indistinct or missing. Have the 3, 4 and 7c reading up and the 1, 5, 6, 8 and 9c reading down.

Chambersburg, Pa.—The 1c Smith's type 1, exists reading horizontally in 1902 issue as well as the 1898. The 4c 1908, I have in the same type, reading down.

Champaign, Ill.—Uses a regulation electro type, in which I have the 1, 4 and 5c only, all normal.

Chanute, Kansas.—One stamp out of every twenty shows the error "Chanutte" These were used Christmas 1915, rubber stamped, "Chanute, Kans." between lines, vertically. I have the 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10c reading up and the 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 9 and 11c reading down.

Charleston, S. C.—Have but one example of this, the 1c 1912, reading down.

Charleston, West Va.—Electro plate type, similar to current St. Louis, 1c to 15c inclusive and 2c due, all normal. Small capitals, rubber stamped, 12c perf. 12 normal.

Charlotte, N. C.—The only copy of the roller type I have is the 12c perf. 12, reading up. In the electro plate type, I have the 2, 3, 4, 6 and 10c normal.

Charlottsville, Va.—Electro plate, tall, thin capitals. Had seen no values except the 1c until recently, when I have secured the 6, 8 and 10c, and presume the other values exist. Have the 1c inverted.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Smith's numbers 3, 4, 6 and 37 I have never seen or heard of and I doubt their existence very much. I have the 5c 1902 in Smith's Type 1, and Highland Park Station 1c 1902 inverted, neither of these listed by Smith. Also have the following St. Elmo Station which Smith does not list: 1c dated "1-02," 5c dated "3-02," 5c dated "4-02" and the 1c date simply "02," without month, the date being exactly in the center showing that is not a copy of any of the monthly dated issues, which all have the year way to the right. Also have the 10c 1902 in Type III and 10c 1902 double in Type IV, and the 5c 1908 in Type IV.

Chehalis, Wash.—Used the office oval "killer" to precancel last Christmas. Have only the 6c value, but have seen several others.

Chester, Pa.—Besides the two varieties listed by Smith in the appendix to his catalog, I have the 1c 1908 inverted, 1c 1912 normal and 1c Panama-Pacific normal, all perf. 12.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Began to precancel at Christmas, 1915, using the 10c 1908 and the 1c to 50c 1912-14 issues, as well as the 75c parcel post and 2, 5 and 10c yellow Panama-Pacific. I have the 7, 8 and 30c inverted and the 10c yellow Panama-Pacific reading up also.—Philatelic Gossip.

FANNING ISLAND.

Now One of Gilbert and Ellice Ids.

Fanning Island is a coral atoll in the Northern Pacific, with an area of about fifteen square miles. Its lagoon has yielded great quantities of mother-of-pearl. Annexed by Great Britain in 1888, it was included in the boundaries of the Gilbert and Ellice Islands colony by an Order in Council dated 27th January, 1916.

As is well known, Fanning Island is an important station on the "All Red" Pacific cable from Vancouver to Australia, which was opened for traffic on the 8th of December, 1902; and in that year an agency of the New Zealand Post Office was established on the island.

The various postal issues of New Zealand used at Fanning can, of course, only be distinguished by the postmark, which consists of three concentric circles, 15, 23, and 26 mm., respectively, in diameter, with the name "Fanning Island" round the top, and the date in the centre, in two lines, thus: "JE. 7—16" struck in black with a metal stamp.

This postmark may be found on stamps other than those of New Zealand, letters having been posted at Fanning from calling steamers, which carry stocks of stamps according to their nationality. Stamps thus cancelled are of no particular interest except as curios.

In June, 1911, owing to the stock of one penny stamps running out, the Postmaster got authority from New Zealand pending the arrival of a fresh supply to hand-stamped letters with the words "PAID 1d.—FANNING ISLAND", in two lines. The letters were then postmarked in the usual way. A most exemplary proceeding, which if carried out, generally would relieve us of the burden of many so-called "Provisional" issues.

Up to the time of writing (October) no steps have been taken to transfer the post office from the hands of the New Zealand authorities to those of the Gilbert and Ellice Islands. The current Georgian (N. Z.) issue is now in use.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

CHAPTER II.

Line Engraved—Plate Numbers.

A slight alteration of the dies in 1858, provided philately of later years with a subject that has created numerous controversies and the use, I might hazard, of tons of printers' ink and paper.

In order to lessen the opportunities of forgery, the lettering originally in the lower corners only, was duplicated in reverse order in the upper corners. As previously, the lettering of the lower corners, denoted the position of that stamp on the sheet, for example, a stamp lettered B-F in the lower corners, would be the sixth stamp of the second row—and the upper corners would, of course, be lettered F-B.

In this new series, in the "engine-turned" columns was inserted in uncoloured figures the number of the plate. In the ½p, 1p and 2p values, the plate number is found reading from the profile, upwards on the left and downwards on the right, always half way. In the 1½ penny value, the only plate number so designated on these stamps, occurs just over the lower corner letters.

During the long life of these stamps of over twenty-one years, no fewer than 152 separate plates were used from numbers 71 to 225.

Many plates were known to have been issued only in certain postal districts, as Manchester, Birmingham, Cardiff, Dublin, and Edinburgh as apart from London. Plate 116 was in fact sent to Cardiff in an imperforate condition toward the end of the year 1868.

As each plate was "profiled" and passed by the authorities, it was "registered". Sometimes, however, a certain plate was in issue before it was actually proof-registered as stamps are known date cancelled on original before their registration date.

The following dates will represent either the date of registering or earliest known date of use. The first four plates were issued before and up to March 14th, 1861, and seemed to have been in concurrent use for two or three years, as will be seen from the list of dates.

Plates 75, 126 and 128 were withdrawn through damage and thus never issued. Plate 77 was issued, but immediately withdrawn for the same reason and the few that were sold to the public now represent one of the scarcest British Stamps. Plates 226, 227 and 228 were made, but never issued. So far as the value of the plates is concerned, all are common, but numbers 223, 224 and 225 are the most difficult to procure. The latter number has always commanded the highest price, but seems no rarer than the other two immediately preceding it.

The stamp lettered "S-A—A-S" in plate No. 81 has the lower S inverted.

Many minor flaws of lettering and indistinct numbering occur. The following is a list of dates of issue or Registration of penny plate numbers:—

Plates 76 to 81—earliest date Feb. 7, 1863.
82 to 86—earliest date March 1, 1864.
Plate 87—earliest date March 7, 1864.

162 to 167—earliest date Oct. 24, 1872.
168 to 173—earliest date Apr. 9, 1873.
182 to 186—earliest date Oct. 14, 1874.
187 to 190—earliest date Apr. 20, 1875.
191 to 194—earliest date Sept. 3, 1875.
195 to 200—earliest date Mar. 9, 1876.
201 to 205—earliest date Nov. 16, 1876.
206 to 209—earliest date May 10, 1877.
210 to 212—earliest date Nov. 16, 1877.
213 to 216—earliest date Feb. 25, 1878.
217 to 220—earliest date Aug. 4, 1878.
221 to 225—earliest date Dec. 31, 1878.

The colours of the various plates range from pale and rose red to a dark brownish shade, all more or less affected by de-oxidisation.

HEADQUARTERS FOR STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES AND ITS COLONIES

I just recently purchased a magnificent collection of United States stamps in superb condition, which I am now breaking up. The Department stamps are complete with the exception of the 2c Agriculture and 30c Interior on soft paper.

Mr. Collector send me your want list and let me fill up some of those vacant spaces in your album.

My 1917 price list of stamps of the United States and Its Colonies is Free.

H. F. COLMAN, SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

The two-penny value had nearly a year's longer life, but only seven plates were ever issued, all comparatively of the same philatelic value. The numbers range from 7 to 15, with the exception of 10 and 11, which never got further than the die stage.

The last three plates show very much thinner lines above the words of value and beneath the word "Postage". The colour of the 2p was fairly even of shade during its long life, but it, too, is greatly affected by de-oxidisation.

A value for newspaper postage was contemporary with these plate numbers of the value of three half pence, bearing the usual profile of the Queen in a heart-shaped design containing up the left, the words "Postage", at the top "Three", and down the right "Halfpence". The first plate was not numbered, but the other, for only two were issued, is figured "3" as already described. On the first plate occurs the well-known error lettered in the corners "O-P P-C" instead of "C-P P-C". This plate had been printed and registered in a bright mauve colour, the ink completely tinting the paper bluish, but was never officially issued for sale in this colour.

Both plates are of equal value, but cannot be considered very common despite their low price.

In 1870, the postal rate for certain weights of newspapers was lowered to one half penny, which necessitated a stamp of that value. It was about half the size of the ordinary issue and was printed in sheets of 480 stamps, lettered A to T in the rows and A to Y down the rows.

This stamp ran through a series of fifteen different plates, numbered one to twenty, numbers 2, 7, 16, 17 and 18 never being issued. Plate 9 is a scarce stamp and difficult to obtain in perfect condition, but the others are fairly easy of access even today.

Unlike the other line-engraved stamps, the crown watermark was not used, but the paper was watermarked with the words "half penny" in Script italics running the length of three stamps.

Several plate numbers are known imperforate and partly imperforate, especially in the margins vertically at either right or left, or both.

As with plate 81 of the penny value, plate 13 bears the letter S inverted.

The Post Office was urged about 1868 to discard the low value line engraved stamps in favor of the surface printed ones as already in use for the higher values. This was advocated by W. W. de la Rue of the firm that had already printed the values over 2p, as a further preventative against the cleaning of used stamps. A committee accepted the view and the whole of the contracts were given to Messrs. de la Rue.

Check List.

1858-1879. Watermarked large crown.

1p pale red to brown-red, shades, plate numbers 71 to 225 with exceptions.
2p blue to violet-blue, shades, plate numbers 7 to 15 with exceptions.

1860-1870. Watermarked large crown.

1½p bright mauve, unissued plate (1).

1870. Watermarked words "half-penny" over 3 stamps.

½p rose and rose-red, plate numbers 1 to 20 with exceptions.

PATRIOTIC POSTER STAMPS.

Those who are interested in this branch of collecting are invited to read an advertisement elsewhere in this issue announcing two patriotic poster stamps. They are issued by the United States Junior Naval Reserve and the funds will go for the maintenance and equipment of Naval Cadet training camps and for the training of American boys for the U. S. Navy and Merchant Marine.

The Reserve is backed by many prominent men. Louis M. Josephthal, vice-president, is Lieut. Commander and Paymaster of the 1st Battalion, New York Naval Militia. Mr. Ferguson believes that stamp collectors and others will be interested in these stamps in view of the purpose for which they are issued.

These poster stamps will be sold at 10c each. There are two designs. One bears the inscription "Camp Dewey, New London, Ct." and shows a picture of Admiral Dewey with a battleship. The other "John Paul Jones, Training School, Corpus Christi, Texas." with a profile of Jones and battleships in action. Both stamps are printed in blue.

"POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA."

This is one of Poole's best books and is really necessary to every collector of Canadian stamps. It is very handsomely printed and fully illustrated. 25c

THERE ARE TWO SEEBOHMS.

San Francisco has two stamp men by the name of Seebohm and we erred in our recent announcement that Herbert P. Seebohm had removed his stamp business to new quarters. It was Edwin P. Seebohm to whom the removal notice should have been credited, the former having quit the stamp business some six months ago. We print elsewhere this week the corrected advertisement and regret the mistake that occurred.

"TO THE BRITISH CENSOR!"

(Mr. Auf der Heide is our Hilversum, Holland advertiser who has had some difficulty in getting his mail through to this country. His most recent communication was accompanied by the following pathetic appeal to the British censor. In our case at least it was effective.—Ed.)

Mr. Auf der Heide, the sender of the present letter is a born Dutchman from Dutch parents, so please let this sending pass.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Vahan Mozian states that his next sale will take place March 30 instead of March 27 as advertised. On this evening a specialised collection of Guatemala will be sold, with a variety of U. S. and foreign.

—The Excelsior Stamp Co. is unable to secure replies to communications sent R. Kaufman, Yale Sta., New Haven, Conn. Others similarly situated should correspond with the Excelsior Co.

—By Mr. Poole's advertisement in this week's paper it will be noted that he is eastward bound. He will be in Chicago March 23-29 and is on his way to Philadelphia, where he will become connected with the Franklin Stamp Co.

—We regret to learn of the death of the Reverend Geo. Mueller of Chanute, Kansas, who was buried recently, the Bishop of Kansas having performed the last rites. Mr. Thos. C. E. Hunter sends this tribute of one whom we knew for many years as a subscriber: "Mr. Mueller was just an ordinary U. S. collector, a lover of stamps, who took delight not in their value but in the arranging of them, in giving of his store to those less fortunate than he and it was a pleasure to visit him. I mourn the loss of a friend and a philatelist."

—A. G. Odell, renewing his subscription, encloses 50c additional for a year's subscription for some shut-in. We shall be glad to hear from any of our subscribers who can file with us the names of some worthy shut-ins.

—At a recent election the following were chosen as officers of the Vermont Philatelic Society, a branch of the National Philatelic Society:—President, W. G. Watt; Vice-President, D. C. Alexander and Secretary-Treasurer, Gilbert H. Doane.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Wm. L. Hamilton, Kendall Thurston, Mrs. M. E. Aitken.

—No. 5 of the Claremont Philatelist published by L. B. Gatchell, 15 Claremont Ave., N. Y. City, is before us. The publication gives the manager a chance to voice his philatelic enthusiasm and a sample copy will no doubt be sent upon request.

—A strong sign of prosperity in the conduct of the business of the Apex Stamp Co., Bradford, Mass., is shown by the taking of displayed space. Hereafter the advertisements of this company will be found upon page 2. We should accord this firm the credit of having had no complaints filed against it for unsatisfactory business relations during its use of adlet space.

—"Through the assistance of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, Philatelic Gossip and the A. S. D. A. Bulletin, I have recently placed eleven complaints with P. O. Inspector at N. Y. City in reference to Kafka. I have also placed seven complaints with the Chief Post Office Inspector at Washington concerning Hugo Singer. Would you kindly request any having complaints on Singer to send same to the Am. Stamp Dealers Assn., Perry, Ohio?" —C. V. WEBB.

—It is with much regret that we learn of the death of Mrs. Howland Speakman of Chicago, which took place at the home of her father in Philadelphia, from blood poisoning that followed the extraction of a tooth. Mr. Howland Speakman who has our sympathy has long been a collector of stamps; and he has one of the best philatelic libraries, specialized, in existence. Recently, Mr. Speakman sold his wonderful collection of twentieth century stamps to E. B. Power.

TEN SUBSCRIPTIONS AT ONE TIME.

On Saturday, March 10, we received a bunch of ten new six months' subscriptions from the Edgewood Stamp Co., carrying the firm's total to an even hundred subscribers obtained since October 1. There should certainly be a strong feeling of gratitude upon our part towards the Edgewood Stamp Co. for the wholehearted manner in which this campaign for new subscribers has been waged. It has meant some trouble upon their part and yet the firm has the satisfaction of making one hundred collectors even stronger collectors than they would have been had this publication never entered their stamp collecting lives.

All Hail to the Edgewood Co.

EDITORIAL.

Called—Under date of the 6th of March, 1917, the third assistant postmaster general issued the following order: "Postmasters who have postage stamps of the $2 and $5 denominations in stock are directed to report the quantity immediately to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Stamps." It is likely that some disposition will be made of these high values as it is the policy of the department to make the stamp stocks as "liquid" as possible.

Liberia—A reader sends us a list of Liberian stamps that the American-Liberian Trading Company of Monrovia, Liberia, offers for sale for cash. Each of the denominations, from one to fifty cents, as follows, 1, 2, 3, 5, 8, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30 and 50 cents, were priced by the dozen at a price averaging about 25% under face. The stamps are used, we infer, and from the fact that they are said to be taken from the company's stock, it is possible that the Liberian company in question is emulating the example of the American mail-order houses that sell their stamps. A footnote to the list reads: "Unused Liberian stamps supplied at 10% commission. These may be postmarked, if desired."

Agone—We remember well how a short time after the World's Fair at Chicago in 1893, two Liberian commissioners tried to market the 1892 set in quantity. Liberia had a commendable display at the Fair and it was represented by the two ministers extraordinary who said while republics were not necessarily ungrateful, they did not in all cases always pay cash for services rendered; and somewhat to their inconvenience they had been remunerated in postage stamps of their benign government. Now, while the striking and beautiful pictorial set of 1892 had made a profound impression on collectors generally, novelties of the kind not having been as plentiful then as now, yet dealers did not find the demand for the $1, $2 and $5 so great that orders by telegraph even at the dealers' expense came in pell-mell. Consequently, the sets were not merchantable except at a discount much to the pain of the urbane and oleaginous diplomats who were confronted by necessity that knew no law and the ambassadors, judged by their ample girth, had to eat!

Thanks—Says a subscriber: "To mix metaphors a bit,—here is something for a rainy day when your tank of experience is dry. True story and all that sort of thing; I know because I engineered the deal. A dealer who was much bothered by a hanger-on in his shop who sought to pick up acquaintances with the idea of making engagements with them privately; and who the dealer was morally certain, chased collections that were offered to the dealer but not bought by him for different reasons. He resolved to play a trick on the undesirable and he doctored up a collection in an old album as the first step. Then, when purposely he was absent from his office, the dealer had a friend, impressed for the occasion, call with the old album, when the lounger was in. The girl clerk, in on the game, asked that the stranger wait until the proprietor returned as no doubt he would be glad to give the price asked, $25. He wanted the money at once, however, and would not wait; and he gave a final thumbing of the pages which bulged with rare U. S. and rich foreign, it seemed from a cursory glance. At this juncture, the pest nonchalantly took his departure and the chap who wanted to sell the collection was pounced on by him at the corner. 'I'll give you the $25 if you come over to the bank with me,' said the victim. 'I only have a few minutes,' said the stranger, who seemed to make time the essence of the contract. The deal was completed in a hurry and the buyer repented at leisure,—the collection as a conglomeration of fakes, frauds and freaks was an artistic success. He doesn't know how he was taken into camp,—yet." Without any insinuations whatever in the present instance, we merely say that a dozen years ago or so, we told a story about like this one but we did not say that it was even founded on fact.

Queried—The following interesting letter has been received from Henry J. Perry, M. D., Boston: "It seems to me that something might be written on the misuse of the term, 'part perforate' as the equivalent of coiled, when applied to U. S. issues. None of our coiled stamps are 'part perforate' but there is a little known variety of coiled stamps issued about two years ago, both the one and the two cent denomination that was imperforate. They are still on sale in a few offices but were returned from the Boston office to Washington, so I am told by the clerks. I have seen these varieties mentioned only once in the literature of philately but never in any sale or price list and so I judge that they have escaped the attention of most collectors." If we dare trust to memory, mention was made of the use of imperforate sheets of the one and two cent for coiled stamps, either experimentally or to utilize the sheets on hand; and it was remarked at the time that the "laps" would be necessary to prove the identity of these coiled stamps.

Canada—The Stamps of Canada by Bertram W. H. Poole, has just been issued as the twentieth in the list of handbooks issued by the Severn-Wylie-Jewett Company and we predict a hearty welcome for this neatly-printed book of over seventy pages. The price of twenty-five cents will ensure a large sale for the work and it is likely that the stamps of Canada will be in augmented demand by reason of Mr. Poole's presentation of the solid claims of merit of the issues. It is our conviction that those collectors who are inclined at all to the stamps of Canada will regard the purchase of our latest handbook one of the best of investments.

Rejoinder—In the course of a letter from a veteran philatelist from whom we are always glad to hear, we find the following forceful paragraphs: "As for the old timer who frothed at the mouth, figuratively, upon hearing the words, 'stitch watermark,' I have only words of reprobation. I, too, think that it is nonsensical to exalt the stitch watermark but I do not care to cram my opinion down the throats of the modernists. I condemn your correspondent for thinking that any interested body of men can establish any fad or fancy as a permanent institution in philately. We know that collectors are not amenable to rhyme if they are to reason and it would be well if they were not so independent as a class. A single citation is enough: A new philatelic publication is deservedly lauded to the skies and all collectors are advised to buy it,—but they do not!

COUNTERFEIT DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.

Our attention has been called to the fact that there are counterfeit Dominican Republic stamps on the market and collectors of the stamps of this country will do well to be on the look-out. We have seen specimens of the 50c and 1 peso, Nos. 126 and 127, which have been declared counterfeits by an expert to whom they were submitted. We urge all purchasers of these stamps to note carefully the following particulars by which the counterfeits can be identified. We are indebted to C. J. Utermark, Seattle, Wash., for his description of the counterfeits, which follows:—

The counterfeits are lighter in color.

The lettering in both frame and centers of the counterfeits are heavier and uneven.

Both of the rosettes in the upper corners of the frame are indistinct and show no white centers.

The cross in the centerpiece is wider, and the vertical line above it if lengthened would run between the two lines in the cross, while in the original this short vertical line would form a continuation of the left inside line.

The ball-like ornaments on each corner above the shield are uneven and the left one is round instead of flat as in the original.

The wedge like ornament above center of the shield is smaller and uneven.

The spearheads are too close together and of uneven size and also show white spaces. The upper spear handle in the lower right quarter of the shield has a line runing through its center, which is missing in the originals.

There are other minor differences.

We urge dealers to be very careful and not offer these stamps for sale in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. Subscribers who have purchased these stamps should return the same at once and ask for a refund of money.

Later.—Supplementing the above information we took the matter up with George Rulffs, 7415 Third Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., from whom the stamps were obtained, and sought further information as to the original source of supply. Mr. Rulffs informed us that the stamps came to him "with a number of other lots in the ordinary course of dealing." We shall watch sharply all advertisements of the stamps in question and do our best to prevent their being marketed through our columns.

"CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING."

Only 50c per hundred.

Three charming articles by Hill, Williams and Foust that will compel attention to our hobby. We offer these 12p leaflets at half cost. Enclose them in your letters and cultivate an interest in our hobby. Handsomely printed.

I have only one each of the Canadians and U. S. listed; but have enough of most of the Newfoundlands to go around. Cash with order, and money back if you are not satisfied.

A large and prominent western house writes me, under date of February 27, 1917, with regard to my former ads this season: "We cannot understand how you can possibly make such quotations good without coming to grief sooner or later. We do not mean to criticise your system but are simply giving our view as to the value of this class of stamps." An eastern dealer wrote me the same thing six or seven years ago. I have not come to grief yet. And if collectors will stand by me as they have heretofore,—in response to my last ads they took up practically all of my early Canadas within two weeks,—I shall not come to grief; but my patrons will still save money.

VOLTZ STOCK GOES TO EDGEWOOD.

The Edgewood Stamp Co. has purchased the stock of Henry Voltz, 81 Nassau St., N. Y. City. Mr. Holloway visited Toronto and as a result the entire stock comes to Milford, Conn. No doubt the firm will make our readers fully acquainted with the merits of the property it has acquired.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—The writer has seen a copy of the current 2c envelope on white paper with a horizontal crease in the paper, which when opened gives Washington's head an unusual elongated appearance, especially noticeable in the nose which appears to be about twice the normal length.

AUSTRIA.—R. Cohen reports having a copy of 2h 1908 issue surcharged the numerals being placed over the original figures of value. So little news is now coming from the Central Powers that often the appearance of a stamp of new design or valuation is the first intimation that such a stamp has been issued.

Porto

BAHAMAS.—A 3d stamp has been mentioned by several journals as a probable new issue; it will be printed in violet on yellow paper of the familiar "Queen's Staircase" design. The 5d is to be changed from orange to violet. According to Ewen's Weekly a 1d Red Cross stamp is soon to be issued.

BELGIAN CONGO.—From Champion's Bulletin we note that a changed method is in use in regard to the "Taxes" stamps (postage dues), formerly these stamps were placed on letters and merely hand-stamped as above without any obliteration. Since July 15th, 1916, the Post Office requires that these stamps be cancelled by the issuing office, so in the future these stamps can be listed in the "used" column. Scott does not recognize these stamps, claiming the overprint is merely a cancellation. This new ruling may cause them to be treated as legitimate postage dues, as is the case in Europe.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—The new 3c stamp being prepared for this Colony will be printed in orange, following the Crown Agent's color scheme. It will make possible the use of one stamp for postage rate and war tax, instead of two as at present.—HARRY E. HUBER.

CHAMBIA STATE.—The Phil. Journal of India gives the totals of the current Indian stamps overprinted for this state in November, 1916: according to Ewen's Weekly Stamp News as follows:—

Ordinary.

12 annas, claret,	512
1 rupee, green and brown,	384

Service.

½ anna, green,	3,072
1 anna, rose,	5,120
2 annas, violet,	1,280
4 annas, olive,	512
8 annas, mauve,	512
1 rupee, green and brown,	384

EAST AFRICA.—Belgian Occupation.—Le Bulletin Mensuel is thus quoted by Ewen's Weekly Stamp News:—

"One of our correspondents, who was with the Belgian Expeditionary Corps of East Africa, has been kind enough to forward us interesting information of different stamps used in this country as soon as the Belgians occupied the colony. At the beginning of the year 1916, the Belgian troops having occupied Ruanda and Urundi, regions situated northwest of the German colony, the stamps of Belgian Congo were surcharged respectively in these two names. Although we have heard of the first surcharge we only now hear of the second surcharge for the first time.

A little later in the month of September following new progress, the Belgian Army occupied the village of Kigoma (Udjidji), on the lake Tanganiyika, and certain values of the Belgian Congo appeared surcharged thus but our correspondent has only seen the 25c value with this surcharge; then, several days later, the whole of the Belgian Congo Series received the surcharge "KIGOMA" in blue, but printed with two different seals.

UDJIDJI
4 Sept. 1916

These surcharges are not very neat; they appear to be made with the aid of a rubber stamp.

The postcards were likewise surcharged in the same manner, but in black, and the surcharge shows up to an advantage on the stamp.

Continuing their progress, the Belgian troops a little later took possession of Tabora, in the centre of the German Colony, and one of the German army stations, but at the time when our correspondent wrote us, no stamp of any description had been created. However, from other sources, we learn that some stamps were surcharged "TABORA."

CHINA.—J. M. Bartels Co. has shown us several values of the current Hong Kong stamps surcharged "CHINA."

Adhesives.

Hong Kong surcharged China.

4c red.
6c orange.
10c ultramarine.

CURACAO.—We have seen the 7½c of the current type in a pale, washed-out buff color, through courtesy of J. M. Bartels.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Geo. W. Hartwell has submitted for inspection a copy of the new reply card as chronicled in our issue of March 3rd. The design has been redrawn and there are many minor differences in the engraving.

JAMAICA.—In the January printing of the 1½d War Stamp, sheets have been found showing inverted watermark, seldom met with in British Colonials.—HARRY E. HUBER.

CANADIAN CANCELLATIONS.

We have referred to the new cancellat ions now being used in Canada and this week by courtesy of M. W. Chapin of Toledo, Ohio, we illustrate two of the types now in use. We cannot take the space to chronicle the various types of advertising cancellations, but consider those illustrated above of more than ordinary interest.

Edwin P. Seebohm, 656 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

TASMANIA.—"Messrs. Puttick & Simpson, London, offer in their auction sale of Jany. 16th and 17th a very interesting item. This is nothing less than an entire, uncancelled sheet of 1853, 4d red orange, plate 2 on laid paper. The sheet has been in the possession of the daughter of the engraver, Mr. C. W. Coard, since his death. At one time it had as a companion a sheet of the 1d blue, 1853, but that was stolen many years ago."—Scott's Circular.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—The war has affected the revenues of these Islands, and mail matter is now taxed to help wipe out the deficit. Letters to the British Empire are taxed 1d and parcels 3d.

The current 1d carmine and 3d purple on yellow of the King George design have been overprinted in London, WAR TAX, in type identical with that used for St. Lucia, St. Kitts-Nevis and Grenada. These overprinted stamps were placed in issue at Grand Turk on January 3rd, 1917.

The 1d which comes in sheets of 120 (not divided into panes) requires two impressions of the overprint plate to complete, and therefore on some sheets the overprint on the first six vertical rows does not line up with that on the right half of the sheet. The 3d being in sheets of 60, is finished at one application of the overprint plate.

It was first proposed to surcharge these stamps locally, but on investigation it was found that the Government Printing Office at Grand Turk did not have sufficient type of the same font to set up the overprint sufficient for one sheet of stamps.

The stamps were then sent to the Government Printing Office at Kingston, Jamaica, but here they were quite rushed in taking care of the overprinted war stamps for Jamaica and Cayman Islands, in addition to their routine printing of forms, etc., required by the Island Government. The stamps were then shipped to London, where they were overprinted by De La Rue and then returned.—HARRY E. HUBER.

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

On 3rd March, 1891, the Chief Commissary, who was then Stamp Commissioner, issued a return of the Provisional stamps with the exception of the 1c, 2c and $5 values. This is signed by "W. S. Turner, Chief Commissary" and is found in the above table.

From the similarity of the numbers stated to have been received from the Government Secretary in regard to the 3c, 4c, 6c, 10c, 20c and 40c it would seem that 19 stamps of each denomination had been reserved for some special purpose, but if reference be made to the paper published in December, 1908, it will be seen that there is a differenc as regards the 8c and the 40c. In that paper 123,000 of the 8c stamps are stated to have been received from De La Rue, while the Chief Commissary only acknowledges the receipt of 100,601 and the 40c appears in the paper at 121,200, while the Chief Commissary acknowledges 122,981. If these figures be correct—and the figures from the surcharges and destruction are practically correct—then the issue for 8c should be somewhere about 29,084 and not 51,483, while for the 40c stamp 5,920 would be the correct issue and not 4,139.

With regard to the 72c stamp instead of an issue of 12,599 5,055 would seem to be the correct number making this the rarest of the issues up to 72c. Of the dollar values, accepting the Chief Commissary's figures as a basis from which to start, then the issues in the Colony would appear to be as follows:

146	1,744	10,956	1,133

The $1 stamp therefore must be regarded as an extremely rare stamp while the $4 (large 4) would be represented by an issue of 149, practically the same as the $1 stamp. As a matter of fact, two of the $1 were destroyed under authority, leaving the actual issue at 144. £4 10 is the Catalogue price (S. G.) of the $1 as against £6 for the large 4 of the $4 stamp.

These notes are purely tentative and subject to further enquiry which may reconcile the difference between the figures derived from the return referred to and those taken in the paper as supplied by De La Rue. But I think one can fairly assume that the $1 stamp certainly is more rare than has been thought.—Br. Guiana Philatelist.

The Weekly Philatelic Era

No paper ever had friends more loyal than the old Weekly Philatelic Era. W. W. Jewett and Willard O. Wylie gave the best there was in them to it, and compelled MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS to do two things:

(1) Purchase the paper.
(2) Locate it in Boston.

PASSAIC CLUB CELEBRATES.

The third anniversary meeting of the Passaic (N. J.) Stamp Club was held Tuesday, Feb. 27, and was attended by forty collectors from the vicinity of Passaic.

All those present agreed that Mr. MacBride's collection of the 1869 issue of U. S. postage stamps was wonderful and showed great skill as it explained the manufacture from proof to the finished product. Unused and used in singles, pairs, strips and blocks, on and off covers, showing shades, grills, paper and cancellations. A lot of credit is due Mr. MacBride for the care and trouble taken in making up a collection of this kind.

Louis Mier of Rutherford, N. J., showed his penny plates of Great Britain and his collection consists of thirty-two thousand specimens. When one considers that it required the examining of about four million stamps to make this lot, it is hard to even imagine how much work it took to finish it.

Mr. Weiss of New York, showed three frames of his German Colonies.

Mr. Magnussen of Brooklyn, N. Y., showed his novel way of mounting stamps on black sheets.

HIORDAN SHOWS SIGNS OF LIFE.

HIORDAN Shows Signs OF LIFE.

We are glad to say that P. V. Hiordan has met the small obligation that was due the WEEKLY, but even more pleased to note a statement from his letter just at hand. He writes:—"Every complaint you sent me has had my prompt attention. None of your subscribers will lose anything." As regards this we are from Missouri and want to be shown. Will the dozen patrons of the WEEKLY who wrote us complaining of Hiordan's treatment mail us a line of information as to the status of their present relationships? Other stamp papers may accept Mr. Hiordan's advertising but no more of it for the WEEKLY. He has removed from Puerto la Plata and is now in Buenos Ayres.

100—WHAT ARE YOU DOING?—100

Nearly all of the royal boosters got busy the past week, and to the Edgewood Stamp Co. belongs the credit of reaching the century mark. A total of one hundred new subscriptions has been entered by this firm in five months. The standing on Saturday, March 10, of the dealers who have each sent in ten or more subscribers was as follows:—

Edgewood Stamp Co., Milford, Conn.
W. P. Colman, Washington, D. C.
H. J. Schmidt, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Royal Stamp Co., West Phila., Pa.
H. S. Powell Co., Storm Lake, Iowa.
R. E. Jonckheere, Billerica, Mass.
M. Ohlman, N. Y. City.
Detroit Stamp Co., Detroit, Mich.

What these dealers have done you can do. We furnish the printed material, which is a powerful appeal to the collector to subscribe to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. Moreover, a premium goes to the new subscriber and a cash rebate to the dealer. Send for a supply of these coupons and use them in your correspondence. They cost nothing. DEATH OF MAXWELL W. TURNER.

We are informed by H. T. Willcox of Jewett City, Conn., of the death of M. W. Turner of Warren, R. I. He was a member of the A. P. S. and died Feb. 25 after but two or three days illness with pneumonia. Mr. Turner will be remembered as an attendant at the Boston convention last summer, and as well at the last Springfield convention.

HOLY CITY OF MECCA BECOMES MEMBER OF THE POSTAL UNION.

Islam's holy city of Mecca, barred from time immemorial to all Christians, Jews and other unbelievers, has been to such an extent a subject of mystery and of legend to the outer world that it is difficult to realize that it has now become part and parcel of the International Postal Union, and that its name, with the prefix of holy, figures on the newly issued stamps of the recently constituted kingdom of Arabia.

The designs and descriptions are entirely in Arabic, and it is quite in keeping with the teachings of the Koran that these stamps should refrain from showing the effigy of the former grand sherif of Mecca, now King of Arabia. Indeed, that the latter should have permitted himself to be photographed and should have allowed the publication of his portrait in the Illustrated London News and other weekly newspapers of the same kind must be regarded in the light of a great concession to Western progress.

The stamps are green, red and blue, are printed by the survey office of Egypt to the order of the King of Arabia and bear on the top the words "Hedjaz Post". The side panels bear the date 1334 of the Arabic year, and also the date of the flight of the prophet from Mecca to Medina. It seems that these new Arabian stamps are in great demand by collectors in London and in Paris, where for the present they are selling at $4 and $5 a set.—Washington Post.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

AUTAUGAVILLE.—A small village in Autauga county, Alabama, having a population of about 200. It is philatelically famous from the fact that special 5c envelopes are alleged to have been issued by the Postmaster here in 1861 prior to the issue of the regular stamps for the Confederate States.

AVELLANEDA, GERTRUDIOS GOMEZ de.—A Spanish poetess who was born in Cuba in 1814 but lived chiefly in Madrid and Seville. Besides her many volumes of poems, she also wrote novels and dramas. Her name and portrait are shown upon a special 5c stamps issued in Cuba in 1914 to commemorate the centenary of her birth.

AVIS DE PAIEMENT.—(Advice of Payment). An inscription shown on a Chilian label of similar design to the acknowledgment of receipt stamp of 1894. This stamp is printed in black and specialists now assert that this particular variety was never issued though it has been catalogued for some time.

AVISO DE RECEPCION.—(Advice of Receipt). An inscription shown on the Acknowledgement of Receipt stamps of Salvador.

AVISPORTO-MAERKE.—The only inscription appearing upon a series of Danish stamps which are intended to prepay the postage of newspapers sent to non-subscribers. In Denmark newspapers can be ordered through and paid for at any post-office, and they are then delivered by the postmen unstamped. These stamps, therefore, are only used on newspapers sent in bulk to the news agents, or on those that are not subscribed for through the postal department.

AVO.—The value in which most of the stamps for the Portuguese colonies of Macao and Timor have been denoted since 1895. Until 1903 78 avos were equal to 1 rupee (worth 42c) so that 2 avos were the equivalent of an American cent. In 1908 the currency was slightly altered and at the present time 100 avos are equal to a pataca (worth 42c) so that 5 avos are roughly equal to 2c.

AYACUCHO.—The capital of the department of the same name in the republic of Peru having a present population of about 12,000. One of the 10c stamps of Arequipa was specially overprinted for use in this town in February, 1881. The town is of some antiquity for it was founded so long ago as 1539, by Pizarro, under the name of San Juan de la Victoria. When the independence of Peru was secured in 1824 the name of the town was changed to Ayacucho.

AYTONOMO.—A Greek word meaning "autonomy" found on some of the stamps of Albania and Epirus.

AZUAY.—A province of the republic of Ecuador having an area of 3,874 square miles and a population of about 133,000. During the latter part of 1902 all the stamps sold in this province were first of all marked with a control overprint of peculiar pattern which was applied by a handstamp to two stamps at a time. This was done in consequence of a fire in the town of Guayaquil in July of the same year during which a large quantity of stamps were believed to have been stolen from the Government stores. Fearing the stolen stamps might be brought into use the Governors of the various provinces were instructed to apply control marks to all stamps in stock before selling them and to refuse to accept unsurcharged stamps in payment of postage.

AZORES.—The Azores or Hawk Islands are a group of islands in the Atlantic about 930 miles west of the coast of Portugal. Though listed as a "colony" in tne stamp catalogues and issuing their own stamps the Azores are treated as a constituent part of the kingdom of Portugal. They are of volcanic origin, have steep rocky coasts, and are very mountainous. The total area of the whole group is 922 square miles. The Azores were discovered by the Portuguese navigator, Cabral, in 1431. In 1466 Isabella of Burgundy in-

HEADQUARTERS FOR STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES AND ITS COLONIES

I just recently purchased a magnificent collection of United States stamps in superb condition, which I am now breaking up. The Department stamps are complete with the exception of the 2c Agriculture and 30c Interior on soft paper.

Mr. Collector send me your want list and let me fill up some of those vacant spaces in your album.

My 1917 price list of stamps of the United States and Its Colonies is Free.

H. F. COLMAN, SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

troduced a number of Flemish settlers into the islands, and owing to this fact the group was for a time known as the Ilhas Flamengas, or Flemish Islands. The present inhabitants are of Portuguese descent, but have a blend of Flemish and Moorish blood. The first postage stamps for the islands were issued in 1868.

B.—I. This letter is found overprinted upon various stamps of the Straits Settlements, and denotes that they were used at the British postoffice maintained at Bangkok, the capital of Siam, from 1882 until 1886. Bangkok is situated on the banks of the River Menam, and consists really of a succession of towns having a combined population of about 600,000. The first is the commercial town, with shipping, sawmills for teak, and rice mills; next is the town of the Asiatics, mostly built on bamboo rafts on the river; then comes the Consular district with verandahed houses and flowering trees; and lastly, the "malodorous and ill-mannered" Chinese Bangkok and the native Siamese town, dominated by the royal palace. Tramways now traverse some of the chief streets, many of which are lighted by electricity.

II. A large capital "B" in conjunction with "Depto. Zelaya" is found overprinted on several of the more modern issues of Nicaragua used in the Bluefields district. The reason given for this distinctive marking of the stamps is that the currency in Bluefields is silver worth 42c to the peso, whereas the currency in most other parts of Nicaragua is paper worth only about 25c to the peso. Bluefields has a population of about 5,000 and has one of the finest harbors in Central America.

III. The letter "B" is shown under the bust on the French stamps of 1862, this being the initial of M. Barre, the engraver of the dies. (See also Barre.)

BADEN.—A grand-duchy of the German Empire having an area of 5,821 square miles. It is bordered by the Rhine on the south and west, Wurtemberg on the east, and Bavaria and Hesse-Darmstadt on the north. It has three votes in the Federal Council, and elects fourteen deputies to the Imperial Diet. The existing grand-duchy of Baden is a continuation and development of the ancient duchy of Swabia or Alemannia, principally through the two dynasties of the margraves of Baden-Baden and Baden-Durlach. In 1803, the ruling margrave of the united dynasties was made an elector of the empire, and in 1806 he proclaimed himself a sovereign grand-duke. Baden issued its first postage stamps on May 1st, 1851, and twenty years later these special stamps were discontinued in favor of the general series for the German Empire.

BADEN-POWELL. — Major-General Sir Robert Baden-Powell is, with the single and notorious exception of Postmaster O'Connell of New Brunswick, the only individual outside the Royal family whose portrait was, by his own orders, engraved on any postage stamp issued within the confines of the British Empire. The label in question known as the "Baden-Powell stamp", was issued at Mafeking during the historic siege of 1899-1900. It was produced by a photographic process, bears the facial value of 3d and was apparently only available for postage within the town of Mafeking itself. The stamp was designed by Captain Greener, who acted as Chief Paymaster during the siege.

BAGGE, JACOB.—A Stockholm firm of printers who typographed the current low value Swedish stamps and the official stamps which have been in use since 1910.

BAHAMAS.—The Bahamas, or Lucayos, is the most northerly group of islands in the West Indies. They include about 670 islands and islets, called cays or keys, and embrace an area of about 5,794 square miles. Only about twenty of the islands are inhabited, the population, consisting for the most part of the descendants of liberated Africans, being estimated at 58,000. The principal islands are New Providence, San Salvador, Abaco, Grand Bahama, Long Island, Eleuthera, Exuma, Mayaguana, Great Inagua, Andros Is., Watling Is., Rum Cay, Long Cay, Ragged Is., Cat Is., Berry Is., and Bimmis. The group is historically interesting as being the first land to be sighted by Columbus on his momentous voyage. The islands were occupied by British troops in 1718 and since then they have been permanently under the flag of Great Britain. The chief town, Nassau, is on the island of New Providence. It was notable during the Civil War as the headquarters of the blockade runners, and it is now much frequented by Americans as a winter resort. The Government is vested in a Governor, aided by an Executive Council of nine members, a Legislative Council of nine members, and a Representative Assembly of 29 members. Postage stamps for the Bahamas were first issued on June 10th, 1859.

BAJOCCHO. (Plural "bajocchi.") — The value in which most of the stamps of Romagna and the Roman States were expressed. A hundred bajocchi were equal to a scudo, which in turn was worth about $1 in American money. A bajoccho was thus roughly equal to 1c.

BAKERS CITY EXPRESS POST.—A local post of the United States in connection with which a special 2c stamp was issued. I have been unable to discover in what town this post was located or the date of issue of the stamp.

BALBOA.—The unit of value in the Republic of Panama since 1906. It is divided into 100 centesimos and has a nominal value equivalent to the United States dollar. It takes its name from Vasco Nunez de Balboa, the Spanish discoverer who was born at Xerxes in 1475. He accompanied Rodrigo de Bastidas in his voyage of discovery to the western seas (1501); discovered the Pacific Ocean (1513) and took possession of it in the name of the Spanish king. Jealousy on the part of his enemy, Pedrarias Davila, (whose daughter he had married) led to his execution in 1517.

BALOCA, R.—A painter whose picture "Columbus announcing his Discovery" (now in Madrid) was reproduced on the 15c stamp of the United States Columbian series issued in 1893.

BALDWIN & CO.—A firm of printers in Georgetown, British Guiana, who set up and printed the provisional 1c and 2c stamps issued in 1882. These stamps were punctured with the word "SPECIMEN" before being sold to the public, as an extra safeguard against fraudulent imitation.

BALTIMORE.—The largest city in the State of Maryland, and the sixth in population in the whole of the United States. It is situated on an arm of Chesapeake Bay, and was founded in 1729. Its handsome monuments to Washington and George Peabody and the Battle Monument commemorating the citizens who fell defending the city against the British in 1814 have earned for it the name of "Monumental City." In 1845-6 special 5c and 10c stamps and envelopes were issued by the then Postmaster of the city, Mr. James M. Buchanan to facilitate the prepayment of postage. These continued in use until they were superseded by the general issue for the United States on August 5th, 1847. In 1851, a semi-official postal service was established for the delivery of letters from the post-offices to addressees and in connection with this special 1c stamps were issued.

BAMBOURGEZ, M.—A French artist who drew the design for the first type of the 20c stamps produced provisionally at Bordeaux. All the other stamps of the series were drawn by M. Yon.

BAMRA.—A native State in the Sambalpur district, Central Provinces, India, having an area of 1988 square miles. Postage stamps were first issued in this State in 1889 and in 1894 their use was discontinued.

BAN.—(Plural "bani"). The value in which most of the stamps of Roumania issued since 1868 are expressed. A hundred bani equal one leu which has a nominal value of 20c in United States currency. On the stamps issued from 1885 to 1890 the value is shown as "banu" but this is said to be grammatically incorrect.

BANCO Y CASA DE MONEDA. (Bank and Mint).—The establishment at which the Buenos Ayres stamps were printed.

BANGKOK.—The capital of Siam at which a British Post Office was maintained from 1882 until 1886. Straits Settlements stamps overprinted with a large capital "B" were used at this office. (See also "B").

BANK AND INSURANCE.—An inscription shown on post of the labels issued in connection with Hussey's local post of New York.

BARBACAOS.—A town in the department of Cauca, Colombia, having a population of about 13,000. An alarming series of type-set labels were issued at this town in 1903.

BARBADOS.—An island in the West Indies situated about 125 miles east of the chain of the Lesser Antilles. It is nearly 21 miles long, 14 miles broad at its widest part, while its total area is 166 square miles. Its population, numbering about 197,000, consists chiefly of negroes or colored people, whose chief occupation is the cultivation of sugar. Its capital, Bridgetown, is a port of call, where passengers and goods from Europe are transhipped to the steamers that run north to the Virgin Islands and southwards to Trinidad. The island was given the name of Barbados by the Portuguese, on account of the bearded fig trees found there. It has been a British colony since 1605, though it was not settled to any great extent until 1625. In 1885, it was constituted a distinct government with a Governor, aided by an Executive Council and Executive Committee, a Legislative Council of nine members, appointed by the sovereign, and a House of Assembly of 24 members elected yearly on the basis of a moderate franchise. The first postage stamps for Barbados were issued on April 17th, 1852.

BARCLAY & FRY.—A firm of London printers who engraved and printed the 1893 stamps for Shanghai.

BARKHAUSEN, L.—Designer of the first type of postage due stamps issued in Egypt.

BARNARD, J.—A watchmaker and jeweler of Port Louis, Mauritius, who engraved the dies from which the now famous "Post Office" Mauritius stamps issued in 1847 were printed. He also engraved the plates for the "Post Paid" stamps of 1848 which took the place of the 1847 issue.

BARNARD'S CITY LETTER EXPRESS.—A local post located at 47 Cambridge St., Boston, Mass., in connection with which a stamp was issued.

BARNARD'S CARIBOO EXPRESS.—A Californian local post operating in 1858. The franks issued by this Company bear no indication of value and all are now scarce.

BARRANQUILLA.—The capital of the Colombian department of Magdalena (part of the territory known some years ago as Bolivar), having a population of about 40,000. In the years 1903-4 a large number of Colombian stamps were printed in this town.

BARRE, DESIRE ALBERT.—A French engraver born on May 6th, 1818, and who died on December 29th, 1878. He was the son of M. J. J. Barre, whom he succeeded as chief engraver to the Paris mint. He engraved the dies for the French stamps of 1863 and also those of 1870, the handsome first type for Greece, and the first isue for Persia.

BARRE, JEAN JACQUES.—A well-known French engraver, who was born in Paris on August 3rd, 1793. He was an authority on most matters appertaining to engraving and printing and was appointed chief engraver to the Paris Mint in December, 1842. He engraved the dies for all the French stamps isued prior to 1863 and also the "Eagle" type for the French Colonial issues. His initial "B" appears below the portrait of the two French stamps issued in 1852.

EDITORIAL.

Out—We have just been informed that the book on the recent issues of Mexico to date by Sr. Cosme Hinojosa, postmaster-general of Mexico in the cabinet of Carranza, has been received in this country. On the theory that the director of the postal division should know all about stamps of his own country, the book should be the last word on the subject. No doubt, we shall have some comment to offer when an examination is made of the history.

Many—As is known, there is no limit of weight to first-class mail matter consigned abroad; and recently at the Chicago post office we had the experience of seeing a drayload of packages all addressed to Russian points, bearing first-class postage. Each parcel bore from nine to eleven dollars in stamps at the regulation rates of five cents the first half-ounce and three cents for each additional ounce. The affixing of the postage stamps on the packages was no mean job and the lack of high values was keenly felt. The clerk behind the counter under whose direction the mail to Russia was despatched said that postage as high as ninety-seven dollars had been paid on a package to Russia.

Off—In the issue of March 10th, Bill Bloss, in describing the 10 cents 1851, in its type relations says that the differences may be learned best by a study of the illustrations,—and there were no illustrations. Through a misunderstanding the instalment was published before the illustrations of the types had been received. Consequently, we ask readers to suspend judgment on the description of the ten cent green, in question, for the time being.

No—The intimation has been conveyed to us rather strongly that there is no likelihood that the Worthington collection will reach the auction block for many a day to come, if at all. Conditions have given rise to comment of different tenor regarding the disposition of the wonderful aggregation of stamps in question but it may be accepted without reservation that it is unlikely that the stamps will be offered at auction.

Adieu—From Mr. Jos. S. Davis of Los Angeles, California, we have received some particulars of the "marks of appreciation" shown to Mr. B. W. H. Poole, "who is leaving for the east." Our readers were informed some time ago that Mr. Poole was to ally himself with the Franklin Stamp Company, Philadelphia. For a period of five years Mr. Poole has done service in advancing the cause of philately in Los Angeles where he found that not a few members of the general public were receptive to the philatelic idea. It is perhaps needless to say that Mr. Poole's philatelic scholarship and genuine enthusiasm for stamps will be missed in the California city; and we suspect that at the farewell banquet or complimentary dinner tendered to Mr. Poole by local friends and admirers, many a word of praise for Mr. Poole was pronounced. We may add that philately is at flood tide in Los Angeles and a recent progressive step has been taken there in the merging of the two local societies there.

Test—We were asked recently to take charge of an American edition of "Who's Who in Philately" somewhat on the order of its British prototype because it was insinuated by the prospective publisher that we had more knowledge of the personnel of philately than any other person, so far as general application was intended. This is somewhat interesting to us whether true or not but we may say that we have received evidence to the effect that we must have kept a close eye on our philatelic friends since 1888, when we joined the American Philatelic Society and the Chicago Philatelic Society, at the age of sixteen. We remember many of the prominent collectors of each decade, if a divison by time be adopted; and we have seen many come, tarry a while to catch the fancy of the philatelic world and then sink under the surface. Others, such as Deats, Wolsieffer, Stone, et al. are unswerving in their allegiance. We coyly admit that we have a fairly shrewd idea of the bigger men in public philately today.

COLLECTOR'S CLUB ANNUAL.

At the annual meeting of the Hartford Collector's Club held on Monday, March 5, the following official board was elected for the ensuing year:—President, Eugene D. Field; Vice-President, Theodore M. Lincoln; Secretary, Irving E. Partridge; Treasurer, Morgan W. Taylor; Auction Manager, W. C. Phillips. Executive, the above, with Henry S. Redfield and Emerson F. Harrington; Entertainment, Olin H. Clark, W. C. Phillips and Dr. J. B. Newton; Membership, H. B. Collamore, M. W. Taylor and W. H. Webb; Press, W. H. Bruce; Librarian, Joseph Wachstetter; Auditors, T. M. Lincoln and W. L. Ulrich. The club is in a flourishing condition, having a membership of over fifty and a bank balance and invested fund of $350. The club will have as guests at the meeting on Monday, April 23, the members of the New Haven Stamp Club.

BUREAU PRINTED PRE-CANCELLED STAMPS.

By Joseph B. Leavy.

A number of years ago the Post Office Department authorized the use of precancelled stamps by parties holding permits, in order to lighten the work of the clerks in the cancelling divison of numerous post offices throughout the country, and thereby save congestion of the mails. While the cost of precancelling has been paid by the Post Office Department, the work has until now always been done locally and there has been a wide divergence in cost as claimed by the various post offices.

Recently the Post Office Department called for an estimated price from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the pre-cancelling of stamps, with a view to having the work done there for all post offices using 4,000,000 or more pre-cancelled stamps in a year. Twenty offices come within this class:

Augusta, Maine; Baltimore, Md.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Cleveland, Ohio; Dayton, Ohio; Des Moines, Iowa; Detroit, Mich.; Kansas City, Mo.; Louisville, Ky.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Minneapolis, Minn.; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; St. Louis, Mo.; Springfield, Mass. and Springfield, Ohio.

At only three of these offices was the cost of precancelling in excess of the estimate of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing: Augusta, Maine, New Orleans, La., and Springfield, Mass. Accordingly an estimated year's supply for each of these three offices was ordered pre-cancelled at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, in hopes that after operating the Bureau would find that a cut could be made in the estimated price which would bring it to a figure equal to or below that of several more offices. It is not the intention to pre-cancel stamps at the Bureau for those offices where the work is being done, or can be done, cheaper locally.

The denominations and quantities precancelled for each of the three offices were as follows:

Augusta, Maine: 1c, 4,000,000.

New Orleans, La.: 1c, 3,600,000; 2c, 50,000; 3c, 50,000; 6c, 10,000; 1c Due, 20,000; 2c Due, 270,000.

Springfield, Mass.: 1c, 3,000,000; 2c, 600,000; 3c, 30,000; 4c, 30,000; 5c, 30,000; 6c, 20,000; 7c, 30,000; 8c, 20,000; 9c, 50,000; 10c, 20,000; 11c, 10,000; 12c, 20,000; 15c, 20,000; 20c, 30,000.

The cancellation is practically uniform for all three cities, the usual heavy horizontal bar top and bottom, with "Augusta-Maine" in two lines, "New-Orleans-La" in three lines, or "Springfield-Mass." in two lines, in tall heavy line capitals.

The overprints were type-set at the Bureau in blocks of twenty-five, five by five rows. The type-set frames of twenty-five were then sent to the Government Printing Office where a number of electrotypes were made of each frame, the electrotypes and type-set frames were returned to the Bureau, the electrotypes cut into blocks of fifteen, five by three, and blocks of ten, five by two, and set up in frames of four hundred, spaced so as to meet the shrinkage of the paper in the sheets of stamps. The stamps were pre-cancelled in sheets of four hundred and perforated after being precancelled.—American Philatelist.

COLORED STAMP PAPERS.

(This interesting article is taken from "Ewen's Weekly Stamp News." The body of the article appeared in the "Colonial Journal" for January and the explanatory notes are by the controller of "Ewen's" new issue service. -Ed.)

The coloured C.A. papers so far made at the new mills are the yellow and green. The first trial-making was of the yellow paper, and can be distinguished by small red spots in the substance of the paper. The explanation of this defect is that after the pulp had been coloured, and the paper was in course of manufacture it was thought that the colour was not deep enough. A quantity of the colouring ingredients was therefore added to the pulp, which did not obtain the requisite mixing, with the result that the first 15 reams of paper were speckled in appearance. As the majority of the paper was intended to be used for stamps printed in doubly fugitive inks it was decided to coat the whole of this making, so that the spots do not appear on the face of the stamps and can only be distinguished on the back.

(1) The spots in this trial make of paper would be more correctly described as chrome instead of red. This paper is readily distinguished as lemon-yellow, and is distinct to either the full lemon or full yellow makes.

The chrome spots vary considerably in magnitude. In some of the sheets only odd stamps can be found showing the speckles, and in others in blocks of four to twelve. Since the greater portion of the 15 reams of this trial paper was appropriated for printing certain Colonial certificates, the stamps existing with the chrome speckles must be a very limited number.

On examination of a portion of our stocks we find the following to have occurred on the paper in question:—

Br. Solomon Is. 4d (? 1916).
Cayman Is. 5sh (? Nov., 1915).
Gold Coast 3d (Sept., 1915).
Grenada 3d (Oct., 1915).
Jamaica 4d (Feb., 1915).
Leeward Is. 3d (Aug., 1915).
Leeward Is. 5sh (Aug., 1915).
Montserrat 3d Arms (Feb., 1915).
Nyasaland 3d (? Dec., 1915).
St. Lucia 4d (Feb., 1916).
Straits Settlements 10c (? 1916).
Straits Settlements $2 (Aug., 1915).
Togo on Gold Coast 3d (Nov., 1915).
Trinidad and Tobago 4d (? Nov., 1915).
Virgin Is. 3d War Stamp (Dec., 1916).

After this trial-making the makers obtained a knowledge of the proper quantities of the colouring ingredients, and the second making of the yellow and the first of the green papers were made to this standard. In spite of the care taken, the new papers vary in shade when compared with the old makings. Both papers are 480 set size.

A certain quantity of the old yellow and green papers, which were in sheets of two sizes, i. e., 240 set small postage and 60 set large revenue size, remained to be used, but the former sized paper is now practically exhausted. A large quantity of the green revenue size paper and a small quantity of the yellow revenue size remains to be used, and will probably last for some years.

The use of the old yellow paper for certain small supplies of stamps, which are printed from smaller plates, is the explanation of the appearance of stamps on lemon coloured paper.

(2) Though the contrary has generally been accepted, we have ourselves been of opinion the lemon paper issues would in most cases ultimately prove very much scarcer than the yellow varieties. The ordinary or original yellow has varied in the make as between an intermediate orange-yellow and light yellow, but in the latest make we have seen not only sheets that may be described as bright yellow, but others that have undoubtedly come from the same milling in an orange-yellow practically identical to the original—at least in separated stamps no difference is discernible in the two makes. The bright yellow only exists in the newest make.

Large stocks of the blue and red papers of the old make still remain on hand, and it is probable that the red paper will not be exhausted for the next ten years.

The red C.A. paper was prepared for the penny duty, and consequently it was necessary to hold a large stock. Owing to the decision to print the penny duty in singly fugitive red to conform to the requirements of the Postal Union, a large quantity of the red paper was left on hand, and as it is now only used for the £1 duty or its equivalent, it will be many years before the supply is exhausted.

(3) The information relating to the blue and red paper might in interest be extended. In the recent or latest supplies passed for printing, another solution for chalk coating has had to be resorted to owing to the difficulty or impossibility of mixing to match the fluid formerly used. The new solution being much less coloured and seemingly in itself containing an ingredient which in drying absorbed or rather in a degree bleached the dye in the paper, the latest printings have in consequence appeared as being on paper considerably paler than the first or original issues.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We are informed by M. Ohlman, 75 Nassau St., N. Y. City, that he can get no replies to letters sent W. C. Smith, 110 S. Wabash Av., Chicago, Ill. Three letters plus one registered remain unanswered. Information is desired.

—Joseph M. McAuliffe noticing our statement that A. Gilot of Ponce, Porto Rico, had recently settled a claim informs us that he sent the party no fewer than three letters since August 30, 1916, and can get no reply.

—We are advised of the death of Philip J. Appelhauser of Brooklyn, N. Y. He was in his 58th year and died of heart disease. For many years he had been a subscriber to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and was a member of the Brooklyn Philatelic Exchange.

—The Bethlehem Branch of the S. P. A. held on March 21 its first annual banquet. It was a most successful occasion. Following the banquet E. B. Power of Stanley Gibbons Inc. gave a talk on U. S. postage stamps.

—E. A. Southwick, 388 11th St., Portland, Oregon, reports trouble with one Frank B. Smith who has failed to answer two inquiries in relation to stamps sent on approval. H. Wendt reports a similar experience with this same party. Dealers interested will please write Mr. Southwick.

—There was a typographical error last week in the advertisement of the Atlas Stamp Co., West Somerville, Mass. The set of Nyassa, 1901 inverts unused, 2½ to 300r, consisting of nine varieties was advertised for $3.50. The price should have been $13.50 and we are glad to make this correction.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from D. D. Berolzheimer, E. T. Nelson, Chas. W. E. Clarke and B. F. Gurnett.

—You should use our leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting", in your correspondence. It is excellent for missionary work and presents stamp collecting in its most favorable light. We pay half the cost of production and offer the leaflet at 50c per hundred postpaid. Collector or dealer can use these to advantage.

F. L. Koepf reports having obtained the 15c, $1.44 and $1.60 varieties similar to the 12c of the Wine and Cordial set of revenues chronicled on February 24th.

AUSTRALIA.—Through courtesy of O. Kendall we have seen copies of 1p typographed, and ½p Kangaroo, perforated initials "O. S." and "O S—N S W" in two lines (On Service, New South Wales). As Scott's does not list stamps of this nature there is but little interest taken in them, yet it would be interesting to know if each of the original colonies in the Commonwealth used official stamps initialed in this manner. The writer has seen these stamps initialed W. A. for Western Australia.

COLOMBIAN REPUBLIC.—Mr. A. Hatfield, Jr., kindly sends us the following information: "There have recently been offered for sale, blocks, strips and pairs of stamps of the 1896 issue of the state of Tolima, Scott numbers 56 to 60 inclusive. These lots include sundry varieties, such as wrong cliche (10c in plate of the 5c and 2p in plate of the 5p) missing numerals, tete beche, lower label inverted, etc. There are also copies of the 2½c No. 46. All that I have seen thus far were imperforate. After careful examination, I am convinced, from the origin as well as the condition of the specimen, that they were reprints made from reassembled stones. The stones have been well cleaned but show signs of wear and the settings are entirely different from known originals. There are also differences in the colors, though some are well matched. It will be necessary in some instances to make comparison with known originals in order to detect the reprints. I am strongly inclined to the opinion that the printing was done by private enterprise."—Scott's Circular.

According to the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly the following quantities were printed of the latest issue. Perkins Bacon & Co., London, supplied the stamps:—

½c yellow, bust of Caldas,	1,000,000
1c green, statue of Camille Torres,	1,500,000
2c red, state of Narino,	2,500,000
4c green & blue, Gate of Colombia,	10,000
4c orange, statue of Serna Santander,	500,000
4c carmine, facade of the Station at Sabana,	10,000
5c dark blue, statue of Bolivar,	1,250,000
5c black, a postman,	12,000
5c maroon, map of Colombia,	25,000
10c grey, bust of Cordoba,	400,000
10c blue, Falls de Tequendama,	75,000
20c vermilion, Boyaca Bridge,	200,000
50c carmine, view of Cathagena,	75,000
1p bright blue, bust of Sucre,	5,000
2p orange, statue of Rufino Cuervo,	4,000
5p grey, statue of Ricaurte,	1,500
10p sepia, National Arms,	1,000

The 4c green and blue and the 10c blue are intended for use on registered letters; the 4c carmine and the 5c maroon for receipts; and the 5c black for express letters.

GUATEMALA.—E. W. Fuss advises us of a new commemorative issue in a limited edition. His correspondent writes as follows: "I am told by one of the government employees, that on the 15th of March, (date on which the actual president of the Republic, M. Estrada Cabrera, will take possession of his command for six years) a new postage stamp of 25c denomination with his portrait will be issued to celebrate that date, and as on similar occasions, limited numbers will be printed."

ITALIAN COLONIES.—"We translate the following, re the Red Cross stamps of the Italian Colonies, from Le Bulletin Philatelique. The Minister of the Posts has just arranged for a new printing of the

In the month of April, 1916, we received advice from Mogadiscio (Benadir) telling us that they could not forward any Red Cross stamps, since the whole supply had been lost on a torpedoed vessel. This vessel carried a supply for Eritrea, which was also lost. The authorities at Eritrea, it is stated, immediately locally surcharged 20c on a supply of the 15c grey."—Ewen's Weekly Stamp News.

THE STAMP CLUB AT ATLANTA.

(From time to time we have made it known that there is a stamp club at Atlanta, Ga., but evidently the president, Clarendon Bangs, feels that we have not boosted it sufficiently in the WEEKLY. Read what Mr. Bangs says. The envelope referred to is one bearing a reproduction of the famous Mulready design, and the conceit is a happy one.—Ed.)

"You may not know that there is a Live stamp society, altho to argue so would be to argue yourself unknown, in this city. But there is one of nearly fifty members and the envelope enclosing this is the work of one of the members, and it is intended to be used quite extensively by the members in their correspondence to advertise and let others know that there is 'something doing'. R. W. Mead, with the Western Union Tel. Co., is Secretary. The President is of small account—I am he."

NOTES ON EARLY BARBADOS.

By Dr. E. W. Floyd.

Mr. J. E. Lea, of Manchester, has recently shown me some interesting pieces of the early issues of Barbados, and I thought it would be worth while to put these varieties on record.

In Messrs. Bacon & Napier's book on The Stamps of Barbados, it is stated that the unwatermarked paper "is entirely without watermark, even the maker's name being omitted. It was made by the same firm that held the contract for supplying the paper for the first One penny and Twopence stamps of Great Britain of which stamps Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co. were themselves the printers. The paper used for the Barbados stamps was identical in every respect with that of these two early stamps of Great Britain, save that it was unwatermarked and the sheets of both countries were of the same size."

I found in Mr. Lea's stock a block of 21 of the 1d deep blue on white paper, imperf. This shows part of a watermark T. H. Saun, evidently part of the name T. H. Saunders. Mr. Lea also showed me a large mint block of the ½d deep green, rough perf. watermarked in similar type (i. e., double outline letters) Morbey & Saunders 1840.

The first issue of Great Britain were printed on paper manufactured by Messrs. Stacy Wise of the Rush Mills.

This part sheet of the halfpenny stamps is on paper much narrower than the British paper, as the margins are very small and the sheets are of eleven horizontal runs of ten stamps, whilst the British are twenty rows of twelve stamps. The majority of the stamps of these issues are on a thin paper, and when mint almost transparent with smooth, shiny gum of a slightly yellowish tint. The 1d imperf. from the watermarked piece are on a thick paper with smooth shiny gum, but the ½d stamps are on a thick paper with dull, rough white gum. The shade of these ½d stamps is a deepish blue-green, and the printing has a peculiar "worn plate" appearance, so that these stamps can be told at once by this. I have seen four or five blocks (not from the same sheet) and only one was watermarked. I have not seen a used copy.

Apparently Messrs. Perkins, Bacon must have run short of unwatermarked paper and used up at some time some odd sheets in their possession. Mr. Bacon informs me that Mr. T. H. Saunders succeeded Messrs. Morley & Saunders, and a note in Stanley Gibbons Catalogue has been pointed out to me by Mr. Lea after No. 63 in Ceylon: "The 'no watermark' stamps were printed on paper having the paper maker's name and date, 'T. H. Saunders, 1862' across the sheet." My block of the 1d Barbados ends at the "N" of Saunders, so it may also have had a date.—London Philatelist.

PRICED CHECK LIST OF

MEXICO G. P. De M. ISSUE

I believe the following to be a practically complete Check List of the major varieties of this interesting issue, and feel quite certain that in the next catalog more or less similar listing will be followed.

Through an unfortunate circumstance a number of Trial Colors have been listed by Scott as regular varieties, which error, of course, is sure to be corrected later on. To prevent confusion I have appended in each case the correct color of the G P de M surcharge, viz.: Bl—Blue; B—Black; R—Red; Gr—Green; Br. B.—Brown Black.

Prices are for mint copies and are based on my present stock and its cost to me. However, of most varieties, used copies and some used blocks of four can be supplied.

All stamps sold by me are guaranteed genuine.

VIRGIN ISLANDS WAR STAMPS.

(The following clipping is from "Ewen's Weekly Stamp News" and is of interest in connection with the article elsewhere in this issue dealing with "colored stamp papers."—Ed.)

Referring to a consignment of war tax postage stamps the following information is given:—

"The consignment advised we hardly expected to arrive so soon, but it reached us the day after writing the article.

Fortunately we received therein a number of the 1d and 3d plate 1. A later post brought us a letter explaining the reason why our order could not be executed in full, which was that a new supply of the 1d was required. This means the 1d is exhausted and we are of the opinion the 3d is also.

No one had had the 3d plate 1. No one had seen it except ourselves, and possibly we hold all that exist of this.

The episode of the Virgin Is. War Stamp first issue is indeed an extraordinary one, Neither of the old stocks of plate 1 are in a sense ordinary. The 1d is carmine, the first shade, and the 3d is not the ordinary yellow but the trial make of lemon-yellow paper with chrome speckles showing—as described by The Colonial Journal.

Of the four varieties, three are undoubtedly good items which will rank amongst the scarcest of the War Stamp issues. The 1d scarlet from plate 5 has also the chance of being of value above the ordinary.

Revised chronicle.
Oct.-Dec., 1916. War Tax Postage.
1d carmine, plate 1.
3d purple on lemon yellow, trial paper, plate 1.
1d scarlet, plate 5.
3d deep purple on lemon, plate 5."

CLAIMS AGAINST W. E. COBURN.

Are there any outstanding claims against W. E. Coburn, Everett, Mass.? We have tried to adjust all that have been brought to our notice, and if we have missed fire a further word will receive prompt attention. Some dealers have strange ideas regarding building up a stamp business.

NOAH AND THE PARCEL POST.

When Noah and a few close friends began to build the Ark in the old Babylonian town of Shuruppek, it now appears that their idle hours were regaled by the benefits of a circulating library, says a Philadelphia dispatch to the New York Herald. This, taken with the fact that a parcel post system was working beautifully in the vicinity of Nippur, made the work one of the pleasantest little shipbuilding achievements ever pulled off in the old world.

Complete proof of these satisfactory features of existence in those days has been found in a map now in the Pennsylvania University museum. It is the result of a cadastral survey of the district in and around Nippur. Two tags accompany the map, both of which were used for shipping purposes. One of the tags was used to send a basket of books up stream in 1500 B. C., and the other was used for fast ferryboat mails from Nippur to Shuruppek.

The map gives no end of information regarding the lay of the land and the attitude of the people toward many things. For instance, in the allotments of fields it is clear that the priests of the temple had large and well-located plots, while the king had a small one which might very well be covered with water at high tide.

One of the laws of Hamurabi not heretofore understood is made clear by the maps. The order that shepherds bring in all sheep when "the horn blew" was always considered a bit rough on those sheep chasers who lived further away than the horn could be heard. The map shows that the villages were so close together that a sneeze could be detected in at least twenty of them without difficulty.

The map is said to be the oldest, and is certainly one of the newsiest, now extant.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE DANISH WEST INDIES.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER I.

Introduction.

The postage stamps of the Danish West Indies which bounded into popularity about seventeen years ago when it was expected the islands would come into the possession of the United States, have again come in for general attention now that it has been finally decided that Old Glory shall be their flag in place of the ancient cross of Denmark. While the importance of St. Thomas as a naval station, especially to this country, is obvious, commercially the islands have been at a low ebb for many years past.

The Danish West Indies comprise St. Thomas and St. John, two islands of the Virgin Islands group and St. Croix or Santa Cruz, situated to the south-east of Porto Rico. Before they became dependencies of Denmark they were at different times in the possession of Great Britain and Holland jointly, of Great Britain alone, of Spain, of France, of the Order of Malta and of the French West India Company, so that like most of the islands in the group we generally speak of as the West Indies, they have had a somewhat chequered career.

The "International Geography" says:—"They were once under cultivation to a considerable extent, but they are now almost bare, only covered with a scrubby vegetation consisting mainly of latana or sage brush, from amidst which the ruins of plantations can here and there be discerned. But although once largely supplied with plantations, their old prosperity was perhaps more due to the fact that when the other nations ruling the West Indies were at war, Denmark remained strictly neutral. St. Thomas, with its commodious land-locked harbour, was a free port, and as such reaped to the full its remarkable advantages of position. Pirates, privateers, men-of-war and merchant vessels of all nations met within its harbour in peace and safety, and obtained supplies from its traders. Of late years, however, St. Thomas has very much declined, and is now little more than a port of call. The area of the island is twenty-three square miles, and its population 12,000, most of whom live in the capital, Charlotte Amalie, which is also the capital of the Danish West Indies. St. John has an area of forty-two square miles, but a population of only 900. The island, in fact, is virtually ruined. Santa Cruz or St. Croix, is the largest of the Danish West Indies, with an area of seventy-four square miles. Once noted for its plantations, it has much diminished in the output of sugar, rum, and molasses. The capital is Christiansted."

The island of Santa Cruz was discovered by Columbus on his second voyage, and was first occupied by the Spanish, then by English adventurers and French buccaneers. The island was ceded by France to the Danish West India Company by the treaty of 1733, but was occupied by the English from 1807 to 1815, and English is the language still mostly used there.

Until fairly late in the 'sixties St. Thomas was the centre of a vast traffic, being, though Danish, the station for the British Royal Mail Steam Packet Company's trade to and from the West Indies. To St. Thomas, for many years, passengers and freight to and from Europe were conveyed as the starting point for their final destination. Large and powerful steamers, plying between Southampton and St. Thomas, carried passengers and goods across the Atlantic, and at St. Thomas an intercolonial service, under the authority of the same company, transported them to their respective destinations. At one time as many as six steamers were constantly employed in thus carrying to and from the port of the Southampton steamers.

A glance at the map will show why St. Thomas was chosen, in preference to any of the British islands for the mail service. It lies at the northernmost point of any of the islands, Anegada excepted, and was well adapted, not only for the reception and departure of the trans-Atlantic steamers, but also as the trysting-place of the colonial steamers whose farthest points lie equidistant from the island. This excellent position, combined with its commodious harbour, made it the most convenient place in all the West Indies as the headquarters for the British mail service.

About 1867, however, the glory of the island waned rapidly. Yellow fever, probably imported from some of the southern islands, became a terrible scourge and in consequence of it the Royal Mail Company's depot was removed. The fever stayed until a dreadful hurricane, spreading death and disaster in its train, blew it away. At the same time an enormous floating dock, recently built, sunk in deep water and other misfortunes followed in rapid succession. It was about this time (1868) that the sale of the islands to the United States was first mooted and matters progressed sufficiently for the sum of twelve millions of rix-dollars to be named as the price Denmark would accept. Negotiations fell through, however, and it was not until about 1901 that the purchase of the islands by Uncle Sam was again seriously entertained. Matters progressed so far on that occasion that a treaty of sale was duly signed on January 1st, 1902, and ratified by the Senate on the following February 17th, but when it was submitted to the Danish Parliament the sale was opposed by the patriotic party and the treaty was rejected on October 22nd of the same year.

The recent acquisition of these islands by the United States is a matter too fresh in the minds of our readers to require further mention, though at the time of writing these notes, it has not been definitely decided how they are to be named. The "United States West Indies" is the name most generally favored and will probably be finally adopted.

Articles on the Stamps of the Danish West Indies are few and far between and with the exception of an erudite article from the pen of Mr. L. Hanciau, in Gibbons Stamp Weekly for the year 1909, most of the references will be found in the new issue records of the various philatelic journals.

CHAPTER II.

Its Postal and Philatelic History.

The postal history of these islands may be said to date from the year of Queen Victoria's accession (1837) when the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company selected the island of St. Thomas for the site of a depot or rendezvous for the various steamships which that company employed for the conveyance of the mails between Europe and America. By direct authority from the Danish Government this company also established a Postal Agency at St. Thomas for the superintendence of the mails brought by its steamers, and it received a subsidy from the British Government for this service.

All the foreign correspondence, either originating in or addressed to the Danish West Indian islands was then despatched through the British Agency at St. Thomas, whilst the inland correspondence of these islands was dealt with by the chief clerks of the Customs Department at Christiansted and Frederickstead (St. Croix), at Charlotte-Amelia (St. Thomas), and at Grand Cay of Cruxbay (St. John). So far as can be judged from the scant records now available it would appear that all inland correspondence, the postage of which was paid in cash, was conveyed under official cover which was not, however, subject to any special charge.

In 1855, in accordance with a Royal Decree, dated July 10th, the Colonial Government ordained the establishment of post offices at Christiansted, Frederickstead, St. Thomas and St. John and the issue of a 3 cents postage stamp for the franking of letters sent from one office to another. When the letters were not franked with stamps a charge of 4 cents was made.

This one lone value sufficed for the needs of the islands until 1872, when a 4 cents stamp was ordered and this was placed in issue in January, 1873.

At the request of the Postmaster-General it was resolved, in May 1873, to change the design of the Danish West Indies stamps and make them uniform with those of the mother country then current. In September of that year the new 3 and 4 cents stamps were issued and at the same time new values of 1 cent and 14 cents respectively made their appearance. The different rates of postage on foreign letters caused the issue of several new values—7 cents in 1874, 5 and 10 cents in 1876, 12 cents in 1877, and 50 cents in 1879. The 12 cents was issued for use on foreign letters after the colony had joined the Universal Postal Union, and replaced the 14 cents. This latter value was withdrawn from sale and the whole of the remainders (90,158 stamps) were destroyed. Various changes of shade and one of perforation, were made and provisionals were issued, but it was not until 1900 that any change was made in the design of the stamps. In that year 1 and 5 cents stamps were issued in a design corresponding to the 1882 type for Denmark and in colors conforming to the Postal Union regulations.

In 1902 provisional 2 and 8 cents stamps were issued followed by regular stamps of corresponding denominations in the new type.

In 1905 a new currency was introduced, the immediate outcome of which was the issue of an entirely new series followed by a few unnecessary provisionals. The accession of King Frederick VIII resulted in the issue of a set of stamps bearing his portrait in 1908, and in 1915, stamps with King Christian X's effigy appeared.

In 1871, under a convention arranged between the Government of Denmark and that of Germany, a regular service was established by the line of steamers of the Hamburg-American Steam Packet Company, between the Danish West Indies (office at St. Thomas), Germany (offices at Hamburg and via Verviers-Cologne), and Denmark (office at Korsor-kiel). This arrangement lasted until the 1st September, 1877, and then came to an end on the entry of the Danish West Indies into the Postal Union. Special stamps were issued by the Hamburg-American Company for this service in 1876, and these ceased to be employed from St. Thomas from the 1st of September, 1878.

There was also a postal service between St. Thomas and La Guayra and Porto Cabello by the steamer Robert Todd, and between those cities and Curacao by the steamer Honfleur. These services were suppressed in 1875 or 1876, and the special stamps issued by the companies to which the steamers belonged, became obsolete at the same date. was afterwards franked by Dutch or Danish stamps, according to the steamers by which the mails were sent, and correspondence for Venezuela, after the suppression of the private lines, was franked by means of Danish stamps; but letters coming from Venezuela to St. Thomas, although prepaid with Venezuelan stamps, were for a time charged on arrival as unpaid.

CHAPTER III.

The First Issue.

The Royal Decree under which stamps for the Danish West Indies were first introduced is a somewhat lengthy document of 21 articles, which was published in English as well as Danish. Although it makes provision for the mailing of all sorts of articles and gives a full tariff of charges for almost every conceivable postal need, only one stamp was issued by means of which postage could be prepaid and this is referred to in a very cursory manner in Article 2 viz:—

"The postage of single letters shall be 4 cents, unless post-stamps are affixed to them; these stamps to be sold by the post-department, at the rate of 3 cents apiece for a single letter, or $2.75 for 100 stamps.

Letters weighing one Danish Lod (half an ounce) or less, shall be considered as single letters."

This Decree was dated July 10th, 1855, and it was ordered that its various provisions should come into force four months later.

The 3 cents stamp, which served the postal needs of Denmark's West Indian possessions for seventeen years, was very similar in design to the then current 4 skilling stamp of the mother country. In the centre are the emblems of royalty (crossed sceptre and sword surmounted by a royal crown) on a ground of solid color within a circular wreath of oak leaves. This, in turn, is enclosed within a rectangular frame inscribed "POST" at the top, "3 CENTS" at the foot, "K. G. L." at left, and "F. R. M" at right. The spandrels are filled with a dotted ground and in each of the four corners are small posthorns set diagonally. The side inscriptions are an abbreviation for "Kongeligt Freimaerke" meaning "Royal" and a "free stamp" respectively.

The design measures about 19 mm. square, the original die being engraved on steel by Mr. A. Buntzen, who engraved the die for the Danish stamps of similar type. As the design is so like that of the Danish stamps of 1853-64, and the stamps were printed at the Royal Printing House in Copenhagen it might be imagined that the die was reproduced from that originally engraved for the stamps of Denmark. A careful examination will reveal many small differences which prove quite satisfactorily that an entirely new die was engraved.

The stamps were printed in sheets of one hundred arranged in ten rows of ten, and they were watermarked with a device consisting of a small crown. The sheets were also watermarked "KGL. POST-FRMK" in the margins on each of the four sides, with a crown in each of the upper corners, and with a post-horn in each of the lower angles.

The stamps were issued imperforate and the early supplies were sent out to the Colony ungummed. Gum was applied locally before the stamps were placed on sale. At first a very deep brown gum (which usually discolors the stamps) was applied, this being obtained from F. Benzon, a chemist at St. Croix.

About 1860 a dark yellow gum was used, this being supplied by another St. Croix chemist named Rüse, while in 1867 a white gum was applied at Copenhagen before the stamps were shipped to the West Indies. These gum varieties are all well defined and can be distinguished without trouble.

As a precaution against counterfeiting the paper, in addition to being watermarked was first of all printed with a burelé pattern in pale yellow, and Mr. Hanciau states that secret marks may be found as on the corresponding stamps of Denmark, viz:—

"First of all, on the die, the initial "B" of the engraver, Buntzen, in the wreath of oak leaves, just opposite the space between the caduceus and the letter "M" of "FR.M" at right. Also, a figure "3", not always well formed, above the posthorn in the left lower corner, and a letter "C" always in the same position in the opposite corner. These figures were engraved on the plate; they vary, therefore, both in shape and in their position, which is not identically the same for all."

This stamp is occasionally found rouletted and though this is listed in Gibbons' catalogue as a separate issue under date "Oct. 1871" it is generally conceded that the rouletting is entirely unofficial and there appears to be no evidence sufficiently reliable as to assign these stamps to any specific date during the period of their currency. All we can say for certain is that they must have been used later than 1867 for the rouletted stamps are always with white gum.

DEATH OF CHAS. H. STONE.

It is with sincere regret that we announce the death of Charles H. Stone of Cambridge, Mass., an oldtime dealer and a keen expert on United States envelopes. Mr. Stone has been in poor health for some time. He had an honorable career of more than twenty years as a dealer and was one of the best informed envelope men in the stamp business. He discovered and sold numerous rarities. He was a member of various stamp societies and will be missed in many philatelic circles.

SAINT PAUL STAMP AND COIN CO.

The company has for its motto, "The House that Quality Built," and if its dealings with all its patrons are of a character at all like the consideration that has been shown the WEEKLY, the motto is a very appropriate one. We can do no better than to make a generous quotation from the letter just at hand from the manager, H. M. Brott:—

"We have taken the liberty to insert a small ad for your benefit in our monthly list, as you will note by the proofs that we are inclosing. Our list for April will be an 8 or 12 page booklet.

We do a good business here in St. Paul and we think that we would be able to get a good many new subscribers by using your new coupons. Send us a sample thousand."

It is needless to say that we lost no time in measuring up to the full extent of the proffered co-operation.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

NATIONAL IMPORTING CO.

We feel compelled to give the information that has come to hand, and we do so without prejudice. Geo. C. Ginn & Co. of London, Eng., has just sent us a draft on C. B. Richard & Co., N. Y. City, by the National Importing Co. of San Jose, Costa Rica. The draft was returned from our bank marked "No funds" and a letter to Richard & Co. confirms the facts. As we go to press a second draft comes from Theodore Champion, Paris, France. The two drafts both bear the same date, Jan. 27, 1917.

JAPAN BUYS MACAO FROM PORTUGAL.

BERLIN, March 26.—The purchase by Japan from Portugal of the Island of Macao is reported in the Portuguese press. The island of Macao is on the west side of the entrance to the Canton River, seventy miles southeast of Canton and thirty-five miles west of Hong Kong. With some neighboring small islands, Macao forms a province with a population of about 80,000.

THE BICOLORED STAMPS OF THE DANISH WEST INDIES.

By J. MURRAY BARTELS.

There are few countries offering a more fertile field for absolutely satisfying philatelic study than the issues of our recent acquisition from Denmark in the West Indies. At first sight it might appear to be a complicated subject, but it is not so very difficult for after slight practice it is peculiar to note how the only seemingly puzzling feature really becomes an actually easy matter. This refers to the differentiating of the various printings of the bi-colored issue with numerals in center, in use from 1873 to 1900 and in two cases till 1905.

Some fifteen years ago the writer took up this subject and formed an extensive collection of stamps of the Danish West Indies which since then has been awarded medals at Berlin, Amsterdam, Paris and New York. With no literature on the subject it was a somewhat difficult matter to get much information. The philatelic markets of all countries were searched for unused and used copies and soon considerable material had been accumulated. It was not always easy to secure the desired year dated copies, especially in the earlier printings as most of them were cancelled with mute concentric circles. However, even here sufficient material was found to place all printings in their proper order and to fix approximately the year of issue. In this respect there is still need for further study and not unlikely that a few of the printings may have been issued a year or two earlier than given in this list, as not many dated copies could be found in some cases.

A few general remarks on the issue under discussion will assist the collector materially. The early printings all appear on thin paper, later ones came on medium thick and then on still thicker paper, as was the case with the corresponding issues of Denmark. The perforation was 14x13½ or 13½ until 1896 when it was changed to 12½ or 13. The first printing in each case is clear and bold, which we might call a fine job, but later the sharp and clear outlines especially of the frame work are generally not quite so distinct.

But few records pertaining to the quantities of each printing are available, however, supplies generally lasted from a year and a half to four years in each case. In two instances it seems that the stamps must have stuck together in transit and had to be soaked apart. These, therefore, do not exist with the original gum (3c 6th printing, 10c 5th printing). A small supply was evidently regummed locally, but a stock of each remained on hand for years and was still on sale after the perf. 12½ stamps had been issued. Being considered undesirable, they were laid aside and new supplies ordered.

One printing each of the 1, 3, 5 and 10c appear in a glossy ink (1893-98) and are thereby readily distinguished from the others. There is also a rather bold strong impression of each of the same values between 1882 and 1887 which seems to be more of a flat print than the others. These two peculiarities appear also in the stamps of the mother country of that same period.

The Scott Catalogue could hardly be expected to go into all the printings, but lists a number of shades. Years ago, under the old management of the company, the writer had a long discussion with the cataloguers, after which they selected what to them appeared the most marked shades and listed these in the catalogue. The net selling prices of that particular printing were accepted as the catalogue value for the shades as named and there has been no change made for about fifteen years. In the list which follows we have generally added the current Scott number for reference.

Varieties:

1c.—Beginning with the first printing there is an extra white line in the center of the C of CENT which occurs several times in the sheet, at least once also in two adjoining stamps.

3c.—Once in each sheet (No. 78) there is a long white dash or pointed arrow, to the left of the crown running from the center circle to the S above it. This is a very marked variety and naturally rather scarce.

7c.—The length of the smaller 7 is not always the same, but this variation is of little importance and hardly worth collecting.

10c.—Eight times in the sheet, at least in the later printings, there is a period between the T and S of CENTS. Sometimes this is larger than the one after the S, but it is also found rather indistinct. We have not seen it in the first two printings, but later it appeared on Nos. 11, 25, 30, 61, 70, 82, 92, 94 in the sheet.

Some of the printings are unknown in blocks of four and it would seem safe to state that none exist in this country nor in any other large collection at least none have ever been publicly exhibited in numerous cases. Even single unused stamps are in several instances very rare and hard to obtain.

Close acquantaince with all prominent D. W. I. collections in this country and several of the best in Europe makes possible the compilation of a useful reference list in regard to the relative scarcity of the different printings unused in blocks and singles, as well as used copies.

Those preceded by an asterisk are unknown in blocks, while in several other cases only one or two such blocks have been recorded. Beginning with the scarcest printing the order of rarity is as follows:

1c Blocks *2, 3, 1, 4, 5, 9, 8, 7, 6.
Unused 2, 3, 1, 5, 4, 7, 6, 8, 9.
Used 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 7, 9.
3c Blocks *4, *3, 2, 1, 8, 5, 7, 6.
Unused 4, 3, 2, 1, 5, 7, 6, 8.
Used 2, 3, 1, 4, 5, 6, 8, 7.
4c Blocks or unused 1, 2, 3.
Used 3, 1, 2.
5c Blocks 2, 1, 5, 6, 3, 4.
Unused 2, 1, 5, 3, 6, 4.
Used 3, 1, 2, 5, 4, 6.
7c Blocks or unused 1, 2.
Used 2, 1.
10c Blocks *2, 1, 3, 6, 4, 5.
Unused 2, 4, 3, 1, 6, 5.
Used 2, 1, 3, 4, 5, 6.
12c Unused 1, 2, Used 1, 2.
50c Unused 2, 1, Used 2, 1.

The various printings are designated in Roman type. The first color mentioned refers to the frame, the second to the oval center. Perforation 14x13½.

1 Cent, Sept., 1873-1898.

Thin Paper.

I. 1873.—Green and dull lilac. Very clear and distinct impression showing all details of the design. Smooth finish giving stamp an almost shiny appearance. Smooth, slightly brownish gum. (Scott 1917 No. 5c.)

II. 1877 (or before).—Pale green and dull lilac. Less of a reddish tint in the latter than in any other printing. The inner thin horizontal frame line at bottom appears more or less broken under oval. Green portion less strongly printed and less yellow green than VI which it resembles slightly. Brownish gum, almost smooth. The rarest of the 1c, especially unused. Blocks unknown.

III. 1878.—Dark green and brownish red lilac. Generally heavy impression of the frame, the only one resembling a bluish green. Quite distinct from any other printing. Crackly yellowish gum. (Scott 5a.)

Medium Thick Paper.

IV. 1882.—Pale yellow green and pale reddish lilac. Both impressions are very light, having apparently a faded impression. Resembling II nearer than other printings, but lilac much lighter. Smooth yellow gum. Blocks are very rare. This stamp was used diagonally bisected in 1882, but is a rarity. The writer has seen two copies.

V. 1887.—Light green and violet red. In this printing the design stands out boldly, especially the center, which is a strong clear impression. The paper seems slightly thicker than in IV and VI. Smooth yellowish gum. Resembles no other printing closely.

VI. 1889.—Yellow green and reddish lilac. Border impression light but distinct. Quite smooth impression. Lilac resembles VIII. Smooth yellowish gum. Paper medium to thick. (Scott 5b.)

Thick Paper.

VII. 1892.—Bright yellow green and dull red (sometimes called the "claret"). Border impression varies from light to heavy, but color of same is uniform, approaching VIII and IX, but the latter is generally paler. Smooth yellowish gum. (Scott No. 5d.)

VIII. 1893.—Bright yellow green and reddish lilac. Rather heavy printing. The green is a glossy ink, making this printing very distinct from the others. Crackly yellowish gum.

IX. 1896.—Pale yellow green and brown red. Generally a rather pale shade of both colors, though border comes heavily printed. The brown red color is quite distinct from other printings. The commonest of all. (Scott No. 5.)

The Weekly Philatelic Era

No paper ever had friends more loyal than the old Weekly Philatelic Era. W. W. Jewett and Willard O. Wylie gave the best there was in them to it, and compelled MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS to do two things:

(1) Purchase the paper.
(2) Locate it in Boston.

Do you want a complete sample volume and have a bit of winter reading that will be keenly enjoyed? We have a few volumes that came to us with the consolidation of the two papers.

Special Price 50c—52 Nos.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

OUR USERS OF LARGE SPACE.

The interest of the Managing Editor in match and medicine stamps prompts him to call attention to the various advertisements of George J. Carter scattered through this issue. Our interest in these stamps was aroused by a special number of the WEEKLY issued many years ago, and in the growing popularity of revenues, match and medicines are coming into their own. Our stamps are mounted in a Carter album and its illustrations make this side-line of our hobby a source of instruction and pleasure Get in touch with Carter.

The quarter page advertisement announcing the Drew auction sale is an "important announcement" indeed. The collection of Mr. Conant of Portland, Me., represents the type of old collection that is occasionally broken up, affording an opportunity for the securing of stamps that are seldom if ever advertised. Mr. Drew features this important sale and it is bound to attract attention.

We have frequently called attention to the value of the columns of the WEEKLY in the matter of low prices quoted. There is no better way to buy stamps than to patronize our columns. The half page advertisement of the Edmond Stamp Co. well illustrates the thought that we seek to convey. Here is a firm closing out its stock of stamps and offering the same at prices that will command patronage. We cannot object to the use of a big discount display line when the stamps are named and described as in this advertisement.

The stress of war has been manifested in the stamp business, yet notwithstanding the difficulties in correspondence Hugo Griebert has maintained his new issue service during the nearly three years of the war. His quarter page announcement this week gives every indication that he does not intend to shut up shop so far as American business is concerned. Not only has Mr. Griebert been with us regularly, all through these past months, but also W. T. Wilson, Leonard Brand, Bright & Son and Bridger & Kay.

A ROYAL BIT OF BOOSTING.

It is seldom the WEEKLY has occasion to acknowledge such a splendid piece of work as recently done by the Detroit Stamp Co., 99 Belmont Av., Detroit, Mich. Carl F. Binder, the manager of the company, has just sent in a batch of eleven new six months' subscriptions, and all eleven subscribers are located in Detroit. These names were received too late to be included in the totals announced elsewhere in this issue, but they will be included in the next summary.

Our thanks to Mr. Binder, who writes: "Herewith a few new subscriptions. We are writing to assure you that altho at the present time we are not advertising with you we still wish to let you know that we will not be wanting in support of the WEEKLY. We consider it a good paper doing the best it can for philately."

EDITORIAL.

Ours—Now that the Danish West Indies are really our own, we take the means of a special number of the WEEKLY to celebrate the historic event of annexation. However, the declaration that the United States had acquired the islands is by no means a novel one, as in the past, we have utilized the annexation of the islands as justification of many a congratulatory expression in the paper. On this occasion, we are out of the woods and so may gleefully record our satisfaction, speaking as a philatelist, at the happy ending of a story that has dragged along its interest for a good many years.

Delay—If our words that were prepared on past assurances that the annexation of the islands was almost an accomplished fact lost their point on account of the dilatory tactics of one or both governments, we could stand the disappointment because it did not cost us anything. It was different with our country. In 1902, the price put on the islands by the Danish government was $5,000,000, an amount less than that offered for the islands in 1865 by Secretary Seward of Lincoln's cabinet, who bid $7,500,000. The right, title and interest in the islands have passed to the United States now, in consideration of the amount of $25,000,000 paid to Denmark. Though delays have proved expensive in this instance, they have not been dangerous.

Stamps—Through its stamps shall the collector know them; and for the past fifteen years or so, the stamps of the islands have been studied thoroughly as their merits deserve and because of the manifest destiny of the islands to become a part of this country. The philatelist knows much more about our newest possessions than folks in general do; and many of us cannot get out of mind, the description of the Danish West Indies in the album, "consisting of St. Thomas, St. Croix, St. John, etc." We may add that every one of the fifty islands that are included in our purchase is welcomed. The stamps of the Danish West Indies become even more intimate to the collector in this country by reason of their new estate as representing a colony of the United States.

Poole—Mr. Bertram W. H. Poole, once of Los Angeles, California, stopped at Chicago for nearly a week on his way to Philadelphia, the new scene of his philatelic endeavors. Mr. Poole was visited by many of the Chicago collectors who were regaled with a sight of many fine stamps. We may add that we shall have something to say of the opinions and predictions of Mr. Poole, one of the foremost philatelic students of the times in the next issue of the paper.

* * *

Truth—The member who was to exhibit his stamp collection as the entertainment at a meeting of the local club arose and said: "Before I open my album, I want to say a few words. I know that it is presumptuous of me to exhibit my poor little lot when so many of the members could make a much better showing. You will see that my collection is relatively small and somewhat ordinary." It was.

* * *

Variations—A subscriber writes: "In your issue of March 10th, 1917, the Bahamas five pence, special delivery stamp is advertised by ..... at 40c; by ..... at 25c and I bought four in Chicago at 13c each. How much is this stamp really worth?" This question does not allow of a definite answer. The price of the stamp may be said not to be stabilized as yet. Certain reports about the stamp gave it speculative possibilities and consequently a price in keeping. We know that the Bahamas five pence special delivery was not supplied to all new issue services, the explanation being that the supply was limited. We got in touch with the Chicago dealer who sold the stamps for 13c and heard him say that his price really had no bearing in this case on the real value of the stamp as he said that to patrons of his new issue service he gave the stamps at a moderate advance over face and at the very time he charged non-customers twenty cents. This dealer got the stamps direct from the Bahamas from a special correspondent there who told of the "limited supply" of the stamp. Circumstances alter cases and consequently, prices, when it comes to new issues that are off the beaten track in these tense days. As to these novelties the collector does not know whether to wait and get left, or buy at once at the prevailing price,—and get left.

Ancient—Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz, Madison, Wisconsin, writes: "I was reading a translation of the 'Life of Augustus,' written by Tranquillus C. Suetonius and published in 120 A. D., and ran across a paragraph relating to the postal service in the Empire that interested me greatly. It follows: Paragraph 47. 'In order to obtain the earliest intelligence of what was passing in the provinces, he (Augustus) established posts, consisting at first of young men stationed at moderate distances along the military roads and afterwards of regular couriers with fast vehicles, which appeared to him the most commodious because the persons who were bearers of despatches, written on the spot, might then be questioned about the business, as occasion occurred'."

Keen—Our correspondent, Mr. Hugh C. Barr, who is traveling through South America, is now in Chile after having spent some time in Argentine Republic and Uruguay, where philatelic conditions were such as to emphasize the conclusions that he had reached in a previous letter to the effect that these republics were in a high state of philatelic cultivation. Several of the large cities of Chile are known for their large percentage of philatelic population and Americans who have had the opportunity to feel the philatelic pulse of that country say that it beats free and full. In other words, about the most unpromising place to buy early Chilean stamps is in Chilean cities and it is truly to be said that the stamps are with honor in their own country.

Upwards—The increase in the price of stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers which was certified to by the department several months ago may not be the last one to affect these commodities. It is intimated that if conditions become more unfavorable a further boost will have to be made. Thus does the blight of the high cost of living penetrate into the recesses that supposedly were immune from the influence. We do not anticipate an advance in the cost of postage stamps to the public because of the increased price of paper but we do not take the stand that the postal department would not be justified in tacking on a premium. Speaking of the cost of paper, the circumscribed circulation of the stamp papers has its compensation these days!

is a book that should be in the hands of every philatelist. It describes and illustrates:
Regular Government Issues U. S. Envelopes
Carrier Stamps Confederate Provisionals
The illustrations are large and clear. There are no less than 15 for the 1861 issue. The cog wheel punch, triangles and capped "2's" are finely pictured. The manner in which the five dies of the 1853 envelope is treated is alone worth the price of subscription, while the collecting of Reays and Plymptons is made as easy as rolling off a log. We don't sell this book—WE GIVE IT AWAY!

$7.95 BUYS the original $10.00 "COMMEMORATIVE" collection of 1500 all different postage stamps from all parts of the world. Complete sets—High Values—Immense Real Value for the Price asked. Catalog value makes no difference to us, but incidentally we will mention that the total is more than you would expect as there are DOZENS of stamps that cat. from 40c to $3.00 each in the "pink of condition." Fine lot from Iceland, Italy, OLD Liberia*, Hawaii, Servia, Mexico, Turkey, Dominican, China, Soudan, etc., from our immense stock of 30 years accumulation.

ONLY good conditioned postage stamps—NONE torn or damaged—NO revenues, telegraphs, counterfeits, locals, cut cards or envelopes—in fact, no trash—only those postage stamps that the discriminating collector places in his albums.

This packet contains a world-wide representation—many HARD-TO-GET-KINDS—commemoratives, jubilees and rare legitimate postally used surcharges. Nice lot from Europe—old issues that cat. up to 60c each. British, French, Portuguese and Spanish Colonies POSTALLY USED that cat. up to 75c each.

Costly lot of So. & Cent. Am. from the noted Cormack stock, especially large and valuable showings from Argentine, Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Panama, Peru, Uruguay, etc., that cat. up $3.00 each.

No WHOLESALER can duplicate this lot—stamp for stamp—at our price without losing money in so doing. Collectors having even over 10,000 kinds can use this lot to real advantage. Re-sellers will find it a money maker as it contains large numbers that are missing in even the larger collections. It means quick sellers—fine stock—at least 300% profit even at 50% off Scott's prices.

Powell's assemblings, like good men, improve on acquaintance. They are the only packets that really satisfy. Only sold DIRECT at our prices.

GUARANTEED TO SATISFY OR MONEY BACK.

We offer YOU the UTMOST in QUALITY, REAL VALUE, SERVICE and PROTECTION.

Don't wait—don't put this off—sit right down NOW and send us your order making remittance in any convenient form. Registering 10c extra. Orders filled the day that they are received.

CHINA AND ITS STAMPS.

By C. A. HOWES, F. R. P. S., President American Philatelic Society.

CHAPTER XI.—The Unwatermarked Issue of 1902-8.

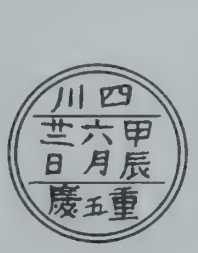
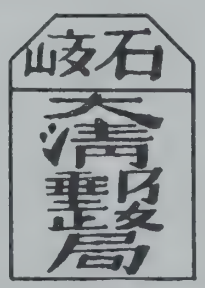
Mr. Mencarini, in his "Note on the Postage Stamps of China," says that "on the 26th May, 1899, the stock of watermarked paper, 110 reams, enough to print about 13 million stamps, was forwarded to Messrs. Waterlow and Sons to print on without regard to the stamps fitting the watermark, after the exhaustion of which paper the stamps were to be printed on plain paper. These stamps were printed from the same dies [plates] as, and were similarly perforated and issued simultaneously with the watermarked issue, from 1902, as stocks of the earlier imprints were exhausted at the Customs Statistical Department."

Fortunately for those who desire to collect both the watermarked and unwatermarked series in this design, the unwatermarked paper is of a distinctly thicker and more opaque quality than the watermarked, and the design of the stamps cannot usually be seen through it with the facility that the watermarked paper offered. The sizes of the sheets and panes were the same as before, and likewise the perforation. The colors run about the same except for the 5 cent stamp, which finally lost the red from its salmon tints and became yellow and orange in varying degrees. The 30 cent is known in a vermilion, quite different from its usual rose red and quite scarce.



As stated above, the unwatermarked stamps replaced the watermarked as stocks of the latter on hand were used up. The ½ cent, 1 cent and 2 cents were reported in 1902 and the others gradually appeared until 1908 when the 1 dollar stamp finished the series.

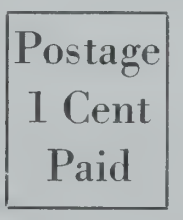


The reference list is as follows:—

1902-1908. Perf. 12 to 16. Unwatermarked.

½ cent, black brown, chocolate.
  Vertical pair, imperf. between.
1 cent, orange, ochre yellow
  Imperforate horizontally.
  Vertical pair, imperf. between.
  Vertical strip of 4, imperf. between.
  Vertical strip of 5, imperf. between.
2 cents, scarlet, crimson, dull red
  Vertical pair, imperf. between.
  Horizontal pair, imperf. between.
  Vertical strip of 3, imperf. between.
  Horizontal strip of 3, imperf. between.
  Horizontal strip of 4, imperf. between.
  Vertical strip of 5, imperf. between.
4 cents, orange brown, pale brown
5 cents, rose red, salmon, orange, yellow
  Vertical pair, imperf. between (orange).
  Vertical strip of 5, imperf. between (orange).
10 cents, deep green
  Vertical pair, imperf. between.
  Vertical strip of 3, imperf. between.
20 cents, claret, red brown
  Horizontal pair, imperf. between.
30 cents, rose red, vermilion
50 cents, green
1 dollar, red and pale rose
2 dollars, deep red and yellow
5 dollars, deep green and rose

The postmarks on the unwatermarked series were mainly the small one with town name, shown in the last chapter, and a new one, wholly in Chinese, which came into use about 1900 or soon after.



This latter is divided by two horizontal lines into three sections, the upper one containing the name of the Province (in the illustration SZE-CHWAN), the middle one the date, according to the Chinese calendar in the "Sexagenary Cycle," and the lower one the name of the City (in this case CHUNG-KING) with often a small numeral, presumably to denote the hour or the mail. The use of the two distinctive postmarks seems to have been intended for foreign mail or that of Europeans in the former case, and for domestic or local Chinese mail in the latter case. The old large postmark is now seldom seen but occasionally crops up. A cancellation consisting of Chinese characters in an oblong frame is often met with, and as it has no date it is probably mainly intended for package cancellations; it is found on letters, however, cancelling the stamps, while the postmark is struck elsewhere for clearness. The one illustrated above reads in large characters down the center Ta Ch'ing Yu Chêng Chü or "Imperial Chinese Post Office," with the name of the town, Shih-Lêng across the top. Several other variations of this form of cancellation can be found.

CHAPTER XII.—Cut Provisionals.

Two officially authorized cases of "cut provisionals" occurred during the currency of the unwatermarked stamps of 1902-8, one at Foochow and the other at Chunking. In both cases the one cent stamps, representing the local and interior rate of postage, ran short and their place was supplied by cutting the 2 cents, scarlet, in two diagonally.

This occurred at Foochow on October 22 and 23, 1903. Both 1 cent and ½ cent stamps had run short, and the steamer bringing new supplies had been delayed by a typhoon. Permission was therefore granted to bisect the 2 cent stamps diagonally, but this was only done by the postal officials. Mail matter had to be brought to the post-office and paid for in cash, when the half stamp was affixed, and overprinted with a frame containing the words "Postage—1 Cent—Paid." The whole was then cancelled with the dated postmark of Foochow—the small one in English and Chinese, described in Chapter X. Of course the word "Paid" and the amount would have been sufficient to put on the covers, where the postage was paid in cash at the post-office; but the half stamps were evidently used for checking purposes. It is stated that about 2000 were thus used.

A similar state of affairs occurred at Chungking in August, 1904, but in this case the half stamp was not overprinted with any "Paid" device; it was simply cancelled with the small Chungking postmark in English and Chinese, or more frequently with the postmark entirely in Chinese, and which we have illustrated in describing this variety in the preceding chapter. The postmark reads "SZE-CHWAN" [Province] above, "CHUNG-KING" beneath, and the date in the "Sexagenary Cycle" in the center:—chia ch'ên [1904]—6th month—22nd (or 23rd) day—The corresponding date of the Christian calendar is August 3rd (or 4th), 1904. There seems to be no record available of the number of half stamps which may have been thus used.

CHECK LIST MEXICO WAR STAMPS

Mr. George Ward Linn, author of the Check List and book on the Sonora issues of Mexico has been working for some time on a list of all Mexican War Stamps up to date. This list will be ready for issuing about the first of May. The list will be complete to date, calling attention to the many fake stamps and other unissued varieties as well as a list of all regular issues and varieties. The booklet will have notes on each different issue in such manner that collectors should have little difficulty in understanding the many interesting varieties. Following this check List we will publish a priced list of all varieties which we can offer. Copies of the price list will be gratis to buyers of the check list.

Orders for the Check List are being taken now at 25c per copy postpaid.

All stamps offered are in fine condition. Stock quite limited in many cases, though we have the finest in existence. Unused stamps (except Nos. 6 (VI) and 10a) have o. g. and all are as well centered as it is possible to supply them. There were numerous printings of issue 1873-96, these are indicated by Roman figures and are deserving of careful attention. With slight practice a collector can distinguish them at sight. We will mark the printings of those you have free if desired and submit others on approval. Prices are net. We can supply 60 varieties in blocks of 4. Prices on application.

NEW 5-CENT ENVELOPE COMING.

At a near date there will be available to the business public a new No. 8 amber-colored envelope bearing a 5-cent stamp. The United States Post Office Department plans to issue this in response to the requests of exporters and others carrying on correspondence with foreign countries who have found the No. 3 and No. 5 stamped envelopes (respectively 3⅜ by 5⅛ and 3½ by 6 5/16 inches) already issued so great a convenience that an appeal was made for one of larger size. The No. 8 envelope is 4⅛ by 9½ inches, high cut, and will be furnished either plain or with return card printed in the corner. The plain envelopes will cost $52.28 per thousand and may be obtained in any quantity; the printed envelopes will cost $52.72 per thousand and will be supplied only in lots of 500 or multiples thereof.

The movement leading to the issuance of the new 5-cent envelope was started by the foreign-trade department of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, the co-operating office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in that city. The compliance of the Post Office Department with its request is but another step in the campaign to eliminate the short-paid-postage nuisance. Many plans to overcome this evil have been put forward from time to time, ranging from separate boxes for foreign mail to the use of distinctive styles and colors of stationery, all designed to fix the attention of the clerk having the stamping of the mail under his charge. The use of an envelope already stamped with the proper postage has proved a most effective check against the sending of letters to foreign countries short paid.

As stated, the new envelope will be made of amber-colored paper, to match the No. 3 and No. 5 five-cent envelopes already issued. All three may be obtained in pure white if desired, but the use of a distinctive color for foreign mail has received the indorsement of some of America's most important manufacturing and exporting interests, and the chief call will probably be for the colored envelope.

HEAR, HEAR.

With your long experience with the literature of our favorite hobby, you have no doubt met up with some very amusing circumstances. Even with us, something shows up almost daily to prove how ignorant "us poor mortals are" on subjects that should be more or less familiar.

In order to obtain some information on postmarks, I wrote Henry B. Chambers & Bros., Lodge, Va., who have had the contract for a number of years for making the "hand-stampers" which are used practically universally for all small post offices in the U. S. A. I received their reply this morning. I will quote their letter in full: "We have your letter and note the questions therein all of which we can answer; however, before answering same we would like to know of what value cancelled postage stamps are to you, and what use you make of them? We have noticed from time to time advertisements offering to buy used postage stamps and the purpose for which they are wanted has never been clear to us. It would be a great help to our business if we could show that many postage stamps are used a second time and if you can give any information in this connection we will be glad to answer your questions in detail."

In my reply, I referred to your WEEKLY and how long it had been published; the number of clubs and associations; cited some prominent collectors; explained Scott's catalog, etc., etc. Also I mailed them a copy of your March 3rd issue, marking your editorial on page 76, also a copy of "The Charm of Stamp Collecting" and offered to give them any number of sources from which they could obtain proof that a stamp collector was as far removed from a crook as the heavens are from the infernal regions.

If you do not get their subscription, I think we ought to pass the hat for a contribution. I am also in favor of having a law passed that every one who is in any way connected with the handling of government mail or furnished any supplies for same, should be compelled to read up on the subject of stamp collecting so that they will at least know what we are and what we are doing. Will some prominent Philatelist please run for Congress so that he can get the government to issue publications on the subject and take advantage of the popular custom and send them broadcast throughout the land free of postage?

Yours for publicity,
O. H. PIKE,

Some ten blank pages, "Stamps and Notes," added to make the book right up to the minute.
A chart, folded in, with data. Poems by Field and Pember. Pr. 12c

THE LAST ISSUE OF D. W. I.

By J. Murray Bartels.

The 1915 issue of the Danish West Indies, portrait of Christian X, has been causing dealers and collectors much trouble and annoyance due to the fact that the stamps were priced in the Scott catalogue when none could be supplied. The 5b green and 25b blue were placed on sale about 18 months ago and have been plentiful. Around the middle of last January a few sheets each of the 10, 15, 20, 30, 40 and 50b stamps finally reached the islands and it is reported that four sheets were placed on sale at St. Thomas. Two or three dealers who had deposits to their credit received 2 or 5 sets each. The balance were sold to the public, and according to reports not more than 2 sets to each applicant. The supply was entirely exhausted in a few hours. Fantastic prices were immediately asked by those fortunate enough to secure sets, the figures ranging from $10 to $25 for stamps listing perhaps 72c. Inquiries concerning the prospects of additional supplies have brought forth no further information. The chronicle and cataloguing of the entire set (the 30c being omitted by Scott) is due to the fact that the Postal Union sent out full sets in 1915.

THE ST. LOUIS SOCIETY.

We have received a piece of adlet copy from the St. Louis Stamp Collectors' Society and the announcement will be found in that department of the Weekly calling attention to the activities of this hustling local society. The secretary, Herbert Klein, writes us as follows:—

"Our purpose is to let collectors in other towns know that there is a local society and to invite them to visit and have an enjoyable time with us. Besides the outsiders, there are hundreds of local collectors who know nothing of our society, unless they are informed by the local dealers. One of our distinguished visitors at last night's meeting was J. K. Doughty of Lamar, Colo., who gave the members a treat by showing parts of his fine U. S. collection. Our society is booming. I am enclosing a card with a list of exhibitions, which have been the feature of our present season."

The program for the remainder of the year is as follows:—April 3, Sweden; April 17, Errors; May 1, Mexico and May 15, Methods of Separation.

Mr. Klein follows up his publicity endeavor by requesting us to send him a bunch of subscription coupons and the Managing Editor must admit that a letter such as this is a boost in the right direction.

MEHL BUYS ADLER COIN COLLECTION.

(From the Philadelphia Ledger comes the news that B. Max Mehl of Fort Worth, Texas, has purchased the famous collection described below. We congratulate Mr. Mehl, and our readers will be interested in the clipping in question.—Ed.)

B. Max Mehl, of Fort Worth, Texas, came all the way to Philadelphia for the purpose of obtaining 1500 one-cent and half-cent pieces, for which he paid $10,000. They represent every type minted in this country since the Revolution, and were collected by Dr. Lewis J. Adler, Jr., of 1610 Arch street. Mr. Mehl is a professional numismatist.

The last half-penny was minted in 1853. The 1500 pennies weighed exactly seventy-five pounds. Mr. Mehl shipped them by express and followed by the first train for Fort Worth.

IN LOS ANGELES.

Los Angeles has long had the name of "doing things." This spirit of progressiveness has just been displayed by the local stamp collectors in their amalgamation of the two local philatelic societies, the Southern Calif. Philatelic Society and Branch No. 35 American Philatelic Society. Under the consolidation the members of the S. C. P. S. become associate members of the A. P. S. and the Branch adopts the name of the local Society.

The new officers insure strength to the Society, also success in maintaining philatelic interest in an already active stamp center. Mr. H. J. Lelande, president, has been a local collector for many years and is County Clerk of L. A. County. Joseph S. Davis, vice-president, is a Fellow of the Royal Society of London and a collector of twenty-five years' standing. Mr. T. Blakely, secretary, stands high as an attorney and has already proven his efficiency as secretary of the S. C. P. S. the past year.

Los Angeles has nearly twenty A. P. S. members and with the fifty or so Associate members the new Society starts with a most promising career. Meetings are held on the 10th floor of the Public Library, second Tuesdays and fourth Thursdays.

DELAY OF FOREIGN MAILS.

We received March 21 a letter from Bright & Son dated February 28, the letter requiring three weeks to cross the Atlantic. The firm calls attention to the difficulties attending speedy forwarding of mail matter and we quote from their letter as follows:

"May we suggest that you ask your readers to allow plenty of time for their orders to be filled. The present difficulties in the Postal Departments here, which have had to introduce fifty per cent. in inexperienced female labour, and also the great delay in the Censor's Office, makes it quite impossible for us to guarantee any time for the despatch of orders.

We do not like complaints about non-delivery, and if some collectors had a little more patience, we should be glad. These complaints have to be answered and it takes a long time to explain.

Mr. Oliver is the only man left in the firm, his two sons having paid the extreme sacrifice, and our last two men having recently left for the front. The result is, we are working under difficulties, but we trust our American customers will have a little more patience in waiting for their goods."

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—I. C. Greene submits a copy of the current 1c stamp perforated 14. This stamp undoubtedly is from an imperforate sheet and privately perforated.

We have received from Don. M. Harris specimens of the seals on pink paper one showing a flaw on the bottom at the left hand side extending over half of the outer frame; the same stamp also has a colorless spot about a millimetre in diameter directly over the "t" in "Department." This stamp is the lower left stamp of each sheet of ten in the booklets. An interesting variety for the specialist of this issue.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—Through courtesy of J. A. Galbraith we have seen copies of the 1c "WAR" stamp in pale green without the moire overprint.

War Stamp.

1917, 1c pale green.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—The war tax stamps for this Dependency were finally placed on sale at George Town, Grand Cayman, on the 26th of February, and by night the stock was sold out. However, a further issue is to be made. The stamp surcharged is the 2½d blue, George, from plate 5, showing this control in the upper and lower margin of each pane. The sheets of 120 have been separated into panes of 60 to facilitate handling at the press.

The surcharge "WAR—STAMP—1½d" appears in three lines, in black, and was applied by the Government Printing Office at Kingston, Jamaica. The type used for the "WAR STAMP" surcharge is very similar to that used for the Jamaican overprints, and the spacing of the words horizontally and vertically is the same. From all appearances the WAR STAMP overprint was applied at one operation, and the 1½d at a second.

The figure 1 or 1½d has a broad serif, and measures 5 mm. in height. The figures in the fraction ½, however, are without serifs. On some stamps the top of the 1 of 1½d is but 1 mm. below the "A" of STAMP, while on other stamps, it is from 2 to 3 mm. below. It has been the endeavor of the Government Printer to have the new value 1½d fall on the 2½d value tablet, and in most cases he has been successful.

The printing has been badly done, and the black ink of the surcharge does not show up well against the deep blue of the stamp. The letter "d" of 1½d is badly battered, and on some stamps appears more as an "o". Two types of the letter "S" are found (as in Jamaica war stamps), wide and narrow. The entire first vertical row shows the wide "S". The dash between the 1 and 2 of ½d is of varying thicknesses and lengths, and on some stamps the 2 is off to the right and not directly under the 1. Some sheets show the 1½d dropped so that only the upper part shows on the stamp, the lower portion of course being on the stamp directly under.—HARRY E. HUBER.

FRANCE.—"We translate the following extracts from two of our French contemporaries:

La Philatelie pour Tous says:—"The increase in the postage has caused numerous mistakes in the franking of the inland correspondence. The Government, anticipating this, therefore issued a decree to the effect that, as a special concession, all correspondence posted prior to January 15 which was not sufficiently stamped would be taxed only with the amount of the deficiency, and not double that amount, as usual. For this reason, numerous post offices used up their stocks of the 5c Postage Due stamp, and recourse was had to the use of ordinary adhesives of that denomination, surcharged with the letter "T" in a triangle, in thick type. Also on account of the increase in the postal rates, a large supply of the new 15c stamp, green (Sower type), has just been delivered by the Government Printing Works, Boulevard Brune, Paris. The impression is on thin paper, of a very inferior quality, in sheets of 150, bearing at the top and bottom of the sheet the letters "G C" (Grande Consommation) in large green letters. Immediately these are used up a supply will be printed on superior quality paper."

L'Echo de la Timbrologie says:—"The sheets of stamps bearing Control "G C" (Grande Consommation) are now on sale, for the 5, 10 and 15c values. Only in the actual paper is there any noticeable difference from the stamps already in use, and this is of lamentably poor quality, grey and thin, like that used for newspapers. The impression is rather blurred, and it is certain that the new paper will soon become the worse for wear and that the array of shades in our albums will be very crude."

"A well informed correspondent advises us that the question of creating a 5c War Tax stamp is under consideration, to be used on all correspondence (letters and post cards) sent abroad. There is every likelihood of this being decided upon, seeing that the foreign tariff is the only one which has not been increased, and it is curious to note that, while 15c is required for the postage of a post card which is only to be conveyed from one place to another inland, 10c is sufficient for cards posted to foreign addresses. A single country cannot alter International Conventions, and the Great Powers have rather too much on hand to attend a Congress of the Universal Postal Union. The creation of a special War Tax stamp would, however, appear to surmount the difficulty.—Stamp Collecting.

ITALIAN COLONIES.—We note from Stamp Collecting that "Il Bolletino Filatelico which is now producing excellent philatelic fare every fortnight, announces the forthcoming issue of a distinctive series of postage stamps for the Italian Colonies, to take the place of the present overprinted ones of the mother country.

Our Naples contemporary also utters a warning against forged overprints on the Red Cross stamps, particularly of Libia."

JAMAICA.—The TAMP error in the January printing of the war stamps occurred on but two values, the 1½d and 3d, and it is reported that but 200 sheets

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

GEO. J. CARTER, 265 Halsey St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

(240 stamps each) of the 1½d were included in this printing. One stamp to the sheet showed the error. The quantity of the 3d in this printing was very much smaller, and the majority of sheets had the "S" inserted by the Post Office officials after the matter was called to their attention. The "no period" error has been corrected in recent printings of the 3d, and exists but on the 3d lemon yellow, one line overprint; 3d golden yellow, one line overprint; and 3d lemon yellow, two line overprint. It exists on the three major varieties of the ½d; i. e., yellow green, one line; blue green, one line, and blue green, two line overprint; and also on the 1½d.

The 4d George has now appeared on the new golden yellow paper, which is the product of the new mill under contract with the Crown Agents to supply colored papers for the Colonial stamps. —HARRY E. HUBER.

MAFIA.—Scott's Circular says, "In the last few months we have read numerous reports of provisional issues of stamps for this island, which lies off the coast of German East Africa and has been occupied by the British forces. The following letter from Mr. V. N. Giga, Zanzibar, to the Philatelic Magazine, seems to shed light on these would-be provisionals:—

"The first issue after the capture of that island was I. E. F., and obliterated at Zanzibar. Second use obliterated with the F. P. O. No. Soon the stock was exhausted and provisional stamps were issued. These provisional stamps were rubber stamps overprinted on an envelope with these letters 'G. R.—POST—6 CENTS—MAFIA'.

Soon the I. E. F. stock arrived and those provisional stamps were stopped, but they were used in obliterating the I. E. F. stamps. After a fortnight they made obliterating stamps with date and letters Mafia in circular."

This letter seems to state very distinctly that the alleged surcharges are merely cancellation marks.

NORTH BORNEO.—E. W. Fuss in commenting on the provisional surcharges chronicled in our issue of February 24th, states that he has obtained a copy of the 6c surcharged "4 Cents" in which the "s" is inverted. It is likely that this error would exist in the other values as this was an emergency issue, locally surcharged, and hurriedly done, as additional supplies ordered from London had been lost when the "Persia" was torpedoed, as previously mentioned.

SIAM.—Philip H. Ward, Jr., advises us that he has received copies of a new and permanent set to replace the surcharged stamps of 1914-15. The design is similar to the 1912 set, printed by Waterlow & Son, London. The values to hand being:

2s brown, 3s green, 5s rose, 10s black and olive and 15s blue.

The 10s is surface printed on chalky paper and the other values are engraved. No reason has been received as to why two processes of printing have been used in these stamps. This is the set chronicled in MEKEEL'S of December 30th ult. It is understood that these stamps would be placed on sale as soon as the surcharged issues were depleted as Mr. Ward's supply was obtained "behind the counter.

PRICED CHECK LIST OF

MEXICO G. P. De M. ISSUE

I believe the following to be a practically complete Check List of the major varieties of this interesting issue, and feel quite certain that in the next catalog more or less similar listing will be followed.

Through an unfortunate circumstance a number of Trial Colors have been listed by Scott as regular varieties, which error, of course, is sure to be corrected later on. To prevent confusion I have appended in each case the correct color of the G P de M surcharge, viz.: Bl—Blue; B—Black; R—Red; Gr—Green; Br. B.—Brown Black.

Prices are for mint copies and are based on my present stock and its cost to me. However, of most varieties, used copies and some used blocks of four can be supplied.

All stamps sold by me are guaranteed genuine.

WRIGHT, Supt. of Auctions; S. G. BIXBY, 570 Rutherford Ave., Charlestown, Mass., Supt. of Sales and Bourse.

BOSTON, March 20, 1917.

The 378th (regular) meeting of the Society was called to order this evening at 7.45 p. m. by President Brown. The usual reports were read and approved. The members learned with regret of the deaths of two of their fellow members, Mr. Charles H. Stone and Mr. Edward Gowing. The death of Mr. Gowing was not known to the Society in time for us to either attend the funeral or send a floral tribute, but five of the members attended the funeral of Mr. Stone and acted as pall-bearers at the request of his son. All members who had not paid their dues for 1916 were dropped from the rolls as had been voted at the December meeting.

The entertainment for the evening consisted of 25 questions which were asked by the committee and those present were given a limited time in which to answer each. Mr. Carpenter answered the largest number correctly. This form of entertainment proves attractive to most everyone and a similar entertainment may be given later in the year. There were 26 members and one visitor present during the evening.

CHARACTERS IN AUCTION CATALOGS.

Would it not be well for the various dealers who conduct auction sales to adopt uniform characters designating used and unused lots? One dealer uses circles, squares or stars to denote unused stamps while another uses the same characters to indicate they are used; consequently, if after perusing several catalogues one becomes accustomed to a circle indicating one class of stamps, it is somewhat difficult to keep in mind the fact that it means just the opposite in others. An auction buyer scanning the various lists is frequently obliged to refer to the particulars of sale to ascertain whether or not the characters used in B's list mean the same as they did in A's. If all who use such would adopt a uniform code it would soon become fixed in the buyer's mind and he could more readily make his memos.

DO YOU KNOW ALL ABOUT ST. NICHOLAS?

There's Value in Its Advertising Columns For You.

St. Nicholas has established a justly splendid reputation as a successful advertising medium for stamp dealers. Here are some recent comments from advertisers:—

"The results we received from our advertisement in the November issue were favorable. We start the new year off on the run."

"Kindly repeat the same advertisement as in the March number. We have run this copy February and March and to date have been getting splendid results."

"Results are and have been very satisfactory. Having taken your publication from the beginning there is a sentiment in seeing my advertisement in OLD St. Nicholas Magazine."

"I have had a number of very satisfactory replies from that last ad of mine and as I intend to branch out on a little larger scale soon, I am intending to run a larger ad this time."

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

BARRIOS.—This name appears on a circle in the right-hand upper corner of some of the stamps of Salvador issued in 1887-89. It is the name of one of the former presidents of the republic.

BARR'S PENNY DISPATCH.—A local post of the United States operating in 1847, but at what town I have been unable to ascertain. The two labels issued in connection with this post bear no indication of value.

BARTH-WAHL, M.—A Luxemburg engraver, who journeyed to Brussels in 1852 to examine the method by which stamps were produced at the Belgian State Printing Establishment and, on his return, he engraved the dies and manufactured the plates for the first stamps of Luxemburg.

BASLE.—The common, though incorrect, English form of the name Bâle (French) or Basel (German)—a Canton in north-west Switzerland. It has an area of 177 square miles and a population of over 180,000. A special postage stamp, having a facial value of 2½ rappen, was issued here on July 1st, 1845. This stamp remained in use until it was replaced by the general issue for the Federal Administration.

BASS, W. E.—The Postmaster of Petersburg, Virginia, in 1861, whose name is shown on the special 5c stamps issued there at that time previous to the introduction of the stamps for general use in the Confederate States.

BASTED MILLS.—Some of the ½d and 1d stamps of New Zealand issued in December, 1901, were printed on paper manufactured by the Basted Paper Company, at the village of that name in Kent, England. It is a thin hard paper watermarked with double-lined "N Z" and star. Although the catalogues give the spelling as "Basted" I believe the name of the Kentish village is actually spelled "Bastead."

BATONNE PAPER.—One of the many kinds of paper on which stamps have been printed. Bâtonné means "ruled" and this paper is watermarked with straight parallel lines placed a certain distance apart. There are two kinds of bâtonné paper—wove and laid.

In wove bâtonné the spaces between the watermarked lines are plain. This variety has but seldom been used in stamp production and the only example I can call to mind is furnished by some of the curious labels issued by the Indian native State of Poonch.

In laid bâtonné the spaces between the watermarked lines are filled with fainter watermarked lines running in the same direction. It is not often met with but some of the Guadalajara stamps of Mexico were printed on it. It is worth noting that the thin writing paper commonly known as "foreign note" forms an excellent example of laid bâtonné paper. (See also PAPER).

BATON ROUGE.—The capital of the State of Louisiana, situated on the Mississippi River, and having a present population of well over 12,000. In 1779, it was taken from the British by the Spaniards and in 1862 it was the scene of a victory by the Federals over the Confederates. It is philatelically famous from the fact that in 1861 the then Postmaster, Mr. J. McCormick, issued three stamps to facilitate the prepayment of postage and these continued in use until they were replaced by the general issue for the Confederate States.

BATZ, PH.—A Danish engraver who engraved the dies for the 1864, 1870, and 1874 stamps of Denmark. The design for the 1870 issue was the work of the painter, Ohik, but it seems probable that the designs of the two later issues were the work of Batz himself.

BAUM AND DALLAS.—A firm of printers who produced the Official Gazette of British Guiana, for the Colonial Government, at Georgetown. In February, 1856, they set up and printed from ordinary type some 1c and 4c stamps required for provisional use. The 1c of this issue is the rarest, or perhaps it would be more correct to say the most valuable, known stamp.

BAVARIA.—The second kingdom in size and population of the German Empire. It is divided into two unequal parts, the larger portion, comprising eleven-twelfths of the whole, being situated east of the Rhine between Bohemia, Austria, Switzerland, Wurtemberg, Baden, Hesse-Darmstadt, Hesse-Nassau and various Thuringian states. The smaller portion is on the west bank of the Rhine, between Alsace-Lorraine, Rhineland, and Hesse-Darmstadt. The kingdom has a total area of 28,885 square miles and a population exceeding six and a half millions. Its capital, Munich, has a population of more than 500,000. Bavaria forms a hereditary constitutional monarchy, the legislative power being invested in the king and two legislative chambers. It contributes three corps d'armee to the forces of the German Empire, these having a peace footing of nearly 70,000 men. Though forming part of the Imperial army the Bavarian corps are numbered separately and administered independently. Bavaria still retains its own postal administration quite independent of that of the German Empire. Its first postage stamps were issued on Nov. 1st, 1849.

BAYER. POSTTAXE.—An inscription in Gothic type shown on the first postage due stamp of Bavaria meaning "Bavaria, postage due."

VIRGIN IDS. OF U. S. A.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Rear Admiral James H. Oliver, chief of naval intelligence, was today named by Secretary Daniels as governor of the new American insular possessions heretofore known as the Danish West Indies, which are to be formally and officially taken over March 31, under the name of the Virgin Islands.

It is an historical irony that these islands should pass into the hands of this government formally at this time in view of the known wishes of Germany that the United States should not obtain possession of them and the fact that the Berlin government is generally understood to have been responsible for the rejection by one branch of the Danish Parliament some years ago of a treaty which would have transferred them to the United States for $3,000,000 instead of the present purchase price of $25,000,000.

The ceremonies of transfer will take place at St. Thomas. On the same day Secretary McAdoo in Washington will deliver to the Danish minister the United States government warrant for $25,000,000 in payment for the islands.

ST. THOMAS, March 31.—The transfer of the D. W. I. from Danish rule to the United States took place simultaneously on the three islands at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Commander Pollock landed from the cruiser Hancock under a salute of 15 guns and proceeded to the officers' barracks, where the transfer protocol was signed. The Danish Governor then proclaimed the transfer and the Danish flag was lowered amid salutes and the singing of the Danish anthem. Commander Pollock proclaimed the cession, and the American flag was hoisted, accompanied by salutes and the singing of the American anthem. There were no demonstrations, but many in the crowd wept during the profound and impressive silence that followed the hoisting of the American flag.

PACK ELECTED PRESIDENT.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Forestry Association and prominently identified with other national organizations, has been elected president of the World's Court League, succeeding John Hays Hammond, resigned, it was announced here today.

At the office of the league it was said that under Mr. Pack's presidency the organization would continue its work in this country and abroad, so that after the war definite steps may be taken toward an international court for settlement of international disputes on lines suggested by American delegates to the second Hague conference.

ADVERTISING RESTRICTIONS.

We want advertising but there are certain conditions that must be lived up to:—

On displayed advertising bank or commercial references are essential. Even these pan out poorly sometimes.

No "mixtures" or "pound" advertising can be accepted. As a rule they promise much and give one little.

Advertising bills are payable on presentation. For fifteen years the printer's bill on each issue of this paper has been paid within seven days. We intend to continue this practice.

Offers to repair stamps are not welcome. We prefer that each collector should do his own repairing. When we find a dealer selling unmarked repaired stamps or regummed specimens, something happens—so far as using our columns is concerned.

Any discount may be offered if you name the stamps but you can't take a small space to advertise "Stamps at 75% Discount" and thus give a black eye to stamp collecting and the stamp stocks of reputable firms.

Do you think the WEEKLY arbitrary? It's costly arbitrariness we can assure you. Hundreds of dollars' worth of advertising would come our way each year were we to abolish these safeguards. We may not have done all that might be done, but coming months will find us using every endeavor to raise the standards of Philately.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The M. P. A. Year Book for 1916 has been received. It is well gotten up and contains the regulation year book matter. The committee having in charge the printing of this book consisted of Victor V. Boyer, Daniel B. Nagel, Chester C. Heffner and Daniel H. Huyett. The committee expresses its appreciation to I. C. Greene for his splendid cooperation in securing advertising patronage.

—We are in receipt of No. 5 of the Lincoln Philatelist, published by Milton Hubsch, 313 Rich Av., Mt. Vernon, N. Y. A sample copy will doubtless be sent upon request. It is nicely printed and gives evidence of a still larger prosperity.

—The Beaver Stamp Co., Port Arthur, Can., informs us that no replies can be secured to letters sent Carrol B. Wilson, 131 King St., Oshawa, Ont., and John Woodbridge, Montrose, N. Y.

—From a Montpelier, Vt., paper comes the news of the death of Mrs. Carroll A. Pitkin, the wife of Carroll A. Pitkin who for several years advertised in the WEEKLY. The blow comes as a very severe one to Mr. Pitkin, who has himself been in poor health for the past ten years and during which time her constant care and devotion had been unfailing. Many of our subscribers, former patrons of Mr. Pitkin, will sympathize with him in his great loss.

—Stamp Collecting, the popular British weekly stamp paper, is facing a crisis in its history, due to the increased cost of production and the severe restrictions that are now being placed on paper imports. The publishers of the paper have put it up to their subscribers as to whether an increase in subscription rates is advisable, with or without an increase in the rates for advertising, or whether an endowment fund should be established to guarantee the publishers against a self-evident loss if one of the courses outlined is not followed. An immediate vote upon the general proposition is urged. It would be a serious blow to British philately to have the efficiency of this publication in any way curbed.

—In connection with the N. P. S. convention to be held in Portland, Maine, July 19, 20, 21, there will be an exhibition in which the lady members only of the N. P. S. compete. A silver cup will be awarded as the first prize.

—A. C. LeDuc of Danvers, Mass., would like to hear from parties who are interested in G. O. Soult, Hambleton, W. Va.

—The Deutscher Breifmarken Sammler Verein of N. Y. City has elected the following officers for 1917: Pres., John C. Damm; Vice-Pres., R. Tiederman; Sec., C. Burk; Treas., C. C. Ploch. Meets the third Sunday of the month at Terrace Garden.

—The New York Stamp Society at its first meeting in April will have a very fine display of Hong Kong by E. A. Fleisher; also Austria in 8 vols. by Dr. J. B. Chittenden.

—The Hudson County Stamp Society of Jersey City, N. J., Br. No. 11 N. P. S., will hold its 5th annual informal dinner April 27 at Schindler's, 371 Central Ave.

—The Cincinnati Philatelic Society held its first annual meeting March 27 at North Cincinnati, Turner Hall, and the following officers were elected: pres., Erwin L. Fischer; vice-pres., Fred. Huntington, and sec'y-treas., A. D. Fennel. The following were elected trustees: W S. Ossage, S. W. Ritchie, J. A. McCullough and Geo. Kitzinger. After the members partook of a luncheon Mr. Fennel, who had just returned from Washington, gave a very interesting talk on the government stamp collection at the Smithsonian Institution. Any Cincinnatian wishing to join the society can reach Mr. Fennel at No. 807 Second Natl. Bank Building.

—We are indebted to C. R. Sutton, secretary of the Indianapolis Collectors' Club for a bunch of six subscriptions to the WEEKLY, three new and three renewals. It is a good list and we appreciate Mr. Sutton's efforts in connection with our mailing list.

—Stamp collectors in and around Lawrence, Mass., have met and formed the Lawrence Stamp Club. An application for a branch charter of the N. P. S. was made. Those elected as officers were: E. V. Reed, pres.; R. J. Sullivan, sec., 15 Logan St., Lawrence, Mass.

—The N. Y. Philatelic Society, (Branch No. 3, N. P. S.) held its annual election March 12, as follows: pres., M. Herbert; vice-pres., C. R. Goetz; sec., E. Weiss; treas., J. L. Stroub; directors, Messrs. Hayden, Lechnor & Knapp. This branch is now getting up a fund in order to have its own permanent meeting rooms.

—We are informed by F. G. Morant that the sheet of Tasmania 1853 4d red orange plate II on laid paper brought $4,000 at the Puttick & Simpson auction sale January 16. We noted recently the appearance on the market of this sheet which had been in the possession of the daughter of the engraver, C. W. Coard, since his death.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Benj. Cadbury, H. H. Reeves, R. Hemmleb, Mrs. E. W. Oughtred, I. B. Robinson.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

We have received for review an excellent handbook of one hundred pages, entitled, "Mexico, An Illustrated Check List of the Revolutionary Stamps of 1913-1916" by Bertram W. H. Poole. In its physical aspects the book is very attractive and the cuts are plain, while the paper and letter-press are all that could be desired, to speak tritely. We are fully aware that the study of the revolutionary issues of Mexico has been pursued to no mean degree and that there is no dearth of printed observations on the subject of the stamps but we are sure that as a check list, the work will be welcomed warmly by many of those collectors who frankly have been somewhat confused in following the many turns that the issues have taken. We should say that inasmuch as Mr. Poole has been a student of the stamps in question for a long time and as he has been until recently in a position of strategic importance for the review of the war stamps, his findings have the tone of authority. To attempt to particularize with specific instance would be sacrilegious almost and we refer the book to readers with all confidence in its worth. The revolutionary issues abound in complexities and inconsistencies, perhaps, and we suppose that the subject will never be a closed incident but we suspect that Mr. Poole has hit the mark in every case where it was visible. The text is direct and clear in its application and its meaning and is no cumbersome compilation of unessential and unrelated data. The book is published by the author, Bertram W. H. Poole: Price, cloth, one dollar; paper covers, fifty cents.

MIXTURES AND PACKETS.

More and more satisfied are we that the exclusion of mixture advertising from our columns is a wise business policy. The trouble lies in the fact that the word "mixture" can cover a multitude of sins and usually does. Moreover the ordinary stamp collector is apt to insist on full measure and a well dressed offer looms big on his mental horizon.

Neither dealer nor collector are saints but it happens that the WEEKLY is the go-between and an umpire is bound to get his bumps. We got ours and the edict went forth:—"No more mixture advertising." The results have been gratifying and it may be regarded as a fixed policy with the WEEKLY.

A word now about packets.

It should be an easy thing to satisfy collectors with variety packets. Anyway statements made in advts. must be lived up to and if there be dissatisfaction money must be refunded. Under no other condition can we accept packet advertising.

May we also point out that courtesy upon the part of dealer and collector is an essential element in all transactions. This little preachment should take effect where the coat fits.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Strangers.—The coming of the 50 cent, perforated 10, unwatermarked, and the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 10 cent (thus far) unwatermarked paper, perforated 11, was not unexpected but a surprise has been given us by the re-issue of the two dollar blue, Madison, and five dollar green, Marshall, of the 1902 design, on unwatermarked paper and perforated 10. An impressive appearance is made by the new stamps that have re-entered the philatelic arena so informally and so spick and span do the new stamps seem that we could believe that new transfers of the die had been made. In our issue of March 17th, 1917, we reproduced the order to postmasters, under date of March 7th, 1917, asking postmasters who had the $2 and the $5 denominations in stock to report the quantity immediately to Washington; and in the paper of two weeks ago, we told of a "drayload" or seventy packages, more or less, consigned to Russia as first-class mail, each one of which bore postage stamps to the amount of from nine to eleven dollars. Incidentally, a ninety-seven dollar package to the same country was reported by the clerk. It was shown that the need for the high values, if not a crying one was a sighing one on the part of some stamp-lickers. The block of four collector probably is wondering when the dollar values are to come perforated 11.

Mysterious.—All well-regulated papers have their mystery stories and we have decided that our readers are entitled to all the trimmings of latter-day journalism. Hence, we begin a mystery series and if any of our readers are troubled by pet mysteries, refer them to us. However, purely private philatelic mysteries will not be considered; they should be referred to Pat Chouli, who is great on the scent. (Original, of course.) Mystery I. A respected and reputable old collector showed us the two reales, 1863, Philippines, on the back of which was written in ink: "This stamp was stolen from Wm. P. Brown." The notation was in the chirography of Mr. Brown and our caller surely did not steal the stamp. How did the writing get on the back of the rarity after the stamp had been stolen (if it was) and who stole the stamp?

Early.—Several months ago, we received an inquiry as to the date of the earliest philatelic paper published in the United States. The question was inspired by a quotation from the book, Foot Prints of a Letter-Carrier, by James Rees, (who was a clerk in the Philadelphia Post Office), which was published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia, in 1866, and which was submitted as follows by our correspondent: "There is a small paper published in Albany, New York, entitled the Stamp Collector's Record. It is entirely devoted to the cause of stamps and their collectors. It furnishes also considerable news or information upon the subject in connection with foreign stamps." We discovered this book of Mr. Rees to philatelists a good many years ago and we duly dissected it in order to present its philatelic parts before our readers. At the time, we referred to the foot-note that we have quoted but this is said with no intent to seem ungrateful to the reader in question. Not having access to the Catalogue of the Philatelic Library of Lord Crawford at the time the interrogation was made, we delayed our answer, which we are now ready to give, fortified as we are by the presence of that noble tome. Under the chronological table of stamp papers in the United States we find that the Stamp Collector's Record, "New Series," was published in Albany, New York, Dec. 1864 to October 1876. Consequently, the stamp journal mentioned in the Philadelphia book was the pioneer stamp paper of the United States. However, the "second series" note in the description is significant and we have to yield the palm of priority to Canada, as the Stamp Collector's Record was first published in Montreal, where it appeared from February to March, 1864, or the circumscribed period of two months. Even so, but five or six copies of the March number were circulated, the rest of the edition having been destroyed. Here we may say that the Stamp Collector's Monthly Gazette, published at St. John, New Brunswick, 1865-67, was the second stamp paper issued in Canada and somewhat recently we reviewed an early number of this publication in this column.

Reminiscent.—As indicated in the foregoing paragraph, the publisher of the Stamp Collector's Record has the distinction of having been the first philatelic periodical publisher both in Canada and in the United States; and by name, he was S. A. Taylor. S. Allen Taylor was one of the dark stars of philately and to the older generations of collectors, a host of memories cluster about the name. We believe that Mr. Taylor even in his Montreal days was industrious in the circulation of fac-similes, so-called, and the term, "Montreal counterfeits," became a by-word and a reproach years ago. As a dealer and as a writer, Mr. Taylor became a personality in philately and though he had many detractors, yet ever a few friends seemed to rally to the support of Mr. Taylor, claiming that he was a brilliant philatelist, even though misguided. The cities of Boston and New York were the scenes of S. Allen Taylor's exploits, as well as the other two cities, previously mentioned.

Traveling.—On his way to Philadelphia, Mr. B. W. H. Poole, a luminary of the WEEKLY staff spent a week in Chicago, where many of the city's collectors availed themselves of the opportunity to meet him. Mr. Poole was invited to express himself on different philatelic topics and it is interesting to know that his seasoned observations were favorable to philately, present and future. On what may be called abstract questions such as specialism, etc., Mr. Poole holds opinions that are liberal and refreshing. While a keen student of stamps in their niceties, Mr. Poole does not advise advanced stamp dissection for those who do not incline temperamentally to such things; and he thinks that the harmony with which the specialist and the generalist pursue their ways should not be disturbed. Mr. Poole interposes a word for the old issues which comes opportunely at this time when the new issue seems to be the favorite of the spot-light. He strikes a responsive chord when he speaks of the solid claims for consideration possessed by the old-timers. The traditions of the old stamp give it a dignity that time deepens and if one wanted to bring forth a material argument, it could be said that the speculative opportunities that the "classics" present are not to be excelled. We may add that Mr. Poole is sanguine over the prospects for continued prosperity in philately, come what may; and he never expects to see the time when the engaging, rational pursuit will not be free, relatively speaking, from the aches and ills of our old planet.

Ah—Our idea—what is yours?—of the summit of philatelic incongruity is the gift of an expensive blank page album to a small boy whose collection consists of a thousand stamps or so.

* * *

Relief—"Yes," said the nervous wife, "I am glad that Hannibal does collect stamps, it is such a healthful hobby." "You mean stimulating," said the friend. "No,—you see, the doctor said that Hannibal was smoking too much and he cannot puff away while he fools with his stamps with the benzine cup lying around." We wonder if ever there was an accident to a philatelist in this way.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE BICOLORED STAMPS OF THE DANISH WEST INDIES.

By J. MURRAY BARTELS.

3 Cents, Sept., 1873-1898.

Thin Paper.

I. 1873.—Dull blue and rose red. Very clear and distinct impression showing all details of design, same finish as 1c and 4c first printings. This feature distinguishes it from II. Thin transparent paper, smooth brownish gum. Is found cancelled to order with regular cancellation, concentric circles. (Scott 6a.)

II. 1877.—Pale blue and bright rose red. Both colors are often quite similar to I, though the blue is generally paler. The impression stands out less boldly. The red is at times heavily inked, producing quite a deep shade. The paper is less transparent than I and III. Smooth brown gum. Unknown in blocks.

III. 1879.—Pale blue and lilac rose. The latter is rather a pale shade, approaching I in this respect. The blue is much lighter than I, but resembles the lighter impression of II. Paper transparent. Smooth yellowish gum. The first three printings are quite distinct from colors of all later ones, especially the red. Rare unused. Blocks are unknown.

Medium Thick Paper.

IV. 1882.—Blue and carmine lake. A very distinct printing on account of the deep color of the oval. Heavy impression. The imperforates are of this printing. (Scott 6d.) It is believed that there were two sheets of 100 of same. Slightly crackly brownish gum. Rather rare, perforated blocks are unknown.

V. 1885.—Pale blue gray and dull rose red. Color of oval approaches I, of border VI, but paler than any other. Clear impression. Smooth whitish gum. (Scott 6b.)

VI. 1888.—Grayish blue and deep dull red. The latter a deeper shade than in V, its nearest approach. This consignment must have arrived in bad condition as the entire lot evidently had to be soaked. It is never found with original gum, but small supplies were regummed locally. Ungummed sheets were still in stock at the Christianstad Post Office in 1902. (Scott 6.)

VII. 1892.—Bright blue and rose red. The bright shade of blue which readily distinguishes this printing from all others, otherwise VI is its nearest approach. Heavily printed, the frame at times somewhat blurred. Rather smooth yellow brown gum.

Thick Paper.

VIII. 1897.—Deep gray blue and bright red. Distinguished by the glossy impression of both, especially the border, latter rather heavily printed. Three or four sheets of this printing received the first surcharge "2 cents 1902". Colors resemble VI. Crackly nearly white gum.

4 Cents, Sept., 1873-1901.

This value was little used and there were only three printings. Supplies of the second were still on hand in 1900.

I. 1873.—Brown and deep ultramarine. Clear and distinct impression, strong shades. Thin transparent paper, smooth brownish gum. Rare in blocks. (Scott 7b.)

II. 1881.—Yellowish brown and pale dull blue. Rather weak colors. Thin or medium thick paper. Crackly yellowish gum.

III. 1890.—Yellowish or deep yellowish brown and bright blue. The blue seems to vary somewhat in shade as the inking was not uniform. Pale shades resemble II rather closely. Thin or medium thick paper. Crackly yellowish gum. Diagonal halves were used as 2c stamps in 1902.

5 Cents, Oct., 1876-1896.

Thin Paper.

I. 1876.—Pale green and gray. Border rather heavily printed. Smooth yellowish gum.

II. 1879.—Bright yellow green and gray. Border printing clear and well defined. Crackly yellowish gum.

Medium Thick Paper.

III. 1880.—Light green and gray. Strong well defined impression of both colors, similar to 1c V and 10c III. Smooth yellowish gum. (Scott 5)

IV. 1889.—Pale yellow green and deep gray. Green impressions not strong nor well defined. Closely resembles first printing of 5c perf. 12½. Yellowish gum, slightly crackly. Unused this is the commonest. (Scott 5a.)

V. 1890.—Yellow green and deep gray. Distinguished by the blurred heavy impression of the border. Rather smooth yellowish gum. Scarce unused, especially in Europe. The writer has seen only one block of four.

VI. 1893.—Bright green and gray. Glossy printing similar to 1c VIII, 3c VIII and 10c VI. Crackly whitish gum.

7 Cents, June, 1874-1896.

I. 1874.—Lilac and deep yellow. Thin paper. Smooth yellowish gum.

II. 1886 (?).—Lilac and orange. The shade of lilac varies considerably and is generally a pale reddish tint. The deep shade is quite scarce. Thin or medium thick paper. Crackly yellowish gum. There was little use for a 7c stamp and cancelled copies, especially of the second printing, are scarce. This value was withdrawn from sale in July, 1896. The total number issued was 350,000.

10 Cents, Oct., 1876-1901.

Thin Paper.

I. 1876.—Grayish blue and dark brown. The shade, especially of the border, varies considerably from a grayish to a slightly lilac tint. The style of impression is rather uniform. Distinguished by the thin and generally transparent paper. Yellowish gum, slightly crackly.

Medium Thick Paper.

II. 1882.—Bright blue and black brown. Readily recognized by the bright almost ultramarine shade of blue. Rather smooth yellowish gum. This printing is very rare unused. Blocks or even pairs are unknown.

III. 1887.—Dull blue and brown. Distinguished by the bold rather heavy impression which characterizes the 1c V and 5c III. Yellowish gum, slightly crackly.

IV. 1889.—Gray and dark brown. Marked shade easily distinguished from all others by the light colored gray border. Smooth yellowish gum.

V. 1896.—Gray blue and black brown. Rather heavy impression of border. Another distinct shade. This printing (like 3c VI) is not found with original gum, but part of the stock seems to have been regummed for use. Remained on sale until about 1903, as stamps without gum were naturally unpopular. (Scott 10a.)

VI. 1898.—Dull blue and brown. Printed in glossy ink similar to 1c VIII, 3c VIII and 5c VI. Rather a light shade of brown. Border clear and well printed. Crackly nearly white gum.

12 Cents, Nov., 1877-1905.

I. 1876.—Gray lilac and deep green. Thin paper. Smooth yellowish gum.

II. 1878.—Red lilac, yellow green. Also pale red lilac. This printing was on sale for 27 years and is found on thin transparent and medium thick paper. The latter is very scarce, but is found with both shades of red lilac. Used copies are many times rarer than unused. Withdrawn from sale June, 1905. Issue 301,000 12c stamps.

14 Cents, 1873.

One printing.—Lilac, deep green. Of this stamp originally 100,000 were issued, but by a change of postage rates the 14c became superfluous and the remainders (nearly 90,000) were destroyed Nov. 1, 1877. It has always been a scarce stamp, especially in well centered condition. The shade of lilac varies slightly. Several blocks repose in American collections.

50 Cents, July 1879-1905.

I. 1879.—Violet, dull violet, bright violet. Paper thin or medium thick. Smooth yellowish gum. This printing remained on sale 26 years. Having been printed in a rather sensitive color, it is natural that several marked shades exist. Even the paper gradually assumed a toned appearance. A portion of the stock was surcharged "10 CENTS 1895" to supply a shortage.

II. 1885 (?).—Pale lilac. Thick paper. About 1885 and quite probably earlier this second printing made its appearance. The supply must have been quite small as it lasted but a short time, while the first printing remained in use for many years longer. It is not evident why a second printing was made when there was such a large stock on hand. Used copies are very rare, but we have seen a copy dated in 1885. Three or four blocks of four exist in this country.

1 Cent on 7 Cents, May, 1887.

This surcharge is found on both printings which are almost equally rare. Used copies are quite scarce. The real double surcharge we have seen only on the second printing, but strongly shifted impressions come on both printings.

10 Cents on 1 Cent, 1895.

This stamp was never on sale though cancelled copies have been seen and it should be considered in the nature of an essay or proof. It is found on VIII printing with "10" in regular size as issued on the 50c and also in smaller type corresponding with date "1895" of surcharge. Quite likely it was considered dangerous to raise the value of a current 1c stamp to 10c and the 50c then took its place. This stamp is well worthy of a place in the specialist's collection.

10 Cents on 50 Cents, 1895.

The various shades and two thicknesses of paper found in the second printing appear also surcharged. There are several minor type varieties of the surcharge, such as narrow "9", narrow "5", thin or short flag on "5", etc.

PERFORATION 12½.

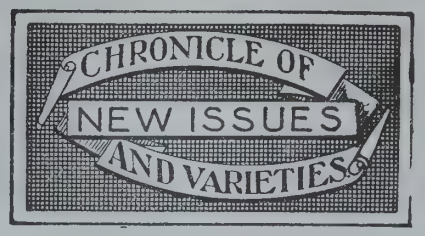
Thick paper, white crackly gum.

1898. 1c.—Green and reddish violet. One printing.

1898. 3c.—Dark blue and deep red. One printing.

1901. 4c.—Yellow brown and slate blue. One printing.

1896. 5c.—Pale yellow green and gray. First printing.



1899. 5c.—Yellow green and gray. Second printing.

1901. 10c.—Dull blue and brown. One printing.

According to a decree of Feb. 10, 1903, the 4c was permitted to be used diagonally bisected as a 2 cent stamp. Some copies perf. 14x13½ were included among those passed through the mails.

Changes in rates of postage in 1902 resulted in the surcharging of a supply of 3c and 10c stamps. The first printing was placed on sale Jan. 1, 1902, and was made locally. Much could be said about the numerous varieties of the surcharges but they are hardly within the scope of this treatise. At least two sheets were surcharged experimentally with date "1901." This date comes in two sizes of type. One of these corresponds with the regularly issued "1902" size and the other is larger, similar to "2" and "CENTS." Among the supplies imported by a New York firm was found one sheet surcharged in a greenish black type. This is an interesting variety, but not entitled to a full number in the catalogue nor a space in a printed album. Even the designation "green" surcharge is stretching a point to some extent.

Among the supplies surcharged were three sheets of the last printing perf. 14x13½. One sheet was bought by a Boston dealer at St. Thomas and each stamp numbered consecutively in black ink on back.

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Through the courtesy of C. Edward Wright we are able to present some interesting information for U. S. collectors. He advises us that the 30c value will not appear on unwatermarked paper with 10 perforation.

The 50c stamp unwatermarked, perforated 10, was issued March 2.

On March 23 the following values were issued on unwatermarked paper with 11 perforation, 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c, 6c.

And last but not least according to Mr. Wright and W. P. Colman, the $2 and $5 of the 1902 issue, appeared on unwatermarked paper, March 22, perforated 10. The $5 is in a much lighter shade of green than the original issue. This reissue is presumably prompted by the very heavy shipments by first class mail of merchandise and even machinery, especially to Russia. It has been stated that a package recently shipped had postage stamps upon it to the value of $90.

BELGIUM.—Scott's Circular says: "A correspondent informs us that a new series of stamps is in preparation and will shortly be placed on sale. We regret to hear this. When the 1915 issue of postage and parcel post stamps appeared collectors overlooked the fact that there was practically no chance to use the stamps and bought liberally of them to help a good cause. We fear that they will not regard another issue as favorably."

BOSNIA.—It is reported that a new series is about to be or has already been placed in use by this country; the set comprises eighteen values, including some new denominations caused by a change of tariffs. Scott's Circular mentions having received the following values, perforated 12½:

15h carmine rose.
80h organge brown.
90h dark violet.

Designs are very similar to the 1912-14 issue. We presume in the near future a further set bearing the new Emperor's features will be placed in use.

CANADA.—Mrs. E. W. Oughtred reports a new value in the war tax strip stamps, a 20c in type 2, recently described in this column. This value was not issued in the original type. These stamps are war tax pure and simple and not ordinary revenues. We quote Mrs. Oughtred: "In Canada the strip stamps are the only ones wine dealers are permitted to use. I read a notice today in the Inland Revenue Office that wine dealers using the square stamps would be prosecuted for so doing and that postage stamps might be used but only in cases where it was absolutely impossible to get the strip stamps. This statement was supplemented with the information that such could never be the case in Montreal. The square stamps are for proprietary medicines and mixtures."

Mrs. Oughtred calls our attention to the fact that we omitted to give the color of the new post card, 1c green no inscription, and further adds, "There are three types of King George post cards, viz:—

With inscriptions in English only.
Inscriptions in French and English.
Without inscription.

In all, the number of varieties of post cards total eleven.

M. R. Buell reports the 2c war tax stamp Inland Revenue perforated 8x12.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—The first printing of the 1½d on 2½d War Stamps had a face value under 200 pounds sterling, and was exhausted on date of issue. The (Old "Weekly" Advertiser.)

ADLETS.

Address all copy and letters of enquiry for this department to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, BEVERLY, MASS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

RATE.—25c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $10.00, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

Advertisers sending out approval selections must take precautions to secure satisfactory references. We cannot undertake to settle all the petty disputes arising from the wide-spread scattering of approval selections.

ADLETS 25c PER LINE.

The rate in Adlets is 25c per line and "tf" advertising 20c, minimum space 2 lines. Note what stamp dealers pay in other publications for a similar service. The rate in the "American Boy" is now $1.25 a line and in "Popular Mechanics" 18c per word. If you have anything to sell or exchange, use Adlets.

EXCHANGE RELATIONS.

It is absolutely impossible for us to adjust difficulties arising from exchange relations. The circumstances are usually complicated, making negotiations by a third party quite unsatisfactory. Adlets lend themselves particularly to this branch of philately and all we can do is to debar from the WEEKLY any dealer or collector engaging in questionable transactions. We cannot undertake to look up references in connection with these small advs. You must do that yourself.

American Hinges sold by leading dealers. Made by A. C. ROESSLER, E. Orange,N.J.*

second printing which was made in January, and received in Grand Cayman in the latter days of February, was also done by the Government Printing Office, at Kingston, Jamaica. The 2½d stamp is from plate 5, and the sheets of 120 have been separated into panes of 60.

The surcharge WAR—STAMP.—1½d appears in three lines, in black, same as the first printing, but the type and spacing is entirely different. The type is larger for the words WAR STAMP and the vertical spacing between is 3½ mm. instead of 2½ mm. The whole surcharge has been applied at one operation, so that the distance between the WAR STAMP and the 1½d is not variable as in the first printing. The distance from the top of "R" of WAR to the bottom of "2" of 1½, is 16 mm.

The printing has been much better done than the first, and there are no differences in type font. The battered "d" has been replaced, but the fraction bar is still of varying lengths and thicknesses. The 52nd stamp shows the fraction bar omitted entirely.—HARRY E. HUBER.

We are also indebted to J. A. Galbraith and Robert V. Walton for information about the two provisionals just issued.

DANISH WEST INDIES.—Of the new stamps with portrait of Christian X, only the 5 and 25 bit have been brought actually into use, but 500 of each of the other denominations (10, 15, 20, 30, 40 and 50 bit), were received from Denmark early in January, and were sold out in two hours, no purchaser being allowed to have more than two sets. As the islands have been sold to the United States, these stamps will be extremely rare if no further issue should be made. —Whitfield King's List.

DOMINICA.—Through courtesy of J. A. Galbraith we have seen the 1sh green "View of Dominica" printed in fugitive ink.

GRENADA.—The ½d and 1d stamps in the new shades were due for distribution this month, but the remittance we sent out for these has been returned, the Postmaster stating that he had no ½d or 1d stamps in stock. No information was given as to when fresh supplies were expected nor how the shortage of ½d stamps was being made good, but as the registered letter we received was prepaid wholly by means of War Tax stamps, we assume these are being used as ordinary penny postage stamps for the time being. —Whitfield King's List.

MONTSERRAT.—"The Colonial Journal announces that on the 31st of March all stamps of issues preceding the 1916 series, with the portrait of King George, will be withdrawn from circulation and destroyed."—Scott's Circular.

NAURU.—Griebert's Notes and Offers is responsible for the statement that Australian stamps with overprint "N. W. Pacific Islands" are said to be obsolete, having been superseded by the series issued from Nauru.

PANAMA.—We have recently chronicled three varieties of stamps just issued for various purposes, one of which was a provisional 5 on 8c adhesive. F. Heintze, Cartago, Costa Rica, was in Panama when this stamp was issued and states that on each sheet of one hundred there was one stamp with the surcharge inverted.

VIRGIN ISLANDS.—We have been shown an exhibit of war stamps issued by this colony, thanks to J. A. Galbraith. These stamps are overprinted in one line WAR STAMP, the 1 penny carmine and the 3 pence purple being used. The 3d is on lemon yellow trial paper and this stamp as well as the 1p are from plate 1, as per article in MEKEEL'S, March 24. Mr. Galbraith submits sheets of the 1p and 3d with plate number 5. On the 3d are two varieties. The sixth stamp in the seventh row on each pane has a period between the letters ND. It joins the N and is no doubt due to some foreign substance becoming attached to the plate. The first stamp in the eighth row on each pane shows a broken A in ISLANDS, making an interesting variety.

WANTED — REVENUES

Anyone having $30, $50, $60, $100, $500, $1000 current revenues, cut or uncut, also same values 1898 for sale are requested to write us or send same on app. with net prices for spot cash. Also $10 values and up 1st, 2nd, 3rd issues.

LYNN'S FINE EXHIBITION.

March 23 and 24 the Lynn Philatelic Society held its second annual Exhibition and Bazaar in the gymnasium of the Lynn Classical High School. There were about 75 exhibits entered for competition. In addition there were booths by the Lynn Philatelic Society, W. L. Aldrich and A. M. Wright of Boston, and the Essex Publishing Co. On Saturday evening there was an auction sale with William L. Aldrich as auctioneer.

There was much interest shown over the Research Cup and the exhibits entered made it a difficult task for the judges to place the cup. H. S. Wheeler's collection of specialized Austria was almost perfect, but on the final count it was found that R. C. Munroe's Hongkong collection was just a shade better and the cup was awarded to him. D. T. Churchill's collection of Canada was without a doubt the most beautiful and most artistically arranged collection in the exhibit. The attendance at this second exhibition was far greater than it was at the first, which was very gratifying to the committee. The Board of Judges consisted of George H. Newhall, Chairman, Mayor of the City of Lynn; Rev. Edward E. Small, of the Broadway M. E. Church, Lynn; Hugo Meyer, Portland; C. A. Howes, Boston; A. M. Wright, Boston; W. L. Aldrich, Boston. The Committee in charge was E. L. Clark, Chairman, E. W. Bridge, Secretary, M. B. Clark, Treasurer, G. H. Brown, M. L. Johnson, W. C. Emory, C. R. Meech and S. L. Jewett. The ribbons were awarded as follows:—

SECTION 1, LOCAL COLLECTORS.

Class A—Any country in Europe:—M. B. Clark, Germany, first; E. L. Clark, Montenegro, second; C. R. Meech, British Colonials, Honorary Mention. Class B—Any country in Asia:—S. SECTION 3. PUBLISHERS.

Class A—Monographs:—Essex Publishing Co., Philatelic Cartoons, first. Class B—Philatelic Journals:—Nassau Stamp Co., Philatelic Gazette, first; Essex Publishing Co., Philatelic Sun, second.

The cup for the best exhibit in Section 1 was awarded to M. B. Clark for his collection of German Empire. Per cent. 92 out of 100. The cup for the best exhibit in Section 2 was awarded to J. S. Bell, Jr., for his collection of Danish West Indies. Per cent 92½. The cup presented by the Springfield Stamp Club for the exhibit showing the most meritorious and original research was won by R. C. Munroe of Springfield for his collection of Hongkong. The cup presented by the American Philatelic Press Club for the best philatelic journal or monograph was won by the Nassau Stamp Co. for the Philatelic Gazette.

ONCE MORE—MR. ARTMAN.

A few weeks ago when we published a statement rather derogatory to W. M. Artman, indicating that he was slow in meeting his obligations we received a telegram from him threatening a libel suit unless retraction was made. We now have enough evidence to satisfy most any court of the truth of our statement, and S. L. Futer, Philadelphia, Rev. L. Meister, Aberdeen, Miss., A. Roterberg, Chicago, B. H. Fehlig, St. Louis, and Oswald Marsh of London all have claims against him.

OUR SPECIAL NUMBER.

Had we known the order of events our special issue of last Saturday could not have been better planned. On that day the Virgin Ids. of the U. S. came into being and our special fittingly celebrated the event.

CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND

The condition of these stamps is unusually good. Most of the unused have original gum; but that is not guaranteed in every instance. Besides those listed here, I have a considerable number of others, both Canada and Newfoundland; but not enough to advertise, in view of the pull of MEKEEL'S and the persuasiveness of these prices. If you do not see what you need, write me. I can probably supply it. Of these offerings, I have enough to meet any probable demand. Blocks of four of all starred items at the same prices.

THE ATTENTION OF ADVANCED COLLECTORS IS ESPECIALLY INVITED TO THE CANADA IMPERFORATES AND BLOCKS OF FOUR, AND TO THE MINT SHEETS OF EARLY NEWFOUNDLANDS.

Cash with order; and satisfaction guaranteed, as usual.

CHINA AND ITS STAMPS.

By C. A. HOWES, F. R. P. S., President American Philatelic Society.

CHAPTER XIII.—Issues of 1905-1910.

The 5 cent stamp issued from 1898 to 1905 had proved a source of annoyance in regard to its color, the original "flesh" or "salmon" tint having deepened until it was in danger of confusion with the 2 cent, and then swung the other way into orange and yellow, where it was liable to confusion with the 1 cent stamp. Orders were therefore finally given to print it in violet and it was issued in this color on July 10, 1905. Even then it could not wholly drop its chamelion-like nature and many fine shades from lilac-brown to blue-violet can be found. In all other respects save color the stamp remained as before.

On October 1, 1907, the "Rome Convention" rearrangement of Postal Union tariffs came into force. As recognition of the Union rates of postage forms the basis of every postal agreement China has entered into with foreign countries. Though not then a member of the Postal Union, she undertook to give effect to the new rules so far as circumstances would allow. She adopted the 20 gram unit for single weight international letters at 10 cents local currency, and the reduced rate at 6 cents local currency for additional units of weight, although her local unit of letter weight was but 15 grams. To facilitate prepayment of double weight international letters, therefore, a stamp of the value of 16 cents was ordered of Messrs. Waterlow & Sons. This was engraved in the second design of the then current series, showing the carp in the center, and was issued in an olive green color on October 1, 1907. In printing, sheet arrangement, etc., it conforms to the companion values of the series. The inscriptions show i chiao or "1 dime" in the right upper corner and lu fên or "6 cents" in the left upper corner.

The "Report on the Post Office" for 1908 says:—

"Some modifications were made in the colors hitherto adopted for Chinese postage stamps, with a view to bring them into accord with the conventional colors of the Union for international rates: the 10-cent stamp (25 centimes) was changed from green to blue, and the 2-cent (5 centimes) from red to green. Since the first January, 1909, the new-color stamps are exclusively used for these values. Another stamp, of the value of 4 cents (10 centimes) will also be changed in color during the present year [1909] from brown to red. The large supply of brown 4-cent stamps now on hand makes the change in color inadvisable for the present." The report for 1909 states: "The 4-cent (10 centimes) stamp was issued in its new color (vermilion) and the former color (brown) discontinued from the 1st January 1910."

The dates given above—January 1, 1909 for the 2 and 10 cent stamps and January 1, 1910 for the 4 cent stamps, are those on which the old colors became invalid. The dates of issue of the new colors are October 20, 1908, for the 2 cent, green, and approximately the same date for the 10 cents, ultramarine. The 4 cents, scarlet, appeared in November, 1909, but the exact date is not at hand.

On March 26, 1910, two new values of the regular series were provided, a 3 cent stamp to accommodate the letter postage to Japan, and a .7 cent stamp to facilitate the payment of domestic registered letters—two cents for the single letter rate and five cents for registration. The 3 cent stamp seems to have been printed at first in a greenish slate, which is somewhat scarce, and a deep blue green; but its usual shade is between these two and might be termed a dark gray green. The 7 cent stamp was printed in a handsome shade of maroon. These two new values were engraved like the others of the then current set in the first of the three designs—the one with the dragon in the central circle. In paper and perforation they likewise conform to their companions, but in sheet arrangement they differ, being in sheets of 100, ten rows of ten.

The reference list is as follows:

1905-1910. Perf. 12 to 16. Unwatermarked.
2 cents, deep yellow green.
3 cents, dark gray green, deep blue green, greenish slate.
4 cents, scarlet, crimson.
5 cents, blue-violet, violet, lilac, lilac brown, purple.

In September, 1910, the local city letter rate was raised from 1 cent to 1½ cents, and in consequence the ½ cent stamps ran out in some places. Occasionally, one finds a 1 cent stamp cut in two diagonally or a 3 cent stamp divided vertically for this reason, and these half stamps seem to have been passed without question.

CHAPTER XIV.—The Commemorative Issue of 1910.

In Chapter III, we noted the death of the Emperor, on November 14, 1908, after a reign of thirty-four years under the "style" or "reign name" of Kuang Hsü or "Glorious Succession". On the same day his little two and a half year old nephew, named Pu Yi, was proclaimed Emperor under the "reign name" of Hsüan T'ung or "Extended Rule", the designation intending to imply that his rule would embrace all of his subjects in an equal manner, in view of the constitutional reforms demanded.

Early the next year it began to be rumored that there would be a special issue of stamps to commemorate the new reign. A letter of inquiry to the Imperial Post Office brought the following reply:—

The Imperial Administration has decided to commemorate the accession to the throne of His Majesty, the Emperor Hsüan T'ung by the issue of three stamps of the respective values of 2 cents, 3 cents and 7 cents. These stamps will be oblong instead of square and be printed in two colours: all three will have a yellow border, this being the Imperial colour in China, and the central picture, which will represent the "Temple of Heaven," the sacred edifice for Imperial sacrifices in Peking, will be green, blue, and purple, according to value. The issue will be strictly limited to one million of the 3 and 7 cents and two millions of the 2 cents.

The Official Circular announcing the issue was as follows:—

COMMEMORATION STAMPS.

1. Three special stamps of the respective values of 2, 3 and 7 cents are being issued, to commemorate the accession to the throne of His Imperial Majesty, Hsüan T'ung.

The two cents stamps will temporarily supplement the ordinary domestic stamp of the same value; the two other stamps—3 cents and 7 cents—are new denominations for both domestic and international use; they will subsequently be re-edited in simpler design and form of the ordinary square size and remain in the Imperial Post Office series.

Two million of the 2 cents stamp and one million each of the other two stamps have been ordered: these quantities will not be exceeded.

* * * * * * *

3. These stamps are particularly intended for sale to stamp collectors and any quantities applied for are to be served to them, the sale from this source being pure gain to the postal revenue. In this connection postal employees at the stamp-selling windows are instructed to carry out the requests of the applicants in the event of the latter wishing to have the stamps obliterated by the date-chop before taking them away.

* * * * * * *

5. Any unsold stock on the 1st October, 1910, is to be returned to the Statistical Secretary, a special report being made to Peking of the quantities then disposed of. A nil statement is to be sent in the event of all the stamps being sold.

By Order,
[Signed] T. PIRY,
Postal Secretary.

Inspectorate General of Posts,
Peking, 17th May, 1909.

Although the above circular was dated in May, the stamps were not actually issued until September 8, 1909. The Post Office report for 1909 says: "The new issue of commemoration stamps created a record for the sale of stamps in Shanghai, $14,000 worth being disposed of in one and a half hours. [This was one-tenth of the total face value of the issue.] Supplies were sent to all postal establishments, and it can be truly said that these stamps commemorating the accession of His Imperial Majesty, Hsüan T'ung, have been exhibited and placed for sale in all parts of the Empire." As far as we are aware, paragraph 5 of the circular was needless, as the issue was quickly disposed of. Special attention is directed to paragraph 3 as the raison d'être of the issue stated in its simplest terms!

The stamps present a handsome appearance, being line engraved. The name of the makers, WATERLOW & SONS, LIMITED, LONDON, appears in minute letters just beneath each stamp. The oblong frame is uniformly printed in orange. A rampant dragon appears at each side of the central picture with the chu or "pearl", at the top of the frame. Just beneath this is "Chinese Empire" and below again "Hsüan T'ung First Year." There are four circles at each side, containing Chinese characters, those at the right being Ta Ch'ing Yu Chêng, or "Imperial Chinese Postal Service", and those at the left being Hsüan T'ung Yüan Nien or, "Hsüan T'ung First Year." In the upper right corner is the Chinese numeral, erh, san or ch'i (2, 3 or 7) with fên (cents) in the upper left hand corner. The value in English is plainly expressed at the bottom.

The vignette gives a very pretty view of the "Temple of Heaven", said to be the most beautiful piece of architecture in China. It stands in an enclosure, one square mile in extent, on the right or east side of the main roadway leading from the south gate of the "Chinese City" of Peking to the main gate of the "Tartar City" at the north. The enclosure contains two altars about a quarter of a mile apart, each on a circular triple terrace of white marble, elaborately carved. The open altar is dedicated to the sun and the covered altar, the one pictured, to the moon. Here, at midnight of the winter solstice, the Emperor, after due fasting and prayer, was accustomed to worship Shang-ti, the "Supreme Ruler", with prayer, hymns, prostrations, and burnt-offerings of oxen, sheep, hares, etc., and of silk, jade, and other precious things. The open Altar of the Sun is larger, but the Altar of the Moon has erected over it a lofty, circular, triple-roofed temple, 99 feet in height, roofed with blue porcelain tiles, the eaves painted in brilliant colors and protected from the birds by a wire netting. The ceiling is covered with gilded dragons in high relief and the whole is supported by immense pillars. The building was struck by lightning in 1889 and burned, but was restored during the ten years that followed, Oregon pine being used for the pillars.

The stamps are printed in sheets of 100, ten rows of ten, on white wove unwatermarked paper, perforated 14.

THE USE OF CREDIT SLIPS.

By F. W. Wilson.

(We are quite agreed with our correspondent in his statement that the use of credit slips is an abuse that should be corrected. No dealer should retain money sent him with the idea of compelling further patronage. If stamps offered in our columns have been sold, money sent for the same should be returned, and if any of our subscribers have grievances in this direction, write for a refund of money sent and if reply to the letter is not forthcoming, report the facts to us.—Ed.)

There is an abuse, perpetrated by stamp dealers advertising in your paper that should be corrected. I have been sending many orders to dealers, but I am through. Hereafter, they will get their money on delivery of goods ordered, rather than in advance, and the reason is the following:—

Four dealers that I have sent orders to, accompanied with cash in full for stamps ordered, have kept part of my money, placing it to my credit as they term it, because they did not have in stock goods ordered, notwithstanding they advertised the specific items I ordered.

None of these dealers have sent me any approval sheets from which I could take off goods to the value of the money they are withholding from me. They simply put it up to me to get my money back the best way I can. In two cases, I closed out my accounts by taking stamps I did not want, as it seemed to be the only way to force a balance. In the other cases, the dealers still have my money. One man has held part of my remittance since February 15, and the other since February 19th. The amounts are too small to bring suits for settlement, so I presume I must lose.

I think stamp dealers, who pretend to be honest, should return any money sent them in answer to ads when they cannot fill orders submitted. Those that do not do it deserve the loss of trade. The four that I have discovered by experience to be guilty of the practice of "holding out" on customers have lost my trade anyhow.

Wont you publish this in the Weekly. Subscribers have a right to be warned of this practice on the part of dealers. I am very glad to say that all dealers advertising in your papers do not resort to this kind of business.

MISUSE OF SALE CHARACTERS.

By P. M. Wolsieffer.

I note an article from the pen of J. W. Coonan, Nyack, New York, complaining about the misuse of characters in auction sale catalogs. I think that Mr. Coonan's comments are not justified, because the various concerns who conduct auction sales do not differ very materially in the use of such characters.

From the time that I can first recall receiving a price-list, to say nothing of an auction sale catalog, I have always noticed that unused stamps were designated by a star, and all stamps without any character were supposed to be used or cancelled specimens.

When I began writing up auction sales, which is so very long ago that most of the present day readers of Mekeel's Weekly will not remember it, I always placed a star in the front of any lot in which the stamp was either unused, or the bulk of the value of a combination lot was unused. If the lot was a used or cancelled specimen, or the greater value of the stamps in said lot were used or cancelled, I used the circle.

I am very sure that the majority of the auction concerns use a star for unused, and if they do not use the circle for used lots, they state in a paragraph in the catalog that all lots are used excepting those designated with a star.

I have never seen a price-list or auction catalog in which the circles were used for unused stamps. Neither have I seen a price-list or auction catalog in which the conductor of said sale used a square to designate unused stamps. I have yet to see any circular or catalog advertising stamps, in which unused stamps have been designated by any other character excepting a star. Possibly there may be some small concern, conducted by the youthful element, that is just starting in business that may have indulged in this practice, but no well-known concern of good repute has conflicted with the general understanding of present day collecting, that a star designates unused or uncancelled stamps, and a circle designates used or cancelled specimens.

In the olden days it was customary to place the star designating unused stamps wherever the description of the stamp occurred in the line or paragraph, but I adopted the principle of always placing the character in front of the line, next to the lot number, so that a bidder would know if he was bidding on a used or an unused lot.

I think that Mr. Coonan's contention for a uniform code is uncalled for, because all of the well-known and bona-fide public auction concerns follow out this principle.

MR. POOLE IN PHILADELPHIA.

The East welcomes Mr. Poole.

Hereafter the Franklin Stamp Co. of Philadelphia, as will be noted elsewhere in this issue, will have the services of our well-known contributor, B. W. H. Poole. We congratulate the Franklin Stamp Co. upon having added Mr. Poole to their staff and feel very positive that he will strengthen in many ways the resources of the firm.

TWENTY-FOUR SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The well-known Washington dealer, Willard P. Colman, further evidences his interest in our publication by sending in twenty-four new six months subscriptions to the WEEKLY. Most of these are from collectors who have answered his advertisements in other publications and he is sending the WEEKLY as a premium to a selected list of customers. Mr. Colman writes:—

"I would like to see them become more interested in our hobby and I know of no better way than to have the WEEKLY call on them during the next six months." As will be seen by our report elsewhere in this issue, Mr. Colman now has a total of sixty-six new six months' subscriptions sent in since October 1.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Virgin—The change of name of the Danish West Indies to the Virgin Islands of the United States has been certified to by the postmaster general at Washington, in the following announcement, the terms of which are effective March 31, 1917:

"Section 395, Postal Laws and Regulations, is amended as follows, so as to extend the domestic rates of postage and conditions to mail exchanged between the Virgin Islands of the United States (these islands embrace Saint Thomas, Saint John, Saint Croix, and adjacent islands, formerly known as the Danish West Indies) and the United States and its other possessions, effective March 31, 1917.

Sec. 395. The domestic rates of postage and conditions apply to mail addressed for local delivery, or for transmission from one place to another within the United States, or to or from or between the possessions of the United States, and to that for transmission to or from the United States or its possessions and officers or members of crews of United States naval vessels, and to or from the United States postal agency at Shanghai, China, and to officers and men of the United States Navy in the United States Naval Hospital at Yokohama, Japan. The term "United States and its possessions" includes Porto Rico, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, Guam, Tutuila and Manua Islands of the Samoan group, the Canal Zone, and the Virgin Islands of the United States.

2. Postage stamped paper of the Danish West Indies outstanding in the hands of the public will be recognized for payment of postage on matter mailed in the Virgin Islands of the United States."

Hard—From Mr. John C. Hunt, Bedford Hills, New York, we have received the following letter: "I was interested in your article in the issue of March 3, 1917, on hard paper in the 1879 issue, especially as you give credit to the author as an original discoverer. You may or may not recall that I wrote you some three years ago on this subject stating that I had two copies each of the one and of the three cent values on hard paper and all showing the imprint at top, so that when they are placed side by side, I have the full imprint. These stamps all were seen by Messrs. Klemann and Luff and the paper pronounced undoubtedly hard. You acknowledged my letter but paid no attention to the contents in your paper. These stamps are not rare, as I know of a number of collectors that have them." The interest carried by a piece of this kind would ensue that the stamps would be mentioned, under routine circumstances, and we cannot imagine how the stamps could have been ignored. As a foreword to Mr. Wiley's article, we said: "While not the first to bring forth the American print on hard paper, yet Mr. Wiley qualifies as an original discoverer to all intents and purposes." We should have expressed the thought that although the existence of American hard paper prints was already established, yet Mr. Wiley was not aware that they were of record. In the issue of the WEEKLY dated February 21st, 1914, Mr. L. C. Hassler, Louisville, told of his discovery of the American Bank Note Co. imprint on hard paper and of the Continental Bank Note Co. imprint on soft paper. We may add that Mr. Hassler has the seven cent on soft paper, printed by the Continental Bank Note Company or printed by the American Bank Note Company from the Continental plate.

Afterthought—Several weeks ago, in an editorial paragraph, we spoke of having been asked to edit an American edition of "Who's Who in Philately," and judging from several inquiries that have reached us, we omitted an important part of the announcement: We declined the opportunity. Another phase of the editorial is now reflected in the following paragraph which should have accompanied the remarks in the paper of March 24th: "We never should have written the foregoing remarks if it had not been that recently we were indulging in boastful words of our retentive memory, when an old-timer who had backslidden but had again accepted the philatelic faith said that he could name five persons of long ago, whom we would not remember in their philatelic connection, albeit that he did. He asked who were the following gentlemen of his generation, whom he recalled: Bradford, Whilden, Baitzell, Hubbard and Raymond. We reeled off the following identifications of the men, all of whom flourished from 1885 to 1890. Bradford of Illinois was a secretary of the American Philatelic Society who in his official capacity was vigorously attacked by Corwin, during one of the periods of turbulence that the society has survived. Whilden was a philatelist of Atlanta, Georgia, who was much interested in the idea of a national organization in 1885 or thereabouts and who gave currency to his plans in the philatelic press. Baitzell was a dealer in Baltimore who made something of a specialty of entire United States envelopes. Hubbard published a stamp paper in New Hampshire and Raymond was a brilliant young man in Chicago, who published the Collectors' Companion in 1885-86, so capably as to merit favorable recognition generally. It may be added that Mr. Raymond became prominent in the general business field later.

Rewarded—Speaking of the successful careers of whilom philatelic editors, one of the most impressive examples is afforded us in the history of the past week, when Mr. A. W. Shaw was named head of the new United States board of economy. To be chosen as principal of this board of federal commercial economy is an honor of eminent degree. Mr. Shaw's publication, System, has done much to make him a factor nationally. It was just about twenty years ago when Mr. Shaw was qualifying as a philatelic editor for a position in the publishing world at large. It was in 1896 that the Shaw Stamp and Coin Company started the Philatelic Weekly at Jackson, Michigan, and during the months of August and September of that year issued four numbers of the weekly in question. We remember the weekly as a deserving and progressive publication and we should say that it was in philatelic journalism that Mr. A. Wilkinson Shaw cut his eye-teeth.

Honest—A man entered the precincts of the stamp shop with an apologetic air. Addressing the dealer, he said: "I have a stamp collection here that has been stowed away in our attic for many years. I think that there are a lot of rare stamps in it that are valuable, but as I do not know one stamp from another, I cannot put a price on the collection, which may be worth one dollar or one hundred dollars." After looking over the pages carefully, the dealer said that he would give three dollars for the book and after expressing some disappointment, the caller accepted the amount. "It was a fair offer," smiled the dealer. It was.

Transfer—We have been informed by Mr. H. L. Lindquist that his paper, the Collectors' Journal, has been sold to Mr. J. E. Guest of Minneapolis, Minnesota, the sales manager of the Southern Philatelic Association. Mr. Lindquist started the Collectors' Journal at Chicago over six years ago and it was not long before it had been developed into one of the foremost exponents of philately. We can bear testimony to the fact that the columns of our contemporary furnished reading matter of a high grade and in the aggregate, the quantity of original matter of value given to readers makes a high score. Mr. Lindquist has served his followers well and he may feel serene in the satisfaction that follows the task that is well done. Our regret at the retirement of Mr. Lindquist from the philatelic field is tempered by the thought that the Collectors' Journal has been placed in the hands of Mr. Guest, who, we feel safe in saying, will ably uphold the best traditions of the Collectors' Journal, which we have come to look upon as a fixture.

Safety—We once said: What profiteth it a collector to save a few cents in buying his hinges and lose many dollars through their fault. Good hinges have been of incalculable benefit to philately and the tribe of thin-spots does not increase in ratio to the number of stamps. Yet, and this is what we want to say, every now and then a perfectly reliable hinge, as a rule, goes on a tantrum and becomes adamant when coaxed to let go; and if patience is not exercised, the stamp is spoiled to some extent.

Perhaps—A man who was being shown a collection pointed to the ninety cent, 1869, and said that he remembered that stamp. Gentle doubt was expressed by the collector but the man averred that he had sent a big batch of pension papers to Washington from Boston on which the postage was ninety cents or more and that he well remembered it for its tax on his purse.

DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

CHAPTER XIV.—Printing Processes.

If the reader will take two pieces of cardboard each about the thickness of a coin, fasten a coin on one of them, which we will designate "B," and cut a round hole through the other—"A"—just large enough to fit the coin, he will have a fair idea of how a single unit on each pair of plates looked when they were ready for inking. The card "A" corresponds to a frame plate while the card "B" corresponds to a medallion plate. Each frame plate contained as many holes and each medallion plate contained as many bosses as there were stamps on the sheet which they were to print. Now suppose we imagine one face of card "A" inked with blue and the face of the coin on card "B" inked in black and place the two cards together faces up so that the coin fits into the hole in card "A". By taking an impression from the face of card "A" we would obtain a print in two colors, for the face of the coin on card "B" is exactly flush with the face of card "A" and card "A" appears and would print as a single plate—card "A" itself printing the blue frame of the stamp while the boss, which seems to be a part of card "A" but is really part of card "B," prints the black portrait.

It was necessary to provide forms for properly inking the plates and each time a sheet of stamps was printed the two plates had to be taken apart, inked, and put together again. The $200 and $500 stamps required three plates each—one for each color—and it was possible to print in four or even more colors at one operation by increasing the number of plates. The process was much slower than printing in one color, or than printing in two colors by two impressions in the usual manner, but from the standpoint of stamp lovers it had one very great advantage—every medallion must come exactly in register.

When stamps are printed in two colors by the usual process it is almost impossible to exactly center or "register" the medallions. Even if they register on some stamps of a sheet they may be high or low or to one side on other stamps on the same sheet. Any postage stamp collector who has attempted to get the high values of the U. S. 1869 set well registered knows how frequently the medallions are off center, lapping over on the frames. The Pan-American set of 1901 is another good example. By the Earle and Steele process though, only perfect registering could be produced—in no case could even the slightest part of a medallion lap over on a frame.

How then can we explain why so many of the second and third issue documentaries and corresponding proprietary stamps do not have perfectly registered medallions? On a large proportion of the normally printed stamps and on most of the inverted medallions—perhaps as high as 90%—the medallions lap over on the frames. Since every stamp of every sheet printed by the Earle and Steele "single printing" process must have its medallion in perfect register, it is quite obvious none of the stamps with medallions at all out of register could have been printed by that process. The writer believes that at first some of the stamps were printed at one operation, but it is not possible to prove any single stamp was so printed because perfect registering can be obtained by the ordinary two operation method. The most reasonable explanation is that the single printing process was too expensive or too bothersome and that it was soon discarded in favor of the usual two operation process.

When did this change take place? The two cent blue and black was last issued November 4, 1871 and the color of the frame was changed to orange on or

UNITS ILLUSTRATING THE EARLE & STEELE PATENT

EXPLANATORY.

A and B are single units of two-color plates shown face up separately, and in vertical section through the center both separately and joined together (A B) when ready for printing. The engraved surface of unit A contained the frame of the stamp and the portrait was engraved on the raised boss of unit B. When A is placed on B the boss on B fills the hole in A and a level printing surface is obtained.

C shows how the plates could be arranged to print three colors, x being the face plate unit, y being the middle unit and z is the back plate unit. When printing stamps each plate would contain as many sets of units as there were stamps on the sheet.

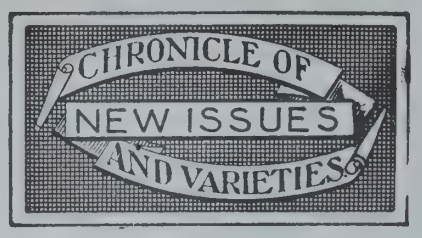
about October 14th, immediately preceding. Off center medallions of the blue stamp exist and could not have been printed after November 4th and probably not after October 14th. The stamp also exists with medallion inverted, which the writer also considers conclusive proof of two operation printing; in fact, he believes it can be shown clearly that two operation printing was the cause of all the inverted medallions. As it is reasonable to suppose the same reason for changing the method of printing the two cent stamp would apply equally to the other values—except perhaps, the $200 and $500—it would appear that one operation printing ceased before October 14, 1871,—that is before the stamps had been in use six weeks—and therefore, that all the third issue documentaries, the black and green proprietaries on green paper—except perhaps, the 50c, $1.00 and $5.00—and a majority of the proprietaries on chameleon paper and of the second issue documentaries, were not printed by the one operation process. Copies of third issue documentaries and low value proprietaries on green paper with registered medallions may be considered accidents due to luck or care, since with careful printing it would be almost as difficult to get all medallions out of register as to get all of them registered. The 10c proprietary was not issued until July 1873, and probably does not exist as a "single print".



There is no doubt the inverted medallions were so printed in full sheets. A few pairs and blocks are known and more than fifty of the 2c orange and black have been found at one time when searching through bundles of cancelled checks, showing that someone had bought a sheet. Hence they were not caused by an inverted head or frame on any of the plates. Neither were they caused by placing a medallion and a frame plate together for single operation printing with one of the plates upside down. The inverted medallions came from plates containing 72 to 210 stamps and the bosses fit the holes so closely all of them might not fit in reverse position. Besides, the plates probably were equipped with a device to prevent locking them together in any other than the correct position.

This process of elimination of the possible means whereby the inverted medallions might have been produced leaves only the most probable—the inverts were produced after the change from one impression printing to two impression printing occurred, and when the second impressions were taken some few of the sheets were placed in the presses upside down. That so many inverts have off centered medallions is satisfactory proof all were printed at two operations.

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—C. E. Wright advises us that the 7c, 8c and 10c unwatermarked perf. 11 were put in use March 24.

There will be no special issues of the United States for the U. S. Virgin Islands. This information is contained in a letter from the P. O. Department to Harold Schoen.

ALBANIA.—We have been informed by Henry J. Perry, M. D., that an independent Albanian Government has been re-established, with seat of government at Koritza, and has issued a set of stamps, using the issue of Northern Epirus (Greek Occupation stamps, type A29), of which our correspondent has received a three lepta stamp, surcharged a double eagle and 25c in black; and a 3l. overprinted with a double eagle in blue and 25c in black and inscription "Shgipenie Korce Vetqeveritare" in black, all being contained in a frame in blue. "Shgipenie" is the native spelling of Albania.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—We are indebted to Lieutenant A. G. A. Galloway for the information that he has seen examples of the promised 2c, 50c, and 1 peso stamps in the San Martin type, replacing the Centenary issue, as forecasted in ours of October 21 last. The colours and watermark are similar, the framework of the new 2c being akin to that of the Centenary 12c, while the frame of the 1 peso is of a different pattern, and on all three values the years "1816-1916" are replaced by the currency expressed in words. Our informant understands these stamps were issued some time in January. Whitfield King & Co. have shown us a copy of the new 5c red, portrait of San Martin.—Stamp Collecting.

BAHAMAS.—A further printing of the 5d, Special Delivery, stamp has been made locally at Nassau, and sent to the Canadian Post Office Department, at Ottawa. The first printing consisted of but 600 stamps, and the second printing is said also to be limited. The stock of the 5d orange and black, Queen's Staircase type is getting low, and is soon to be replaced by a stamp in different colors, violet and black. It will, of course, be printed on the C. A. Multiple paper. —HARRY E. HUBER.

BRITISH HONDURAS. — The burele stamps in this Colony have been exhausted, and the recent printing of the 1c war stamp, was on the stamp without this feature. The overprinting WAR was done locally as before, in black. The 3c orange stamp had not yet been received on March 22nd, though expected shortly.—HARRY E. HUBER.

CANADA.—We have been shown by M. R. Buell a specimen of the 2c Canada war tax inland revenue perforated 8x12. As yet we have no information as to the reason for the new perforation. Can any of our Canadian subscribers give us the desired information?

Gerald Mongeon calling our attention to the new Canadian war cancellations, and especially one printed in French, informs us that the 3c brown war tax stamp has been issued imperforate. This stamp in coil form has already been chronicled in the WEEKLY.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—The second printing of the 1½d on 2½d War Stamp is also exhausted, and a further printing has been ordered. The second printing stamps arrived at George Town, per one of the United Fruit steamers on February 16th, and was placed on sale February 26th, with the first printing.

The delay in receipt of these stamps was due entirely to lack of communication between Jamaica and Grand Cayman, either by steamer or the island boats. There is but one schooner plying between the two Islands at the present time, the others having gone to more remunerative fields.

Arrangements are now being made for a regular monthly steamer service between Grand Cayman and Jamaica, and if the contract is signed, it will involve an expense of £600 per annum for 5 years, half of which is to be paid out of the surplus funds of the Dependency, and the rest from the annual revenue. After five years if the service is continued, the subsidy would be decreased to £300 per annum, which will be payable from the yearly revenue. Business in the Islands is at a standstill, and the great damage done by the 1915 hurricanes to the cocoanut trees has seriously affected those dependent upon this industry.—HARRY E. HUBER.

CHILE.—J. Saulnier has shown us a copy of the 4c lithographed design similar to the 2c of the 1912 issue. Like the other values that have appeared the workmanship is very crude. The color is pale brown and perforation is 13½x 14½.

GABON.—Ewen's Weekly Stamp News reads: We have just received supply of the Red Cross stamp 5c on 10c value of AFRIQUE EQUATORIALE GABON. This printing is on drab surfaced paper.

GREECE. — We quote from Ewen's Weekly Stamp News:

We have received specimen copies of the new series of Venizelist Government Provisional stamps. Of the new series the design is uniform for all denominations, and represents the goddess "Isis." It is a very artistic issue, and the colours make an attractive set. The dimensions are 30 millimeters by 23 millimeters in order to double the heighth of the top label to be able to insert under the word ELLAS the sub-title PROSORINI KIVERNISIS with letters straight and narrow, similar to the title on the French stamps. The stamps are perforated 14 and the following are the exact colours:

1 lepton, blue green.
5 lepta, yellow green.
10 lepta, rose red.
15 lepta, pale blue.
50 lepta, greyish purple.
1 drachma, bright ultramarine
2 drachma, pale brick red.
3 drachma, carmine rose.
4 drachma, drab.
5 drachma, steel blue.
10 drachma, deep blue.
25 drachma, deep slate.

HONDURAS.—Two covers have been shown us by Gerald D. Bliss, upon which are split stamps. On one the 20c yellow 1911 is used and on the other the 50c brown of the same year. The stamps are bisected diagonally and the first mentioned bears a "Paquebot" and "New Orleans" cancellation.

JAMAICA.—The latest novelty in war stamps from this West Indian Colony is the 1½d orange, George, overprinted WAR STAMP, in larger type than has been used previously. The overprint is in two lines, and the distance from the top of WAR to the bottom of STAMP is 7½ mm. as compared with the former 6 mm.

A sheet of 240 (four panes of 60), showing control 1, is surcharged at one operation. The 9th stamp of the first pane shows no period after the word STAMP. On pane 2 there are several broken letters, and in the sixth and seventh rows, there are stamps showing letters "A" and "R" from the previously used font. Panes 3 and 4 do not show varieties of any note, although there are several broken letters.

The overprinting has been done as before, by the Government Printing Office at Kingston, and it is interesting to note that the type used and the spacing is identical with that used for the second printing of the Cayman Islands 1½d on 2½d War Stamp. This new printing of the 1½d came into issue the week of March 12th, and the ½d and 3d are scheduled for early appearance with the same overprint.—HARRY E. HUBER.

NETHERLANDS.—From several sources we note that a 30c value will shortly be added to the current set and because of NICARAGUA.—We have received from Gerald D. Bliss two covers with split provisionals. The stamp used is the 10 centavos on 2p 1912 issue. The stamp is bisected diagonally and there can be no question as to the genuineness of the same.

PAPUA.—We have received a small supply of the new bi-coloured penny stamps, which differ materially from the 1910 issue, the colour is quite distinct, the watermark is single lined "A" instead of double, and the design is the same as the unicoloured stamps.—Whitfield King's List.

TURKEY.—Cleanthis Zonaris sends us a specimen of a Turkish war stamp, with a bit of information conveyed through Mr. Auf der Heide of how these stamps are regarded by English censors. We quote from Mr. Zonaris' letter as follows:—

Inclosed please find a Turkish war stamp recently issued. It is the 20 para carmine of the 1905 issue surcharged 10 Para. It is also surcharged with a crescent bearing the inscription "For the orphans of the war" and the Turkish date 1331 (1916). All these surcharges are in black and in Turkish writing. The stamps are regarded as contraband by the English censor, according to the inclosed card of J. C. Auf de Heide.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—According to Harry E. Huber the following Post Office Notice was issued covering the War Tax imposed upon letters and parcels:—

Post Office, Grand Turk, Jan. 2, 1917.

From today and until Dec. 31 as a special War Tax, the following amounts in addition to the amounts now in force under the Postal Union Convention will be collected:

(1) On every letter addressed to the United Kingdom or any of His Majesty's Colonies or Dominions, 1d

(2) On every parcel post packet and on every postal packet containing dutiable matter arriving in the Dependency, 3d

(3) On every parcel post packet addressed to the United Kingdom or any of His Majesty's Colonies or Dominions not being a parcel post packet addressed to a member of His Majesty's Navy or Army, 3d

Postage stamps of 1d and 3d denominations specially overprinted WAR TAX have been prepared for this specific purpose.

VIRGIN ISLANDS.—A new supply of War Stamps has been received from England. The 1d is in scarlet, from plate showing control 5, and the 3d is on the new golden yellow paper, from plate 5. The overprint is as before, in same type as used for the London printing of the St. Vincent war stamps.—HARRY E. HUBER.

BOLIVIA, 1894 ISSUES.

By J. Arthur Wainwright.

Now that the last Scott catalog has separated the 1894 Bolivia issues into their two parts I have some more information to contribute regarding them.

To begin with the first issue on thin paper. I am in search of perforation 14 and as yet have failed to find it, although I have written to several dealers desiring to fill want lists. As far as heard from none of them have the thin paper set perforated 14. Whether I shall find any other or not is a question. The 14½ perforation is hard to get. If any one doubts this let him try to get the full set. The color of the 100 centavos on thin paper, perf. 14½ is not "brown rose" but "rose red." At least my copy is a beautiful rose red. The catalog price of this stamp is far too low. It was low enough at $1.00 and the reduction to 60c is not warranted by the supply of this particular stamp. I doubt if the Scott Co. can supply this stamp at all. They could not when I secured my copy.

Regarding the thick paper issue the set is very common in used and unused condition. The colors of the thick paper set as taken from my own collection are as follows:

1c yellow buff, grayish buff and grayish yellow buff.
2c dull vermilion, red, light red and brown red.
5c blue green, dark blue green and emerald green.
10c gray brown and light gray brown.
20c deep blue, blue, gray blue, dark gray blue and slate blue.
50c deep dull claret, light dull claret, grayish dull claret.
100c dull rose, light dull rose, brown orange.

This last stamp unused is greatly overpriced.

THE 75% OFF CATALOG BOGEY.

By A Dealer-Collector.

On occasions I receive from correspondents the following pathetic rider: "I never pay more than quarter Gibbons prices." Lately this hackneyed gag has had added "during the War."

It has been my custom for many years to always reply, soliciting a selection on these terms, but, I can honestly say, never with any success.

Most of these collectors I have found are not notorious bargain hunters—but would-be genuine philatelists who are spoilt by their little philatelic knowledge.

We are all well aware that inferior specimens, and certain stamps of other than bona fide postal obliteration, as Liberia, high value Union of South Africa, and many Continental high values used on M.O. and bulk cards, that arrive from time to time in large parcels, immediately reflect their presence as bargains.

But one must not judge the barrel by the top apple, or the flock on the colour of a single ram.

For a considerable number of years I have never objected to paying from 75 per cent. of (note, not off) to full catalogue for many common stamps. Two years' enforced absence from philately is almost like a Dr. Gray or a Moens coming back.

Look at the following stamps that—and quite recently, too—were catalogued at 1d each. Argentine, 1910, 4c; France, 1878, 3c; U.S.A., 1893, 3c; 1904, 3c; 1902, 13c—just items at random that a real philatelist never troubled to dispose of. At least he wasn't likely to offer for sale at 75 per cent. off.

Certainly the 75 per cent. off man can be accommodated—he just comes along asking to be stung. It is better to sell him a Southern Nigeria 3d 1904 at a third catalogue than the 2½d same issue at two-thirds—or two hundred Morocco Agencies 5c Edward at a quarter catalogue than the 20c King George at full catalogue. One would like to exchange 9d and 10d British Edward against Levant five lowest values of 1913, catalogue against catalogue.

I must confess I have a profound contempt for the dealer who is a mere shopkeeper or a homeworker "increasing his income" possessing no "soul of philately," or detail other than, that which is bought at 6d and sold at a shilling is 50 per cent. solid profit.

Compare these hobos of philately with some of our great dealer philatelists, who have made certain countries and issues a study of years. It would be invidious to mention names of the dealers who have practically built up British philately by their researches, study, and time given up voluntarily to the hobby. Fancy their awaiting the completion of a country until the 75 per cent. off came along!

Years ago that stalwart of Transvaal fame, the late E. J. Nankivell, gave a well deserved drubbing to the "Fifty percenters," as they were then called, showing the harm they did to the real philatelic cause—and E. J. N. was no champion of stamp dealers—but he recognized the difference between dealer-monger and the dealer-philatelist.

I question very much whether these 75 per cent. off collectors do not impute that catalogues and cataloguers are frauds, rogues, and vagabonds, endeavouring to obtain money under false pretences.—Stamp Collecting.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—A. F. Simionescu, Hackensack, N. J., reports Charles Glicksberg previously mentioned in our news gleanings and Mr. Simionescu also adds to the list of poor correspondents Wm. H. Stuble, South Langhorn, Pa., and C. Van Dreederinger, N. Y. City.

—Some time ago Gulfport, Miss., urged upon the P. O. Department the issue of a special stamp advertising an exposition to be held there Dec. 10, of the present year. Gulfport got the next best thing, permission to use an advertising cancellation, which Fred Sullivan sends us a sample of. The cancellation consists of four lines reading:—"Mississippi Centennial—Exposition— Opens Dec. 10, 1917—Gulfport, Misssissippi."

—We have received from William Hoyt Yale a bunch of Canadian covers showing the various advertising cancellations recently brought into use, dealing with war certificates. One of these is printed in French. These cancellations are undoubtedly performing good missionary work in raising money for the promotion of the war.

—You should use our leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting", in your correspondence. It is excellent for missionary work and presents stamp collecting in its most favorable light. We pay half the cost of production and offer the leaflet at 50c per hundred postpaid. Collector or dealer can use these to advantage.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. C. Alderson, M. D., and Cady R. Fulmer.

—The mother of Mr. E. C. Dodd, La-Grange, Illinois, passed away recently at an advanced age. The interment was at Newark, Mr. Dodd having left for that city with the body, on April 5th. Consequently, Mr. Dodd will be away from his desk for a week or so. For several years Mr. Dodd devoted himself to the care of his invalid mother and in his bereavement he has the sympathy of many friends.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

By W. WARD, Author of "Postage Stamps of the Levant," Etc.

CHAPTER III.

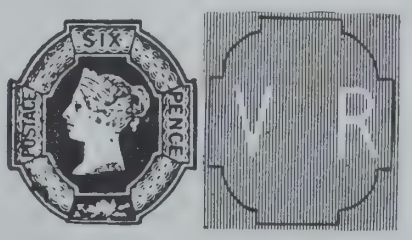
The Embossed Stamps.

The one shilling stamp of Great Britain issued Sept. 11, 1847, may well claim to be the first orthodox "international" postage stamp, since it was primarily issued to prepay postage on over-seas letters and outside the British Empire, was probably most used on American letters. Like many of the early stamps of higher than inland rate, they were for many years procurable only outside the country of their issue.

The shilling value was quickly followed, Nov. 6, 1848, by one for ten pence, an over-seas rate fixed between certain Colonies and near by European countries. It is necessary to point out that in these pre-Universal Postal Union days, a letter could not be wholly prepaid from one country to another. Letters were generally taxed for the inland postage of the country of destination. Hence letters from U. S. A. to Great Britain and vice versa were surcharged "postage due" for the inland rate. The Mexican "Porte de Mar" stamps are a single example of stamps for the extra postage demanded.

Unlike the other postage stamps of Great Britain which for over seventy years were contracted out to private firms, the embossed stamps were made and printed entirely by the Government. The dies were engraved by William Wyon from whose design of the Coronation Medal of Queen Victoria, the head on the engraved stamps printed by Perkins, Bacon & Co., was taken.

The plates were produced by the Royal Mint in London, and the stamps printed at the great revenue department, "Somerset House." The paper used was that invented by Dickinson, showing continuous silk threads. The irregularity of placing the paper in the press gives one or even two threads through a stamp vertically and horizontally, though rarely in the latter position. The stamps were die struck singly, so there are many known instances of stamps overlapping through careless workmanship. A very fine example of a vertical pair of the 10 penny, one stamp (the lower) being half way over the other, was sold from the famous Avery collection by Mr. W. H. Peckitt.



Singly printed strips of the shilling value will be found in deep green, bright green and very pale green, and the 10 pence in light and full brown shades.

The die numbers of these stamps are found together with the engraver's initials (W. W.) on the lower edge of the bust in, of course, colourless relief with the sole exception of the first die of the 10 penny, which bears no number. Both values as well as the succeeding six penny have advanced greatly in value during the past few years. Cut square in fine condition, they are gilt edged securities of philately:

6 pence, bright lilac.
6 pence, mauve.
6 pence, purple.
6 pence, deep purple.

It is interesting to note, and also as a caution to the collector, that these dies and dies taken from them, of all the three values were used up to 1902 on deed and telegraph forms. Often they can be cut from these forms showing no other printed matter, but since they are on thin common wove paper quite white or canary yellow and with a freshness of coloring in the ink, they should only deceive the merest tyro.

(Author's Note:—The embossed revenue stamps of 1861 to 1883 issues were authorized for postal use, but since they are not regular issues they will be included in a future treatise on "Official and Postal Fiscal Stamps of Great Britain.")

DEATH OF M. P. CASTLE.

M. P. Castle, M. V. O., J. P., died in a nursing home in London on the 21st inst., and was laid to rest at the historic old Parish Church of Sevenoaks, Kent, on Saturday afternoon, the 24th inst., an impressive service being conducted by the Rector.

Among the mourners, apart from the relatives and other personal friends, there were a number of philatelists who had come down to see the last of one whom they had known and respected for many years. Those present at the graveside included Baron de Worms, Baron Percy de Worms, Messrs. E. D. Bacon, Wilmot Corfield, T. W. Hall, W. H. Peckitt, Charles J. Phillips, R. Wedmore, Theodore Buhl (representing Stamp Collecting), and others.

Marcellus Purnell Castle was born at Westminister in 1849. He was educated at King's College School and Merton College, and then at Frankfort-on-Main. During the war between Austria and Prussia, in 1866, his first stamp collection was stolen. He returned to England in 1867 and went into the brewery business, from which he retired in 1892, to devote his time to Philately.

His death breaks one more link between the old school of philatelists and the present generation, and leaves a void which cannot be filled—such a void which has not occurred since poor Tapling's death, in 1891.

Mr. Castle was, at the time of his death, President of the Royal Philatelic Society, having succeeded the late Earl of Crawford, who had in turn succeeded His present Majesty King George (then Prince of Wales).

As I have previously mentioned, he was one of the early philatelists, and the collections he accumulated from time to time always created some stir when they came upon the market. In the early eighties he accumulated a fine general collection, but he was always keen on what I call "out-of-the-way" stamps, of places which nowadays do not seem to be as popular as they should be. In particular, I remember his fine collection of Shanghai, which it would be difficult to get together at the present time. He sold his general collection during 1886-1888, and then specialized in Australians until 1894, when he sold them for £10,000. From 1894 to 1900 he collected only European stamps, and these he sold in 1900 for £27,500. He then began another collection of Australians, which he sold in 1905 for £5,750. In more recent times he devoted his attention to some of the West Indian Islands, notably Trinidad, his marvellous collection of which was sold a few years ago.

Mr. Castle had been a member of the London (now Royal) Philatelic Society almost from its inception, and had edited the Society's journal, the London Philatelist, for twenty-five years. From 1881 to 1895 I was frequently in his company, and one could not have found a more genial companion. He was, perhaps, not a prolific writer on philatelic subjects, but what he wrote was good and mostly in a serious vein, but he could also see the lighter side of things.

Being a good linguist, and having travelled in many parts of the world, he was naturally a good philatelist. We travelled together to Paris, to the Geneva Exhibition, and other places, and he and I were the originals of the characters of "Eager" and "Sprightly" in his article, "A Philatelic Wild Goose Chase," published in the Stamp News Annual in 1893.—Stamp Collecting.

L'ENVOI.

By L. V. S.

When the earth's last collection is finished,
And the gum on the O. G.'s has dried,
When the last catalog is destroyed,
And the youngest specialist has died,
We shall rest, and faith, we shall need it,
Lay down for an eon or two,
'Till the lover of all good philatelists,
Calls us to work anew.

And those who were good shall be happy
They shall sit in a golden chair,
And take stamps in fine condition
From approvals whose prices are fair,
They shall have real rarities to examine,
St. Louis, New York, Baltimore,
And instead of single specimens,
They shall have blocks of four.

Their catalog shall be perfect,
And of hand-books there'll be no dearth,
The stamp paper will come when it's wanted,
Not each week, or each month, as on earth,
They shall work as long as they want to
Centuries, or months, or days,
And, of course, they shall never grow tired,
But shall work, if they wish, always.

And none but the Good One shall praise us,
And none but the Good One shall blame,
And none of us work for the value
And none of us for the fame,
But each for the joy of the working
And each, as do all the rest,
Shall give his collection, when finished,
To the God of all that is best.

—Volume 1, No. 1 of the Belmont Collector has been received. It is a well gotten up house organ published by the Belmont Stamp Co. of Philadelphia. It is sent free upon written request and the up-to-date buyer will need this breezy little magazine. We are informed that Wm. N. McIntyre of Chester, Pa., is a co-worker with Mr. Wolter of the Belmont Co. Mr. McIntyre being a well-known specialist in U. S. and South American stamps.

GREAT BRITAIN COLLECTION

We have recently secured a very fine line of the stamps of Great Britain including many of the 10 shillings, pound and 5 pound denominations of the obsolete issues. Selections will be sent to advanced collectors upon receipt of reference or deposit.

High grade selections of stamps of all countries sent on approval.

MR. R. C. HOOGKIRK, Secretary Edgewood Stamp Co.

AN ENTERPRISING STAMP FIRM.

By the MANAGING EDITOR.

In the busy town of Milford, Conn., on the direct line between Boston and New York, there is located the Edgewood Stamp Co., whose name has become a very familiar one to our readers by the regular use of our columns.

The firm was established in the year 1900 and was incorporatd in 1913, with C. M. Hooghkirk president, J. E. Holloway treasurer, and R. C. Hooghkirk secretary. The company occupies an entire two-story building for business purposes, each department being in charge of experienced and competent clerks.

We illustrate two of the office rooms, the upper one showing the secretary, R. C. Hooghkirk, busily engaged with the Standard Catalog. The larger of the first floor rooms is shown in the lower picture and here is Mr. Holloway with part of the clerical and philatelic force.

The Edgewood Stamp Co. has made several purchases of old stocks and accumulations, the latest acquisition being the Voltz, to which reference has already been made recently. This stock added a large variety of 20th century stamps to the firm's 19th Century holdings, so that at the present time the Edgewood Co. has a very comprehensive line of stamp goods.

Since its incorporation, this company has been a consistent user of our columns and recognizes the value of this publication as an advertising medium. Also appreciating the need of extending reliable philatelic knowledge, it has aided materially during the past season in increasing the circulation of the WEEKLY.

More than one hundred new subscriptions have been secured since October 1 and we cannot too strongly express our appreciation of the service that has been rendered. This presentation of the firm's activities is but a slight return for the splendid co-operation that has been extended.

Both Messrs. Holloway and Hooghkirk are agreed that what is done in helping the WEEKLY counts for the material welfare of philately as a whole. Mr. Holloway on a recent visit to Boston called at our office and it was the privilege of the Managing Editor to renew a pleasant acquaintanceship. An invitation to visit the firm's premises at Milford will be accepted as soon as convenient.

The firm is a member of the A. S. D. A.; Mr. Holloway is a member of the A. P. S. and Mr. Hooghkirk a member of both the A. P. S. and the National Philatelic Society. Long life and much prosperity to the Edgewood Stamp Co.

MR. J. E. HOLLOWAY, Treasurer Edgewood Stamp Co.

THIS ADVERTISEMENT SHOULD PRODUCE RESULTS—

because it actually offers the best kind of stock for a small dealer or trader at a price that assures a very satisfactory profit.
We have discontinued our appreval department and rather than re-assemble the stamps offer $100 catalog value for $15 or $50 for $8.
We do not except anything, but include every single stamp set aside for our approval department. At this price we cannot pick and choose, you must take them as they come; lots may or may not contain duplicates, each lot will contain a wide variety anyway. Every single stamp is not only in fine condition, but the bulk of the stock was net stuff—impossible to pick up in wholesale quantities. It made our heart ache to put some of the stamps in at this discount, but they all went in just the same. Everything ready assembled, in parcels of $50 and $100 catalog value.
YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED IF NOT SATISFIED.
Registration 10 cents extra.

In the current American Philatelist, the editor remarks that MEKEEL'S WEEKLY "has about 6,000 subscribers". Just to set the editor right and to convey the information where it is needed, the following statement is herewith presented:

PORTLAND, ME., April 18, 1917.

This is to certify that 8,300 copies of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, dated April 14, 1917, were printed. 8,100 were mailed to paid subscribers, 100 sent out as complimentaries, and 100 retained for office files. The mailing of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY as well as the printing of the same is done by the Jewett Printing Co., of which I am treasurer and manager.

(Signed) W. W. JEWETT.

Sworn to before me this 18th day of April, 1917.

EDITORIAL.

Expectancy—A correspondent at Washington to whom we have been indebted for valuable information at different times in the past informs us that quick action may be expected in restoring some of the stamp taxes that have been operative and in originating and extending others. In the result of the commission's conference there may be a deluge of revenue stamps that may even dampen the spirits of the collector of revenue stamps. It is intimated that the ingenuity that will be exercised to determine upon the objects of taxation will command admiration if not commendation. At the moment of writing, our correspondent said that nothing definite in this regard had been decided, so far as public knowledge was concerned.

War—We remember one war, the Spanish-American in 1898, and its vivifying effect on collecting. We remember, too, how large a number, comparatively, of our readers went to war and how some of the soldiers even subscribed from the front. We remember how gallant officers, such as Bandholtz, Baker, Partello, Coolidge, Paddock and others, wrote us from camp and how impressed we were by the "soldiers' letters." We are with many of our readers in wanting to do our bit.

Aye—A reader arises to inform us that a temporary post office was established at New Orleans from April 12 to 20, 1917, during the convention held by the Woman's Missionary Council of the Southern Methodist Church, with facilities "for the transaction of money-order, registry and parcel post business, the sale of postal supplies, and the receipt and dispatch of mails." On this frame, our informant hangs the thought: Would not a complete collection of the postmarks of the special and temporary offices that have been established by courtesy of the department be a valuable historical and postally interesting adjunct to the stamp collection? It would, brother. The first special postmark that we remember was that of the World's Fair Station in Chicago, 1893. If the post office at the Centennial at Philadelphia in 1876, had a special marking, we do not recollect ever having seen it.

Bunco—We have been enjoying philately in the magazines this month, but it is not in the philatelic magazines that we have found this entertainment. It is admitted even by our most zealous boosters that stamp collecting is not so momentous a force in the estimation of the dear public that the editors of publications designed to appeal to the masses feel that they must recognize philately on the score of policy. In other words, philately is not the subject of comment glowing or otherwise, in the periodical press whose manna is munched by the million, often enough to make references to it, novel. When, as at present, we find several writers disclosing a philatelic vein, by courtesy, we must pause in our mad career to marvel at the thing. First, we discover in the Blue Book for May, a story, "Away from Here," by Ellis Parker Butler, perhaps the humorist supreme of the day. We have had occasion before to dwell upon the honesty of Mr. Butler's understanding of philately as sometimes revealed in his stories; and we have not neglected to say that he is a member of the American Philatelic Society in whose membership lists he proclaims the fact that he specializes in France and colonies. The Parker story under notice is one of a series detailing the success of a bucolic bunco-steerer who left the farm to operate in New York City with great success. Here we quote from the text, regarding one Mr. Lonigan who "had retired from the bunco business." "He was now a dealer in postage stamps for collectors, making a specialty of 'packets' for beginners—'one thousand, well assorted for twenty-five cents'—which in addition to being a legitimate business, had something of the bunco in it." We suspect that Mr. Parker has been bumped by a packet that smashed his great expectations to smithereens. For all that, we are mightily pleased that the gifted Ellis Parker Butler feels the lure of philately and acknowledges its gentle thrall, as Sweet Minorca so inspiredly puts it.

Next—Now comes the redoubtable Samuel Merwin in the Cosmopolitan for May and toys with philately. The story is "The Counter-Irritant" and is one of a series of the Loves of Henry the Ninth. Not feeling that we should intrude upon a situation so surcharged with the tender passion, we have deputized Arnold, the Angel messenger boy, to review the passages: "Alfred was sitting before a card-table, a stamp album spread open, a cup of flour paste and small heaps of loose stamps." (Parenthetically it must be observed that Alfred was a youth of nineteen or so who had just married a girl with whom he had been out riding—a rather simple little romance.) Arnold speaks: "A big lop-head like dat would be just de nut dat would use flour paste, wit' hinges, a tousan' fer a twin jit. Say, on de dead, it gives me de collywobbles to t'ink of a big prune wot just married a girl and den got frightened when he got home and snuk off to his stamps fer protection. Dat's bad enough, but when he fools wit' flour paste, it is all off, and fer two cents I'd haul off and paste him one." After Arnold's truculence had subsided, we showed him a paragraph further along in the story, as follows: "Henry dropped into the chair by the table and studied the album. He even sorted out a little pile of British colonial issues for closer observation." (Henry was the hero, or as much of a hero as a non-collector could be.) Arnold philosophised: "Say, it tickles me so that I nearly swallys me cig to see how dat bird does de job. First he looks to see what stamps are de real goods and den he decides British colonials are all to the cocoanut cream and de ones to cop. 'Fer closer observation,' dat's rich. I wonder how Hennery will make his get-away but at dat, while I am off de crooks, I am feelin' dat any lad out of de kindergarden who puts 'em in wit' flour paste ought to have his stamps lifted."

Surprise—The talkative young man who was a familiar figure around the dealer's place had often told about his rarities, but had never shown them. The recent revenues were under discussion and he said that he had a copy of the rare fifty dollar that he would bring in the next day. He was not allowed to forget his promise and the next day he just had to make good. Opening his little stock book and fumbling over it, he pulled forth a stamp, saying: "It is a good specimen of the fifty dollar." It was.

Leads—The publication, Power, technical to a degree, devotes its first page in the number dated March 27th, 1917, to a preachment, "Get a Hobby." As a hobby, stamp collecting is given the leadership in the list, showing that its compiler is no slouch.

DEATH OF EDWARD H. MASON.

We have just learned of the death of Mr. Edward H. Mason of Boston which occurred early in March. Mr. Mason had been a collector for over thirty-five years and at one time had one of the finest general collections in the country. He disposed of that however about ten years ago and has since devoted his attention to entire U. S. envelopes and U. S. proofs and essays. In the former line he divided the honors with Mr. Worthington and in the latter his collection was only excelled by that of the Earl of Crawford and in some issues it was superior even to this.

He was an authority and had written three handbooks on U. S. proofs and essays, one of which was brought out under the auspices of the American Philatelic Society.

He was a charter member (No. 168) of the American Society and also (No. 31) of the Boston Philatelic Society and was always ready and willing to help out entertainment committees by showing and explaining portions of his treasures at their meetings, while visiting philatelists were always welcome at his office.

He was also for many years a stockholder and a director in the New England Stamp Co., although never taking an active part in the business.

His death is a great loss to philatelists in general and especially to those living in Boston and vicinity.

U. S. MAILS CENSORED.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The United States is preparing to establish censorship of all mails, wires and cables, it was made known at the State Department to-day. A large corps will be required to handle the mails. Approval by Congress may be necessary.

It is expected that within a few weeks letter, marked "Opened by censor" will be a common sight. Mails to foreign countries especially will be censored. One result will be to relieve the situation regarding English censorship of American mails.

SUDAN BY D. B. ARMSTRONG.

Armstrong is one of the brightest of the English coterie of philatelic writers. His Sudan is a handsome book, a chart and compass to the stamps of this country. Many illustrations, nice print—a good book. Price 20c.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE DANISH WEST INDIES.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

Under date of August 30, 1861, another lengthy Ordinance was issued containing slight modifications of some of the provisions of the earlier one. Among other matters this Ordinance authorised a reduction in the price of the stamps when purchased in quantities of twenty or more,—a reduction which had only applied previously when at least one hundred stamps were bought at one time.

The employment of these stamps, which was at first exclusively restricted to correspondence within the islands or to Denmark, was, from January 7th, 1817, extended to correspondence to other countries.

The entire issue of these 3 cents stamps, imperforate, consisted of 5,000 sheets (500,000 stamps), but there appear to be no records showing how many were in each of the supplies with different gum.

CHAPTER IV.

The Second Issue.

In January, 1872, according to Mr. O. Koefoed's book "Danske Post-frimaerker", or May of the same year, according to Mr. Hanciau, the 3 cents stamp was issued perforated 12½ by a single-line machine. It is possible these perforated stamps were ordered or printed in January and issued in the colony in May. With the exception of the addition of perforation these stamps are exactly like those of the preceding issue, being printed from the same plate or plates and manufactured in the same manner.

An interesting variety is known on very thick paper. This seems to have been first recorded in 1902, when Mr. C. J. Phillips announced the discovery of an unused copy in the columns of the Monthly Journal. This is described as being "on a very thick paper, almost indeed on a thin cardboard. It is with original gum, and in a full rich crimson shade".

In January, 1871, a new law was passed in Denmark providing that postage stamps of different denominations should be issued, as the demand for any specific values should arise. In accordance with this law, the Government of the West Indies, through the Ministry of Finance, ordered the manufacture of 4 cents stamps, as this value had for a long time been needed by the public. The request was granted, but the Danish Government Printing Office was so busy with the production of stamps for Iceland, that the 4 cents stamps for the Danish West Indies were not ready for issue until January 1st, 1873.

This stamp is of the same design as the 3 cents then in use, only the numeral denoting the value, being different. The sheets consisted of one hundred stamps as before, but the plate was composed of that number of separate clichés, which was not the case with the earlier value. The paper is thicker than that previously used and though it has the crown watermark, it is without the burélage. The perforation is 12½. As regards secret marks on this value, Mr. Hanciau observes:—

"There are none. They may either have been overlooked, in the pressure occasioned by the manufacture of the stamps for Iceland, or may not unreasonably have been recognized to be useless, as in the case of the stamps of Denmark, 1864. Which of these was the true cause of their omission, I cannot say, but I should suppose that these marks were found to be superfluous, with the exception of the initial of Mr. Buntzen, which appears in the same position as before."

This value is known entirely imperforate and also imperforate vertically. It is said that both these varieties were found upon the same sheet or sheets which had been irregularly perforated.

This 4 cents denomination had but a short life, for later in 1873 a new design was introduced. A total of 250,000 stamps (2,500 sheets) of each of the 3 and 4 cents perforated values was issued.

CHAPTER V.

The Third Issue.

At the request of the Postmaster-General it was resolved, in May, 1873, to alter the design of the stamps for the Danish West Indies and make them uniform with the bi-colored stamps then current in Denmark. The date of issue of the new stamps is, apparently, open to discussion. One writer, evidently quoted from Mr. Koefoed, says:—"In September, 1873, new 1 cent and 14 cents stamps were issued and, at the same time, the design of the 3 and 4 cents stamps was changed, and the remainders of the old 3 and 4 cents stamps were destroyed." Mr. Hanciau, apparently also quoting from an authoritative source, says that in accordance with a Postal Circular, dated October 11th, 1873, these new stamps were issued on the following November 1st! Which of these two statements is correct we have no means of judging.

The design, it will be noted, is precisely like that of the corresponding stamps of Denmark and shows as a centerpiece a numeral on a disc of solid color surmounted by a Royal Crown. At each side is a branch of laurel or oak from the lower ends of which a small posthorn is suspended. Around this central device is an oval band of solid color inscribed "DANSK - VESTINDISKE OER" (Danish West Indian Islands) with the value below. The whole is enclosed within an ornamental frame, making the complete design upright rectangular in shape. It measures 17x21 mm. The ornamental frame was printed in one color and the central oval in another.

The original die, which was engraved on steel by Mr. Ph. Batz, contained no inscription in the lower part of the band or numeral on the central disc, these details being added to the subsiduary dies for the various denominations as required. The frame was engraved and printed separately and one plate (or at least the same 100 clichés) sufficed for all values.

The stamps were surface printed in sheets of one hundred, arranged in ten horizontal rows of ten each, at Copenhagen and were on paper watermarked with a Crown. The four margins of each sheet were watermarked "KGL POST-FRMK" and also with a crown in each upper corner and a posthorn in each lower one. As the watermarked

"bits" were made by hand they show slight variations.

A postal circular, dated June 12th, 1874, announced the addition of a 7 cents stamp to the series, while another circular published on October 20th, 1876, stated that 5 and 10 cents stamps would be issued. On November 1st, 1877, a 12 cents value was issued for use on foreign letters and the 14 cents, which had represented this rate previously was withdrawn from use.

All the above stamps were printed in a similar manner to the four stamps first issued in 1873. The 5 and 10 cents have the word "CENTS" of the value in different type from the others and the 5 cents shows a white dot in the centre of the large numeral—a mark that is quite distinctive and confined to this one denomination.

In July, 1879, a 50 cents value was added to the series and though this is similar to the other denominations the design was entirely redrawn and the stamps were printed in one color. Mr. Hanciau points out several interesting points of distinction as follows:—

"The die used for this stamp was that of the 6 cents card of 1877, in which there is a stop after the word 'CENTS.' It differs also from the die of 1873 in the following points:—

The lettering is a little larger.

The hyphen between the words 'DANSK-VESTINDSKE' is nearer the first word.

There is no space between the letters 'VE' and the rest of the second word, as in the earlier type, in which it was made almost to appear to be two words.

The posthorn is nearer to the bottom of the oval.

The lines of the background touch the oval band, instead of leaving a white space round inside it.

In certain exceptional cases there is no stop after the word 'CENTS'."

In 1874 a special Ordinance was issued extending the special discount of 8⅓% to all stamps when twenty or more of the same value were purchased at one time, viz:—

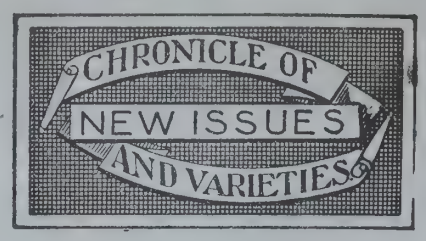
"Ordinance of July 14th, 1874.

"Upon the most respectful proposition of the Minister of Finance, His Majesty the King has been pleased to approve, by a royal decision of the 14th July, 1874, the following Ordinance passed by the Colonial Councils of St. Thomas, with St. John and St. Croix, having been read a third time on the 24th March and 7th April, 1874, by which the arrangements made under the Ordinance of the 10th July, 1855, paragraph 2, and the Ordinance of the 30th August, 1861, paragraph 1, for the reduction in the payment for the 3 cents stamps of the Danish West Indies, is made applicable also to other stamps of the Danish West Indies. 'The reduction of 8⅓ per cent. in the price of the 3 cents stamps of the Danish West Indies, established by the Ordinance of the 10th July, 1855, paragraph 2, and the Ordinance of the 30th August, 1861, paragraph 1, for quantities of at least 20 stamps, should in future be applied also to the other stamps of the Danish West Indies'."

The stamps described above were all perforated 14x13½ and down to about 1885, like the stamps of similar type of the mother country, they were printed on a thin semi-transparent paper. Beginning with 1885, however, a thicker and whiter paper was used and, according to Mr. Hanciau the various values appeared in the following order:—

1885, 3 cents.
1887, 1, 4, 5 and 10 cents.
1889, 50 cents.

The 7 cents is not found on this thicker paper for the value was so little used that those on hand on the thinner paper more than sufficed and the value was finally withdrawn from use in 1896. A new plate must have been made for the 5 cents for the large numeral on this value printed on the thicker paper is of a different type from that in use previously. The curved portion is narrower and the end is more closed, while the horizontal stroke at the top is slightly narrower.



A number of interesting varieties are known in this series. The 3 cents on thin paper is known entirely imperforate and Mr. Hanciau records a minor variety of this value "with the crown above the oval damaged at the left side."

The 78th stamp on most, if not all, of the sheets of the 3c on thick paper shows a prominent uncolored wedge-shaped flaw at the left side of the crown. On the 10c on thick paper a variety with period between the letters "TS" of "CENTS" is found. This varies in shape and is sometimes cut so as to appear as a colon. It occurs on the following stamps:—

1st stamp on the second row.
2nd and 5th stamps on the third row.
1st stamp on the fourth row.
1st and 10th stamps on the seventh row.
2nd stamp on the ninth row.
2nd and 4th stamps on the tenth row.

Most of the stamps of this series, on both kinds of paper, show a wide range of variation in shades affecting the frames as well as the centres. This naturally indicates a large number of printings and while some specialists have attempted to arrange these according to a specific order based on different dates such an arbitrary plan has little to commend it. While in some cases certain well-defined shades may, from what can be gleaned from dated copies, be assigned to certain years other shades, from printings probably made many years apart, are identical. These shade varieties are undoubtedly of the greatest interest but it would seem that their arrangement as a sequence of tints has more to commnd it than an arbitrary and debatable classification of "printings." more to commend it than an arbitrary and debatable classification of "printings."

UNITED STATES.—F. B. McGown has shown us the 12c plate 6900 perf. 10 in double and triple transfers. This stamp perf. 12 with these transfers has caused considerable investigation and study by philatelists.

Mr. McGown also favors us with a block of nine 20c in which the three middle stamps vertical row show a distinct blotch of green standing out strongly in contrast with the blue of the stamp. The ease with which blue may be changed to green and vice versa, is well known, but this block is evidently fresh from Washington and presents a curious appearance. The Department at Washington will be asked to pass upon it. The block is from the upper right pane, numbers 67, 68, 69—77, 78, 79—87, 88, 89.

BRAZIL.—Jose Perez Galarreta has submitted a copy of the 100 reis stamp in pale blue, issued to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the revolution in Pernambuco. The issue consists of but the one value of which 500,000 copies were printed and is intended for internal use only.

Commemorative Adhesive.
1917, 100r pale blue.

CHINA.—From Ewen's Weekly Stamp News, we gather that "In reference to the current Hong Kong set 1c-$10.00, overprinted for the use of the British Post Office Agencies in China, it is stated there is only one title of overprint, and not a separate and distinctive overprint for each station".

CUBA.—Herman Focke and J. T. Perdomo have favored us with copies of the 2c stamp of a new series from our loyal ally in the West Indies. The stamp contains a full face portrait of Maximo Gomez in a deep shaded circular frame with the inscription "2 correos C" above in the field and "REPUBLIC de CUBA" in a panel below. The design is well done and attractive. The perforation is 12, as before, and the color approaches carmine rose. The complete set will consist of the values from 1c to $1.00 with the likely inclusion of a 20c value.

The 2c was placed on sale April 1st and the other values will follow as the supply of the map set is exhausted. It is understood that a new "Special Delivery" stamp is under consideration.

EAST AFRICA.—(Mafia Island)—We reprint from the Philatelic Journal of India two interesting letters from Major A. E. Stewart. The after part of the second completely disposes of the dubious "Mafia" issues. These evidently are much on a par with the spurious "Salonica" ("Levant" overprint on British) issues, and the "Long Island" type written tabs.

Letter No. 1—During the last year of the War, German East Africa has been without postage stamps. The supply became exhausted and owing to the British blockade no fresh stock could be obtained.

All letters have been franked as follows:—

Envelopes were handed in to the post office and had two rubber stamp impressions printed on them; one, the denomination, and the other, the Imperial postal seal, and the owner had to pay the price of the denomination before recovering the envelopes.

The impressions were as follows:—

2. A round circle. In the centre the Imperial German Eagle, and round the inside of the circle the words "Kaiseral Postdirektor Deutsch-Ostafrika."

This franked all letters and took the place of postage stamps.

2nd September, 1916.

Letter No. 2—In my previous article I stated that owing to the British blockade no fresh stock has been obtained in this country.

This was not quite correct as I have since found out. It is true, no fresh stock of G. E. A. stamps were received, but a supply, not a big one, of ordinary German stamps got through and these were used at some of the principal offices and I have seen envelopes used in this country bearing these stamps; also I have seen old money order forms, on which these ordinary German stamps had been used.

The story of these stamps is interesting, but owing to our respected friend, the Censor, I must wait until a future occasion to relate it. Anyway, envelopes bearing these stamps with G. E. A. postmark will be interesting. At Kilwa, a number of complete sheets of the ordinary stamps were found in the P. O. when we occupied the place, but I am not yet certain of the exact denominations.

There is no chance I fear of there being any German stamps surcharged G. R. I., but as there is a considerable amount of civil post work carried on by the Indian and Greek communities of the various towns it is possible that B. E. A. and Uganda stamps might be surcharged "British Occupation G. E. A." or some such overprint.

Another point which I understand has been raised is the correctness of I. E. F. overprint. This force being no longer an "Indian Expeditionary Force," but an "East African Expeditionary Force," the stamps should bear the "E. A. E. F." overprint.

As regards the note in your extract about "Mafia."

This German Island was occupied by our troops and the ordinary I. E. F. stamps issued to the Military P. O. there. The officer in command, on his own I understand, had the word "Mafia" and "G. R. Post" printed on these stamps. The overprint was quite unofficial—in fact official permission was refused. Very few were printed and being quite unofficial are of no value.

I fancy there will be many stamps of this kind in the various theatres of war and if collectors once start to collect this rubbish they ought to be banned with the "match box label collector."

No special stamps, German or British, have been officially issued for Mafia; the only stamps in use there are the ordinary I. E. F. ones.

JAMAICA.—The 3d on the golden yellow paper, has now received the large 8-point Roman overprint WAR STAMP, recently announced for the 1½d. The same errors occur as for the 1½d; no period once to a sheet of 120—stamp 11 of the left pane; broken letters, and stamps showing letters from the font previously used.—HARRY E. HUBER.

POLAND.—Scott's Circular says:—"From the Bulletin d'informations Philateliques, published by Mr. Edouard Locher, we translate the following: 'Under date of September 27th, 1916, the Bulletin of the Laws of the General Government of Warsaw publishes an ordinance concerning the local postage stamps. This ordinance threatens with fines up to 10,000 Marks or imprisonment up to two years any one who manufactures or uses the so-called local postage stamps in the service of distributing correspondence assigned to the communal authorities. The same penalties apply to any one who sells or distributes these stamps, displays them in a public place, holds them in stock for sale or offers them for sale, exports them from Warsaw or sends them into the interior by mail, railroad or other means of transport. It will be permitted to use the stamps already issued in certain communes until November 1st, but exclusively in distributing letters. The sale of the stamps in any other way will be punishable as described above.'"

RUSSIA.—W. T. Wilson has shown us copies of the 10k on 7k (Scott's type A14) replacing the similar surcharge on the Romanoff stamp, which is now obsolete, also a new surcharge of 20k on 14k of the Romanoff issue, the surcharge being in black and placed directly over the original figures of value in each lower corner.

A NEW ISSUE.

(F. B. McGown of Toledo, Ohio, who has given us considerable information concerning the double and triple transfers on the 12c U. S. Plate Number 6900, was recently favored with an addition to the family circle. Conveying the news to a stamp collecting friend, Rev. Geo. W. Vorhis of Springfield, O., Mr. McGown received this letter in reply. It is worthy of being printed in the WEEKLY and our readers will enjoy with us the fine philatelic flavor of the production.—Ed.)

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO.

Dear Father and Mother McGown:—

If not too late I will send acknowledgment of receipt of the cut square card telling of the special delivery of the parcel on which there was no postage due.

Is this issue to be registered as a facsimile of the original type or is it a reprint?

Whatever local rejoicing was manifest finds agreement here, even though we use the postal department and an envelope instead of the telegraph or an insured letter to give proof of the same.

One might express himself as appreciating a single specimen of this die more than a pair or block of four.

This event means an increase in the entry of goods into the home, a larger outgo of revenue for proprietary articles and perfumery, and a lessened margin for engraved and lithographed copies of adhesives for the album. It will also call for a larger plate number.

This is the original process which strengthens the surety bond of the homes of all shades of life, and each commemorative day will give a retouch to that bond, and by it the home will be surcharged with the charity which covers many defects and which is not easily bisected.

In the newspaper we read of the activities of charter parties, the sale of passage tickets, the achievements of confederates, the official acts of postmasters in the use of post office seals, the growth of foreign exchange and inland exchange, the society devotees playing cards and dancing quadrilles, conveyance of property secured by mortgage, leases of rural lands, probate of will of the wealthy, increase of bills of lading and warehouse receipts at Manilla, the rates of insurance and life insurance, the power of attorneys to make contracts, the advertisements of match and medicine firms, and many other things, but the greatest is the certificate that the stock has brought what is more valuable than an o. g. or a rare provisional.

Postage Stamp Overhead

BET you never heard it called by its right name before. Probably that's why you failed to recognize it as a source of enormous waste. It means simply this: You pay two cents to mail a letter that weighs a quarter of an ounce, when the same amount will carry four times that weight. The three quarters of an ounce is waste. Figure it out for a year and you'll feel like you've been supporting the government.
Make every postage stamp pay for its overhead, and earn a profit. With every letter, invoice and statement enclose an attractive, interesting printed stamp list. The circular or folder doesn't cost much and every dollar's worth of business it digs up is that much velvet. Think it over.
It's wonderful when you stop to think about it. You mail 1,000 little cards or folders tonight, and tomorrow 1,000 people are thinking about you. What an opportunity for the man with stamps to sell.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY IS TALKING

COUNTERFEIT DOM. REPUBLICS.

By HERMANN FOCKE.

CHAPTER II.

(The mystery deepens and Mr. Focke's contribution will serve only to arouse curiosity as the relationship between the Dominican government and these counterfeit stamps. Who made them, under what arrangement were they used and who got the remainders? Mr. Focke shows us some covers upon which these counterfeit stamps performed postal duty.—Ed.)

Early in 1911 the Dominican Republic decreed an increase in the stamp tax on all legal papers, and also on commercial drafts (not checks) which required a large number of revenue stamps of denomination of 50c and 1 peso. As there were then no revenue stamps in stock, the regular postage stamps of the issues of 1902 and 1906, etc., were pressed into service, but even the supply of these was insufficient, and about the beginning of March, 1911, I was surprised to find on drafts from that Republic, 50c and 1 peso stamps which I at once detected to be counterfeits of the postage stamps of the 1902 issue (Scott's Nos. 126 and 127); a short time afterwards the stamps also came on the regular mail, and then I began to take notice of the matter.

If you will look over your files you will find that I reported the stamps and due mention was made of their appearance in your new issues Chronicle.

Now as to the status of these stamps: When the first copies arrived in the mails I at once wrote to my friends in Santo Domingo, who had the government contract for postage and revenue stamps printed by the German government printing office at Berlin, and received the reply that their enquiries from the government had been answered by the simple statement that the stamps were available at the post office and were considered good for postage and revenue purposes. I continued my investigations for a long time, but never learned where the stamps had been printed or if some kind of a fraud had been committed, and up to this day the origin of the two stamps remains unknown, although it is my belief that they were printed in Santo Domingo City. The fact is, however, that for over three years the stamps were in use all over the Republic, which seems to me proof enough that they were recognized by the postal authorities as genuine, and I do not see why we should not accept them as such, and give them due space in the catalogues and albums as a special issue.

To relieve you of all doubt, I enclose herewith eight pieces of original covers, on which the stamps are used with other positively genuine stamps, and I have handled hundreds of such covers received in our mail.

You will observe that the dates run from April, 1911, to Nov., 1913, but I am sure that the stamps continued to come after this latter date.

I am glad that I have had this opportunity to explain the status of these counterfeits, and trust that the next catalogue will give them due recognition.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—C. B. Anderson, Inspector in Charge, Austin, Texas, is collecting evidence against the Mason Stamp & Card Co., Eckert, Tex., in connection with their alleged fraudulent use of the mails. Interested parties will do well to note.

—The Detroit Stamp Co., formerly operated by Carl F. Binder, has been sold and the address of the new firm is 224 Pasadena Av., Highland Park, Mich.

—Dr. W. L. Babcock, member of the A. P. S. and the Detroit Philatelic Society, has been summoned to duty by the Secretary of War. He will inspect equipment in the medical corps of the army and navy. Clipping from H. W. Boers.

—"I take the pleasure to herewith enclose $1.50 for a three years renewal. I am pleased to state that I have been a continuous subscriber to the WEEKLY from No. 1 up to the present time (or 26 yrs., 11 weeks) and I hope to keep right on. Wishing you continued success."—HENRY JONAS.

—The Oregon Philatelic Society was organized in Portland on April 5. Officers elected were:—A. G. Brinckerhoff, Pres.; Herman Wagner, Vice Pres.; W. H. Zimmer, Sec.; E. A. Southwick, Treas., and Edwin Caswell, Sales Mgr. The society starts with 30 charter members. Meetings will be held twice a month.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Herman W. Boers, Wm. L. Hamilton, B. E. James and E. T. Nelson.

—"Regarding Paul Lawzarick of Kingston, Pa., you gave publicity to some time ago:—I have heard from the Central Stamp Co., St. Louis, Milton Hubsch, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. and M. R. Houdlette of Melrose Highlands, Mass., who have been stung by him. We are now concentrating an attack upon him."—C. A. BREWSTER.

—J. E. Handshaw of the J. W. Scott Co. advises us that he is ill, but expects to be out soon. His firm recently experienced the loss of a stockbook containing a quantity of old U. S. unused, including high value Columbians and a block of six 15c Agriculture. Dealers are urged to be on the lookout and any information conveyed to Mr. Handshaw will be welcomed.

—W. H. Deaderick and W. E. Egbert call our attention to a booklet published by the Angier Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., and circulated amongst physicians. The current number contains the following tribute to stamp collecting:—

"The quiet collector of postage stamps is gathering in a wealth of information in history, geography, civics, arts and printing processes. Every stamp has a value as truly as has a coin. In acquiring postage stamps money is tied up but it can always be liberated, as stamp collectors are numerous, prosperous and acquisitive."

CHAPTER XV.—Designs.

In the 1871-75 issues the portraits do not always face in the same direction as on the corresponding stamps of the previous issue. In the first issue only the $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50 values and those higher than the $10 show the portrait facing to the right. In the 1871-75 issues the arrangement is as follows:—

Documentary and Proprietary.

Group 1—1c and 2c,	Head to left
Group 2—3c to 20c,	Head to left

Documentary.

Group 3—25c, 30c, 40c,	Head to right
Group 4—50c, 60c, 70c,	Head to right
Group 5—$1, $1.30, $1.50, $1.60, $1.90,	Head to left
Group 6—$2, $2.50, $3, $3.50,	Head to right
Group 7—$5 and $10,	Head to left

Group 12—$5,	Head to right

For beauty of design and engraving the documentaries of this series have no peers. This is especially true of the larger stamps—the values from 25c up. Throughout the series ornamentation of the same style was used on the stamps of the same size and yet the design of each stamp differs from every other. Up to the 20c each one bears the three-quarter portrait of Washington enclosed in an octagonal frame. As in the first issue, the 1c and 2c are slightly smaller than the 3c to 20c and both the 1c and 2c have two numerals though they are differently placed. The 6c and 10c also have two numerals of value, the 3c, 4c, 5c, 15c and 20c one numeral each, and on each stamp the numerals are found in a different position.

The 25c and higher values all have the portrait in a circle which occupies the central part of the design. Each of the 25c, 30c and 40c bears thirteen stars—symbolical of the thirteen original states of our union—placed six above and seven below the medallion. On the 25c they are close to the medallion, on the 30c and 40c they are at the top and bottom edges of the stamps. On each of these three stamps are two United States shields, one above and one below the medallion. On no two of the stamps is the arrangement of the shields, stars and scroll ornamentation just the same.

The 50c, 60c and 70c are without shields and differ from each other chiefly in the arrangement of the inscriptions and the ornamentation around the numerals of value. The $1, $1.60 and $1.90 have thirteen stars, six above and seven below the medallion, and are without shields. The numerals of value rest upon tablets shaped rather like clam shells. There are two shields on the $1.30 and $1.50 placed in opposite corners above and below the medallion and the other corners are occupied with "clam shell" tablets containing the numerals of value. The position of the shields, numerals and inscriptions on the $1.30 is reversed on the $1.50.

Second Issue, Documentary.

CHAPTER XVI.—Striking Productions.

On the $2 stamp the numerals are placed on shields, one above and one below the medallion. On the $2.50 and $3 stamps the upper shield gives place to an eagle standing erect with outstretched wings. The $3 differs from the $2.50 chiefly in the shape of the shield containing "$3" and in the arrangement of the inscriptions.

The $3.50 is far different from any of the other three values of this group and contains a whole lesson in United States history. Thirty-four stars are borne upon it—one for each of the states in the union just before the Civil War broke out in 1861. Thirteen of them are found on the stones of an arch curving across the top of the stamp—one on the face of each stone. The thirteen stars and the thirteen stones of the arch represent New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North and South

ANNOUNCEMENT!

I have recently reinforced my extensive stock of Twentieth Century stamps by the purchase of that portion of the collection of Philip H. Ward, Jr., of this city. British Colonies are almost complete through the 10sh, including chalkies; scarce Canal Zone and Philippines; Paraguay almost complete etc. As Mr. Ward was extremely particular as to condition, almost every stamp is in immaculate condition. Office open daily until six o'clock.

H. F. COLMAN,
SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Carolina and Georgia. Eleven of the remaining stars are placed on the fold of drapery which hangs below the medallion. These are symbolical of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas—the eleven states whose attempt to leave the union was the immediate cause of the war and incidentally the cause of the documentary tax.

Three of the stamps of this group are distinguished from all the rest of the series by bearing the national motto, "E Pluribus Unum". On the $2 it appears at the very top, on the $2.50 at the very bottom, and on the $3.50 it is found twice, crossing the small shield in each upper corner.

The $5 stamp bears a large United States shield containing a numeral of value above and below the medallion. The $10 is somewhat similar but the lower shield is replaced by an eagle standing erect as on the $3 stamp, and the upper shield is like the one on the $3. The numeral of value is preceded by a dollar sign—there is none on the $5.

The $20, $25 and $50 all have the portrait surrounded by four scenes depicting manufacturing, agriculture and commerce, which are alike on each stamp. Each has "U. S. Inter. Revenue" in a curved band near the top with inscriptions of value enclosing the numeral at the bottom. These inscriptions are differently arranged on each denomination. The $25 has no dollar sign and on the $20 the figure "2" is much larger than the dollar sign and the zero. At the top the $20 shows a view of the U. S. Treasury building at Washington, while the $25 and $50 show an eagle poised for flight. On the $25 he stands upon a rock in the sea and on the $50 he is perched upon a mountain top.

All the 1871-75 documentaries and proprietaries are approximately the same size and shape as the corresponding stamps of the first issue and none of the denominations of the first issue were dropped except the $15. The $200 second issue is slightly larger than the $200 first issue and stands upright instead of having the long dimension horizontal. It was first issued November 11, 1871—just a week later than the first stamp of the third issue—so the reader is at liberty to classify it with either the second issue or the third as his fancy may dictate. The design of its red and blue frame can well be described in two columns or so. The "CC" in each upper corner and the "$200" in each lower corner, however, furnish ample identification. Information in the writer's possession indicates that the number issued may have been as great as 671 instead of 441 as stated in the Boston Book. Five copies appear to have been issued during the year ending June 30, 1876, and nearly 600 up to June 30, 1872.

Second Issue, Documentary.

CHAPTER XVII.—Classics.

A new documentary stamp of the denomination of $500 was added to the series and first issued October 3, 1871. Like the $200 it is an upright rectangle, but it is much larger than the $200 and is the largest adhesive documentary revenue stamp ever issued by the United States. Measuring 52 by 100 mm.—about two by four inches—it covers an area more than twice as large as the $200 and like the latter, the design consists mostly of lathework in intricate patterns. The total number issued was 204, and of these 188 were issued during the year the tax remained in force and the other 16 in 1873 and 1874, presumably to be placed on documents upon which the tax should have been paid before October 1, 1872. The $500 is the only stamp of the whole series upon which no blue appears. Catalogs and albums have frequently called it "blue, black, green and red", which is correct—all except the blue.

The sheets of the $200 and $500 contained only eight stamps each and it is assumed the stamps were arranged in two horizontal rows of four. No pairs or blocks of either have come on the market in recent years. The plates used for the Civil War revenues were 12½x16 inches and would have accommodated two sheets of eight of the $200 stamps. Perhaps the plates for these two high values were made smaller for more convenient handling as three plates were required for each of them. We can readily understand why the single impression process was abandoned on the lower values but might expect it to have been retained for the $200 and $500 of which so few were printed, as the arrangement of the colors on these required very careful printing to obtain satisfactory results. Nevertheless no copies of either stamp seen by the writer were printed at one operation. On every copy examined somewhere part of the design lapped over on another part. The men who designed and engraved these two colossal stumbling blocks in the path of those revenue collectors who would achieve completeness have long since passed away and therefore the writer feels safe in voicing his opinion that both the $200 and $500 could be improved upon. Still, neither of them is usually considered unattractive.

A $5,000 stamp was engraved and proofs of it exist, but no stamps were ever issued or printed. The portrait is the same size as on the $20 value and faces right. In size it is indeed gigantic, even larger than the $500, for it measures about 2¾ by 4½ inches. A space was provided on it for a serial number so a record could be kept of each copy sold—a plan put into use in the Spanish War series 27 years later. The proofs of the $5,000 are simply gorgeous and far more beautiful than the $500 stamps. One could wish the $500 stamps had been printed in the $5,000 design.

HONDURAS No. 181, CATALOG VALUE.

Luther Mott, Jr., calls our attention to the fact that the advertisement of W. C. Phillips & Co., April 14, offered Honduras No. 181, 1p, as having a catalog price unused of $7.00, while the Errata in the catalog states that the correct value is $1. We find that Mr. Mott's contention is correct and if any of our subscribers are dissatisfied with their purchase of this stamp at $3.40, the stamp should be returned and money refunded. We thank Mr. Mott for calling our attention to this matter and would urge every dealer to quote correctly catalog values, bearing in mind the changes indicated in the Errata.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Star Stamp Co., Waterford, Wis., cannot secure replies to letters sent Simpson McWilliams, Oshawa, Can. Also F. Hernandez, Havana, Cuba.

—Frederick Liebeck of Philadelphia, who has taken displayed space in the WEEKLY for some months, informs us that he has purchased the fine general 20th century collection of Philip H. Ward, Jr., of that city. Mr. Liebeck advertises this acquisition this week and lovers of the stamps of the 20th century will no doubt be interested.

—We have received from C. M. Breder a clipping from the Newark (N. J.) Call, which states that a stamp collectors club has been organized in connection with the High Schools of that city. Charles Barbier of the South Side High School has been elected president, Walter Cobb of the Central High School, secretary, and Albert Simpson of the East Side High School, treasurer. Wm. B. Morningstern, who has charge of the technical room of the Library is the honorary advisor of the stamp club, and a well known collector.

—A correspondent wants to know why we cannot arrange to have the Philatelic Dictionary so printed in the WEEKLY that the matter can be pasted in a book for reference purposes. This is not feasible in connection with the publication of a newspaper, and especially so since this article will subsequently be published in book form and be in a more convenient form for reference than as a scrap book.

—The 27th reunion of the United Confederate Veterans will be held at Washington, D. C., June 4-8, 1917, and a six-line cancellation is being used at the Washington postoffice. Specimens of this cancellation have been shown us by Jno. M. Henderson and M. R. Coons.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from F. L. Greenough, Paul Dillingham.

—You should use our leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting", in your correspondence. It is excellent for missionary work and presents stamp collecting in its most favorable light. We pay half the cost of production and offer the leaflet at 50c per hundred postpaid. Collector or dealer can use these to advantage.

—Evidently the U. S. authorities are considering the censoring of mail. M. Ohlman submits a registry card mailed from the U. S. S. Wyoming on which "Passed by censor" is a prominent feature.

—Monaco collectors are warned that counterfeit copies of the 1fr first issue, are being circulated in this country. A dealer sent me a copy on approval, which he claimed he obtained from a collector, believing it to be genuine. Another copy, from a middle-west collector, pronounced genuine by a far-western dealer, I believe to be bogus. These are the only copies I have seen although my own specialized collection contains the 40c, 75c, one franc, and five francs, postmarked Monte Carlo, both stamps and postmarks being counterfeit. I have also received a 2c U. S. with bogus Guam surcharge.—EDWIN B. HILL, Mesa, Arizona.

SUDAN BY D. B. ARMSTRONG.

Armstrong is one of the brightest of the 20c English coterie of philatelic 20c writers. His Sudan is a handsome book, a chart and compass to the stamps of this country. Many illustrations, nice print—a good book. Price 20c.

HISTORIC PHILATELY.

This is a most interesting article by Mr. Sydney R. Turner in the Br. Guiana Phil. Journal in the course of which he remarks that the present terrible war that is raging throughout the world will undoubtedly have a considerable effect on the future of philately. Hitherto the majority of philatelists have confined their attention and study to postage stamps alone. There is little doubt that the coming generation of collectors will go further afield and give considerable attention to the historic side, which up to the present has been almost entirely neglected. The philatelist of the future who specializes in any of the countries engaged in the present conflict will be obliged to include in his collections a considerable number of covers in which the only indication of origin will be the postmarks. What real collector of the stamps of Great Britain will care to omit the covers and postmarks of the British Expeditionary Forces in France, Flanders, the Levant and Egypt? This extension of philatelic research will add greatly to the collections, and, as many of the postmarks and covers will be of actual historic interest the philatelist will find that he will be led to consider the period of the early days of the post previous to the introduction of the postage stamps. This will be a real gain to philately, for it will allow the individuality of the student to exhibit itself far more than at present, and will undoubtedly evoke more sympathy and interest in philately from the general public. The ideal collection to the writer's mind should not only contain postage stamps, but also stamps on original covers, postmarks, and documents of all kinds relating to the special country. It would hardly be possible to exactly duplicate such a collection as this and its proud owner would thus possess something which would be in itself unique.

After remarking that there is no country whose postal history from the student philatelist's point of view is so fascinating as that of our ally, France, and that every political change of importance, and every campaign undertaken by her, from the early days of the seventeenth century to the present time has left behind it some record marked in collectible form on the covers of letters of the period, Mr. Turner proceeds to a short survey of the letters of the reign of the "Grand Monarque," the days of Louis XV, and the times of the First Republic and Napoleonic period. "All this history," he concludes, "in its many dramatic changes, can be illustrated step by step in his collection by the philatelist, and will undoubtedly add greatly to its general interest. Philately has a future which as yet can scarcely be realized."—Stamp Collectors' Quarterly.

"MADE IT ALL BY HOLLERIN."

(With a Moral for Stamp Dealers.)

This was the reply of a street fruit vendor to a lady who asked him how he had made his money—"Made it all by hollerin'." "You've got to holler," he said, "if you want to do business. Now there was a feller sellin' blackberries; his father was a sort of gen'leman, and Dan'l he sort of felt 'bove his occupation. He sneaked 'round the alleys sayin' Blackbarries!' (imitating the boy in a little quavering whisper.) Dan'l thought it was very gen'lemanly to say it that way, and mebbe it was, but he didn't sell no blackberries until he got to hollerin' 'Bla-ck-ber-ries!' like the rest of us. Yes, ma'am, you've got to holler your way through the world if you want to make anything, you just bet!"

THIS ADVERTISEMENT SHOULD PRODUCE RESULTS—
because it actually offers the best kind of stock for a small dealer or trader at a price that assures a very satisfactory profit.
We have discontinued our approval department and rather than re-assemble the stamps offer $100 catalog value for $15 or $50 for $8.
We do not except anything, but include every single stamp set aside for our approval department. At this price we cannot pick and choose, you must take them as they come; lots may or may not contain duplicates, each lot will contain a wide variety anyway. Every single stamp is not only in fine condition, but the bulk of the stock was net stuff—impossible to pick up in wholesale quantities. It made our heart ache to put some of the stamps in at this discount, but they all went in just the same. Everything ready assembled, in parcels of $50 and $100 catalog value.
YOUR MONEY WILL BE REFUNDED IF NOT SATISFIED.
Registration 10 cents extra.

EDITORIAL.

Mulling—From Washington, we continue to hear, through the grace of several correspondents, of plans for the collecting of huge amounts of taxes by revenue stamps. Yet, advises an informant, it is impossible to determine at this time just how extensive a range the stamps will have, as at the last moment changes may be effected that will disarrange present purposes. If definitive action is taken based upon the premises as they stand today, the assurance is given that collectors will be asked to welcome a wonderful variety of stamps for revenue purposes. Time will soon tell what the future has in store.

Mixed—From Brazil, a new commemorative stamp 100 reis blue, has been coming on the mail; and it has for its central design, the flag of the country. At left, on a column encircled with bannerettes is the inscription (translated): Centennial of the republican revolution in Pernambuco, March, 1817,—hence, the legend, "1817—1917" in the upper right corner, This revolution antedated the independence that was proclaimed by Brazil, September 7, 1822, when the liberal Prince Dom Pedro, was chosen Emperor Pedro I, he having disobeyed the Portuguese government at Lisbon in refusing to listen to his recall. For several weeks past, a new two cent red of Cuba has been on the mail, the stamp bearing the portrait of Maximo Gomez; and we welcome this opportunity to study the features of the liberator to better advantage than on the stamp of the earlier issue. Washington is using the special cancellation: Twenty Seventh Reunion United Confederate Veterans, Washington, D. C., June 4-8-1917, thereby showing that our post office department can be very gracious on occasion. A reader sends for inspection a copy of the "2 cents" surcharge on the 3 cent numeral of Canada, with a distinct break in the lower half of "s" of cents.

Somnus—A dealer was talking to several of his kind and with the air of divulging a state secret, he said that he interested a certain heavy buyer in stamps by having prescribed stamp collecting as an antidote for insomnia with which the victim suffered. There was no gainsaying the beneficial results that attended the taking of the advice and the patient is grateful. He is glad to spend a good amount for stamps as a votive offering, but we suspect that he is becoming more engrossed in his stamps all the time even though he does manage to fall asleep over them. Another dealer said that one of his customers wrote to him that he liked stamps very much and often fell asleep over them but the dealer did not consider this leaf from the book of experience a particularly happy one as a compliment to stamps.

Confirmed—A young man who found it hard to pass the batteries of eyes that were leveled on him as he made his way through the lines of human ornaments at the dealer's shop, blurted out to the wise man of stamps: "Is this a three cent pink? I don't want to buy anything; I just want to know. I've looked over about a—" Coldly, the dealer interrupted, "Let me see," and glancing at the specimen, the dealer said: "It is one of the best pinks that I have ever seen." It was.

Politics—In a recent letter, Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer informs us that he will be a candidate for sales superintendent of the American Philatelic Society and it is our opinion that by all means the organization should endorse him again. This is the most important department of the corporation and it is necessary that it be under the management of a reliable and efficient officer. We believe that the sales department has been put to unusual expenses for the past two or three years and it becomes almost an obligation that Mr. Wolsieffer be given the opportunity to restore the balance. Nominations for officers in the American Philatelic Society should be made by the Branches at once and it should be the object to select real workers as candidates; and, in this connection, the present secretary, Dr. H. A. Davis, can qualify. He has instituted a membership drive that is bringing in a good number of members and in different ways, he is stimulating an interest in the growth of the society. It is all right to offer prizes as an incentive to recruiting new members and what was once considered a proper formality in this connection is now regarded as but an empty form.

Allen—Recently, Mr. Poole said when listing "Allen's City Dispatch" in his Dictionary that he was unable to discover where it was operated during the years 1882-83 that it was in existence. Through a lapse on our part, the definition was not revised or amplified, somewhat to the surprise of a few of our friends who remembered that we had written at some length at different times in the past on the Allen Dispatch stamps. In this connection, the Postage Stamp, London, generously says: "Mr. 'Charlie' Severn of MEKEEL'S has surely not forgotten the opportunities he had, and took, in 1897, of examining the biggest stock of these stamps handled by a dealer." Etc. This observation recalls not a few incidents as to the post and its stamps, several of which we shall recite briefly. When Col. Stuart on behalf of the government put the finishing touches to the enterprise early in 1883, there was a deluge of the pink on yellow variety perforated, in particular, and the messenger and office boys were in their glory and they made nuisances of themselves by pasting the stamps that they "seized" on store windows and elsewhere. For a good many years after the suppression of the post, all of the stamps, including the red on yellow imperforate were so common in Chicago that they were practically neglected and it was only two or three years ago that at a banquet of the Chicago Philatelic Society the menu was enclosed in an envelope "franked" with an Allen's local duly postmarked with a rubber stamped "spread eagle" in fac-simile of the original cancellation. Messrs. McDonald and Severn were responsible for this conceit and several scores of the stamps, including all varieties, were utilized. For our part we were very liberal in parceling out the stamps as they belonged to Mr. McDonald, who had sheets of them. Old-timers in Chicago, such as Messrs. Bradt, Stevens, Pierce, and other stamp men, and Colonel James E. Stuart have told many interesting if not important details of Allen and his stamps. Mr. Henry C. Needham in his splendid work on local posts in the Philatelic Gazette no doubt is correct in saying that the rate at which the stamps were sold to the public varied with the volume of business bestowed but small lots of the stamps were charged for at the rate of one cent each. While Mr. Allen came in contact with Chicago dealers and sold them his stamps canceled, yet it is unlikely, as Mr. Needham says, that philatelic considerations entered into the issue of the stamps.

THE 3c GREEN BOOKLET.

EXTRAORDINARY FACTS

Submitted to You

READ! THINK! PONDER REFLECT

Believing in a square deal and realizing that we are the ONLY people that describe packets as containing all different POSTAGE STAMPS — none torn or damaged — and offering them under an Iron Clad Guarantee of Absolute Satisfaction or Money Back, we APPEAL directly to your JUDGMENT, and submit FACTS.

Briefly,—Damaged "stamps" are worthless, Revenues, reprints, locals, envelopes, cut cards and telegraph "stamps" are of little or no value.

THEN, WHY IS IT that you collectors will buy lots simply described as "so many diff." or "varieties of stamps." Is it because the PRICE seems LOW and you do not THINK?

"Stamps" include all the above mentioned worthless JUNK as well of POSTAGE—if nothing is stated about CONDITION have you any GROUNDS to complain on, if the stamps are half damaged?

Demand ALL DIFFERENT Postage stamps—none torn or damaged, and buy under a guarantee that PROTECTS you against LOSS.

Don't buy "sight unseen" without a "come-back."

We Offer You
QUALITY, REAL VALUE, SERVICE AND PROTECTION.

PREMIER BONANZA PKT. No. 14

1000 different postage stamps from all parts of the world. None torn or damaged—either postally used or unused. Not built for cheapness, but to give genuine satisfaction. Its foundation comprises hundreds of stamps that it would be impossible to purchase from wholesalers. Our stock is immense—an accumulation of FORTY years. Plenty of HIGH VALUES, complete sets and stamps cataloging up to 40c each in the "BONANZA." Lot catalogs $30.

PRICE POSTFREE $2.89

As different from the usual run of "thousand variety packets" as pearls are to pebbles. NO dealer can duplicate this lot—stamp for stamp—quality for quality—at $6.00 without losing money in so doing.

Don't listen to the "knocker"—follow that impulse and order NOW. ABSOLUTE SATISFACTION GUARANTEED to YOU or MONEY BACK without quibble or argument.

READ WHAT OTHERS SAY.

"It is simply a sin to buy from approvals until one has bought the POWELL assemblings. They are marvels and are sold DIRECT at wonderfully low prices," writes J. C. Alston (Banker), Spokane, Wash.

"Buy the POWELL packets instead of throwing your money away on approvals and paying three prices for stamps of no better desirability," says W. B. Stier, Bankers R. I. Co., Omaha.

"350 stamps from the 'Bonanza' for my collection of 12,000 kinds—do you wonder WHY I boost this packet at $2.89?" writes W. H. Walker (Architect,) Providence, R. I.

FULTON STAMP CO., 102 WEST 42ND ST., NEW YORK CITY

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

BAYR.—A contraction of the word "Bayern" shown on the 1870 postage due stamps of Bavaria.

BAYERN.—The name by which the kingdom of Bavaria is known to its inhabitants and which, of course, appears on its postage stamps.

BAYONNE CITY DISPATCH.—A local post operating in the city of Bayonne, New Jersey, in 1883, and in connection with which a special 1c stamp and 1c envelope were issued.

B. C. A.—The first stamps used in British Central Africa—from 1891 to 1895—consisted of the stamps of the British South Africa Company overprinted with the letters "B. C. A." These stamps were used in Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, but when special stamps were issued their use was confined to the latter territory which was renamed the British Central Africa Protectorate.

B. C. M.—These initials, signifying "British Consular Mail", appear upon the stamps issued at Antananarivo, Madagascar, by the British Vice-Consul in March, 1884.

B. D.—An overprint found upon certain South Australian stamps used between 1868 and 1874 on the correspondence of the "Barracks Department". They were superseded in 1874 by the general issue for all official departments overprinted with the letters "O. S."

BEAUFORT HOUSE ESSAYS.—The name given to certain essays or proposals for adhesive labels proposed and suggested by Mr. Chas. Whiting prior to the introduction of postage stamps in Great Britain in 1840. The late Mr. Chas. Whiting was a well-known printer, with an establishment in Savoy, London, known as Beaufort House. In the specimens of bi-colored labels, printed by the Congreve method, the name "Beaufort House" is introduced and the term "Beaufort House Essays" may be used in reference to these in particular or to Mr. Whiting's productions in general.

BEAUMONT.—One of the chief cities in the State of Texas, having a population of over 20,000. In 1861, the then postmaster of this city, issued special 10c stamps for the prepayment of postage and these remained in use until they were superseded by the general issue for the Confederate States.

BECHUANALAND PROTECTORATE.—A vast stretch of territory north of British Bechuanaland, South Africa, having an area of about 275,000 square miles. It is bounded on the east by the Transvaal, on the north by Rhodesia and the Zambesi, and on the west by German South-west Africa. The population of about 200,000 is almost entirely a native one, the chief tribes being the Bakathla, under chief Lenchwe; the Bakweni, under chief Sepele; the Bangwaketsi, under chief Bathoen; the Bamalete, under chief Mokgosi; the Sekoma, under chief Batawana; and the Bamangwato, under the Christian and enlightened chief Khama. The High Commissioner for South Africa has the power of making laws by proclamation for the Protectorate, and he is represented by a Resident Commissioner. The headquarters of the Protectorate Administration are at Mafeking, Cape Colony. The Resident Commissioner superintends the native chiefs who rule under the tribal system. A hut-tax is collected and no licenses for the sale of spirits are allowed. The principal European centres are Gaberones, Francistown and Serowe, the capital, whither Chief Khama and all his people moved a few years ago from Palapye. The first postage stamps for use in the Protectorate were issued in August, 1888.

BECKMAN'S POST.—A semi-official carrier service established in Charleston, S. Carolina, in 1860. The post was operated by Mr. John C. Beckman and it was a continuation of the one established by Mr. Honour in 1849. A 2c stamp was issued in connection with this post and though the service was not discontinued until 1865 the stamp is of the greatest rarity.

BELEM, SILVESTRE CORREIA.—A Portuguese artist who designed the 10 reis stamp of the Vasco da Gama issue which appeared in 1898.

BELGIEN.—The name surcharged on certain German stamps, with new values in francs and centimes, which were used in the occupied parts of Belgium during the great European war.

BELGIE POSTERIJEN.—An inscription shown on the Belgian stamps of 1891-96 being the Flemish equivalent of "Postes Belgique" which appears on the same labels. These words, of course, mean "Belgium Post".

BELGIQUE.—The French designation of Belgium which appears on all the stamps of that country issued since 1869.

BELGISCH CONGO.—The Flemish equivalent of "Belgian Congo" as shown upon the current stamps of that country.

BELGIUM.—A small country in central Europe lying between France, Prussia and the Netherlands. It has an area of 11,373 square miles and a population exceeding seven millions. Flemish and French are the languages spoken, both being now on an official equality, and for this reason the name of the country is expressed on its stamps as Belgie (Flemish) and Belgique (French). The kingdom was in ancient times inhabited by the Belgae—a Celtic speaking German tribe—and formed part of the Gallia Belgica of the Romans. In 1815 the country was joined to the kingdom of the Netherlands, an arrangement which was upset by the revolution of 1830. On October 4th, 1830, a National Congress proclaimed its independence and on June 4th, 1831, Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg was chosen hereditary king. The first postage stamps for Belgium were issued on July 1st, 1849.

BENADIR.—An Italian protectorate established over that part of Somaliland between the river Djouba and British Somaliland. The territory was at first administered by "La Societa Anomina Commerciale Italiana del Benadir", with its headquarters at Milan, under an agreement with the Italian Government. The Company had to pay tribute to the Sultan of Zanzibar and smaller annuities to the Sultans of Obbia and Alula, and they also agreed to establish a postal service. This post was not in working order until Nov. 1st, 1903, and in connection therewith a set of seven stamps was issued. The administration of the Company was so unsatisfactory that from the 15th March, 1905, the Italian Government took over its government and gave the Colony the name of "Somalia Italiana Meridionale" (Italian Southern Somalia). Under an arrangement with Great Britain Italy took definite possession of the ports of Benadir, over which it possessed only certain rights, on payment to the Government of Zanzibar of the sum of £144,000 sterling.

BENGASI.—A seaport in Tripoli, north Africa, usually known as Benghazi. It has a population of about 21,000. For some time the Italian Government has had a Consular office at this town which transacts postal business. In 1901, a special 1 piastre stamp was issued for the use of this office this being formed by overprinting the contemporary 25c stamp of Italy with "Bengasi—1 piastre 1" in two lines. The town is of ancient origin, and was named Berenice when founded, in honor of the wife of Ptolemy II.

BENIN.—A French colony on the coast of the Gulf of Benin, West Africa, which is now included in the colony of Dahomey. Postage stamps for the use of this territory were first issued in 1892, French stamps of the "Commerce" type being overprinted "BENIN" for the purpose. In 1893, a set bearing the name "GOLFE DE BENIN" was issued followed by another in the following year inscribed "BENIN". These separate stamps were superseded in 1899 by the general issue for Dahomey and Dependencies.

BENTLEY'S DISPATCH.—A local post established in New York in 1851 and in connection with which a stamp was issued. This label bears no indication of value.

BENZINE CUP.—A philatelic accessory invented for the detection of watermarks. It exists in various shapes but the principle is the same in all i. e., it is a vessel with the bottom portion dead black into which benzine (hence its name) can be poured. When the stamps are placed in the benzine the watermarks usually show quite clearly. Benzine has the peculiar property of not affecting the color or gum of stamps and it evaporates with great rapidity.

BERATI.—A town in the province of Janina, Albania, with a population of about 10,000. One of the special series of stamps issued for Epirus appeared here in 1914.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Edited by MILTON P. LYONS, JR.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address Milton P. Lyons, Jr., 1631 Chestnut St., Phila., Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—According to J. M. Bartels the following new envelopes have been issued:

Issue 1915.

Denom.	Die.	Size.	Paper.	Wmk.	Knife
1c	A	2	White	20	94
Issue 1916 (Circular)
2c	A	3	White	19	92
2c	A	4	White	19	95
2c	D	7	Blue	19	96
2c	A	Wr.	Manila	21	Wr.

CANADA.—Gladstone Perry states that he has received a letter from the Superintendent of the postage stamp department at Ottawa, which says in part:—"No imperforate stamps of any of the denominations at present at use in Canada have been issued." It is evident that the 3c brown war tax chronicled imperforate must have been a coil stamp with trimmed edges. Will subscribers please submit specimens of varieties that are offered for chronicle?

Mrs. E. W. Oughtred confirms the contention raised by Mr. Perry and specimens of the so-called imperforates submitted show faint traces of the perforations.

CHILE.—Percy McG. Mann has shown us the new 5c stamp, which differs from the balance of the set, in that it is engraved on dry paper, unlike the others which are lithographed; it also bears the portrait of Cochrane replacing that of O'Higgins. The same party has also shown us three quite different shades of the 2c stamp.

Adhesive Regular.

5c blue (portrait of Cochrane).

CUBA.—I. C. Greene, J. M. Bartels and Percy McG. Mann have submitted copies of the 2c of the new type, chronicled in MEKEEL'S of two weeks ago.

FRANCE.—The philatelic authorities in France have issued the following important notice, founded upon official notice.

"Notice Concerning Postal Regulations Abroad.

(1) It is forbidden to circulate, either on approvals or orders, all stamps issued by enemies since the beginning of the war either used or unused (including postage, fiscal and advertisement stamps, picture post cards and stamped bands and envelopes).

(2) It is forbidden to circulate unused only (a) all of the stamps of Germany from their origin to the present day, including those of the former States — Baden, Bavaria, Bergedorf, Bremen, Brunswick, North German Confederation, Hamburg, Hanover, Lubeck, Mecklenburg, Schwerin and Strelitz, Oldenburg, Prussia, Saxony, Schleswig Holstein, Thurn & Taxis, Wurtemberg; (b) all the former German Colonies; (c) all stamps of the former German Post Offices abroad (China, Levant, Morocco), (d) all stamps of Austria-Hungary, Bosnia, Crete and Austrian Levant from their origin up to the present day; (e) all stamps of Bulgaria and Roumelia; (f) of Turkey from their origin up to the present day; and (g) stamps of Luxemburg current issue.

(3) It is forbidden to send abroad all correspondence which carries a postal obliteration of any section of the allied armies.

(4) It is expressly forbidden to give or receive in payment French unused stamps (except those issued for Red Cross)."—Philatelic Journal of America.

FRENCH MOROCCO.—J. N. Morse announces the receipt of a card of the 1912 issue with an additional surcharge of new values; the new overprint being placed between the numeral of value and the Arabic surcharge "Protectorat Francaise".

Postal Cards.

5c on 10c carmine and black.
10c on 10c carmine and black.

MAURITIUS.—J. A. Galbraith has submitted copy of 25c, white back as chronicled in our last issue.

NEW CALEDONIA.—"We have just received supplies of the new Red Cross stamps of this French Colony. These are the 10c and 15c values of the 1905-07 series overprinted '+5' in deep carmine."—Ewen's Weekly Stamp News.

Red Cross Stamps.

Surcharged +5c in Deep Carmine.
10+5c rose red.
15+5c bright lilac.

NEW ZEALAND.—The writer has seen an unusual cover from this section of the Australian Commonwealth; it bears a handstamp, an upright frame the size of the current stamps with value in numerals "1½d" in each upper corner, the numeral "60" in a central circle, with the inscription "POSTAGE PAID" in two lines above, "3 HALFPENCE" underneath and "AUCKLAND" at the bottom. The recipient believes that this handstamp was used to prevent messages from being placed beneath an adhesive stamp, though it is more likely this is a product of the postal machines that have been installed in some of the Australian colonies. The envelope was marked "T 30 centimes" (Postage Due 6c), showing that the post office department has not recognized the hand stamp. Cover is dated March 30th, 1917. Auckland.
